VETERANS' BILL GOES TO HOOVER AS HOUSE PREPARES NEW ONE

Longworth and Aides Clear Way to Sustain Veto Which They Expect Today.

JOHNSON HAS SUBSTITUTE

Measure Will Cost $50,000,000 the First Year in Pensions of From $12 to $40 a Month.

200,000 TO GET BENEFITS

Movement Starts in the Senate to Demand $60 as the Maximum Monthly Payment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The World War veterans bill reached the White House this afternoon soon after the House had unanimously accepted the Senate amendments. It is expected back at the Capitol by noon tomorrow under a Presidential veto.

Speaker Longworth announced in the House today the expectation of the veto and said that after a vote which is expected to sustain the President he would recognize Representative Johnson of South Dakota, chairman of the Committee on World War Veterans Legislation, to offer a substitute measure.

Speaker Longworth and Representatives Tilson and Snell began clearing the decks preparatory to bringing up at the minute it is received the veto message, which they heralded as a certainty. The "previous question" is to be ordered at once, and then, according to the Republican House leaders' predictions, at least 154 Republicans, more than one-third of the House, will vote to uphold the veto.

The 154 members were counted at a conference of House Republicans last night, and it was on the strength of the sentiment displayed then that Speaker Longworth predicted the veto would be upheld with a vote of around 200.

Outlines Substitute Bill.

Moreover, the party leaders declared that before the day's session ends another veterans bill, the outline of which already has been drafted, will be passed.

The new bill, now in the hands of Representative Johnson, according to some interpretations will virtually launch the government on a pension program for uncompensated World War veterans. Although he did not have the substitute measure in its final form early tonight, Representative Johnson made the following digest of its provisions:

"Will cost approximately $50,000,000 first year, reaching an annual cost of $80,000,000 in three years.

"Provides pensions ranging from $12 a month minimum to $40 a month maximum.

"Expected to affect 200,000 veterans 'at least' the first year and an unestimated number thereafter.

"All veterans, whether affected by gout, rickets, or any other ailment, will be eligible for payments.

"The bill would not affect those veterans with service-connected cases now receiving compensation, as it would benefit veterans whether or not their cases are service-connected.

"A special provision would award about $1,000,000 a year to veterans actually wounded in service.

"It would award a minimum payment of 25 per cent to every veteran with tuberculosis, whether arrested or active.

"It would eliminate the time element in the filing of claims.

"The bill contains twenty-four sections. It is a combination of the Swick bill, Reed amendment and Johnson's motion to recommit, in the Record of April 24."

Senators for Higher Figures.

Coincident with these developments a movement was started before the Senate had convened today to amend the substitute bill, should it come from the House, to raise the maximum pension from $40 to $60. The movement originated in the Finance Committee, which will handle the bill, and it is likely to have the backing of a majority there. The President is said to look favorably upon the substitute prepared by Mr. Johnson.

The veterans' bill, as amended by the Senate, was finally passed by the House without a murmur of opposition. The amendments were brought up en bloc by Representative Johnson, who asked unanimous consent that they be accepted.

Under a reservation for objection Representative Rankin of Mississippi, who put the original House bill through, attacked the Republican leaders for the plan they had decided upon. He later issued a state-

Swiss Halve Price of Our Cars To Beat Anti-Tariff Boycott

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

INTERLAKEN, Switzerland, June 25.—As American autos will be among the first objects of the Swiss boycott of American goods in retaliation for the passing of the new tariff, Swiss dealers are hastily selling new American cars at one-half their cost price, but there are few buyers. The Federal Government is awaiting the formula of the French Government's protest to America in order to form a similar protest jointly with other European countries or independently.

Official figures just published show the great hold American autos have in Switzerland, far outdistancing other countries. During the last seven years Swiss imports of pleasure cars increased 266 per cent and of motor lorries 162 per cent, amounting to more than $100,000,000. The increase for pleasure automobiles by countries was Germany, 16 per cent; France, 300 per cent; Italy, 580 per cent, and the United States 600 per cent, while America had practically a monopoly of motor lorries with an increase of 2,408 per cent.

SHADOW OF DEFICIT CONCERNS TREASURY

Heavy Income Tax Collections Are Expected Up to Jan. 1, Then a Slump Is Likely.

ANY EXTRA OUTLAY A PERIL

Second Half of Next Fiscal Year Is Thought Certain to Show a Drop in Receipts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—With continuation virtually assured of heavy income tax collections for the rest of the calendar year, which is the first half of the fiscal year 1931, the Treasury Department, in considering the prospects for a balanced budget on June 30, 1931, was concerned today with several important factors in governmental finance.

In the first place, unexpected or potential appropriations, among them the World War veterans' compensation measure, appear to President Hoover and Secretary Mellon as certain to wipe out the $122,788,000 surplus originally estimated for June 30, 1931, on the basis of the income tax rates of the revenue act of 1928.

Theoretically, that surplus would be substantially reduced by the fact that half of the estimated $160,000,000 loss in revenue due to the tax cut voted by Congress last Autumn falls in the first half of the fiscal year 1931. Unless counter-balanced by other factors, the tax reduction would make the surplus very small even if there were no extra appropriations by Congress.

Among the more hopeful features of the situation is that because of the exceptional business prosperity in 1929, income tax collections in the last half of the present calendar year—the first six months of the fiscal year 1931—will be heavy. It is estimated they will approximate $1,110,817,000.

Slump in Collections Looms.

The treasury will make no attempt before Fall, however, to estimate the prospective income tax collections for the last six months of the fiscal year 1931. Collections for that period will be assessed on 1930 incomes, and even though the 1 per cent tax reduction may not be extended, thus reverting to the higher rates of the revenue act of 1928, the prospects are for a severe slump in collections after Jan. 1 and reduced receipts from this year's probable collections of $2,400,000,000.

The prospective decrease is attributable to the business recession. The policy of Secretary Mellon, that the tax rates should provide the government with adequate income to assure a balanced budget in lean as well as prosperous years, often has been reiterated at the treasury. With the prospects for a lean year, the fear has been expressed that unless business takes a substantial turn for the better and the strictest economy is practiced by Congress and the government, the only way to obtain a balanced budget in the fiscal year of 1931 will be to borrow money.

It was pointed out that there are six months of the calendar year to run, during which there might be a recovery in business that would offset losses of the first half of 1930, or, on the other hand, there might be a continuation of the depression which would lower governmental revenues to an even greater extent.

Declines in Other Sources.

In two other important sources of governmental revenue, business conditions during the last half of the calendar year will affect income then, since collections are based upon the present rather than on the preceding year, as is the case with

GRAND JURY DEMANDS APPEALS BOARD CURB; CRITICIZES WALSH

Urges Prompt Action to Halt Dangerous Powers "Fraught With Public Injury."

CITES LOAN AND RENT DEAL

Says Apartment Concession to Chairman Is Related to His Official Duty.

LISTS BIG FEES TO DOYLE

Finds He Got Many Permits After Others Had Failed—Crain to Push Inquiry Before June Body.

The May county grand jury handed to General Sessions Judge George L. Donnellan yesterday a five-page presentment which concluded with a "demand" for "prompt and efficient action whether by legislation or otherwise," to halt alleged abuses by the Board of Standards and Appeals. The grand jury set forth that the board had excessive and dangerous powers, the exercise of which had been fraught with public injury.

The presentment criticized William E. Walsh, chairman of the Board of Standards and Appeals, for his occupancy of a $4,000 apartment at 25 East Eighty-sixth Street, for a rental of only $1,500, and set forth that he thus "secured a personal advantage, which advantage we are of the opinion was indirectly related to the duty imposed upon him by law." It then referred with disfavor to the methods of Dr. William F. Doyle, chief practitioner before the board, his admitted splitting of large fees and the marked success he has had before the board in obtaining favors for his clients.

Crain Offers Loan Evidence.

Meanwhile, District Attorney Crain was presenting to the June county grand jury evidence in his investigation to determine whether Mr. Walsh has "accepted a bribe or an unlawful fee" in connection with his occupancy of the $4,000 apartment, or as a result of obtaining from John A. McCarthy, a Bronx building materials dealer, an alleged loan of $30,000 shortly before several permits were granted to McCarthy by the board. This grand jury did not complete its work yesterday, and is expected to report some action on the Walsh matter today.

The Federal grand jury returned a superseding indictment yesterday against Dr. Doyle on charges of filing false income tax returns. He was indicted by the May Federal grand jury on these charges and also on charges of perjury in connection with the filing of his returns for 1927 and 1928. The perjury charges are unaffected by the superseding indictment, which merely strengthens the earlier true bill alleging the filing of the false returns.

Heard Eighty Witnesses.

The county grand jury's presentment began with the statement that it had held twelve sessions and examined eighty witnesses in its investigation of the conduct of the Board of Standards and Appeals. It mentioned by titles some of the witnesses and referred to the documentary evidence examined. The grand jury set forth that it had conducted the investigation because of the number of complaints from responsible parties and because of the great powers of the board. The presentment continued:

"It was claimed that a certain Dr. Doyle was the favored practioner before the board; that he had grown rich in doing things which the ordinary layman should and would have undertaken but for the belief that the retention of the services of the person named was highly desirable if not a prerequisite to the obtainment of favorable action; that he split his fees; insisted in many in-

Theatre District Parking Ban To Be Lifted for Six-Day Test

The ban on parking from 7:45 to 9 P. M. in the theatrical district will be lifted for a trial period of six days beginning July 1, Police Commissioner Mulrooney announced yesterday. The experiment will be watched by the department's traffic experts, and if it does not cause too much congestion it will be continued through July and August.

Commissioner Mulrooney's modification of the regulations laid down by his predecessor, Grover A. Whalen, followed the request of hotel and restaurant proprietors under the leadership of the Broadway Association.

Although in making their petition the business men of the district had indicated that they most desired to have the restrictions against right and left turns eliminated, Mr. Mulrooney made no change in the regulation on this point. No change is contemplated in the ban on parking from 10:30 to 11:30 P. M. in the theatrical zone.

WILLIAM BARNES DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Once Republican State Chairman of New York—Owner of Albany Newspaper.

ONE OF LAST OF OLD GUARD

He Was a Foe of Roosevelt and Organized Taft Forces That Defeated the Colonel.

William Barnes, former Republican State chairman of New York, one of the last of the so-called Old Guard of the Republican party in the State, died yesterday at his home in Armonk, Westchester County, of pneumonia, after a week's illness. He was 64 years old. He is survived by two sons of his first marriage, Thurlow Weed and Landon Barnes. His first wife, who was Grace Davis of Cincinnati, divorced him in 1922. She now lives at Nantucket, Mass. In 1923 he married Mrs. Maude Fiero Battershall, who died a year ago.

Mr. Barnes was born in Albany on Nov. 17, 1866, the son of William and Emily P. Weed Barnes. It has been suggested that he inherited his early and continued fondness for politics from his maternal grandfather, Thurlow Weed. It is certain that before he had been graduated from Harvard in 1888 he had formed a decision to make politics his major career.

Only a year after he went home from college Mr. Barnes became owner and editor of The Albany Evening Journal, which had been founded by Mr. Weed. In 1892 he took his place on the Republican State Committee, and four years later he could report to the higher party chiefs that the situation in Albany County was completely in his control. He seemed to have known by instinct how to build the contraption known as a political machine, and once he established his ascendancy in Albany he retained it, with but occasional mutterings of revolt, until he attempted an absentee landlordism more than twenty years later, at a time when independence among politicians had become more common than it was in the nineties.

Of all the up-State bosses Mr. Barnes was considered the most gifted as a producer of political plums of all sizes. The saying was that "every doorknob in the Capitol has a Barnes man hanging to it, matched by another Barnes man mopping the floor, a third cleaning the office window, while a fourth patrols the corridor to see that the other three report more or less regularly for duty, especially on pay day."

Mr. Barnes rose to real power in national Republican politics, and in the national convention of 1912 he directed the strategy of the Taft forces and was more responsible than any other individual for blocking the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt. It was said by those at the conven-

Bears Routed After Stocks Set 200 Lows; Rally Scores Gains for Market Leaders

Another marauding expedition by bearish professionals was repulsed on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday after more than 200 issues, including United States Steel common, had been driven into new low ground for the year.

The recovery, coming in the last hour of trading, wiped out earlier losses in a great many of the active stocks and left the average of prices slightly above the final level of the day before. United States Steel, which bore the brunt of the bearish attack, turned about after scraping bottom at 151⅛ and closed at 155¼ with a net gain of 2¾ points. At its low for the day it was only 1⅛ points above the price to which it fell in the collapse of last November.

Other market leaders which recovered were American Can, which was up 3 points on the day; Westinghouse Electric, up 3⅜; Allied Chemical, up 9¾; American Tobacco B, up 6¾; Baltimore & Ohio, up 2⅜; Columbian Carbon, up 5¾; Stone & Webster, up 3⅜; Public Service of New Jersey, up 3⅜; Vanadium, up 5½, and Worthington Pump, up 3¾. Fair-sized losses were recorded in many of the less active issues. The average price of fifty representative stocks showed a net gain of 89 cents, twenty-five industrials showed a gain of $2.84 and twenty-five rails showed a loss of $1.05. The total turnover on the Stock Exchange was 3,395,520 shares.

The rally in stocks coincided closely with an upturn in the commodity markets, which had been sharply depressed earlier in the day. Both wheat and cotton ended the day with net gains after sinking to new low levels for the season. Bonds were heavily sold at declining prices.

KINGSFORD-SMITH FLYING TO NEW YORK FROM HARBOR GRACE; DUE ABOUT 4 P.M.; HIS OWN STORY OF FIGHTING FOG AT SEA

PILOT ATTRIBUTES SUCCESS OF FLIGHT TO THE RADIO

Flying Blind for Hours, With Compass Swinging Wildly, They Might Have Been Lost Except for Directions From Ships.

WANDERED FOUR HOURS NEAR NEWFOUNDLAND

Consternation in Crew When They Found They Had Advanced Only 120 Miles—Fog Over Grand Banks Impenetrable at 5,000 Feet Up.

Major Charles Kingsford-Smith here tells briefly his own story of the successful flight of the Southern Cross over the Atlantic. He will write a full story of his experiences for The New York Times on his arrival in New York.

By MAJOR CHARLES KINGSFORD-SMITH,
Commander and Chief Pilot of the Airplane Southern Cross.

Copyright, 1930, throughout the world by The New York Times Company. All rights reserved.

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., June 25.—The Southern Cross had no difficulty in rising from Port Marnock Beach and lifted at once to 3,500 feet. Right from the start we had radio communication. The weather, until we reached the coast of Newfoundland, was bad, with rain and bumps, which is unpleasant with a heavily loaded machine. Rather strong headwinds prevailed three-fourths of the flight and generally bore out the forecast.

We held a perfect course, thanks to Captain Saul, our navigator, who nevertheless would have been helpless at times, on account of an overcast sky prohibiting taking observations, were it not for the wonderful radio assistance given us by John Stannage practically throughout the whole trip. We were able to receive radio bearings from ships, which in all modesty I claim to be one of the first radio shows ever put up for air work.

Scarcely Saw Sky or Sea.

All went fairly well till we reached a point between 30 and 35 degrees longitude, when we ran into the "blind stuff," and from then on we scarcely saw sky or sea. However, that emphasizes the rapid working out of the radio compass bearings given us by Mr. Stannage. We were informed of our position constantly.

About 3 o'clock Greenwich Mean Time [11 P. M. New York Tuesday, Daylight Saving Time] we were in a position about 350 miles from Cape Race and expected to reach that point in four hours. To our consternation, however, the radio bearing showed we had made only 120 miles in four hours, which even for our reduced ground speed was a ridiculously low figure. We found that our inability to maintain a perfect course while flying blind, added to, I believe, by the rapidity in changes of variation, caused our compass to swing unusually, with a consequence that we were evidently flying in a most erratic course. This is borne out by the extraordinarily differing radio bearings we received from ships.

The Instruments Not Blamed.

I would like to stress that this seems to be a condition likely to be met in this locality in the air and no blame is attributable to the instruments. Had this not occurred we could have probably made a point 700 miles nearer New York, as we landed with three and a half to four hours' supply of petrol. Radio advices called our attention to the fact that ground conditions at Harbor Grace were free from fog, and, with the limited flying range, it would, in my opinion, have been most unwise to have proceeded any further. Naturally we are disappointed by this, but the disappointment has been mitigated by the amazing sources of our organization from the point of view of radio.

The weather practically bore out the forecast, but we did not anticipate meeting a heavy fog so far from our destination, and we actually flew blind practically half the trip. The ocean fog is apparently unlimited in height, as we were still flying blind up to 5,000 feet, but the fog actually on the Grand Banks is considerably lower, and frequently there is clear air over the fog at 1,000 feet.

Throughout the trip we were in two-way communication with shipping, and for a great part of the time in this way in connection with shore. This more than bears out my theories as regards two-way radio being essential.

Pays Tribute to His Comrades.

I would like to pay a great tribute to all the boys, who worked magnificently and untiringly throughout the flight. Each was perfect in his particular sphere. An hour and a half before Harbor Grace was reached we knew that the gas was running short and we were conserving it for emergencies. I particularly wish to thank the radio operators of all the radios and ships, especially on the Transylvania, who were untiring in their efforts to assist us and to whose good offices we are deeply indebted. We are grateful to THE NEW YORK TIMES for offering to send a plane, which, happily, was not necessary, and are grateful also to everybody who sent congratulatory messages.

The trip occupied thirty-one hours from Dublin to Harbor Grace. We are now putting on board 400 gallons of gasoline, which will give us plenty of radius to reach Roosevelt Field tomorrow evening, leaving here after daylight tomorrow.

BIG WELCOME HERE AWAITS SEA FLIERS

City Plans a Harbor Pageant, Parade Up Broadway and City Hall Ceremony.

MAY FLY FROM FIELD TO BAY

Amphibian to Take Southern Cross Men to the Macom—Program Set at Field.

Tentative plans were drafted yesterday for the city's reception to Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his crew of three who are expected to arrive here about 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Southern Cross, the mighty Fokker monoplane in which they crossed the Atlantic from Port Marnock, Ireland, to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland.

A harbor pageant, a triumphal parade up Broadway, speeches at City Hall, luncheons, dinners and all the other trappings of municipal welcomes to heroes and celebrities were being planned subject to the approval of the fliers and the time of their arrival.

But whatever time the Southern Cross comes to earth at Roosevelt Field, her crew will find distinguished delegations waiting to receive them. William Enequist, chairman of the Nassau County Committee of Welcome, and Grover A. Whalen, chairman of the Mayor's Committee for the Reception of Distinguished Guests, both planned to be on hand with a quorum of their fellow-committeemen.

Arrangements have been made to bring other notables from Washington by airplane in time for the ceremonies at the field. Among these latter, it is expected, will be Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador, and his staff; Michael McWhite, Minister to the United States from the Irish Free State, and three Assistant Secretaries for Aviation of the War, Navy and Commerce Departments, namely, F. Trubee Davison, David S. Ingalls and Colonel Clarence D. Young.

Expecting thousands of unofficial welcomers to rush to the field by motor and train, Nassau County police were making extraordinary provision for coping with the situation. More than 300 reserves will be held ready to be sent in a flying squadron to whatever field Major Kingsford-Smith selects for his landing.

According to the tentative schedule drawn up by Mr. Whalen, the city's welcome will take place the following day. In order that the welcome tradition may be carried out according to schedule, Mr. Whalen proposed that the fliers be taken from one of the flying fields in an amphibian and set down in the bay, to be transferred to the city's welcome barge, the Macom.

The Macom then would land the guests of the city at the Battery for the ride up Broadway to City Hall, where they would be received officially by Mayor Walker and presented with scrolls and medals.

Several civic organizations were planning luncheons and dinners for the aviators, but announcement of plans for these was held in abeyance pending the acceptance of invitations.

The Board of Estimate at its meeting in City Hall voted an appropriation of $2,000 to defray the expenses of receiving Major Kingsford-Smith and his companions.

The white stand on the steps of City Hall, used last Thursday for the reception to Admiral Byrd, was left in place for possible use in the Kingsford-Smith reception. Carpenters have taken down the other wooden stands in City Hall Park, which accommodated 5,000 persons at the Byrd reception.

Southern Cross Is on Last Lap After Hazardous Ocean Crossing.

FORCED DOWN BY WEATHER

Crew of Big Plane Slept While Tanks Were Filled—Motors in Good Condition.

AIDED BY BEAM WIRELESS

Radio Operator Had Sent Out Frantic Calls for Guidance to Newfoundland Field.

By T. R. McGRATH.

Special to The New York Times.

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., Thursday, June 26.—Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions hopped off from here at 4:05 A. M. (New York time) today on the second leg of their flight from Port Marnock, Ireland, to New York.

The fliers were feeling fresh, having had a good rest. They had a hasty breakfast and lost little time in taking off when dawn broke. They expected to reach New York about 4 P. M.

While they slept, 400 gallons of gasoline and enough oil for the 1,200-mile flight to New York were poured into the tanks of the mighty Fokker monoplane, whose engines have pulled it safely over two oceans. The engines needed only a little tinkering to make them fit for the next leg of the journey, which, when completed in California will have taken the plane around the world.

Major Kingsford-Smith, the leader of the expedition which was the first to fly from the Old World to an American airport, his Dutch co-pilot, Evert Van Dyk; their navigator, Captain J. Patrick Saul, and the wireless operator, John W. Stannage, were fagged out last night but happy to feel firm earth beneath their feet again.

Only Radio Saved Them.

They had spent a perilous, trying night, lost in the fog above Newfoundland and vicinity. Only the radio had saved them from possible disaster, Major Kingsford-Smith admitted when he brought his ship to a graceful landing with only enough gasoline in its tanks to keep it aloft another three and a half to four hours. It was that and a beam wireless at Belle Island station that guided them at last to a haven, he and his crew declared.

It was 6:56 A. M. yesterday when the wheels of the plane touched the earth. For six hours prior to their landing the fliers, their direction-finding instruments and their compass at loggerheads, had been flying erratically off the Newfoundland coast, burning up precious gallons of gasoline which might have taken them to New York and certainly would have carried them to American territory had it been conserved.

All through that anxious period Mr. Stannage had remained at his key, calling ships and shore stations to get the airplane's bearings, and, toward the last, trying desperately to find the way toward a landing field through the dense fog which covered the rocky, woody harbor-dotted coast. Repeatedly he asked that an airplane be sent up from Harbor Grace airport to pilot the transatlantic ship to land. But while frantic telephone calls were being made to the airport by the wireless operator at Cape Race, advising the airport of the danger to the Southern Cross, the big monoplane suddenly appeared above the field, circled and floated down through the mist which the sun was piercing.

No Visibility for Twenty Hours.

Upon landing, Major Kingsford-Smith asked for a cigarette, remarked that he had had "a tough night" in the air, and began preparations for continuing his flight. For twenty hours, he said, he had had no visibility whatever. The fog over the ocean extended 5,000 feet above the surface, and try as he would he could not escape it. Captain Saul was unable to make observations and the instruments before him in the cabin were his only guide.

For the first few hours after leaving Ireland weather conditions were perfect, Major Kingsford-Smith said. Ships obligingly gave the fliers their bearings and cheered them on their way. But 500 miles from the field where they finally set down, the crew of the Southern Cross discovered that their compass and direction finder did not agree. Although they thought they were within 100 miles of Cape Race at 11 o'clock Tuesday night, they discovered at daybreak that they had not reached land.

Major Kingsford-Smith realized the fuel left in his tanks would not take him to New York. Rather than risk a forced landing in the thickly wooded Canadian Provinces, he decided to stop for refueling and began to steer by radio for Cape Race and to seek the help of the station there in locating a landing field.

Guided by directions from the wireless station and the beam wireless at Belle Isle, they were over Harbor Grace by 6:30 A. M. Fog obscured their view of the ground and it was nearly thirty minutes before it cleared sufficiently to make a landing safe. Fortunately gasoline and oil were stored here in sufficient quantity to make it possible for them to get away for their original destination without the delay which otherwise would have been necessary.

The assistant pilot of the Southern Cross, Evert Van Dyk, is 23 years old. He was born in Holland and began flying in 1919 in the Dutch East Indies. He has 5,600 flying hours to his credit.

Captain Saul a War Hero.

Captain Saul was born in Dublin thirty-five years ago. He went to sea in a square-rigger and has today his master's license in sail and steam. In 1915 he joined the Royal Engineers and has had experience in the Mediterranean and the Persian Gulf. He was awarded a Croix de Guerre by the French Government for exceptional courage. After the war he returned to sea.

John Stannage was born in South Africa and educated in England and New Zealand. When Major Kingsford-Smith was lost in the wilds of Northern Australia, he volunteered as radio operator for a rescue plane sent from Canberra. After three weeks he found the flier, who had been without food for fourteen days. Major Kingsford-Smith thinks Mr. Stannage is the most efficient operator he has ever had.

Major Kingsford-Smith has received congratulatory messages from some of the most important personages in Europe and America. One of the most prized is from Henry Ford, who, he says, has hewed his way to prominence from obscurity through his own personal efforts and ability. He says he wishes to thank Europe and America and all the friends whom he cannot reach for their congratulations in his crossing from east to west.

The opinion of the crew is that "the Majestic is good enough to take us home—once is enough to cross the Atlantic in a plane." After a few days' rest in New York they will continue to Oakland, Cal., where the voyage ends.

Second to Cross East to West.

The Southern Cross was the second airplane to cross the North Atlantic from east to west and it was the only one thus far to land safely at an American airport after an ocean crossing. True, it had failed to complete its projected journey from Port Marnock, Ireland, to New York, but it had matched strength with the treacherous elements and had come through better than any ship before.

The giant monoplane, despite its five years of strenuous life, had proved its mettle again and so had its intrepid crew.

Messages from Major Kingsford-Smith to officials at Roosevelt Field indicated that he expected to reach that airport some time late this afternoon. Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador; aviation officials from Washington and Grover Whalen, representing the city of New York, will be on hand to congratulate the airmen on their feat. Tomorrow at 1 P. M. Mayor Walker expects to receive the fliers officially at City Hall, after a parade up Broadway at noon.

When the Southern Cross reaches here it will be subjected to thorough customs and medical inspections the same as any ship coming to this port. Dr. Norman Roberts of the Quarantine Station of the United States Public Health Service at Rosebank, S. I., said he had requested information on the probable time of arrival so that he and customs inspectors might be present. Dr. Roberts was informed that the Southern Cross was expected between 3 and 5 P. M.

The achievement of plane and crew drew warm praise from men who themselves had flown the ocean and knew the problems that were faced by machine and men in the thirty-one hours they were in the air. Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, Clarence Chamberlin, Bernt Balchen and Roger Q. Williams all commented warmly upon the achievement and expressed regret that bad luck had prevented complete success.

The Junkers plane Bremen came nearest to matching this record, but it had been unable to reach a landing field and had dropped on Greenley Island, an isolated bit of land off the Labrador Coast, where the three members of its crew were marooned for days.

Many others, including the Frenchmen, Nungesser and Coli, had pitted their wits and the strength of their airplanes against the fog, the wind and the freezing chill of the upper air of the North Atlantic. All these were defeated, some to vanish without leaving a trace of wreckage to provide a clue to what befell them. In the light of what happened to Major Kingsford-Smith and to the Bremen fliers, it seems probable that at least some of the unsuccessful flights of the past came to tragic ends because the pilots lost their bearings and drifted north after reaching the fog-blanketed, desolate coast of America, where the Gulf Stream meets the chill waters of Arctic currents.

Fog Chief Trouble.

Major Kingsford-Smith had flown straight and true along the great circle course that would have landed him in New York, had all gone well, until he entered the fog lying thick over the Grand Banks. Then he encountered real difficulty. The fog alone probably would not have defeated him, for he had been flying blind fully half the way across the ocean in fog so thick and so high that his instruments alone could guide him. Even at 5,000 feet his navigator, Captain J. Patrick Saul, could not see to "shoot" the sun or take his bearings from the heavens.

Over the ocean his instruments functioned smoothly. Ships at sea corrected and checked his bearings. Almost constant two-way communication between shore and plane and plane and ship was maintained. But nearing Cape Race the instruments, possibly affected by magnetic attraction, became erratic. Static and cluttered air waves hampered radio communication and left the four men in the Southern Cross with only their wits to guide them.

Added to the other perils the fliers faced was the danger of falling asleep. Mr. Stannage reported long before the flight ended that the steady drone of the motors was making him sleepy and said he was having "a dickens of a time keeping awake." But all four drank coffee and thus fought off sleep, and at the end science came once more to their aid in the form of a beam wireless, which helped guide them to the field.

The fliers made their first landfall after waving good-bye to the citizens of Galway, Ireland, about thirty hours before, at 5:43 A. M., when Mr. Stannage joyfully ticked out on his wireless set this message:

"Hooray! See land at last."

But the troubles encountered some four or five hours earlier were not over. Captain David Bone, master of the Transylvania, the liner which reported the message to The Associated Press, said the compasses on the Southern Cross seemed "badly out."

It was only a little later that Major Kingsford-Smith admitted that he had been forced by the elements to abandon the intention he had announced earlier of remaining aloft until he had reached American territory at least. The hours of circuitous flying off the American coast had consumed gallons of precious fuel and it was necessary to stop and replenish the supply before attempting to proceed down the coast to New York.

By that time it was obvious that the 1,298 gallons of gasoline poured into the tanks of the Southern Cross in Ireland, which Major Kingsford-Smith had thought would keep the plane in the air for thirty-eight hours, would not be enough to enable him to reach New York. To continue flying over Nova Scotia with its thick forests and scarce landing fields would have been foolhardy, in the opinion of aviation experts.

Airport Difficult to Find.

And so Major Kingsford-Smith and his companions made for the first suitable airport. They had difficulty in finding it, as their desperate messages asking that a plane be sent up to guide them indicate only too clearly. But while ships in the seas off Newfoundland kept a sharp lookout and while frantic efforts were being made ashore to help them, the Southern Cross appeared out of the haze above the airport and circled about, feeling out the wind and studying the terrain.

Then gracefully and easily Major Kingsford-Smith set it down with the conquest of the Atlantic to add to its other victories over the Pacific and the icy Northland, where Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins, its first owner, used it in arduous Arctic flying from Point Barrow, Alaska. Even before the Southern Cross landed, Mr. Stannage tapped out a message to his mother across the sea, telling her he was safe over Newfoundland.

The four men, stiff from cramped positions in the cabin of the airplane, jumped out and began making immediate preparations for continuing their flight to New York and thence to California to complete the circumnavigation of the earth by the Southern Cross. Fortunately, they found the airport, located some twenty miles from St. John's, well equipped to care for their needs.

Four hundred gallons of gasoline, stored there in preparation for the projected round-the-world flight of John Henry Mears, was on hand. Arrangements were made at once to release this supply for the use of the Southern Cross. And as mechanics went over the engines and tested every wire of the mighty monoplane, recharging its batteries and grooming it for the next leg of its journey, the refueling planes at Portland, Me., needed no longer, took off for New York.

Mr. Van Dyk, Captain Saul and Mr. Stannage all agreed that the directions they received from Cape Race in the final moments of the flight, together with a beam wireless at Belle Isle station, enabled them to locate the field despite the enshrouding fog.

Late in the afternoon the fliers awoke from their sleep, seemingly refreshed and ready to go on. It was decided to start on the twelve-hour flight to Roosevelt Field as soon after daybreak as possible.

RADIO WILL DESCRIBE ARRIVAL OF FLIERS

National Broadcasting and Columbia Networks to Carry Word Pictures of Landing Today.

The arrival of Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his companions at one of New York's airports today will be broadcast over nation-wide networks of the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Company, according to representatives of both organizations. The exact time cannot be determined in advance, but radio listeners will be notified on the air as soon as possible.

Apparatus has been transported to a convenient location on Long Island by engineers of the Columbia Broadcasting System for immediate use when the fliers announce the field at which they intend to make a landing. Similar preparations have been announced by the National Broadcasting Company.

Networks of the NBC, with WEAF and WJZ as the local broadcasters; WABC and chain, WOR and WNYC are scheduled to broadcast the reception of the fliers tomorrow from City Hall. This is to be held at about 1 P. M. Other pick-up points, including Pier A and the Battery, will be established by various stations to catch word pictures of the scenes at those locations when the fliers set foot on Manhattan.

KINGSFORD-SMITH TO BYRD.

Southern Cross Commander Agrees Preparedness Is Half the Battle.

At a dinner in honor of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd at the Hotel Astor last night, given by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, Admiral Byrd read a reply to a message of congratulation he sent to Major Kingsford-Smith and his companions. The Major's telegram follows:

> Many thanks for your telegram. Preparedness is undoubtedly half the battle. Hope to exchange experiences in a few days.

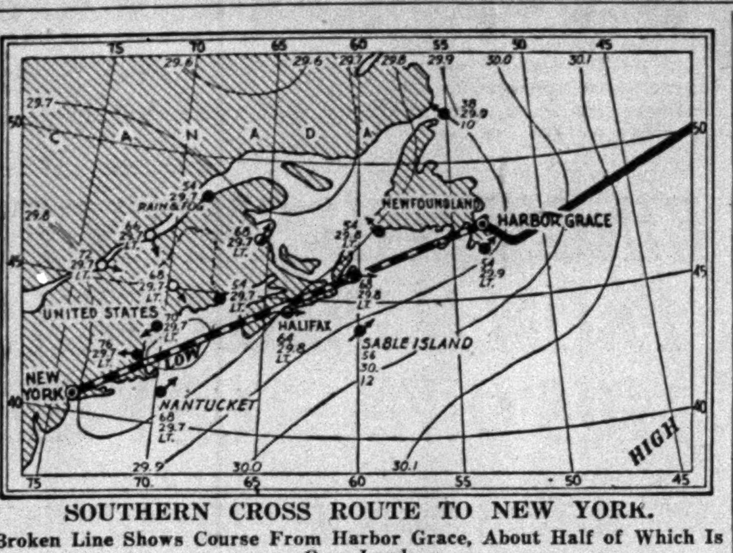
MRS. STANNAGE GETS NEWS

Mother of Wireless Operator Was Confident of Success.

MELTON MOWBRAY, England, June 25 (AP).—Mrs. Stannage, mother of J. W. Stannage, wireless operator on the Southern Cross, today heard with joy and relief that the air adventurers had landed safely.

In her home at Croxton, near here, she had received messages through a friend who is a member of a radio society. During the long hours of waiting Mrs. Stannage had expressed confidence that the Southern Cross would complete its journey.



SOUTHERN CROSS ROUTE TO NEW YORK.

PLANE'S RADIO HELD FACTOR IN SUCCESS

Short-Wave Set Carried Story of Flight to European Points and Hawaii.

PROVES VALUE TO AVIATION

Compact Transmitter on Southern Cross Has Never Failed—To Be Preserved in Museum.

Short-wave radio communication has again demonstrated its value to flying. During the last hours of the trip of the Southern Cross, as it hovered in the fog over Cape Race, Newfoundland, a running story of the happenings aboard the airplane was sent to anxious listeners ashore in America. Many of these messages were intercepted simultaneously in various parts of Europe, including the Baldonnel airdrome, near Dublin, and at London. Many also were intercepted at Honolulu, Hawaii, more than 6,000 miles distant from the position of the plane at that time. From the hour of twilight over the Northeastern Atlantic, until the Southern Cross landed at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, the reception of messages was uninterrupted. The short-wave signals, carried on the 33.5 meter channel, were "very strong and dependable," according to the operators of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The radio equipment carried by the Southern Cross consisted of a short-wave transmitter, and an intermediate wave receiver for reception of radio-compass bearings and communication with ships at sea on about 600 to 800 meters.

The short-wave transmitter aboard the airplane, which proved to be the most dependable piece of radio equipment at the command of Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his comrades, is the same set which has but to make the trans-United States hop to complete the circumnavigation of the globe. It has never failed in any flight, since the original hop of the Southern Cross from Oakland, Cal., to the Hawaiian Islands, then to Suva, Fiji Islands; then to Australia and London, then in the West-East flight across the Atlantic to America again. Major Kingsford-Smith is said to be planning to continue his radio reports cross-country to Oakland, after which the radio transmitter is to be dismantled from the airplane and preserved as a curiosity in a national museum.

Listeners Easily Follow Flight.

The sending equipment, designed and manufactured by Heintz & Kaufman, Ltd., of San Francisco, who also designed, made and supplied Rear Admiral Byrd's expedition with its airplane radio equipment, is a 50-watt self-oscillator, so designed as to "conserve the maximum amount of energy for the signals, with a minimum amount of power lost in heat radiation and other losses," according to Jack Kaufman, vice president of the organization. The equipment needs no adjustment in the air, as all controls are locked before the fliers leave the ground. The wave on which communication is to be carried is set and locked. This gives the listeners on land the assurance of immediately locating the signals of the plane at the proper place on receiving set dials.

The set is unique from the fire-hazard standpoint in that it cannot ignite stray gasoline vapors, which are frequently present in explosive quantities in aircraft cockpits. One fifty-watt transmitting tube is used in the set. This tube, the danger-point in case of breakage, is surrounded by a fine screen of copper mesh, which acts in the same way that a miner's safety lamp prevents explosions of gas.

The transmitter proper weighs only about ten pounds when completely equipped with its tube. The generator and other auxiliary apparatus weigh only thirty-five pounds. The generator is of the wind-driven type and is mounted on the outside of the fuselage. It furnishes all the power needed for the set's operation at a frequency of 240 cycles. This current frequency gives the characteristic note of the transmitter that is so easily recognized by listeners. The pitch of the note varys with the speed of the plane, thus listeners can tell how the plane is faring. For instance, if the airship is being tossed in "bumpy" air the pitch varies rapidly. When the ship dives headlong toward the earth the note increases quickly to a piercing shriek. If the ship is climbing or traveling against heavy head-winds, the lower drone of the signal note will immediately tell radio men the story of impeded progress. The transmitter occupies a space of only sixteen by eighteen inches, measured around the base, and is only eight inches in height. The explosion-protective gauze cap over the tube rises about twelve inches in height. A flame-proof key, remotely connected to the transmitting set, is used by the operator to tap out his story.

Never in Doubt About Smithy.

Little is known of the receiver carried by Major Kingsford-Smith, but it is understood to be of English manufacture.

Mr. Kaufman, who is in New York awaiting the arrival of the Southern Cross, paid tribute to Major Kingsford-Smith and his radioman, Stannage, for the "general excellence of the radio operation and the exemplary fashion with which he kept the world informed of the progress of the flight." He said he also spoke for his partner, Ralph Heintz, designer of the transmitter.

"With 'Smithy' at the control the outcome of the flight was never in doubt to myself or my partner," said Mr. Kaufman.

COSTE IS DELIGHTED OVER OCEAN FLIGHT

French Aviator Who Will Attempt Paris-New York Hop Says Kingsford-Smith Shows Way

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 25.—Captain Dieudonné Coste was one of the most delighted men in Paris today when he learned of the safe landing of the Southern Cross and the success of Major Kingsford-Smith's gallant fight against Atlantic head winds and Newfoundland fogs.

"It shows that although it is dreadfully difficult it can be done," said Captain Coste, who next month plans to make a direct flight from Paris to New York.

"Major Kingsford-Smith has done the most difficult part of the journey. What remains for us to do is to increase the flight capacity so that we can make the whole stretch from Paris to New York in a single jump."

Captain Coste still refuses to set any date for his attempt. "It is just nonsense to talk about a date," he said. "We still have work to do and then we must wait for good weather. If we start talking dates and don't keep them the people will laugh at us. What we are trying to do is to fly from Paris to New York, and we shall start when we think we are likely to succeed."

FLY NORTH TO MEET FLIERS

Two Newspaper Photographers Rush From Portland for Pictures.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Me., June 25.—Two airplanes with newspaper photographers took off from Scarborough Airport here today to fly to Harbor Grace, where Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions rested before continuing their journey from Ireland to New York.

In one of the planes was George Hill of The Times Wide World. The other carried M. A. Barron of the International News Picture Service.

MESSAGES ACCLAIM FEAT AS HISTORIC

Dawes and Morrow Among Many Who Wire Congratulations to Arriving Fliers.

LINDBERGH WAS WORRIED

Ambassador Tells of Colonel's Fears in Face of Poor Weather—Officials Flying Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The exploit of Major Charles E. Kingsford-Smith and his associates in spanning the Atlantic by air was the occasion of many official messages and statements of congratulation today.

Among those who sent messages to Major Kingsford-Smith were Ambassadors Charles G. Dawes and Dwight W. Morrow, who are here preparatory to returning to their posts. The two Ambassadors conversed at some length on the achievement of the Southern Cross, Mr. Morrow saying that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh had been considerably worried last night when reports of unfavorable weather conditions on the latter part of the journey began to come in.

Colonel Lindbergh, his father-in-law said, regarded Major Kingsford-Smith's earlier flight across the Pacific as one of the outstanding achievements of aviation, particularly because of the difficulties of navigation. Only the most accurate work, in Colonel Lindbergh's opinion, permitted the Australian flier to attain his objectives in his dash across the vast expanse of the Pacific.

Messages of Ambassadors.

The messages of the two Ambassadors to Major Kingsford-Smith follow:

> Charles Kingsford-Smith,
> Harbor Grace, N. F.
> Congratulations on your splendid achievement, which will become historic. Our whole country is acclaiming it.
> CHARLES G. DAWES.

> Charles Kingsford-Smith, Harbor Grace, N. F.
> Best wishes and heartiest congratulations on your splendid achievement.
> DWIGHT W. MORROW.

The British Embassy and the Irish Free State Legation were jubilant over the flight. Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador, sent this message to Major Kingsford-Smith at Harbor Grace:

> May I extend to you and your gallant crew my congratulations for your successful flight and my best wishes for its continuation.

Sir Ronald and W. J. B. MacAulay, Chargé d'Affaires of the Irish Free State Legation, accompanied by Wing Commander L. J. E. Fiennes, air attaché of the British Embassy, will fly to New York to participate in the welcoming ceremonies to the transatlantic fliers. They will leave here at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning in a plane furnished by Grover Whalen, chairman of Mayor Walker's Committee to Receive Distinguished Guests.

Congratulates Premier Scullin.

Afterward, it is understood, Captain J. Patrick Saul of the Irish Free State Army, navigator of the Southern Cross, will fly here to deliver to President Hoover the message from President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State, which the fliers brought with them across the Atlantic.

Secretary of State Stimson sent congratulations to both Major Kingsford-Smith and to Premier Scullin of Australia in messages which read as follows:

> Charles Kingsford-Smith,
> Care of Airplane Southern Cross,
> New York, N. Y.
> Heartiest congratulations to yourself, Captain Saul, Stannage and Van Dyk on your splendid flight and safe arrival.
> HENRY L. STIMSON,
> Secretary of State.

> His Excellency,
> James Henry Scullin,
> Prime Minister of Australia, Canberra, Australia,
> Personally and on behalf of this government, I extend to you and the Australian Commonwealth heartiest congratulations upon the magnificent flight and safe arrival of Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and his daring companions.
> To my mind a fact of greater portent to the friendly relations of our two countries, and to international air transportation, is that Captain Kingsford-Smith in this flight not only has accomplished the difficult westward passage of the Atlantic, and is about to complete the circumnavigation of the world, but has joined our two countries by air via different routes. HENRY L. STIMSON,
> Secretary of State.

Jahncke Speaks for Navy.

Ernest Lee Jahncke, Acting Secretary of the Navy, sent the following message to Major Kingsford-Smith:

> The American Navy extends its congratulations to you and your gallant crew. Your courageous feat of crossing the Atlantic and landing safely against great odds has aroused the admiration of every officer and man in the naval service.

David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, made the following statement:

> I congratulate the Atlantic fliers on accomplishing an outstanding feat in aviation. The flight over the Atlantic from east to west is a most hazardous undertaking. Great credit is due to the organization, courage, skill and fortitude of the crew which made it possible.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, said:

> Major Kingsford-Smith is deserving of the highest praise and commendation on his successful flight across the Atlantic. His preparation, his daring and his successful landing at an airport in the Western Hemisphere demonstrates his skill and ability. The last hours of his flight again demonstrate the necessity for radio control and radio beacons to guide planes flying in fog-bound areas to airports. I wish to congratulate again Major Kingsford-Smith and his gallant crew.

Bingham Cites Significance.

Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, president of the National Aeronautical Association, added his congratulatory telegram to the barrage of good-will messages. His telegram said:

> Your remarkable western flight across the Atlantic has brought the certainty of regular transatlantic air schedules between Europe and America a step nearer. The army round-the-world fliers paved the way with their refueling flight from England via Iceland and Greenland to Labrador. The Bremen fliers in 1928 almost achieved their goal before they were forced down on Greenely Island. But to you goes the honor of making a signally successful non-stop flight from Europe to North America. May I extend my heartfelt congratulations, together with the welcome of the National Aeronautical Association.

MOTHER AND FIANCEE OF SAUL GRATIFIED

Father of Navigator of Southern Cross, Seriously Ill in Dublin Home, Rallies at News.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, June 25.—Mrs. Thomas Saul's joy at the news today of the safe landing of her son, Captain J. Patrick Saul, navigator of the Southern Cross, was tempered by the fact that her husband is lying at death's door.

"My husband is upstairs," she said to your correspondent when the report of the landing of the Southern Cross at Harbor Grace was conveyed to her at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. "He is so seriously ill that the exciting news of the flight has been kept from him. I have not rested for a moment all night, with telephone and other messages coming continuously.

"You must realize that at this moment I am incapable of expressing adequately my gratitude for the success of my son's venture and my thankfulness for his safety."

Then an automobile stopped in front of the Saul home at Donnybrook and Miss Zena Marchant, Captain Saul's fiancée, accompanied by the Captain's sister and his little daughter, Pat, stepped out. Miss Marchant, who had just heard of the landing of the Southern Cross, embraced Mrs. Saul. "Did you hear the wonderful news?" she asked.

She and Mrs. Saul linked arms, and the door closed on two of the proudest women in Ireland.

Miss Marchant had showed signs of having gone through great anxiety in the last thirty hours. "I nearly died with joy when I received the news of the landing," she said.

Captain Saul's retriever, Pip, one of Ireland's most photographed dogs, participated in the rejoicing at the Saul home. He barked and wagged his tail. Miss Marchant threw her arms around the dog and whispered into his ear: "You do understand, don't you Pip?"

DUBLIN, June 25 (AP).—Thomas Saul, father of Captain J. P. Saul, navigator of the Southern Cross, is seriously ill with rheumatism. He is 70 years old. Confined to his bed, he took a slight turn for the better on the receipt today of the news of his son's safe arrival in Newfoundland.

The senior Saul has extensive business interests which have been looked after by his son.

POOR WEATHER FACES FLIGHT START TODAY

Dense Fog or Cloudiness Likely to Confront Southern Cross as Far as Eastport, Me.

Dense fog or cloudy weather with variable winds will confront the fliers aboard the Southern Cross from Harbor Grace southwestward along the coast to Eastport, Me., but from Portland, Me., to New York they will have clear weather with west or southwest winds blowing at from 10 to 14 miles an hour, according to a weather chart made last night by officials of the New York Weather Bureau.

Weather conditions prevailing late last night at various points on the route of the Southern Cross were given out as follows:

Cape Race, N. F.: Rain and dense fog, with light southwest winds.
Chatham, N. B.: Partly cloudy but visibility good.
Sydney, N. S.: Southwest winds; cloudy.
Halifax, N. S.: Cloudy; light west winds.
Sable Island: South winds of 10 miles an hour and cloudy.
Eastport, Me.: Dense fog and light winds.
Portland, Me.: Southwest light winds; clear.
Boston, Mass.: Light east winds and clear weather.
Nantucket, Mass.: Ten-mile southeast winds and clear.
Block Island: Fourteen-mile west wind and clear.

Weather Bureau officials said that the inland weather conditions were good.

MANY PAY TRIBUTE TO ATLANTIC FLIERS

Lindbergh, Byrd, Chamberlin, Fokker and Premier Scullin of Australia Laud Feat.

KOEHL DEEPLY MOVED BY IT

German Aviator Who Piloted the Bremen Says Difficulties Are Apparent—French Airmen Pleased.

Aviators, aeronautical engineers, statesmen and others joined yesterday in paying tribute to Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his companions not only for their westward crossing of the North Atlantic but for the courageous and intelligent manner in which they extricated themselves from difficulties in the Newfoundland fog to make a safe landing.

Early in the flight Anthony H. G. Fokker, builder of the Southern Cross, called THE NEW YORK TIMES and was frequently on the wire for the next thirty hours. His tribute and message to the fliers, with those of others, follow:

Anthony H. G. Fokker—Your wise command of the sturdy old ship has resulted in a great achievement. Heartiest congratulations from us all, for yourself, Evert Van Dyk, John Stannage and Captain Saul. They must have played gallant parts in your struggle. That you won through safely is another tribute to your genius for organization and command. We are all proud that a Fokker plane served you. Thanks for your kind personal message.

Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd—My companions and I congratulate you and your courageous crew on your splendid flight from Dublin. The care with which the flight was prepared and carried out is noteworthy and your achievement is one that will do much toward the progress of aviation. I hope to have an opportunity during your stay here to extend personally my congratulations and good wishes.

J. H. Scullin, Prime Minister of Australia, in a cable addressed to Herbert Brookes, Commissioner General for Australia—Please convey the hearty congratulations of the Government of the Commonwealth of Australia to Squadron Leader Kingsford-Smith, who has added another chapter to the records of Australian achievements in the air.

Clarence D. Chamberlin, transatlantic pilot and former world's distance record holder—It was smart work, that landing in the fog at Harbor Grace after a great flight. It is a tough enough job to find a landing field in Newfoundland on a bright sunshiny day. I didn't see any. A forced landing, except in a very few places in country like that, especially with a three-motored ship, is about as bad as a landing at sea would be.

Major Thomas G. Lanphier, who flew the Southern Cross for Sir Hubert Wilkins in the Arctic—The Southern Cross is known among aviators as the "lucky ship." Of all planes I have handled under favorable or unfavorable conditions, I believe I would trust myself to Major Kingsford-Smith's Southern Cross in preference to any other. I congratulate Major Kingsford-Smith and his crew on their courage and success.

Captain Edward Rickenbacker, leading American ace in the World War and vice president of the Fokker Company—It is with the greatest delight that I add my tribute to the list. Major Kingsford-Smith, his co-pilot, Van Dyk, and Captain Saul and Stannage not only made a splendid flight across the Atlantic in an American plane, but under the most trying conditions carried on to save their ship and finish their assignment. That landing at Harbor Grace was nothing less than great.

René Racover, representative of Captain Dieudonné Coste in America, who spent the night in THE TIMES radio room listening to reports from the plane—What they accomplished was marvelous. I am very sorry they were not able to set their plane down on the soil of the United States. Their great achievement, however, illustrates once more the tremendous difficulties of crossing from Europe to America. It takes men like Kingsford-Smith and his brave comrades to accomplish such a thing. I think they made a most wonderful record, and I say again I am tremendously pleased that they are safe.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh called THE TIMES early yesterday morning to ask for news of the fliers. When informed that they had crossed the North Atlantic and landed safely, he said heartily:

"That's good."

Koehl Pays High Tribute.

BERLIN, June 25.—Captain Hermann Koehl of the airplane Bremen, who is visiting in Upper Silesia, said when he heard the news of Major Kingsford-Smith's landing:

"I was convinced he would succeed in making New York in a non-stop flight. Nevertheless, the crew of the Southern Cross deserve the fullest admiration and recognition for their performance, and I congratulate Major Kingsford-Smith and his comrades with all my heart.

"That neither the Bremen nor Southern Cross could reach New York in a non-stop trip is proof of the terrible difficulties in the way of an east-west ocean crossing. A most remarkable thing is that Major Kingsford-Smith also had compass troubles in this part of the North Atlantic."

French Aviators Pleased.

PARIS, June 25 (AP).—The announcement that the Southern Cross had completed its transatlantic hop successfully and landed at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, was received here with expressions of satisfaction by French aviation enthusiasts.

Experts said the Southern Cross flight was a good omen for weather conditions for Captain Coste, who proposes to take the "Lindbergh trail" in the reverse direction.

Captain H. W. Lyon Rejoices.

PARIS HILL, Me., June 25 (AP).—Captain Harry W. Lyon, who flew with Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith in the Pacific flight of the Southern Cross, said he "rejoiced" today at news of the plane's latest achievement in spanning the Atlantic.

"I knew from the first that they would," he said. "In fact, I bet on it."

Captain Lyon disclosed that Major Kingsford-Smith had planned to have him act as navigator on the present flight but was unable to locate him in time.

TWO MORE MEDALS BESTOWED ON BYRD

Arbitration Association and Aviation Chamber Honor Admiral at Fetes Here.

DAVISON LEADS TRIBUTES

Calls Antarctic Expedition Inspired—Ingalls Hails Services to Aviation.

MRS. ASTOR GIVES AWARD

1,200 at Luncheon Hear Explorer Pay Tribute to Kingsford-Smith and Aides for Ocean Flight.

In two ceremonies in which the work of the Byrd Antarctic expedition was lauded as inspired and of great scientific value to the world, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd received two more medals yesterday. The American Arbitration Association at a luncheon at the Hotel Astor presented its Medal for Distinguished Service to the Admiral, and the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America presented a special gold medal at a dinner at the same hotel last night.

At the dinner, silver replicas of the medal awarded to Admiral Byrd were presented to the members of the expedition by Frederick B. Rentschler, president of the chamber, on behalf of the body. A thousand guests representing all phases of the aviation industry and of government, press and business attended and heard Admiral Byrd comment on the tremendous strides made by aviation during his two year absence in Little America.

F. Trubee Davison in Tribute.

F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics, praised the "inspirational" value of "Dick Byrd's work" and lauded the admiral as "a dreamer of dreams, a practical man, a leader of men and a man of terrific courage." On behalf of the navy, David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, extended the congratulations of the service and praised the ability for organization and the leadership of Admiral Byrd. W. Iving Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General, who conveyed the tribute of the air mail fliers and the Postoffice Department, said that he was looking forward to the Admiral's next trip and assured Admiral Byrd "America stands with you."

Mr. Rentschler, presenting the medal, said: "The aircraft industry realizes that you have accomplished great things in aviation, perhaps things without parallel.

"You have further demonstrated that aircraft is safe, reliable and dependable and the industry owes a debt to you," he declared.

In replying Admiral Byrd mentioned the marked changes in "types of aircraft, air routes and ground organizations" that have occurred since his departure in 1928.

"As a moral and economical force to the service of mankind, aviation is at last under scientific control. It is being directed for the infinitely larger sphere of action that awaits it, and a little faith will do the trick," he declared.

In mentioning the present economic depression and its resultant effect on the aviation industry, Admiral Byrd predicted that "tomorrow aviation will be on top of the wave," and will gradually settle to a "firm and substantial level." Admiral Byrd introduced Captain Ashley C. McKinley, Dean Smith, Captain Alton N. Parker, Harold I. June, Bubier and Demas, two of the expedition's mechanics, and Bernt Balchen, who told of the difficulties of Arctic and Antarctic flying.

James Schermerhorn presided at the dinner. The guests included about thirty members of the expedition.

Praises Kingsford-Smith.

Warm tribute to Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions was paid by Rear Admiral Byrd at the luncheon given in his honor by the American Arbitration Association. After receiving the gold medal for distinguished service from the hands of Mrs. Vincent Astor on behalf of the association, Admiral Byrd spoke of the benefits of aviation in promoting international friendship and understanding.

"We have a striking example now," said Admiral Byrd. "Four gallant fliers have spanned the Atlantic from east to west and are heading for New York City. They have made a very extraordinary flight and this will not make us think less of Australia. The 120,000,000 people of the United States are sending thoughts of good-will to Australia through this fine feat of aviation. For aviation is more an instrument of good-will than an instrument of war. It binds the peoples together and makes the world shrink, bringing the horizons closer."

Admiral Byrd had paid enthusiastic tribute shortly before to the people of New Zealand for the hospitality and helpfulness extended to his expedition at Dunedin.

"It might be fitting," said the Admiral, "to tell here for the first time something about how the government and the people of New Zealand treated us. Our own people could have done no better. They turned over the coaches of their railroads, their radio stations and allowed us to break their rules by bringing ashore our Eskimo dogs. I shall never forget the extraordinary hospitality of the citizens of Dunedin and the help they extended to my shipmates. So great was their kindness that we left them like brothers.

"During my several talks with officials in New Zealand they all expressed that knowledge and thought in commercial matters that makes for mutual understanding. There is no reason why there should not be very deep friendship between the United States and New Zealand. I was even requested to be their unofficial ambassador, and I take pleasure in appearing as such."

Following speeches of tribute by John Bassett Moore, Floyd B. Odlum and Felix M. Warburg, Mrs. Astor spoke briefly and then pinned the gold medal of the association on the Admiral's breast.

"You have compassed the earth," said Mrs. Astor, "and you have brought the Poles within the focus of your own eyes. We are endeavoring to align the forces in industry through the medium of arbitration so that commercial peace may encompass the earth. The American Arbitration Association's medal for distinguished service is not given alone for unusual accomplishment in our own field, but also for any act of unique and daring achievement for the betterment of mankind and the promotion of commercial and international good-will."

Sees Double Value in Medal.

In acknowledging the honor Admiral Byrd turned to Mrs. Astor, saying: "This is the first time that I have been honored in this manner by a lady. I only wish that men could do half as well as she, and this medal has a double value to me coming from her hands. Vincent Astor long ago came to my assistance in the most friendly way. He has helped me on all my expeditions and I wish to take this occasion to acknowledge my great debt to this friend."

Admiral Byrd turned to his shipmates, and he praised them for their loyalty and devotion.

He then presented some of his companions to the audience of more than 1,200, who applauded each as he stood up. The first was Bernt Balchen, pilot, and after him came Captain Ashley C. McKinley, Harold I. June, Dr. Francis D. Coman, Charles Lofgren, Captain Alton N. Parker and others. He also paid tribute to F. E. Meinholtz, who is in charge of the wireless station of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Kingsford-Smith's Fiancee in Australia Elated; Miss Powell Says He Has Won Last Air Laurel

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MELBOURNE, June 25.—Major Charles Kingsford-Smith's fiancée, Miss Mary Powell, who lives in a suburb of this city, rejoiced when she learned of the safe landing of the Southern Cross.

She received two messages from the aviator saying, "O. K.", and both of them were sent during the flight, which he promised her would be his last big attempt of this kind. Miss Powell had been confident that Major Kingsford-Smith would succeed in the flight to America.

MELBOURNE, June 25 (AP).—Major Charles Kingsford-Smith's pretty fiancée, Miss Mary Powell, was one of the happiest girls in Australia today.

"Isn't it wonderful?" she exclaimed.

"My mother insisted that I spend last evening playing bridge to keep me from worrying," she said. "Oh, but the terrible things I did at bridge!"

Waiting for the flight to start, she added, had been almost as hard as waiting for it to end.

"I could not refuse to let him make the attempt," she said. "It was the only big thing left for him to do in aviation. It would always have been there, nagging in the corner of his mind, if he had not done it.

"So I thought it was the best thing to let him get it over with. He promised that once the Atlantic flight was done he would not undertake any other big flights. Our marriage is fixed for September."

BYRD WILL DEDICATE CITY AIRPORT TODAY

Ceremonies at Floyd Bennett Field to Precede Dinner and Reception in Brooklyn.

Workmen were putting the finishing touches to the Floyd Bennett Airport in Brooklyn yesterday in preparation for its formal dedication this afternoon by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd. Members of the flying staff of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition will be present at the exercises.

The ceremonies at the airport will be one of three major events which Admiral Byrd will attend today. He will be the guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Bond Club at the Bankers' Club, and in the evening he will attend a dinner and reception given by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce and the Brooklyn Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel St. George.

A cable was received by Admiral Byrd yesterday from Captain Hermann Koehl, who with the late Baron Guenther von Huenefeld and Major James Fitzmaurice, crossed the Atlantic in the plane Bremen in April, 1928. The cable, which was sent from Berlin, declared:

"In unquenchable gratitude I am today thinking of the noble, knightly comrade who laid down his life to bring us help. May his name with which the flying field is to be christened today be an example to all nations of the way the spirit of a true sportsman may link with eternal bridges peoples of the earth."

When the German fliers were virtually marooned on Greenely Island, Labrador, Floyd Bennett flew to aid them, contracted pneumonia and died.

Following the luncheon at the Bankers' Club, Admiral Byrd, accompanied by Bernt Balchen, Harold I. June, Captain Ashley McKinley, Captain Alton N. Parker and Dean Smith, will leave for Borough Hall, Brooklyn, where there will be a brief reception by Borough President Henry Hesterberg. Then the party will go to the airport on Barren Island.

Tomorrow Admiral Byrd and most of his companions leave for Boston, where a parade and several receptions will be held.

BYRD REVEALS PLAN TO FLY TO COLOMBIA

Tells Intention of Visit to President-Elect Olaya Here—Has Not Fixed Date.

RECEPTION HELD FOR HIM

Host Questions Admiral on Polar Explorations—Learns That Men Relished Whale Meat.

Among his future plans is a flight to Colombia, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd declared yesterday when he visited the President-elect, Dr. Enrique Olaya, at the Savoy Plaza. Admiral Byrd called to pay his respects to Dr. Olaya and remained about twenty minutes. During the conversation aviation and its future were the principal topics of discussion, although Admiral Byrd retold some of the humorous incidents connected with his stay in Antarctica.

No exact date was set by Admiral Byrd for his proposed flight to Colombia. When he was informed that Dr. Olaya would sail from New York July 2, he exclaimed, "I'll be flying down there to see you soon."

Dr. Olaya was anxious to hear details of the South Pole expedition and asked several questions. He was told that there had been forty-two men on the ice at Little America. The men enjoyed whale meat, Admiral Byrd said, and "every one of them appears to have put on weight." "Apparently, it agreed with them," he added.

Admiral Byrd, who was accompanied by his personal representative, Captain H. H. Railey, was greeted upon his arrival in the hotel by Richard Southgate, personal representative of President Hoover, assigned to accompany Dr. Olaya; Commander Harry L. Pence, Naval Attaché to Dr. Olaya, and Colonel Harry W. Miller, Military Attaché. Admiral Byrd was then taken to the Presidential suite, where he was presented to President-elect Olaya and Jefferson Caffery, American Minister to Bogota.

A reception was held later in Admiral Byrd's honor, when the following were presented to him: Miss Lucia Olaya, Mrs. Richard Southgate, Mrs. Harry L. Pence, Freeman H. Matthews, L. L. Willard, representing Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson; Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Davila, Pedro Londono, Dr. Olaya's brother-in-law, and Juan Lozano, secretary to Dr. Olaya.

FLIGHT LAUDED IN GERMANY.

Press There Says Performance of the Southern Cross Excels Bremen's.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 25.—The news of the landing of the Southern Cross in Newfoundland has awakened keen interest here and has occasioned sportsmanlike references in the newspapers to the fact that Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his companions had excelled the famous Bremen's crew in making a smooth landing.

A number of tributes have been paid to the fact that Major Kingsford-Smith is the only man who has conquered both major oceans in an east-west direction.

The use of a tri-motored plane is considered here as further proof of the necessity of multi-motored ships for ocean flying.

"But not until an eight or ten-motored plane crosses successfully will it be possible really to think about schedule flying," the Berliner Tageblatt remarks.

"Major Kingsford-Smith's repeating of Captain Koehl's performance indicates that in a few years' time an ocean crossing will no longer be a sensation," Germania says.

CHICAGO FLIERS KEEP ON.

Endurance Plane Develops Troubles on 14th Day in Air.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 25.—With all endurance records surpassed except that of the St. Louis Robin, the airplane City of Chicago, with John and Kenneth Hunter at the controls, circled slowly over Sky Harbor Airport after having completed fourteen days of continuous flying. At 8:40 P. M. the plane had been aloft 340 hours, eighty hours short of the record of 420 hours established last year by the Robin.

Mechanical dificulties became an added hazard as the physical strain told on the pilots near the end of the fourteenth day. Early in the morning the brothers changed two faulty spark plugs. As the plane approached the 336th hour mark the storage tank under the left wing sprung a leak.

BRITAIN JUBILANT ON FLIGHT SUCCESS

Amateur Wireless Operators Sat All Night at Keys to Keep the Nation Informed.

THOMSON HAILS AVIATORS

London Times Says Kingsford-Smith and Companions Owe Feat to Skill as Well as Daring.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—All England today hailed with delight the successful crossing of the Atlantic by the plane Southern Cross. The flight of Major Kingsford-Smith and his companions was followed here eagerly, but not without anxiety, and the fact that the plane did not reach its destination of New York did not reduce appreciation of the achievement.

The news of the landing in Newfoundland was received with thankfulness that the airmen were safe after doing what so many others had lost their lives in attempting.

Lord Thomson, British Secretary of State for Aviation, sent the following message to Major Kingsford-Smith: "On behalf of the Air Council I warmly congratulate you and your companions in the Southern Cross on your splendid Atlantic flight."

The intense interest shown in Britain in the flight was not only due to its connection with the British Empire but to the fact that almost constant radio communication was maintained between the Southern Cross and land stations ships, enabling Englishmen to follow the progress of the flight more closely than they had been able to watch any previous transatlantic effort. Several hundred amateur wireless operators throughout the British Isles kept abreast of the flight from the take-off early yesterday until the landing today.

London morning and evening newspapers today carried full accounts of the flight, and the names of the fliers were on every one's lips.

The London Times tomorrow will say in an editorial entitled "A Great Flight":

"After the Pacific the Atlantic! To Kingsford-Smith and his companions it has been left to make the first east-west crossing without a mishap. It is a success they deserved not only by their skill, intrepidity and endurance, but by the care and foresight with which they prepared for the adventure. It has been a triumph of science and organization as well as courage."

The News Chronicle will say, in part, in regard to the difficulties of an east-west flight:

"Unfortunately they also prove what difficulties have got to be overcome before the Atlantic air route becomes really a route at all, in the ordinary sense of the term. At present it is a series of very perilous adventures."

An editorial in The Star tonight said:

"Now, with the Southern Cross over, this most hazardous hop has been accomplished a second time and we are proud to acclaim the British Empire success."

ALL-IRISH SEA FLIGHT PLANNED IN JUBILATION

Move for $75,000 for Financing Venture Is Started as News of Southern Cross Brings Joy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, June 25.—Ireland is so jubilant over the success of the flight of the Southern Cross, with Captain J. P. Saul, Irish navigator, as a member of the crew, that an all-Irish transatlantic flight to New York is now projected.

Colonel Charles Russell, former commanding officer of the Free State Air Force and now active in civil aviation, told your correspondent tonight that the enthusiasm over Major Kingsford-Smith's flight was so high that he hoped it would result in raising sufficient funds for an Irish flight in the near future.

"There have been two Irishmen in the first two westward Atlantic flights, and now we want to do something definite toward organizing a flight which will be all our own," he said. "I believe Ireland could be a great future airport and everything possible should be done to develop transatlantic flying. With luck, by next year, we should be able to raise $75,000 for an Irish flight, which is a large sum for a small country like Ireland. But the Atlantic has still to be conquered and efforts to that end must continue."

James MacNeill, Governor General of the Irish Free State, paid this tribute to the Southern Cross flight tonight:

"My hearty congratulations to the crew of the Southern Cross on their wonderful achievement in landing safely in Newfoundland. I wish them successful completion of their journey to New York and look forward to welcoming them back in Ireland in the near future."

Senator Oliver St. John Gogarty, Irish aviation enthusiast, who suggested Port Marnock for the Southern Cross take-off, said Major Kingsford-Smith's flight stood out above the others because no cognizance was taken of chance as a factor in the flight. In the Senate today he asked the government to give immediate consideration to subsidizing civil aviation in Ireland.

Dublin has been alive with excitement ever since the report of the landing of the Southern Cross. There is special jubilation at Baldonnel Airdrome, where the crew of the plane spent many days before the take-off. "The whole camp is rejoicing," was the message sent from the messroom tonight.

A dinner to honor Russell Owen, NEW YORK TIMES correspondent with the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, will be held on Saturday night in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor under the auspices of the Newspaper Club.

Southern Cross to Fly West Saturday to End World Trip

Major Charles Kingsforth-Smith and his companions of the successful westward flight of the Southern Cross will make only a brief stay in New York City, it was learned yesterday on good authority.

It is understood the pilot has asked that the reception to himself and his crew be kept to a minimum, so they may take off on Saturday for the West. When the Southern Cross reaches San Francisco she will have completed her circumnavigation of the globe.

Major Kingsford-Smith took off from the West Coast in 1928 in the Southern Cross, and completed the first passage from the United States to Australia. Then he flew his ship to Europe for the take-off across the Atlantic from the Irish coast.

HARBOR GRACE'S FAME AS AIRPORT GROWING

Little Newfoundland Town Has One of Best Harbors of Island, but Population Is Falling.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, where Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his companions in the plane Southern Cross first touched the soil of the Western Hemisphere, has become a well-known place because of transatlantic flights, the National Geographic Society said in a bulletin today.

"No former flights across the ocean have actually begun or ended at Harbor Grace, but the excellent runway of its aviation field always figures in transatlantic flight plans as a possible landing place.

"The town is about twenty-five miles directly west of St. John's, across the ten-mile-wide peninsula on which that city lies, and on the far side of Conception Bay, the easternmost of the many deep indentations of Newfoundland's north coast. Harbor Grace itself is a narrow inlet into the west shore of Conception Bay and is one of the best harbors in the island. The hills on each side of the harbor rise to a height of 500 feet, but their slope is gentle compared to the heights over St. John's Harbor. It is on a more level area on the slopes of these bordering hills that the Harbor Grace air field is located.

"Despite its growing fame as an airport, the town of Harbor Grace is dwindling in size. Not many years ago it was the second town in Newfoundland, with a population of more than 5,000. Now it has less than 4,000 inhabitants. Like all other coastal communities in Newfoundland, Harbor Grace deals largely with fishing and marine products. It has large warehouses for dried codfish and factories for packing fish, treating skins and expressing oil. It is a clean, well-built little town, its white wooden dwelling houses peeping out from groves of shade trees.

"Harbor Grace is approximately 1,100 miles from New York."

CROWDS AT FIELD WAIT IN VAIN FOR FLIERS

But Are Thrilled by Crash and Preparations for Today's Welcome.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., June 25.—Aviation enthusiasts hoping to witness the arrival of the Southern Cross and her heroic crew arrived here steadily throughout the day. Scores left, but at no time did the crowd, strolling about the hangars and sweltering in a blazing sun, number less than 500. This in spite of a telegram from Harbor Grace which stated that the fliers would not leave until daybreak tomorrow.

Between 300 and 400 automobiles stood at the edge of the field. For the most part their occupants were women and children, but as evening drew on men arrived in increasing numbers and it appeared that before long the throng would be doubled. An air of expectancy hovered about and every plane approaching was watched closely.

A thrill was provided at noon when a plane piloted by Dr. Edward B. Ormsby, president of the Dennison Airport at Atlantic, Mass., with Donald G. Morse, vice president of the airport, as passenger, came to grief. One wheel struck a stone in landing, the plane made a ground loop and nosed over, damaging the fuselage, under-carriage, left wing and wrenching the motor from its mount. Neither Dr. Ormsby nor his passenger was injured.

There was no doubt that another transatlantic flight had been achieved when telephone and telegraph company mechanics began to arrive and rig up apparatus to serve the newspapers. The crowd responded with alacrity to the report that Howard S. Fahuy of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company was at the field making preparations for Major Kingsford-Smith to call Australia upon his arrival. Miss Mary Powell, the Major's fiancée, is a resident of Melbourne, Australia.

Mr. Fahuy explained that his company, with the cooperation of the British postal authorities, was arranging the service as a "courtesy call" to the aviator. He said the call will be routed from the American Telephone and Telegraph building in Manhattan to London and Australia.

Notables at the field included Viola Gentry, first woman to hold at airplane endurance record, and Roger Q. Williams, the transatlantic flier. Commenting on the Southern Cross, he said: "I'm more than glad to hear they pulled through. The westward flight is a tough job; I can appreciate that from my own flight in the other direction."

Radio apparatus for broadcasting the arrival was set up by the Columbia system, but when the operators learned that the plane was not expected until tomorow they left.

Tomorrow a throng several times larger is expected and 300 Nassau County policemen will be on duty with State troopers.

VAN DYK'S WIFE SAYS SHE DID NOT FEAR

Found Wait for Start Hardest, but Knew Dutch Airman Would Succeed.

MAKES SECRET OF MASCOT

Refuses to Tell What Talisman Husband Carries—Co-Pilot Is Air Marine Veteran.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, June 25.—"The wife of an airman knows her husband's work brings risks. That I understood when I married Evert Van Dyk, and I have been able to adapt myself with confidence to this fact."

With these words, the wife of Major Kingsford-Smith's co-pilot aboard the Southern Cross told how she felt during the hours of uncertainty since the Southern Cross started for America.

"I feel better now than during the last few weeks, especially that last day's tension waiting for the departure," she said. "That was the difficult time. Now I feel fully confident of success, everything had been so carefully prepared. The Fokker is trustworthy. I know what Evert can do, and from him wnat Kingsford-Smith is able to do. They are now en route. They will succeed."

Quiet, steady and clear was the voice of the airman's wife, betraying none of her emotion, as she sat in the garden near her cottage at Wassenaar, a suburb of The Hague.

"I don't like to speak about Evert's ocean trip," she confessed, "but you journalists have special rights in these days."

Van Dyk is 37 years old, she said. He went in his youth to the Dutch East Indies, where he worked on rubber plantations as an overseer of colored labor. During the World War he returned home and enlisted as an airman in the Dutch Marine Flying Corps. In 1923 he returned to Dutch India, this time as a husband and a flying officer in the Indian Marine, but in 1925 he resigned. There was not enough adventure during peacetime in this work and not enough to do, so Van Dyk joined the Royal Dutch Air Mail, which keeps airmen busy in all kinds of weather. "Evert loves to be in the air when others say that the weather is rather bad for flying," Mrs. Van Dyk remarked. Asked where she first met him, she said:

"When he was still in the marine service he was once forced to land near by father's home, Het Idenheim, in the Province of Drente, not far from the German frontier. So we met."

"Did you object in the beginning to this trip in the Southern Cross?"

"By no means," she replied. "It did not take Van Dyk long to decide about Kingsford-Smith's proposition to go with him. Evert dislikes long conversations, and he knew that many Dutch airmen would envy him for being selected for the trip."

"Did you give him a mascot?"

"Yes; but even if you stayed an hour questioning me I would not tell you what it was."

The Dutch public is tremendously interested in reports of the flight, as it is the first time there has been a Dutchman in the crew of a transatlantic flight, and Van Dyk is one of the most popular of Dutch airmen.

Before Van Dyk's cottage in Wassenaar a small Dutch flag, hoisted by his 5-year-old son, tells of the family's joy and pride. All day a constant succession of telephone messages, interviews and felicitations of visitors expressing gratitude for the flight's success occupied Mrs. Van Dyk.

"You thought you would find me in tears?" she asked. "Perhaps a reaction will come later. Now I am relieved and happy. Of course, the tension was strong, but the children wanted to see mother courageous and I managed to sleep last night. Early this morning the first messages promised success. Now I am awaiting the report that the Southern Cross has left for New York."

Van Dyk's colleagues of the Royal Dutch Mail are almost as proud as his wife because of the flight's success. They are also full of admiration for Smith, who studied every detail beforehand, leaving nothing unprovided for. They are proud because it was a Fokker machine which proved so reliable. "Well Done, Southern Cross," is the headline in Handelsblad, and other Dutch papers are equally appreciative of the flight.

36 PLANES BURN IN AIRPORT

Pilots and Mechanics Escape $1,000,000 Fire in Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Fire at the Municipal Airport today destroyed three hangars and thirty-six airplanes, twelve of them tri-motor passenger ships of the Universal and the Stout Air Lines, narrowly missed trapping a score of pilots and mechanics who were sleeping in the hangars, and caused damage estimated at more than $1,000,000.

The planes lost by the Universal Lines were ten tri-motor planes valued each at $60,000 and several smaller ships of single motor, some with enclosed cabins and others of the open-cockpit type of mail planes.

Although the Universal Lines were able to save only one small mail plane, William Bliss, operations manager, said that their schedules were continued as usual today with the ships which flew to the port from fields in other cities. Their mail contracts would be fulfilled, he added, with ships brought from the same sources.

LISTS RADIO BEACONS.

Commerce Department Issues Four Charts to Aid Shipping.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25. — Four new charts, showing the entire American radio-beacon system, have just been issued by the Lighthouse Service, Department of Commerce, for distribution to navigators and others interested. One chart, including continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, the Canal Zone, seventy-eight American stations, fourteen Canadian stations, and one French station.

"Radio beacons, which are being established at the more important lighthouses and lightships along both coasts and on the Great Lakes," the department said today, "are adding greatly to the safety of vessels proceeding in fog."

Besides the large chart of the entire country, three regional radio beacon charts have been prepared for vessels operating either upon the Atlantic, the Pacific coast, or the Great Lakes. All are obtainable without charge.

FARM RELIEF FAILS, CONNALLY ASSERTS

Texan Tells the Senate Promises to Farmers Were "Plain Political Bunk."

DEFENDS THE DEBENTURE

Says Tariff Bill Has Made Farmers Unable to Relieve Situation by Exports.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Senator Connally, Democrat, of Texas today delivered in the Senate a sharp denunciation of the failure to adopt the export debenture plan in the tariff bill, a provision which, he said, could not be "put to sleep by executive ukase."

Wheat has fallen to the lowest level in sixteen years, Senator Connally said. The farmer's receipts, he added, are considerably less. He read a telegram from the Pastoral County Grain Company, in his State, saying this commodity was quoted at 70 cents a bushel there and asking him to get the Federal Farm Board to act.

Cotton prices are 33 1-3 per cent under last year, Senator Connally said. He denounced what he termed the "hypocritical pretense and plain political bunk" voiced in promises of farm relief through national legislation.

Senator Connally drew attention to the few Republicans who remained to hear him, saying:

"I am greatly flattered by an audience on the Republican side consisting of seven Senators. That is about the number who are doing something to aid the farmer."

Declaring that he was "not speaking as a Democrat or Republican," Senator Connally said:

Government Is Challenged.

"I want to challenge whatever powers exist in government as to what is to be done when wheat, the great staple product of the farms, is lower than it has been at any time in sixteen years."

Senator Connally said the Farm Board "seems to be doing everything it can, but it can't increase consumption or decrease production."

Referring again to the tariff act, he said:

"The passage of that bill has not relieved the farmer or raised his prices one atom."

Noting that Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, was not on the floor, Senator Connally challenged the leader to "come out of his party caucus and tell us what to do"; invited the Secretary of Commerce, "who said the tariff bill was a great agriculture measure," to submit statistics, and criticized Dr. Julius Klein for his advocacy of the measure.

"The issue of agriculture debenture is not dead," he said. "It can't be put to sleep by executive ukase. That issue will be with us until agriculture is in some measure benefited by some such preferential legislation as that given by Congress to all other industries."

ENDORSE WADSWORTH BOOM

Rockville Centre (L. I.) Republicans Favor Wet Candidate.

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, L. I., June 25.—The Rockville Centre Republican Club has endorsed former Senator James W. Wadsworth as the Republican candidate for Governor.

Copies of a special resolution have been sent to the County Board of Supervisors and State committeemen. Wadsworth is a pronounced wet and it is predicted that the endorsement will be followed by others on the part of clubs on the South Shore. Assemblyman Edwin Wallace and Mayor Charles E. Richmond are members of the club.

Clinton M. Flint of Freeport is a former president of the Republican club there and his wife is head of the Nassau County W. C. T. U.

Lord Derby Says Prohibition, Not Money, Is Americans' Chief Topic of Conversation

LIVERPOOL, June 25 (AP).—Lord Derby today told the Chamber of Commerce that his recent American visit had dispelled many of his illusions concerning that country.

One of these, he said, was that the chief topic of discussion in America was money. "It was not. It was prohibition, and how best to avoid it," Lord Derby said.

The second illusion to be dispelled, he said, was that he was going to be extremely bothered by the press. "I experienced nothing of the kind. No body of men could have shown me greater consideration," he asserted. "I found if you only treat them decently they will treat you the same. I have to look back upon my relations with the press in America in a most grateful manner."

Lord Derby said he found none of the rumored anti-British feeling. He said he had imagined Senator Borah a very bitter opponent of England, but he found him quite the contrary, and of his impressions of the people he met, Senator Borah was among the most agreeable. Lord Derby said he was glad to think that if nothing happened to prevent it Mr. Borah was coming to England to be his guest next year.

ASKS HOUSE INQUIRY INTO WALL STREET

Dickinson Resolution Urges Investiagtion of Reports of Manipulation to Affect Congress.

LEADERS OPPOSE MOVE

Chairman Snell, Whose Committee Will Pass on Proposal, Is Against It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Prompted by certain contentions that the effects of legislation are reflected on the New York Stock Exchange Representative Dickinson, Republican nominee for the Senate in the recent primary in Iowa, introduced a resolution today authorizing the appointment of a House committee to investigate alleged Stock Exchange manipulations.

Mr. Dickinson's resolution follows within a few days a statement by Representative Wood of Indiana, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, that he would favor an investigation of Wall Street in connection with its alleged attempted influence on the government.

Both Mr. Dickinson's measure and Mr. Wood's suggestion, however, have run into a stone wall of opposition of administration leaders in the House.

"So far as I am concerned, there is no idea in the world of investigating Wall Street and, if we did, what would we do about it?" was the expression of Chairman Snell of the Rules Committee in commenting upon Mr. Wood's suggestions several days ago. Mr. Dickinson's resolution has been referred to Mr. Snell's committee.

The resolution provides that a "select committee" of seven members of the House be appointed by Speaker Longworth to investigate sales of securities upon stock exchanges and stock exchange practices, "to ascertain to what extent such exchanges may have been utilized by unscrupulous manipulators for the purpose of influencing legislation of the Congress of the United States or official actions of the executive officers of the government and for exercising unfavorable influence upon the general economic situation of the country."

The measure would direct the committee also to determine whether certain Stock Exchange practices are condoned for the "benefit of a limited number of investors but against the interests of the general public."

"This apparently will permit the committee even to go as far as to review the controversy between the New York financiers and the Federal Reserve Board in their effort to prevent the extensive speculation that has proven so disastrous to so many investors," said Mr. Dickinson in commenting on the resolution.

"It seems fitting to us to determine, as members of the legislative body of the government, just what the underlying motives are in these stock manipulations and their influence on the legislation and the executives of the government. If the government is wrong, the House officials are only too anxious to correct their misdoings. If, on the other hand, the stock exchanges are in the wrong, it seems to me that they should be asked to correct their methods."

COOLIDGE AND CURTIS SEND NEGROES GREETING

Conference at Springfield Wonders Why Hoover Has Not Sent the Usual Message.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 25 (AP).—Officers of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People here for the annual conference, which opened tonight, announced that letters had been received from former President Coolidge, Vice President Curtis, Senators Capper of Kansas and Wagner of New York and other prominent men, but that for the first time since the election of President Wilson no message of greeting has come from the White House.

Leaders of the organization professed to see in this an aftermath of the contest over the appointment of Judge John Parker of North Carolina to the Supreme Court, which the association opposed vigorously.

They pointed out that a letter was sent to the President informing him of the conference and offering to have read any message he might care to send.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 26.—Messages of greeting from ex-President Coolidge and Vice President Curtis to the conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People were read tonight following the official welcome to the conference delivered by Lieut. Gov. Youngman.

The letter from Mr. Coolidge, dated June 9, reads in part:

"Thank you for notifying me of the conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. I regret that my engagements are such that it does not seem possible for me to attend any of the sessions.

"Since your last meeting the Honorable Moorfield Storey has passed away. He was a long-time and consistent friend of the colored people of the country and I certainly hope that during your meeting appropriate action may show the regard of all of us for his memory. I trust your meeting will have that success which is worthy of marking the very great progress that the colored people are making and that it may be a season of contentment with the present and faith and hope in the future."

The letter from Vice President Curtis, dated June 10, contained the following expression:

"I wish you would extend to the members of the conference my hearty congratulations and best wishes for the success of the movement for the Advancement of Colored People."

income taxes. These sources are customs receipts, estimated to produce $602,000,000 in the fiscal year 1931, and miscellaneous internal revenue, the estimate on which is $640,000,000.

Both of these sources are expected to decrease during the next six months. The new tariff law, while its rates are higher, will not yield as much revenue as the old act, in the opinion of experts. Furthermore, because of the business slump, imports have decreased in the last six months, with no immediate improvement in sight. The aggregate loss in imports has been more than $400,000,000, and while a considerable part of them are duty-free, customs losses will be substantial for the rest of the year.

Miscellaneous internal revenue includes the tobacco tax, which in the present fiscal year will yield in excess of $400,000,000. During the last three months tobacco taxes have declined considerably. For this year $630,000,000 was estimated for miscellaneous internal revenue but figures to date indicate that the collection will not quite reach that figure. If conditions that have prevailed since the first of the year continue, these collections will fall considerably short of the $640,000,000 estimate for 1931.

Debt Payments Increase Surplus.

Thus the financial position of the government during the fiscal year 1931 appears decidedly uncertain. It is highly improbable that the estimate of $4,225,727,000 receipts will be reached. In fact, with a continuation of the business situation that has existed since October, a substantial decrease is likely.

The large surplus now promised for the year 1930 is abnormal for two reasons.

In the first place, the remittances on June 16 from foreign governments on their war debts was paid chiefly in cash. Out of the total payment of $117,141,000 in interest and principal about $74,000,000 went directly into surplus, having been deposited to the account of miscellaneous receipts instead of going to the direct reduction of the public debt. As a rule payments have been made in United States securities, which automatically reduce the debt.

Where a cash payment is made the remittances on the account of principal of advances under the Liberty Loan acts are earmarked for the purchase of securities, and thus a reduction of the debt. All other cash payments, such as interest, go into miscellaneous receipts.

Secondly, the new rates of the tariff act brought large quantities of imports out of bond and stimulated direct imports prior to the effective date of the law, thus materially increasing customs receipts for the month, which, through June 23, amounted to $65,579,873, an increase of $25,000,000 over the same period last year. That brought customs receipts for the year through June 23 to $580,410,448, with the probability that about $590,000,000 would be reached, a reduction of but $12,000,000 from the estimate.

Further Debt Reduction Planned.

Some time ago the treasury revised its estimate of customs collections downward because of the serious falling off of imports. However, the developments of the last month, owing to the tariff act, have increased the figure virtually to the point estimated.

Because of these factors there was a budget surplus on Monday of $219,074,000, and it will not be substantially different from that sum at the close of the year, officials said today. A part will be carried over to next year as a cash balance and the rest devoted to debt reduction. It may be said that a sum more than equaling all of the cash remittances on the war debts will be devoted to debt reduction from surplus this fiscal year.

Last year on June 23, there was a surplus of $237,324,000 and at the end of the year the surplus was about $185,000,000. However, the decline between June 23 and the last of the month was due to the payment of $55,000,000 extra to the railways for carrying the mails as a result of the Interstate Commerce Commission decision, upheld by the Supreme Court, in the so-called retroactive reparations case. No large drain of the kind is expected this year.

Standing on Receipts for the Year.

Income tax collections through Monday were running up to expectations. For the month they amounted to $508,858,984, a drop of $28,000,000 from last June, and for the fiscal year $2,393,402,025, a gain of $81,000,000. The gain was due to the excess of collections in the first half of the fiscal year, as compared to the same period of the fiscal year 1929. This made it appear that the month's collections would be around $520,000,000, as compared to $555,000,000 last June, and probably something over $2,400,000,000 for the year, as compared to $2,330,711,822 in 1929.

Miscellaneous internal revenue totaled $613,217,000 through Monday, and probably will fall a little short of the $635,000,000 estimated for the full year owing to the decline in tobacco and cigarette taxation in April, May and June.

Total revenue receipts for the fiscal year, through Monday, were $4,125,279,299, compared to an estimate of $4,249,263,000 for the year, and all expenditures were $3,906,204,962, compared to a $4,023,681,000 estimate for the year.

TAKE UP DEFICIENCY AHEAD OF BUS BILL

Senators Override Couzens's Protest in Effort to Get Early Appropriations Vote.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Efforts of Senator Couzens of Michigan to prevent consideration of the second deficiency bill were blocked today when the Senate agreed, by a vote of 30 to 27, to displace the motor bus bill to take up and dispose of the deficiency measure.

Mr. Couzens is sponsor of the motor bus bill in the Senate. He declared the motion was for the purpose of "hastening adjournment and killing the bus bill."

The deficiency bill provides appropriations for Boulder Canyon Dam, and a number of emergency funds.

After the motion was adopted and the deficiency bill laid before the Senate, Senator Jones of Washington, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, in charge of the deficiency measure, tried to obtain unanimous consent to grant Arizona's Senators two hours each in which to present their arguments against the appropriation of $10,660,000 in the deficiency bill to begin the construction of Boulder Dam, and then to take a vote on this item tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Couzens objected, declaring that the "matter could be expedited by invoking the closure." A motion for closure of debate on the bill is now before the Senate, scheduled to be called up at 1 o'clock tomorrow.

If the closure motion is adopted, debate will be limited to one hour for each Senator who desires to speak. Senator Hayden of Arizona today predicted the closure motion would be defeated. He has pending an amendment to strike out the Boulder Dam appropriation.

In view of today's developments, it is doubtful whether the Senate will reach a vote on the bill tomorrow. Mr. Ashurst today began his speech in opposition to the Boulder Dam appropriation. A vote may be taken tomorrow on this matter.

MACKEY RETURNS WITH PORT DATA

Big Delegation From Philadelphia Here to Greet Mayor Arriving on the Bremen.

SILENT ON GOVERNORSHIP

Studied Foreign Harbors With View to Attracting Large Liners to Quaker City.

More than 1,000 city officials, city employes and friends came from Philadelphia yesterday to welcome Mayor Harry A. Mackey, who returned from Europe with Mrs. Mackey on the North German Lloyd liner Bremen. Most of them went down to quarantine on the steamer Bear Mountain and waved and cheered as a band played lively tunes. Mayor and Mrs. Mackey received a few friends on the bridge of the Bremen.

Mayor Mackey was asked if he had been informed of the plan of a group of Philadelphians to invite him to run on a wet ticket for Governor of Pennsylvania against former Governor Pinchot. He replied that his "name had been mentioned in almost every connection," and that he had no announcement to make on the subject now.

He added, however, that he would give "serious consideration to any suggestion from my friends."

Mayor Mackey said he went abroad primarily to make a comparative study of port facilities in American and foreign harbors. He visited the city of Bremen, Cuxhaven, where the Hamburg American Line terminals are located, saw the Free Port of Hamburg, and Duisberg, Germany's largest internal port, on the Rhine.

He expressed the desire to attract larger transatlantic passenger vessels to Philadelphia and said the city could accommodate 17,000 and 18,000-ton liners with her present harbor. He would like to see the port developed to receive ships of the size of the Leviathan and Bremen, he added.

On the question of foreign reactions to the high tariff, Mr. Mackey said that the temporary reaction abroad seems to favor Poincaré's project for a confederation of European states aligned against the tariff disadvantages.

Also on the Bremen was Miss Maria May, a leading European textile and mosaic designer, who plans an exhibition of her works here within the next few months.

Miss Anna Roselle, dramatic soprano, who has been singing in foreign opera houses, returned to New York for a vacation. She will go abroad again to sing at the Opéra Comique in Paris in September.

Others on the liner included Nathan L. Amster, Frank Mason, head of International News; Walter Allen, president of Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company; James M. Heatherton of Spur Magazine and S. J. Bloomingdale.

The Bremen encountered a great deal of fog, according to Captain Leopold Ziegenbein. He said he followed the extreme southern route because of the presence of icebergs. Captain Ziegenbein added that ice was far south for this time of year, and there was considerable danger, due to the early withdrawal of the United States ice patrol.

AMENDS RAIL MERGER BILL.

House Body Would Defer Great Northern-Northern Pacific Move.

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP).—The House Interstate Commerce Committee today amended its redraft of the Senate railroad consolidation resolution to forbid consummation of the proposed merger of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific railroads until after next March 4.

Since the bill had previously been approved, it will be necessary for the committee to offer its amendment formally when the measure is taken up on the floor of the House.

The action was a concession to a group of Northwest House members, who have bitterly opposed adjournment until steps were taken to suspend the northern lines merger.

DOCTORS TO SEE TURK, 158.

Manager Denies Zaro Agha Will Be Connected With Drys Here.

Zaro Agha, the 158-year-old Turk who is coming to this country, will have no connection with any temperance organizations during his visit here, according to Calvin Harris, his American manager. Mr. Harris issued a statement yesterday correcting inaccuracies in dispatches from Istambul published yesterday. Mr. Harris said Zaro Agha had no intention of taking sides in an American issue about which he professes to know nothing.

He also denied the Turk would be publicly exhibited or placed in the movies. The purpose of the trip, Mr. Harris said, which was made possible by Asim Ridvan, Istambul exporter and patron of Zaro Agha, was to permit universities, scientific societies and medical colleges to examine him to discover the secret of his longlevity. Mr. Harris said the Turk would sail from Istambul on the steamer Sinaia tomorrow, and would bring with him letters from Mustapha Kemal to President Hoover and from the mayor of Istambul to Mayor Walker.

VETERANS BILL SENT TO HOOVER BY HOUSE

ment, declaring that the action of the President in attempting "to browbeat the Republican members of the House into sustaining the veto" was something of which "Mussolini should take notice."

Mr. Rankin offered no objection to the Senate amendments, however, since he had favored them all along. Agreement was immediately declared, and in a short time the official copy of the measure, which President Hoover had denounced as bad legislation, was on its way to the White House.

Bill Is Sent to the Treasury.

From the White House the bill was sent to the Treasury Department for a report from Secretary Mellon, and delivered to the Veterans' Bureau for another report from Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, the director. General Hines later conferred with the President.

The President's veto message is expected to be a short statement of the views which he uttered yesterday. It was thought that it may include some more detailed figures, particularly since he sent the measure to the treasury and Veterans' Bureau for further examination.

The possibility was advanced in some circles that House members might fail to support the President. This did not appear, however, to be among the worries of administration leaders. They openly declared, on the floor, what they would do tomorrow, and assurance came to them in applause from the Republican side of the House.

The last obstacle to taking up the substitute bill was removed when Representative Snell, chairman of the Rules Committee, introduced a rule making suspension of the rules in order for tomorrow. It is purposed to take the substitute bill up under this procedure, which will only allow forty minutes' debate, twenty minutes to a side.

When Mr. Snell asked unanimous consent that suspension be made in order for tomorrow, there was Democratic objection. His retort was an announcement that the Rules Committee would meet at 2 o'clock. Shortly after 3 he came in with the rule, the adoption of which the first thing tomorrow would clear the way for the substitute veterans' bill.

ASKS STATE INQUIRY ON SCHOOL PENSIONS

Senator Antin Tells O'Shea the Retirement Board Functions Improperly.

APPEARS FOR MENDELSOHN

Latter Charged With "Unbecoming Conduct" in Recent Drive, Enters Counter-Complaint.

A legislative inquiry into the activities of the Teachers' Retirement Board was urged yesterday by State Senator Benjamin Antin, who appeared as counsel for Henry Mendelsohn, Brooklyn elementary school principal, at the private inquiry which Superintendent O'Shea is conducting into charges of irregularities during the recent school pension campaign.

Senator Antin said he would introduce a resolution into the next Legislature asking for the appointment of a committee to inquire into the functioning of the board and recommend, if necessary, the amendment of the retirement law.

The demand for a legislative inquiry grew out of a controversy of long standing between two groups in the school system, one of which has been supporting the teacher members of the board and the other opposing them. As a result of a statement attacking the board, its members have asked the Board of Education to try Mr. Mendelsohn for "unbecoming conduct."

Counter-Charge Submitted.

When Mr. Mendelsohn appeared as a witness before the Superintendent he presented a detailed statement of counter-charges against the Retirement Board.

"After reading the statement of the Retirement Board and the statement submitted by Mr. Mendelsohn in reply thereto, I am satisfied that a very serious condition exists in the Teachers' Retirement Board, which calls for a thorough investigation by the Legislature," the Senator, who is a member of the Senate Committee on Public Education, said.

Asked what specific changes in the law he contemplated, Mr. Antin said that, due to a "very great dissatisfaction of teachers with the teacher members of the board," a change in the manner of selecting them should be made. He said no alternative method has been worked out.

Mr. Antin declared that the board had not been functioning "properly" and that there had been much internal dissension.

At present the teacher members are chosen by indirect vote by the entire membership of the retirement system.

The charges of irregularities were originally made by the supporters of Miss Anna E. Lawson, who won her campaign for re-election to board membership by an overwhelming majority, against the group of which Mr. Mendelsohn is a leader and which supported Mrs. Bridget Peixotto.

Another leader of the Peixotto forces, Associate Superintendent Edward Mandel, who was charged by the Lawson backers with using official equipment to send out partisan campaign literature, was questioned by Dr. O'Shea, who said there was nothing improper in Mr. Mandel's conduct, although it "would have been perhaps better if he had not done it."

Christopher C. Mollenhauer, chairman of the Retirement Board and a member of the Board of Education, declared he welcomed a legislative investigation and would be "glad to see it look into every phase of this controversy."

Dr. O'Shea expects to call several more witnesses for questioning tomorrow.

SENATE VOTE FAVORS DUAL SYSTEM PHONES

Combination Dial and Old Method Instruments Will Now Be Installed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The Senate today adopted a resolution offered by Senator Swanson of Virginia authorizing the local telephone company to equip within thirty days all offices in the Senate wing of the Capitol and the Senate office building with telephones which could be operated by the dial system or manually.

The manual phones recently were reinstalled, following adoption by the Senate of a resolution by Senator Glass of Virginia ousting the dial phones.

Adoption of the Glass resolution followed almost immediately the installation of the dial system in Washington, in the Capitol and offices of members of Congress.

Mr. Glass said he had no opposition to the "dual system."

An attack on the dial phones was made by Senator Dill of Washington. He declared that he objected to the idea that they were "new." In fact he declared no improvement has been made in the dial telephone system in the last fifteen years. It requires a good light to see how to dial, he said, and on the whole, he declared, the system is a "nuisance."

SWEARS VAUSE QUIT FINANCE COMPANY

Cruso Says Ex-Judge Got Out in 1928 Because Officers Failed to Put Surplus in Bank Stock.

TELLS OF TRIP TO RUSSIA

Went There to Form Razor Blade Factor as Subsidiary—Ex-Jurist's Condition Worries Counsel.

Former Kings County Judge W. Bernard Vause, on trial with six others for mail frauds and conspiracy in the operation of the Columbia Finance Corporation, severed all relations with that concern in August or September, 1928, Solomon Cruso, a government witness, testified yesterday before Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe and a jury. Cruso said Mr. Vause had done this because he was "sore with the officers and directors" as a result of their failure to invest the corporation's cash surplus in bank stocks. The witness was president of the Columbia Finance Corporation, which failed for about $400,000.

The physical and mental condition of Mr. Vause, which had seemed to improve materially last week, was the cause of much comment yesterday. Again, as during the first few days of the trial, he appeared to be oblivious to his surroundings. His eyes remained closed almost constantly. Nathan D. Perlman his chief of counsel, said he had given up trying to confer with Mr. Vause. When court adjourned Mr. Vause remained seated in his chair until assisted to his feet. He was reported to have lost thirty pounds since shortly before the trial began.

"Mr. Vause has told me," said Mr. Perlman, "that he has been able to catch only the merest snatches of what has been going on. He is in a bad condition and we are fearful of a collapse at almost any time."

Cruso Is Only Witness.

The trial dragged yesterday, Cruso being the only witness. He was under cross-examination by Mr. Perlman throughout the session and displayed a desire to answer at length. He was repeatedly instructed by Judge Coxe to reply briefly.

In addition to absolving Mr. Vause from any part in the activities of the Columbia Finance Corporation after September, 1928, Cruso admitted the former judge had had no connection with the World Financial Corporation, the State Bankers' Corporation or the Metropolitan Safety Razor Blade Company, all of which had been formed by and their stock held in the Columbia Finance Corporation.

Cruso testified the former judge had wanted the Columbia officers to buy controlling interests in the Lebanon National Bank and the Pennsylvania State Bank. Instead, he said, they had decided to put the money into the razor blade concern, a perfume company and other ventures. This caused Mr. Vause, according to Cruso, to refuse to continue in an advisory capacity and to stop attending the meetings of the directors.

Cruso had testified earlier that the Columbia Finance Corporation had made its first loan to Mr. Vause. Mr. Perlman tried to make the witness admit money had previously been loaned by that concern to others, but decided not to press that line of inquiry until accountants had reported the result of their examination of certain books and records of the concern. Cruso admitted Mr. Vause had repaid this alleged first loan of $2,500, whereas he himself still owed the corporation money on loans.

Cruso, asked at one point whether Mr. Vause had given him permission to tell others that he was a man of "influence and wealth," said he had. He told of a trip he had taken to Russia to obtain a concession to establish a safety razor blade factory there. This trip, he said, had cost $6,600. He asserted that, although he had obtained the concession, the Soviet Government had demanded a $50,000 bond, which the Columbia Finance Corporation could not furnish.

Says Vause Got No Dividends.

Neither Mr. Vause nor any other common stockholder had received any dividends, Cruso said, because it had been understood no dividends were to be paid until the preferred stock of the corporation had been retired. Asked if, as the Cruso Realty Corporation, he had sold lots to poor persons on the east side, Cruso replied that he had.

"Mr. Vause had nothing to do with the Cruso Realty Corporation?" asked Mr. Perlman.

"No," answered the witness.

Cruso said he had seven brothers, four of whom had been employed by the Columbia Corporation or by its subsidiaries. He spoke of his brother Philip and Harold Zuckerman as men of "outstanding character" whom he and Samuel Schuchman had decided to bring into the corporation to raise its standing. After the State Capital Corporation had failed and the Columbia Finance was on the verge of crashing, according to the witness, he signed a $3,000 check on the Columbia Finance to be divided between Zuckerman and Philip Cruso.

Mr. Perlman read what purported to have been an article written by Cruso for publication in Jewish papers after a banquet celebrative of the opening of the Columbia Finance Corporation's Bronx branch. The article was captioned: "The Famous Judge Vause of Brooklyn Makes Warn and Impressive Speech About Tremendous Growth of Columbia Finance Corporation, Praising Its President, S. Cruso." It referred later to Cruso's "brilliant work." He admitted the article had been disapproved by Mr. Vause because it made use of his name.

But It Is Too Late to Run an Independent—Ambassador's Plurality Analyzed.

Although disappointed at the inclusion of a repeal plank in the Republican State platform, most of the New Jersey drys may be expected to support the candidacy of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow for the United States Senate, it was asserted yesterday by political observers.

While the New Jersey adherents of the Eighteenth Amendment were said to regard the writing of a straightforward repeal plank into the platform for the first time as a move which might turn some voters in dry areas against local candidates, it was declared that the appeal of Mr. Morrow on other grounds would be enough to hold his strength in line against former State Senator Alexander C. Simpson, the Democratic candidate.

One leading woman advocate of prohibition who supported the Ambassador in his primary fight against Franklin W. Fort, the candidate backed by the Anti-Saloon League, and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, said she believed she was voicing the majority opinion when she expressed her regret at the repeal plank but added that she would remain in the ranks of the Morrow supporters.

Under the law, petitions for independent candidacies must be filed before the primary election. Mr. Morrow and Mr. Simpson are both for repeal and with the anti-prohibition declarations in the platforms of both parties, the drys must let the issue go by default or vote for the least objectionable wet.

Mr. Morrow is expected back from Washington tomorrow and will return to his Englewood home to wind up his affairs preparatory to his departure for Mexico City either at the end of this week or the beginning of the next. He will remain in Mexico for two months and return to New Jersey in time to make an early start on the Fall campaign.

State Senator Thomas A. Mathis of Ocean County made public yesterday an analysis of the 304,000 plurality received by the Ambassador in the primary, and said that it showed that Ocean County had turned out the biggest Morrow vote in proportion to population of any county in the State. Ocean County, he said, gave the Ambassador a vote equaling 32 per cent of its population. The other percentages were as follows: Atlantic, 31 per cent; Camden, 29; Cape May, 28; Gloucester, 26; Monmouth, 16; Burlington, 15; Morris 14; Essex, 12; Mercer and Union, 11; Bergen, Cumberland, Passaic and Somerset, 10; Salem and Middlesex, 8; Hunterdon and Sussex, 7; Warren 5 and Hudson 4.

Ford Buys Three-Legged Stove Made in New Hampshire in 1809

CONCORD, N. H., June 25 (AP).—A three-legged salamander stove, a rare object in these days of modern heating methods, was purchased today by Henry Ford from Robert P. Johnston, local merchant.

The stove was built in a Franconia iron foundry in 1809. Four-legged stoves were not unusual and many are still used, but of the three-legged type there are few. They were used chiefly for heating bedrooms.

CROSS MAY RUN AS WET.

Yale Ex-Dean to Fore in Connecticut Governorship Race.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, June 25.—Although a dry in his personal habits, Dr. Wilbur L. Cross, who retired as dean of the Yale Graduate School this month, took the foreground today as a likely Democratic Gubernatorial candidate in Connecticut on a wet platform. Dean Cross whose candidacy was first launched last night at a Democratic party meeting here, is opposed to the dry law because he thinks it is against the principles of good government.

The former dean did not state definitely that he would enter the race for the Governorship, but was not unfavorable to hints that he might get the nomination. Connecticut is one of the wettest States in the Union and the possibility of nominating a man of Dr. Cross's reputation has led Democrats to see a chance for victory in a State which usually goes Republican.

LABOR LIGHTENS PROGRAM.

MacDonald Cites Possibility of General Election Before Autumn.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—The possibility of a general election here before Autumn was indicated by Prime Minister MacDonald today when explaining to the Parliamentary Labor party how the government had been forced to lighten its legislative program. The promised reforms to be thrown overboard, Mr. MacDonald revealed, are the trades disputes bill, land valuation bill and hours of employment bill.

One reason for this action, Mr. MacDonald said, was that "there may be a general election before Autumn" and, if carried on durinng this season, the government might be faced with a contest with the decks littered up with lumber.

"It is better to have new measures in prospect at such a time," he asserted.

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP).—The Civil Service Commission certified Mrs. Elizabeth P. Cloughly, Thomas W. Garland and John Lindsay today as eligible for appointment as postmaster at Seabright, N. J. Representative Hoffman will recommend the appointment of one of the eligibles.

WINTER IS VICTOR IN LEADERSHIP FIGHT

His Candidate for Justice in 15th District, Jehial Roeder, Upheld by Committee.

HOFFMAN OPPOSES MOVE

Primary Fight Is Threatened—Mrs. Pratt, Hofstadter and Moffat Also Designated.

The leadership of Keyes Winter of the Republican organization in the Fifteenth Assembly District was upheld last night in the club's county committee when Jehial Roeder was designated as the nominee for justice of the Municipal Court.

Herman Hoffman, vice president of the Fifteenth Assembly District Republican Club, who refused to abide by Mr. Winter's selection of Mr. Roeder, was defeated by a vote of 101 to 13, after he took the floor, made his own nominating speech and attacked the leadership of Mr. Winter.

In Mr. Hoffman's speech, and in the sentiments expressed later by his supporters, the threat of a primary fight against the action of the County Committee, was the dominant note. Mr. Hoffman held that he had virtually been promised the designation by Mr. Winter, and read a letter of praise for his work from the leader.

Samuel Berger, one of Mr. Winter's supporters, declared that the matter should have been threshed out in private, and that a primary fight would endanger the chances of election of Mrs. Ruth Pratt, Congressman from the district, of Assemblyman Abbott Low Moffat and State Senator Samuel Hofstadter.

All of the three were designated for their present posts at last night's meeting, which was held in the Hotel Croydon, 12 East Eighty-sixth Street.

Mr. Berger declared that all efforts should be centred on beating "Tammany Hall" in the November election, and that this could be done only "with a militant, united party, under a militant leadership."

The meeting also approved the designation of P. St. George Bissell for the other Municipal Court nomination.

2 SHARP QUAKES RECORDED

Shocks Within 2 Hours Estimated 3,900 and 1,700 Miles From Here.

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP).—Two earthquakes this morning were recorded on instruments of the Georgetown University seismological observatory. The first began at 5:27 A. M., Eastern Standard Time, and the record was merged into the second, which was computed to have begun at 7:06 A. M. This was continuing at 8 A. M., when the records were being changed on the instruments.

Severe shocks from two separate earthquakes, one 3,900 miles distant from New York and the other 1,700 miles, were recorded yesterday morning by the Fordham University seismograph, it was reported by the Rev. Joseph Lynch, S. J., director of the observatory.

The first and more distant quake, he said, possibly occurred on the coast of Northern Chile, the only earthquake area within the 3,900-mile radius. The second series of shocks, which were still continuing, although abated, at 10 A. M., when the records were removed from the seismograph, possibly occurred in the Gulf of Mexico or in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean, Father Lynch said.

Earthquake Reports Excite Chile.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, June 25.—An earthquake registered this morning with its indicated position in Northern Chile or Southern Peru. An earthquake there had been predicted for last Monday. The people of Chile lived that day in anxiety. Alarm was especially intense in Valparaiso because of a conjunction of stars similar to that of Aug. 16, 1926, when Valparaiso was destroyed by an earthquake.

GRAND JURY URGES WALSH BOARD CURB

stances upon cash payments; refused to accept at times checks; and there was ground for belief that the relations between him and the board were such as should not subsist.

"We find that the following are the facts:

"That, between the 1st day of January of 1928 and the 6th day of May of 1930, the person named represented 154 applicants before the board.

"We find that in a large majority of cases in which he appeared the application made by him before the board was granted.

"We find that in certain cases, after those appearing by some one else had had their applications denied, they caused Dr. Doyle to be substituted and that after his substitution the applications were granted.

"We have evidence before us to establish to our satisfaction that Dr. Doyle received upward of $106,650 in twenty-one cases.

"That of this sum on his demand approximately $46,000 was paid to him in cash.

"That among those for whom he appeared was a group of corporations all more or less under one financial control.

"That one of these corporations had applied for a modification of the zoning laws in connection with an apartment house extending from the downtown side of East Eighty-seventh Street to the uptown side of East Eighty-sixth Street fronting on the more westerly side of Madison Avenue.

"That on this application the corporate owner employed Dr. Doyle and paid him $3,750, $1,750 being paid to him in cash at his request.

"That on this application, when first made, it was contended by the Fifth Avenue Association and by another, the latter being a lawyer of eminence, that the Board of Standards and Appeals would exceed its power if it granted the application.

"That one of the papers before the board and on which it acted in granting the application was a certain blueprint which showed among other things the arrangement of the building, the way in which it was subdivided on its twelfth floor; and the lay-out and interior arrangements of various apartments on such floor; that such blueprint was drawn to scale; and that among other apartments it portrayed the apartment hereinafter referred to.

Application Is Granted.

"That the application in question was granted by the Board of Standards and Appeals.

"That the presiding commissioner, William E. Walsh, was one of those voting in favor of the granting of it.

"That the granting of it enlarged the available rentable floor space on each of the upper floors of the building.

"That about the time the certificate of occupancy was issued, or slightly before such time, Williame E. Walsh became, at his request, a tenant in the said building on a floor shown on the said blueprint and of an apartment portrayed upon the same.

"That his tenancy was at the annual rental of $1,500 a year, but no lease was made out to him.

"That the apartment immediately over the one so rented to William E. Walsh was rented for $4,200 under a written lease; that the rentable value of the Walsh apartment was at least $4,000; that William E. Walsh is still the occupant of the said apartment and has never paid more than at the rate of $1,500 a year for the same.

"That as a result of his tenancy and because of this low and inadequate rent which he was alone required to pay, William E. Walsh secured a personal advantage, which advantage we are of the opinion was indirectly related to the duty imposed upon him by law.

Says Walsh Sought Loan.

"That on or about the 13th day of September, 1929, one John A. McCarthy, having an office at 479 Walton Avenue, Bronx, loaned at the request of said William E. Walsh $25,000 in cash to said Walsh.

"That thereafter and on or about Oct. 31, 1929, said John A. McCarthy loaned at the request of said William E. Walsh a further sum of $5,000 in cash to said Walsh.

"The said McCarthy took from the said Walsh a demand promissory note for said first-mentioned loan, and that said note was without interest.

"That on or about the 14th day of November, 1928, said McCarthy, through one Philip J. Sinnott, applied to the Board of Standards and Appeals for a permit under Section 21 of the building zone resolution to erect a one-story, non-fireproof building for business purposes, 147 feet by 101 feet, having a frontage of 147 feet on the west side of the Grand Concourse and 101 feet on the north side of East 183d Street, Borough of Bronx, having ten stores with a frontage on the Grand Concourse and three stores with a frontage on East 183d Street. The Grand Concourse and that portion of East 183d Street was and still is zoned as a residential district.

"That on or about the 22d day of January, 1930, the said McCarthy applied for a reopening of his application and to amend the resolution of the Board of Standards and Appeals permitting an extension of time to commence and finish the building on the said site, and by a further resolution of the Board of Standards and Appeals, adopted Jan. 28, 1930, all permits were required to be obtained within nine months and all work involved thereby completed within eighteen months from the said date, which extension of time will expire July 28, 1931.

"That each of the above applications was granted by the Board of Standards and Appeals and that said William E. Walsh as a commissioner on the said board voted in each of said instances in favor of the granting of each of said applications.

"We take pleasure in commending the efficiency of the Building Bureau and of the Tenement House Department and the vigilance displayed by plan examiners in both of such departments in not approving of plans which violated provisions below.

"That in certain instances other than the one mentioned applications were unreasonably granted; that in still other instances they were unreasonably refused, and that the facts disclosed are indicative of favoritism and improper discrimination.

"We are fully convinced that excessive and dangerous powers are lodged in the Board of Standards and Appeals; that the exercise of these powers has been fraught with public injury; that there is no reasonable assurance that in the future they will not continue to be misused, and we consider it of the utmost importance that we demand that prompt and efficient action whether by legislation or otherwise be taken to prevent the recurrence of the abuses which have led to this inquiry. Dated New York, N. Y., June 25, 1930."

Five Witnesses Heard.

Witnesses before the June county grand jury yesterday included Samuel Golding, president of the company which owns the building at 25 East Eighty-sixth Street; Joseph Golding, its vice president and secretary; Ward Claflin of the Tenement House Department; Edward V. Barton, chief clerk of the Board of Standards and Appeals; Jacob Schultz of the New York County Clerk's office.

William H. Allen, director of the Institute for Public Service, questioned yesterday Mayor Walker's statement that the city has no power to abolish the Board of Standards and Appeals and went on:

"If abolishing the Board of Standards and Appeals, as Judge Crain suggested, is too extreme a measure, surely the Mayor owes it to the public to state how he would abolish the specific evils the District Attorney listed."

Mayor Walker refused to comment on any phase of the Board of Standards and Appeals matter, as it was in the hands of grand juries.

BRITISH NAVY PLANS INCLUDE 3 CRUISERS

1930 Program Also Calls for 9 Destroyers, 3 Submarines, 4 Sloops and Net Layer.

COST PUT AT $45,000,000

SETS 2 YEARS FOR BUILDING

Tells Commons Cancellations in 1929 List Had to Be Taken Into Account This Year.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—Britain's naval construction program for 1930 was announced in the House of Commons this afternoon as follows:

Three cruisers, all of the six-inch gun type; one flotilla of destroyers, comprising one leader and eight destroyers; three submarines; four sloops; one net layer and a target towing vessel.

Presenting the figures, the First Lord of the Admiralty, A. V. Alexander, said a supplementry estimate would be introduced shortly for the small sum required to be spent in the present financial year on those vessels, the orders for the laying down of which would not be given until the last quarter of the financial year.

"I would emphasize," said Mr. Alexander, "that those ships are required in replacement of others which will have passed the age limit, to enable the royal navy to carry out its current duties in time of peace. The program has no relation to those of other powers."

Distribution to Shipyards.

It is intended that one cruiser, eight destroyers and one submarine shall be built by contract, while of the royal dockyards, Portsmouth, will build one cruiser and one destroyer leader, Devonport one cruiser and three sloops and Chatham one net layer, two submarines and one sloop.

Questioned as to how long it would take to build these cruisers, the First Lord said the government had not had full experience of that size of ship, but put the time at "rather more than two years—a little less than for the Kent class."

Lieut. Commander J. M. Kenworthy, Laborite, asked, "Are these ships to be additional to those already announced since the conclusion of the London conference?"

Mr. Alexander replied:

"The ships the question refers to were the suspended ships from the 1929 program. I must remind members of that point. Of the original 1929 program the present government canceled more than half and therefore had to take that into account when announcing the 1930 program."

Mr. Alexander, replying to further questions, said he thought the size of the six-inch-gun cruisers would be about 6,500 tons and the total cost of the program, spread over three years, would be about $45,000,000.

No Help to Shipyards.

One of the advantages which the British hoped the London naval treaty would obtain for the navy and the dockyards has not taken shape, at any rate not in Mr. Alexander's statement today. The treaty fixed the maximum number of ships in each category for each of the three powers, and the British hoped this standardization would enable programs to be fixed for a term of years, not for a single year, and that the necessary construction could be spread out so that employment in the dockyards could be maintained at a constant level.

The strength in cruisers and destroyers accepted by Britain. The London Times will say tomorrow, is so "dangerously meager" that there can be no question of Britain building up to it.

"In the circumstances," it says, "it was naturally expected when the conference was over that the Admiralty would produce a program providing for the spread over a period for all the construction necessary to keep the fleet at the required strength up to Dec. 31, 1936, the date fixed by the treaty. That apparently has not yet been done and the dockyards will still have to proceed under the old system of making hand-to-mouth arrangements for plant and labor."

Mr. Alexander does not expect to ask the Commons for more than $400,000 this year. In the original estimates he canceled more than half the 1929 program and thus effected a saving for the current twelve months of more than $20,000,000, so that the amount spent on new construction this year will be considerably below normal.

"Not much of this, however," says The London Times, "is real economy. Admittedly, the canceling of two cruisers and several other vessels of last year's program had to be taken into account when fixing the present program, and if practically nothing is to be spent this year on 1930 ships it only means that more will have to be provided in the estimates of 1931 and 1932. But that, Mr. Alexander possibly thinks, may be a problem for his successor—and Chancellor's Snowden's."

HITS SOCIAL SELFISHNESS.

Professor Harlow Urges Northfield Conference Girls to Banish It.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST NORTHFIELD, Mass., June 25.—Expressing the hope that the girls at the Northfield Conference are being fitted to revolt against a selfish environment, Professor Ralph Harlow of Smith College appealed to them today to wield their power "to set aright vexing social problems."

"The acquisitive spirit which is abroad in its self-centred aspects Jesus denounced in his day, and he would do it now," he said.

"War, race prejudice and industrial difficulties all can be traced to the motive of possession," he continued.

"Although the basic human instincts cannot be changed, human attitudes can be altered. The message of the heart of the gospel assumes that people are ends in themselves and not means to an end. The supreme motive should not be profit but service."

Belgian Will Seek to Reach 50,000 Feet in Balloon Flight

By The Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, June 25.—The attainment of a height of 50,000 feet in a balloon is the ambition of Professor Picard of Brussels University, who is leaving for Augsburg, Germany, to make the attempt.

The professor will use a balloon of special design with a capacity on the ground of 6,000 cubic feet, gradually increasing to 42,000 cubic feet. The balloon is provided with an airtight aluminum cabin.

The professor intends to measure cosmic radiation, ionization of the air and the electrostatic field at the highest attainable elevation.

HIGHAM ARRIVES, ASSAILS NEW TARIFF

British Advertising Expert Says It Will Impede Europe in Paying Its Debts.

SEES LABOR PARTY WEAKER

He Predicts Return of Conservatives Next Year—Finds Economic Improvement in England.

Sir Charles Higham, British advertising expert, who was born in this country and is a veteran of the Spanish-American War, arrived yesterday on the Leviathan, for the first time, on a holiday.

Sir Charles said he believed the Labor party, because of its inactivity, will be supplanted next year by the Tories. He predicted also that a high protective tariff will be enacted, and that the unemployment problem will be solved within the next year.

The United States, he declared, was making a mistake in passing the new tariff, because its customers, the European nations, will be unable to pay their debts unless they can trade advantageously with America. The prime principle of business as taught by the United States, Sir Charles said, was that of keeping customers happy.

"By passing the new tariff," he asked, "is America following its own precept of keeping the customer happy?"

England to Supply Own Needs.

Another serious angle to the new tariff schedules, he continued, was the fact that, with proper organization, England would be in a position within the next twenty years to supply all of its needs within its own boundaries, with the exception of wheat, which it will purchase from Argentina.

"No tariff," said Sir Charles, "will prevent nations from buying really needed products. However, the United States needs customers more than ever, because its production is outstripping its internal needs.

"To show that England is not in so bad a condition, one noted perfumery firm shows an increase of business of 58 per cent, and a camera concern shows a 400 per cent increase in business in England on its books this year. England, I believe, is at the turn of the tide—it is paying now about $4,000,000,000 in taxes, and no country can be in bad shape and pay that amount in taxes."

Sir Charles said newspaper advertising was still the dominant medium in both the United States and England. The rates per page were higher now in Great Britain than ever before, he said, and he gave it as his belief that the public appreciates an advertisement only when it has paid to look at it.

Doubts Value of Radio Advertising.

The day is far off, in his opinion, when advertising by radio will be a menace to the printed advertisement. The British Broadcasting Company, he added, does not permit the broadcasting of advertisements.

On his visit here, he said, he would write a series for The London Daily News-Chronicle on "America from the Salesman's Point of View." In England, Sir Charles said, there has been a gradual disappearance of small circulation newspapers; the papers with larger circulations have been found to pay best.

The Leviathan was navigated from the Ambrose Channel Lightship to her pier at the foot of West Forty-sixth Street yesterday by Captain Harold I. Cunningham, master of the ship, who also holds a New York and a Boston pilot's license, which he obtained when he was in the coastwise trade many years ago.

INSURANCE MAN INDICTED.

Agent Charged With $50,000 Frauds in Death Claims.

Harold J. Peterson, the St. George, S. I., insurance agent who was arrested last Thursday on a charge of issuing false death certificates through which the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company was defrauded out of between $35,000 and $50,000, was indicted on two counts today by the Richmond grand jury.

The indictment charges Peterson with having presented a false death claim to the company and collecting $400. The person named in the certificate, it was alleged, was James McCoy of Pleasant Plains and the beneficiary Miss Florence Hennan of Rossville. In presenting the case to the grand jury, District Attorney Fach said that he had obtained evidence against Peterson in twenty-nine other life insurance claim cases.

Among the witnesses before the grand jury today were McCoy and Miss Hennan. Peterson, at the time of his arrest, according to Mr. Fach, admitted collecting the insurance on McCoy and also that he forged the name of Miss Hennan.

INSISTS ON SENATE SPEEDING TREATY

Hoover Is Cold to All Efforts of Senators to Postpone Special Session.

GETS ASSURANCE OF BORAH

Opponents Plan Fight to Change Clauses of Compact, Classifying Cruisers by Armament.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The Senate will debate and vote on the London naval treaty in a special session, which will convene within a few days of the adjournment of Congress. Regardless of "round robins" or other protests from Senators who would like to see action postponed until after the November elections, this is the situation tonight, and there is not a sign that the program will be changed.

The President, it was said, is determined to bring the treaty issue to a head with the least possible delay, and he was assured today that a large majority of the Senate is behind him.

Senator Borah, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, again assured the President today that he favored action on the treaty at the earliest possible moment, whether in regular or in special session, and that a vote of ratification will be reached after a debate of a week or ten days.

The opposition group, led by Senators Johnson, Moses, Robinson of Indiana, Hale and McKellar, continue their activity against ratification and will seek to bring about an adjournment of the special session before a vote is reached on the treaty. Senator Moses and Senator Watson, the majority leader, had a long conference this afternoon, in which, it is understood, Senator Watson urged Mr. Moses to ease down in his opposition to ratification. Mr. Moses, it was said, declared that his mind was made up and he would stand and fight with the opposition to the end.

For the first time in weeks the treaty was mentioned on the floor of the Senate today when Mr. Johnson, in a debate as to the order in which pending legislation should be taken up, took advantage of an opening to refer to the administration's program for speedy ratification of the treaty.

"There is," Mr. Johnson said, "a God-given instrument, a sacrosanct document, to be delivered to us for consideration in special session. I refer to the London naval treaty. So let us dispose of our own business before we go ahead with that which we are ordered to consider. Why dribble over little things when we are marooned here in the Summer heat anyway?"

The comment of the Californian went without answer from the treaty camp. Mr. Johnson is preparing a statement in which he will detail the position of the opposition to ratification. Mr. Moses may also issue a statement giving his views of the action of the Foreign Relations Committee in reporting the treaty.

In a radio address urging defeat of the treaty delivered tonight over the National Broadcasting Company's chain, Senator McKellar of Tennessee declared that "if it were not for the fact that Senators Reed of Pennsylvania and Robinson of Arkansas helped to negotiate this treaty there would not be a corporal's guard in the Senate in favor of it."

The treaty, if signed, Senator McKellar said, will work "to the great injury" of the United States. It is the duty of the President and Congress, he said, to follow the advice of the officers of the navy as to the best kinds of ships and guns for the national defense. That was the position, he said, taken by President Coolidge at the time of the Geneva conference.

Senator McKellar's speech was a reply to the one made by Senator Reed in defense of the treaty over the same network last week. He challenged the statements of Senator Reed as to parity under the treaty with Great Britain and the increased ratios which he said were granted to Japan.

"The London conference," Mr. McKellar continued, "was called for the purpose of bringing about parity in each of the several categories as between Great Britain and America. It does no such thing, but establishes a wider disparity than has existed heretofore.

"The only reduction of armaments in this treaty is a reduction in submarines and destroyers which America must make, and a slight reduction in battleships, and under the terms of that reduction America is prohibited from building battleships of the Rodney and Nelson class, and thereby Great Britain is given the absolute superiority in battleships."

Mr. McKellar declared that the treaty provided for "enormous naval building," which would cost the American people more than a billion dollars.

Opponents Draft Reservations.

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP).—Reservations are being drafted to be proposed to the naval treaty in the forthcoming debate in the Senate.

Opponents of ratification will concentrate their strength on a reservation declaring the treaty provision dividing cruisers into eight-inch and six-inch gun ships does not constitute a permanent surrender of the previous position by this country that it has the right to build any kind of cruisers adapted to American needs.

The Navy General Board, at the hearings before the Senate committee, protested vigorously against this provision. The navy has contended that the six-inch-gun cruisers favored by Great Britain are unadaptable to American fleet needs.

Two other reservations are contemplated. One would be a declaration that under the so-called "escape" or "escalator" clause this country would have the right to build the type of ships she desired if Great Britain or Japan decides that armaments by other countries force them to build beyond the terms of the treaty.

Another reservation under consideration would stipulate that under the replacement clause Great Britain would have the right to replace her six-inch-gun cruisers with ships only of that category. An exchange of notes among the powers agreeing to this construction of the treaty has taken place.

FOUR FELLED AS HEAT SENDS MERCURY TO 87

One in Party of Eight Boys Is Missing After Rowboat Upsets in the East River.

For the first time since its official arrival at 11:54 P. M. last Saturday, Summer yesterday emphasized its advent, felling four persons and sending the thermometer to a maximum temperature of 87 degrees at 5 P. M.

Fair and continued warm today, followed by thundershowers and cooler weather tonight, was forecast last night by the local Weather Bureau. The prediction also was for moderate west and southwest winds.

The heat victims, all of whom will recover, were George Huneke, 52 years old, of 860 Whitlock Avenue, the Bronx, overcome at Longwood and Garrison Avenues and taken to Lincoln Hospital; John Kushinsky, 34, of 525 Twenty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, who collapsed in front of 4 Grand Street, Manhattan, and was removed to Bellevue Hospital; Mary Hewitt, 50, of 88 Hunters Avenue, Long Island City, overcome at East Avenue and Tenth Street, Long Island City, and Joseph Igneri, 33, of 1,228 Thirty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, overcome at Forty-eighth Avenue and Ninety-third Street, Elmhurst. The two named last were treated at St. John's Hospital and sent home.

William Todak, 15 years old, of 401 East Forty-seventh Street, is missing, but the seven playmates with whom he ventured out into the East River in a rowboat were rescued after their boat capsized when it bumped into a barge tied to an East Forty-seventh Street pier.

The boys set out in the rowboat from East Forty-ninth Street. The tide carried them two blocks, and on the way they lost their oars. While the boys were trying to reach shore by paddling with their hands, the boat smashed into the barge, sending its occupants into the water. Todak was carried away by the tide.

Edward McCaffery, a dock worker, of 418 East Fifty-first Street, pulled to safety the following seven boys, all of whom could swim: Chester Barse, 15 years old, 799 First Avenue; William Weber, 15, 1,181 Second Avenue; William Malasko, 15, 39 East Fifty-second Street; Barney Ferince, 15, 336 East Forty-fifth Street; Tony Sahiplinkly, 16, address not given; Thomas Giratas, 17, of 350 East Forty-sixth Street, and Benjamin Skibar, 15, 336 East Forty-sixth Street.

Yesterday's temperature averaged 80 degrees, nine more than the normal of 71 for the date. The lowest temperature recorded was 73 degrees at 6 A. M. The humidity reached its maximum of 70 per cent at 8 A. M. Weather Bureau officials said the humidity did not reach unusual levels.

VATICAN STRESSES THE POPE'S ACTIVITY

Communique Emphasizes His Vigor, but Makes No Denial of Recent Illness Reports.

PONTIFF HAS BUSY MORNING

But Other Sources Assert Doctors Have Been Consulted and an Operation Discussed.

VATICAN CITY, June 25 (AP).—In the face of widespread reports that Pope Pius was suffering from an old bladder disorder the semi-official daily Vatican communiqué today stressed how active the Pontiff has been the last few days, although it made no denial that he was troubled by the disorder. Neither did it make formal admission that physicians had been consulted and that an operation was possible, as had been reported.

The communiqué instead cited ceremonies the Pope has attended lately and speeches he has pronounced as proof of his vigor, asserting that "Pius XI not only has changed nothing in his habitual régime of a life extraordinarily intense and full of occupations" but "in this last period has notably multiplied his activity."

Stressing that the Pope did not feel the least inconvenience from last Sunday's long function of canonization and apparently showed no sign of fatigue, the communiqué said all those close to the Pontiff at the end of the ceremony and when he returned to his apartments in the Vatican noted that he seemed even more fresh than in the morning when he descended into St. Peter's.

The document then recalled that on Monday, besides his regular routine of audiences with Cardinals and other prelates, Pope Pius received two pilgrimages, totaling 2,000 persons, speaking at length in each case.

In addition to those pilgrimages, the communiqué continued, the Pontiff received at least 300 persons in a collective audience, his official day not ending until 6:30 P. M.

Yesterday, the document says, the Pope gave audiences to 500 laymen collectively and then to 200 Filippini Sisters, speaking to the latter "with uncommon vivacity and joviality."

The document added that yesterday afternoon, before taking his accustomed walk in the Vatican gardens, the Pontiff visited the old apartment of the Vatican majordomo, now transformed into the office of the special administration of the Holy See, created after the Lateran treaties to care for funds paid by Italy in the execution of those accords.

Turning to this morning, the communiqué said Pope Pius began work at 8:30 A. M., receiving special reports from four prelates, and at 10 o'clock began regular audiences. He wound up the morning by receiving about 400 in collective audience.

Other sources said, however, that several Roman doctors had been consulted because of the possibility of a uremic crisis, and added that the possibility of an operation had been discussed.

The best informed ecclesiastics in Rome and Vatican City tonight were convinced that Pope Pius would round out the ceremonies of his prolonged jubilee year, ending on June 30, and carry on until the public consistory on July 3, before allowing himself a needed respite or treatment, no matter what discomfort he may now be suffering or what consulting physicians have advised.

The general belief is that the Pope's few trusted advisers will urge him to take a long rest immediately after July 3 and profit by his new-found freedom under the Lateran treaty by spending the rest of the Summer in the Papal Summer palace at Castel, Gandolfo, aboard a yacht or in the spiritual retreat of the mother house of the Benedictine order on the cool heights of Monte Cassino.

HIRST IN NEW DISPUTE.

Bans Voting Rights by 3 British General Electric Shareholders.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—Sir Hugo Hirst, millionaire head of the General Electric Company of Britain, Ltd., joined the issue today in another financial war, this time in connection with shareholders' voting rights for the re-election of directors to this huge undertaking.

In March of last year Sir Hugo lost a protracted fight with American shareholders, who he feared were endeavoring to obtain control of the company, and abandoned the issue of ordinary shares to British shareholders only.

His new opponents are Sir Edwin Cornwell, Lord Middleton and Sir William Burton, who between them hold 750,000 General Electric shares worth almost $10,000,000, and at a general meeting today he refused their request to exercise voting rights.

The rules of the company contain restrictions on voting powers originally instituted to prevent foreign shareholders from obtaining control. Sir Hugo said there was no reflection on the shareholders' good faith, but it is understood the trio is seeking legal advice. The developments are expected to have important repercussions in other companies where a similar policy has been followed.

AIDS PORTO RICAN CHILDREN

Col. Roosevelt Pleads for Them at Golden Rule Dinner Here.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Governor of Porto Rico, was the principal speaker last night at the semi-annual dinner of the Golden Rule Foundation at the Metropolitan Club. The foundation has started a world-wide child welfare program, which was explained in addresses by Charles V. Vickrey and Dr. John R. Voris. Colonel Roosevelt made a plea for the undernourished children of Porto Rico on whom the foundation is expending a considerable part of its effort in the world-wide program.

During the first year of the work of the foundation, total receipts were $160,803.60, it was reported by the survey committee. Approximately one-third of this total was allocated to Porto Rico, lesser amounts being allocated to China Child Welfare, Inc., China Famine Relief, child relief in Europe, child migrant workers in the United States and work among Southern mountaineers.

GIANT POWER TUBE IS LOST OFF CUBA

$1,000,000 Pipe for Harnessing Gulf Stream Sinks 2,300 Feet in Ocean as Cables Part.

FAILURE CLAUDE'S SECOND

French Scientist Assured His Plan to Turn Current Into Steam for Generating Plant Is Feasible.

HAVANA, June 25 (AP).—The giant steel tube built by Professor Georges Claude, French scientist, in an effort to harness the Gulf Stream and to convert its waters into electrical energy, collapsed as it was being lowered into the ocean opposite Matanzas today and was lost.

Two great cables, which were intended to give the 1,800-meter (5,905-foot) steel tube sufficient tensile strength to withstand the strong undercurrents which prevail near the shore line, parted like bits of thread, and the tube broke away from its land moorings.

The tube had been floated out to sea, at right angles to the shore line, and expert native swimmers started opening the cocks in the 120 tanks of compressed air which kept it afloat.

As they opened the tanks at the extreme end of the tube, nearly a mile out to sea, that end started to sink. A terrific pull was placed on the two one-inch steel cables which ran the length of the tube and were fastened to shore.

Each cable possessed a tensile strength of 150,000 pounds per square inch, but one of them ripped loose and the end of the tube started swerving with the current. Then the other cable parted, and Professor Claude and his assistants saw the results of their handiwork slowly submerge into 700 meters [about 2,300 feet] of water.

The tube had been built with infinite care. It was constructed of heavy corrugated steel sheets, insulated against heat by canvas and packing, and solidly riveted and welded at the joints.

It had an inside diameter of 1.7 meters [about 67 inches], and was calculated to be large enough to furnish twenty times the volume of cold sea water Professor Claude deemed would be necessary to condense the steam he intended to produce by submitting water of warmer temperature to a vacuum.

Three months of hard work on the part of Professor Claude, his chief assistant, Dr. Enrique Daime of Paris, and more than 100 laborers had been devoted to its completion. The estimated value of the tube was in excess of $1,000,000.

The scientist, in whose inventions more than $150,000,000 in American capital have been invested, hoped to be able to revolutionize industry with his project.

NORTHERNERS SEIZE SHANTUNG CAPITAL

Yen's Forces Enter Tsinanfu as the Nanking Leader Retires With 14 Troop Trains.

CHANG TO AID THE REBELS

Reports Say Mukden Fleet Will Take Over Tsingtao—Kwangsi Army Makes Gain.

By HALLETT ABEND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, June 25.—Tsinanfu, the capital of Shantung, was captured by General Yen Hsi-shan's troops this morning, General Han Fu-chu, Nanking adherent, retiring eastward with fourteen trains of troops. There was no fighting nearer than three miles of the city walls.

This capture is of supreme importance, cutting Nanking's railway access to the Tientsin area and creating a new customs crisis, for the fall of the rest of Shantung to the Northern coalition is merely a matter of days.

Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang is reported to be in sympathy with the Northerners, and it is said his fleet will take over Tsingtao, presumably to administer the customs on behalf of Mukden, a condition being that Shi Yu-san shall be made Governor of Shantung, Shi Yu-san being a native of Kirin Province.

Cholera Outbreak at Front.

The Kwangsi army is victorious in Southern Hunan, having disarmed a portion of the Nanking division. General Chang Fa-kwei has captured Kaoan and is advancing on Nanchang. The "Red Spears" are overrunning a great portion of Shantung, denuded of troops, and are powerful enough to afford a serious problem as to who will be victorious there.

Conditions on the front are complicated by an outbreak of cholera, and the sanitation and concentration camps and many hospitals are endangered by the widespread plague.

The growing Chinese opposition to the sale of the Shanghai Mutual Telephone Company to the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, which is due for consummation by the stockholders' vote on Friday, culminated today at a meeting of many representative Chinese associations. Resolutions were passed urging all the Chinese shareholders not to attend Friday's meeting. Simultaneously a telegram was dispatched to Dr. C. T. Wang, Nanking Foreign Minister, protesting against "the proposed illegal action of the foreign stockholders."

The Chinese taxpayers in the International Settlement circularized the Chinese Ratepayers' Association advising the payment of only a 14 and not a 16 per cent municipal tax.

Wang Pei-chung, Minister of Communications, is leading the Nanking opposition to the sale of the telephone company, particularly to the proposed forty-year franchise, which is termed an infringement of Chinese sovereignty.

Nanking Claims Victories.

SHANGHAI, June 25 (AP).—Northern rebels crossed the Yellow River today and captured Tsinanfu, capital of Shantung, but in other sectors of China's war fronts the Nanking Government claimed victories.

Whether the capture of Tsinanfu was attended by severe fighting was uncertain. It was widely reported, however, that hospital facilities in several towns were crowded with 50,000 to 100,000 wounded Nationalists. Foreigners were not molested. Fearing trouble, many had gone to Tsingtao and those who remained were concentrated in places of safety.

Nanking advices said President Chiang Kai-shek had ordered government forces of the Haichow-Tungkwan Railway front to intensify their drive toward Kaifeng, the Honan capital.

In two days, it was reported in Nanking circles, the government troops had virtually swept the rebels from the sector running from Kweiteh to midway between Lanfeng and Kaifeng. Contrary claims were made by the Northerners. Nanking circles admitted things had looked dark for the government before the new drive. They emphasized, however, that Nanking was concentrating men and supplies in the Honan sector in the hope of a decisive victory over the Northern war lords.

Persons returning from the battle zone said the Nanking facilities for the care of the wounded were inadequate. The authorities handled many cases of self-wounded soldiers seeking escape from the battle lines. Many of these were in an ugly mood. When a doctor at Nanking attempted to treat the hand of one of these men the soldier became enraged, seized a meat chopper and attempted to murder the physician.

FRENCH HAIL STRENGTH OF EUROPE'S ANTI-DRYS

Budapest Congress Condemned Prohibition as Conducive to 'Immorality and Fraud.'

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 25.—The French delegates to the anti-prohibition congress held at Budapest returned here encouraged by the solidarity of the European nations opposing the movement against wines and beers. The organization was founded in 1920 by Count Bertrand de Mun to combat the American prohibition movement, and it now includes a large membership from all the European nations.

The resolutions passed this year condemn the results of American prohibition as conducive to "immorality, fraud and corruption," and as closing the market to wine producing countries.

In France there is now being widely circulated the scientific treatise presented to the Budapest congress by Dr. H. Delaunay and Dr. G. Portmann of the Faculty of Medicine at Bordeaux, in which detailed researches are described in support of Pasteur's famous statement, "Wine is the most rational and most hygienic of beverages." The pamphlet takes up the medical arguments against alcoholic drinks one by one and seeks to refute them by means of scientific experiments.

It ultimately reaches the following conclusions: Wine, like all fermented beverages, contains vitamines. Wine is antiseptic. Wine possesses radioactivity, and also facilitates digestion and aids nutrition.

The circular closes by quoting Professor Starling as saying: "Wine, taken with the principal meal after daily labor, forms part of the benefits of civilization, just as do clean clothes, flowers on the table, the heating of houses in Winter and sympathetic company. It represents the aim which civilized man is striving for to render his daily meal more enjoyable and aids him to recuperate from his daily exertions."

URGES AMERICAN PROTEST.

Indian Daily Mail Warns Against Submission in Keithan Incident.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOMBAY, June 25.—The Indian Daily Mail, a Liberal organ and a critic of the provincial governors, comments tonight on the demand of the Governor of Madras for a repudiation of the alleged Ghandist activities of the Rev. Ralph Keithan, erstwhile member of the American Christian mission at Madura, Madras.

"If the American mission takes this insult lying down," the Mail declares, "it will forfeit general respect.

"With the deepest respect for Sir George Stanley and the members of his government, this latest manifestation of frightfulness is just pure unmitigated impertinence. Since when has it become a crime to give hospitality to an Englishman who sympathizes with and is a friend of Gandhi?"

BOYCOTT OF PARLEY URGED UPON INDIANS

Pandit Malaviya Pleads for Aloofness, Pending a Pledge to Discuss Dominion Status.

PUNJAB SOCIETIES BANNED

Government Proscription Affects Many Congress Groups and Lahore Workers' College.

BOMBAY, June 25 (AP).—A boycott of the forthcoming round-table conference on India's political status today was urged upon Nationalist followers of Mahatma Gandhi by Pandit Malaviya, an outstanding Congress leader.

In a fiery address before a great meeting in Delhi, Pandit Malaviya told the civil resistance volunteers to go forward with their program. He commanded them to intensify the ban on foreign goods and to have nothing to do with the round-table conference unless discussion of immediate full dominion status for India was assured in advance.

The Nationalist leader said the conference must be held in Delhi, not in London.

Pandit Malaviya's address was typical of the violent reception of the Simon commission report, which continued in native circles throughout India today. Bombay and Calcutta were particularly agitated. The newspapers kept up their dire predictions of an impending crisis which, the prediction was made by the Simla Herald, could be averted only by action of the Viceroy or the home government.

Britain, the newspaper said, must make a bold declaration that the round-table conference would not be bound to the Simon report findings but would be consistent with the declaration of the Viceroy, Lord Irwin, last November regarding a dominion status.

Several of the largest and most influential native organization in India today were put under ban by the Punjab Government.

On the ground that they were interfering with the maintenance of law and order and endangering the public peace under the criminal law amendment of the act of 1908, the Punjab provincial "war council," the Amritsar district "war council" and the Punjab provincial satyagraha [civil disobedience] committee were declared unlawful.

Also included in the order were the Naujawan Bharat Society of the Punjab, the Provincial Naujawan Bharat Sabha Committee, all of the Nuajawan Bharat Sabha organizations throughout the Punjab, and the Workers' Training College at Lahore.

The Congress party decided to carry on its activities as usual, in defiance of the government notification.

The Simon report appeared to have no friends at all among the Indians, excepting in circles where almost any proposals might have been supported. Even there no prominent man yet had come forward to express that support publicly.

Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, official leader of the Liberals, and Sir Ramaswami Iyer joined the chorus of dissatisfaction against the report.

The country passed a quiet day, with notable improvements in the Northwest Frontier Province, where the Haji of Turangzai's Afridis definitely seemed to have been dispersed.

A military column today surrounded a village in the "Red Shirt" area and arrested thirteen leaders.

SIMON DEFENDS PLAN IN A RADIO ADDRESS

Declares Proposals for India Take Account of Immensity and Variety of Problems.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—Sir John Simon, chairman of the Indian Statutory Commission, tonight answered the advocates of dominion status by insisting India's new constitution could not be "a mere imitation at second hand of a system prevailing in different circumstances elsewhere."

"It must take a form suited to the immensity and variety of India," he said in a broadcast explanation of his report, "and must be shaped by providing for the needs and circumstances of India's many peoples.

"This is the real lesson to be drawn from the analogy of the dominions. The great self-governing dominions of the crown have each grown to be what they are by going through a process, and in every case the ultimate form of government has been a result of natural growths. In many cases it has been evolved as an ultimate coming together of smaller units into a greater confederated whole.

In no single case does a constitution in the British Empire lay down law that the government must rule by a Parliamentary majority. These things have come about not because an act of Parliament says so, but because in the life of a growing organism a stage has been reached where it has been found this was the best way in which to express the responsibilities of citizenship."

The new Indian Constitution, Sir John declared, must consist of definite provisions covering the whole ground, must aim at the development of self-governing institutions, protect the rights of minorities, take due account of all classes including "the unseen and unheard masses of India," and grapple effectively with the difficulties of law and order and Indian defense.

Sir John Simon's address was rebroadcast in this country by the National Broadcasting Company through Stations WEAF and WJZ.

COOPERATIVE NEWS URGED FOR EMPIRE

Imperial Press Conference for Exchange by Newspapers in All Parts of World.

CENTRAL BUREAU PROPOSED

But Some Delegates Argue the Scheme Would Involve a Loss of Individuality.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—The first steps for what is described as a "mutual interchange of news by radio and cable between the component parts of the British Empire" were taken at the conference of the Imperial Press conference here today.

The idea emanated from E. Norman Smith, one of the Canadian delegates, whose suggestion was approved in principle. Doubtless before long some sort of scheme for an exchange of a kind of "standardized news reports" will be hammered out, though its actual adoption seems to belong to the far distant future.

Mr. Smith explained he thought it desirable, for instance, that the various units of the Empire should receive from India at present information of what was going on from an organization of newspapers in India, whose reports would be "as authentic and impartial and thorough as similar reports from organizations of the Canadian Press."

The Canadian Press, Mr. Smith said, did not export news to the British Empire. The news went, he explained, through other channels, which might suppress, enlarge and consciously or unconsciously discolor it.

"It is excellent to rely on special correspondents," he added, "but there are special correspondents I am not sure I would care to trust."

The main objection to the scheme, as some delegates foresaw, was that if the empire took all its news from one central organization it would mean a loss of individuality. Australia, for instance, as one delegate said, wanted its own news service, but all the Australian delegates were not agreed on this point.

Theodore Fink of Melbourne supported the idea of a constant, frequent and full interchange of news between the parts of the empire. "Australia," he said, "would welcome any practical means of increasing knowledge." But he did not commit himself to any definite scheme.

In other quarters it was held that if the proposed news service could be put into practical shape, it would do more to solidify the empire than anything else suggested.

LONDON, June 25 (Canadian Press).—After the Imperial Press Conference today had voted its approval of the resolution favoring an interchange of news between the component parts of the empire, B. C. Nicholas of The Victoria Times moved a further resolution that the communications committee be authorized to investigate and report upon the feasibility of cooperative news distribution for the empire. There was considerable opposition to the Nicholas resolution, however, and Mr. Nicholas did not press it.

During the morning discussion, J. F. B. Livesay, General Manager of the Canadian Press, submitted a tentative scheme for the creation of a British Empire press association. The scheme suggested the establishment of national cooperative news services in the various units of the empire, with a central office in London through which the national units could exchange empire news.

OPENS JEWISH CASE ON WAILING WALL

Eliash Scores Moslem Stand at Jerusalem Session of International Body.

HISTORIC CLAIMS TRACED

Adler's Memorandum Shows Jewish Link With Wall From Temple of Solomon.

ASKS ACCESS FOR PRAYER

Statement Says Plea Is Based on Uses Never Denied Within 1,200 Years.

JERUSALEM, June 25 (AP).—A memorandum tracing the historical connection of the Jewish people with the Wailing Wall—a source of contention between the Jews and Moslems in Palestine—from the destruction of the Temple of Solomon, of which it is a vestige, to the present day, was submitted today to the International Wailing Wall Commission at its first public sitting. The commission is here to investigate the Moslem and Jewish claims to the wall.

Prepared by Dr. Cyrus Adler, president of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America and of the American Jewish Committee, the 100-page memorandum was presented on behalf of the Jewish Agency, the Jewish National Council and the United Rabbis.

The session, as described by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, opened with an address by Dr. Mordecai Eliash, chief of the Jewish counsel, who criticized the Moslems' move in claiming that the Jews had no rights at the Wailing Wall.

When Dr Eliash began speaking, there were present in the room white-turbaned Moslem scholars, prominent Arabic advocates from Damascus and local Moslem leaders, in addition to the Moslem lawyers.

On the Jewish side sat Colonel Frederick Kisch, Rabbi Meer Berlin, Ben Zvi, David Yellin and Rabbi Blau. The four seats assigned to the representatives of the Jewish public were occupied by Dr. Judah L. Magnes, Herbert Bentwich, Solomon Horowitz and M. Enda.

Urges Right of Access to Wall.

On the desk of the commissioners were copies of the British White Paper of November, 1928, dealing with the Wailing Wall, the Koran, the Scriptures and the report of the Palestine Inquiry Commission.

A proposal that the Moslem Supreme Council should vacate the properties now occupied by the Mughrabi Wakf along the approach to the Wailing Wall and accept, instead, new buildings of an equivalent size upon some eligible site in Jerusalem, was made in the memorandum prepared by Dr. Adler.

The memorandum, recognizing the peculiar sentiment attached to the Wakf, suggests that the ground be leased for a long term to the Palestine Government in order that it may be used for the purpose of prayer and that new property which the Jewish Agency should, through the government, provide for the House of the Poor, should equally be leased for the Wakf of the Mughrabi community.

Other suggestions made by the memorandum with regard to the Wailing Wall were that the commission should give recognition to the immemorial claim that the Wailing Wall is a holy place to the Jews and that the Jews should have the right of access to it for prayers to be conducted in accordance to their ritual in a decent and dignified manner, recognizing that the Wailing Wall is a holy place not only for the Jews who live in Jerusalem or Palestine, but for the Jews of the entire world. These requests, the statement says, are based upon immemorial uses which have never been denied within 1,200 or 1,300 years, except during the political and racial excitement.

Stresses Site as Holy Place.

Summarizing the first seventy-four pages of the document, the memorandum holds that the statements from the diverse sources covered made the following points quite clear:

1. "That through the ages and under all conditions the Jews regarded the site of the destroyed Temple as a holy place and that whenever opportunity offered they gathered in its neighborhood for prayers and lamentation.

2. "That these were actual gatherings for definite and formal services and not sporadic prayers of individuals.

3. "That as early as the third century, in literature, and as early as the tenth century, in definite reports of travelers, it appeared that of whatever remained of the Temple, the western wall, regarded in tradition and accepted by archaeologists as of Solomonic origin, was the particular holy place before which the Jews congregated. That aside from any other services which might have been in existence, since 1708 a printed form of prayers to be used before the western wall, a book of more than forty pages published at different times and in various countries has indicated that the wall was a place of pilgrimage for Jews outside the Holy Land as well as for the Jewish inhabitants of Palestine, who resorted to the wall with a regular order of prayers.

Holds Moslem Indifference.

4. "That, as the Jews in the Holy Land increased, the practice began of having regular daily services at the wall, with various religious appurtenances, and since the services were long, occupying from several hours to the entire day, depending upon the occasion, stones or chairs or benches were brought there from time to time for the convenience of the aged.

5. "That, as among all Orthodox Jews there was a separation of men and women at religious services, the women used to stand huddled in one corner of the alleyway and the men distributed themselves among the rest. When the services became long, a small screen or flat form of separation was set up to satisfy ritual requirements.

6. "That from the time of the Moslem conquest of Jerusalem and the building of the mosques on the temple area, with only slight interruptions, no objection was made by the Moslem community to prayer before the wall, although the usage was made the occasion of exactions of money by various authorized and unauthorized persons. No effort was made to keep the alley clean or the pavement in repair, in fact, the Moslem attitude was one of tolerant neglect and indifference."

For more recent events the memorandum referred to the "report of the commission on the Palestine disturbances of August, 1929," presented by the Secretary of State for the Colonies to Parliament, in March, 1930. This report said that "the Burak campaign (the term by which, for convenience, the activities of the several Moslem societies have been described) had at its origin two objectives. In part it was prompted by the desire to cause annoyance to the Jews; in part it was intended to mobilize Arab opinion in favor of the Moslem claims in connection with the Wailing Wall and its environs. The performance of the Zikr ceremony and the calling by the Muezzin in the neighborhood of the Wailing Wall were primarily designed to annoy the Jews. From this origin the campaign developed into something more serious."

Referring to the White Paper of November, 1928, Dr. Eliash said the Grand Mufti, the Moslem's religious leader, had accepted the White Paper and praised its impartiality. Questioning whether the Wall really was under the Moslem Wakf, the religious committee which holds Moslem religious property in trust, Dr. Eliash urged the commissioners to consider not merely the existing but the pre-existing rights. He insisted on Article XIII of the mandate, which guaranteed free access to the holy places, the free exercise of worships as well as the preservation of existing rights.

Dr. Eliash read British documents dating from the time of the British occupation of Palestine, which did not dispute Moslem ownership but respected the rights of Jewish worshipers.

He appealed to the commission to uphold the immemorial right to pray with dignity, decorum, veneration and respect.

Doctors Diagnose Heart-Beats By Argentine-Spanish Radio

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, June 25.—Heart pulsations and sounds made in the lungs by breathing were transmitted today from Buenos Aires to Madrid by radio-telephone with such clearness as to enable Spanish physicians in Madrid to diagnose diseases from which patients used in the experiment were suffering. The experiment lasted for an hour.

The heartbeats of several well persons also were sent to Spain. In every case the doctors telephoned back the condition of the heart and lungs heard.

The transmission was made over an ordinary commercial telephone circuit from an instrument recently invented by an Argentine surgeon which sends sounds from the heart and lungs greatly amplified through a loud-speaker and at the same time registers their intensity on a galvanometer.

POWER MEN END BERLIN CONGRESS

Next Plenary Session of World Conference to Take Place in United States in 1936.

SUCCESS OF PARLEY HAILED

Cheapening of Cost of Production Stressed as Aim—500 Papers Discussed in Ten Days.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 25.—The second World Power Conference adjourned this afternoon, to meet again somewhere in the United States in 1936.

After ten days of work in which nearly 500 papers were discussed by more than 4,000 delegates in thirty-four section meetings, the final plenary session, presided over by O. C. Merrill, chairman of the American committee and acting chairman of the International Executive Council, wound up the proceedings. It sent a telegram to President Hoover expressing appreciation for his message to the conference, which Ambassador Sackett read last Wednesday, and voted resolutions thanking the German and Prussian Governments, German industry and the German committee for the parts they played in making the conference "successful beyond our highest expectations."

Then Dr. Franz Zur Nedden of the German committee presented a report on the conference in which he said that the seven general addresses at the "national hours," such as those by Professor Albert Einstein, Professor Arthur Eddington, H. Foster Bain and Dr. Oskar Oliven had proved a happy innovation and had greatly assisted in disseminating the spirit of the conference among circles hitherto but remotely connected with it.

Announces Agreements.

Dr. Zur Nedden announced the formation of a subcommittee to examine the question of avoiding in the future quite such voluminous transactions as occupied the session, which he felt had been a little unwieldy. He stated an understanding had been reached with the International Commission of Large Dams and the International High Tension Conference whereby the World Power Conference could in future count on receiving reports from those organizations. He said that the executive council, in the matter of the proposed founding of a world engineering federation and a permanent world engineering congress, felt that such organizations would lead to duplication of activities and over-organization of international work.

An invitation from Sweden to hold the next sectional meeting in 1933 there was tentatively accepted. This section will be on the power supplies of big industrial undertakings.

Epitomizing the work of the conference Dr. Zur Nedden, in conclusion, said:

"The conference visualizes as a method whereby power may be cheapened the reduction of the cost of generating and distributing by the numerous methods of a technical and executive character which have been described at this meeting and further by an increase in the number of full load annual working hours of these plants."

Merrill Gives Statement.

After the close of the session, Mr. Merrill issued a statement summing up the impressions in which he said in part:

"The conference has revealed more clearly than ever before the fact that world interest in the use of power is progressively becoming a positive influence in binding nations together. Political frontiers and language barriers are no obstacles in the eyes of engineers and scientists. After six years in which we have held two plenary sessions and several sectional meetings we are convinced that this World Power Conference is just in the making.

This conference deals with tangibles—with economics, engineering and social problems which are common to all. It is a big meeting and must be kept international in flavor. The Berlin meeting has set a standard which is a very exalted mark for us to shoot at in America six years hence."

"I doubt seriously if there is another city in the world so well suited in all respects for such a conference as Berlin," declared Ely Hutchinson, a member of the American committee and the editor of the magazine Power. "The conference has been a six-ring circus to follow, the concurrent performances of which have baffled the mind and eye, yet there is much that is important and much that is tangible in this meeting as the interest and attendance proves."

Major J. S. S. Richardson of the American Committee said to the American Chamber of Commerce here at a luncheon today where he was guest of honor:

"Stress has been laid on the fact that beyond the mechanics of power supply lie social problems of great significance. Capital, labor and power are the big three which must pull together in the world, and give it an improved civilization better than any recorded in history."

Many of the American delegates are taking part in the various trips which have been organized for the next few days. To the industrial centres of Germany, such as the Rhineland, Baden, Saxony and the seaports, Hamburg and Bremen. Others are leaving either for home or for a short tour before returning to the United States.

EXPLAINS ROTARY FURNACE.

German Describes the Brakelsberg Method to Mines Congress at Liege.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LIEGE, Belgium, June 25.—The delegates to the Meins Congress here today were told of the Brakelsberg rotary furnace, which was said to produce iron of a quality superior to any previously known, although at a slightly greater cost. The furnace was described by a German delegate. He said the furnace was fed by pulverized fuel, the melting point being 1,700 degree Centigrade.

Many of the delegates who attended the special foundry conference decided to go to Düsseldorf tomorrow to see the furnace in operation.

As a result of the special foundry conferences, the delegates say, they have been unanimously convinced that the time has come to abandon all haphazard methods and adopt complete standardization.

The geological section of the congress is considering the merits of State surveying and prospecting, as compared with prospecting by private enterprise. Sir Albert Kitson, director general of surveying on the African Gold Coast, described how diamonds were first found on the Gold Coast by the British Government Survey Department in 1919. He said the 5 per cent export tax on diamonds last year had yielded a revenue of wore than $150,000, which easily paid for all the previous surveying. He said it had also been discovered that the Gold Coast has important deposits of bauxite, aluminum ore and manganese, and the British Government was considering using hydroelectrical power to develop the immense resources there.

The congress ends tomorrow.

Little Entente, Opening Parley, Decides to Do All Possible to Hinder Restoration.

BANS OFFENDING HUNGARY

Would Avoid Public Declarations of That Nature—Italy's Influence Over Other States Discussed.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, June 25.—The opening session of the Little Entente conference, which began today at Stribske Pleso, beside Lake Csorba, in the Tatra Mountains, was largely occupied, as had been expected, by the question of Hapsburg restoration plans for Archduke Otto in Hungary. It was not mentioned in the official communiqué, but it was admitted afterward by Czechoslovakia's Foreign Minister, Dr. Eduard Benes, that the matter had been under discussion.

The conference, it is understood, was at first divided regarding the attitude to be taken in the matter. Dr. Benes urged that any unnecessary sharpness of tone towards Hungary be avoided, while the Yugoslavian delegates demanded that the conference declare itself as unequivocably opposed to Hapsburg restoration. Finally, it is understood, the conference decided to take all possible steps to hinder the restoration but avoid any public declarations construable as offensive to Hungary.

Franco-Italian hostility was also discussed, with special reference to its bearing on Middle Europe. The visits of the Italian Foreign Secretary, Dino Grandhi, in Warsaw, Budapest and Vienna were mentioned and interpreted as a demonstration to the world of Italy's ability to exercise influence over those States.

The recent proposal for the formation of an agrarian bloc consisting of Jugoslavia, Rumania and Hungary was also mentioned. It has been generally supposed that such a bloc would be directed to a certain extent against Czechoslovakia, which imports farm products, but Foreign Minister Mironescu of Rumania stated that if the bloc were formed it would only be with the agreement of Czechoslovakia.

While the conference is very guarded in the tone of its communiqués, responsible Czechoslovakian newspapers are commenting freely and nervously on the Franco-Italian tension an dthe alleged Hapsburg restoration plans.

Much comment was caused by a statement today in the newspaper Vecer, the organ of Premier Urdzal and the Minister of War Dr. Viskovsky, that the danger of war in Middle Europe is far greater today than for ten years. The exchange of threats between France and Italy, military concentrations on the Franco-Italian frontiers, Italo-Yugoslav tension and the construction of mountain roads in Southern Austria, which, according to the paper, certainly could not be built at Austria's expense, were listed as signs that war is being prepared for.

Aristide Briand's PanEuropa plan will be discussed by the conference tomorrow. Your correspondent learns that while Dr. Benes will support the Briand memorandum at the conference he believes the economic union of Europe can be better developed through the League of Nations.

Dr. Benes declared in an interview that although a commercial treaty between Czechoslovakia and Rumania would be signed before the conference was concluded, he was somewhat skeptical about the immediate establishment of an economic Little Entente. Czechoslovakia, he declared, would like nothing better than to see friendly relations restored between France and Germany, a consummation that would go far to insure European peace and be especially important to Czechoslovakia.

BOLIVIAN TROOPS TAKE CITY IN COUP ATTEMPT

Rebel Regiment Holds Oruro, Naming Four Men for New Government.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, June 25 (AP).—An official communiqué said tonight that the Camacho regiment of troops in Oruro had taken over the city and that it was now cut off from the rest of the country.

In a telegram to the Prefect at La Paz the officers named four men as their choice to form a new government in Bolivia and asked for cooperation in the revolt.

The Council of Ministers issued the communiqué and said it had been conferring with General Kundt, commander-in-chief of the army, as to the action to be taken. The Ministers added that the movement was purely local, saying that military garrisons in other parts of the republic were firmly supporting the government.

It was said that the revolt began with the officers ordering their men out for an ostensible manoeuvre. Then they worked out their plans and named the four men—Albianco Galindo, José Lanza, Mariaca Pando Osnerio and Julio Sanjines—as their selections for a new administration.

The Council of Ministers is in charge of the government following the recent resignation of the President, Dr. Hernando Siles.

The importance of the movement was minimized in the communiqué.

BUENOS AIRES, June 25 (AP).—Dispatches from Arequipa to La Nacion today said that travelers returning from Bolivia told of police killing thirty-four persons Sunday after a joint demonstration of students and workers.

The travelers said some of the victims were women and children, and added that the bodies afterward were exhibited in the streets by demonstrators. The public was greatly excited, the travelers said, and other incidents were feared.

ONE KILLED, 17 HURT IN MOSCOW ACCIDENT

Truck Hits Cabs Taking Britons to Station, Then Plunges Into Crowd on Sidewalk.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, June 25.—In one of the worst traffic accidents in recent years in Moscow one person was killed and seventeen were injured on Sunday night, including a group of Britons homeward bound from Japan, who were riding in four small droshkies (two-seated victorias) to catch the 8 P. M. Warsaw train.

Hugh Malcolm, manager of the Rising Sun Petroleum Company at Yokohama, suffered a severe compound fracture of the left thigh; his 9-year-old daughter, Deirdre, had a broken collarbone and head injuries, and a 13-year-old boy named Leslie sustained severe concussion. Mrs. Leslie and Mrs. Malcolm escaped with shock and minor bruises.

The droshkies were about half way to the station, going in single file along the wide, asphalted Tverskaya Street, when, opposite the former English Club, now the Museum of the Revolution, a motor truck swerved and crashed into them head on. The driver and horse of the first cab, in which were Mr. Malcolm and his daughter, were crushed.

The truck driver, losing control, plowed through the crowd on the sidewalk. It is reported he and the friend beside him were intoxicated. Both men escaped serious injury. They were immediately arrested, and will be tried for aggravated manslaughter.

The injured Britons were rushed to the Botkin Hospital, on the outskirts of the city, where, according to the British Embassy, they are receiving the best treatment and care.

It was feared the Leslie boy would die last night, as he had not recovered consciousness, but he was reported to be slightly better this morning and there is hope of his recovery. His father, the manager of the Shanghai branch of the Rising Sun Company, remained in China, and the mother was taking the boy to England to have his ankle, which had been improperly set after a fracture, treated.

CALLS MALTA LOYAL TO RULE OF BRITAIN

Colonial Secretary Is Cheered by Lords as He Denies Pro-Italian Conspiracy.

LAYS DEADLOCK TO VATICAN

Passfield Says Acquiescence in Demand for Premier's Removal Would Be Intolerable.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—Lord Passfield, the Colonial Secretary, was loudly cheered in the House of Lords this afternoon when he declared that as far as the government was aware there was nothing like a conspiracy against British rule in Malta as a cause of the suspension of the constitution of the Mediterranean Islands, and denied that the Maltese people were other than loyal to the King and Queen.

"It is perfectly true," added Lord Passfield, "that there is in Malta what is called the pro-Italian party, but from my knowledge I can say that there always has been such a party. It is a party which wants to bring forward the Italian language. It is a cultural party. But if anyone has averred that there is a party in favor of the union of Malta with Italy, all I can say is that the Government has no sore of information on which to base such belief."

Lord Fitzalan, said the Prime Minister, Lord Strickland, "appears to have provoked trouble by his tactlessness and to be more to blame than the Vatican in precipitating the constitutional crisis," and excused the action of the ecclesiastical authorities to some extent by saying that circumstances were conceivable in which a warning that to support a certain politician would be a mortal sin might be justified.

Lord Passfield reminded the Lords that the Vatican had said no negotiations were possible as long as Lord Strickland remained in office.

"I need hardly dwell on the extremely objectionable character of a stipulation of that kind," he added. "It would be intolerable that any foreign potentate, even the Vatican, should say that it could not endure the presence in his Majesty's Government of any person whatsoever.

The government on its side has intimated that the resumption of negotiations must be conditional on orders being given by the Holy See to the Episcopal authorities in Malta and Gozo that would restore to the electorate complete freedom to exercise their political judgment. No government could stipulate for less."

Cheers followed the remark.

Lord Strickland, who was present during the debate, pressed for the publication of his correspondence with the Vatican, which, he said, "will show the real reason why ministers in Malta have been subjected to all these difficulties.

"The publication of these papers would make it still more difficult for the Vatican, for instance, to do what the government hopes it will do—withdraw the prohibition which the Roman Catholic bishops have issued or find some way of getting out of the deadlock," Lord Passfield replied.

The London Times said today that by Premier MacDonald's decision to suspend the constitution of Malta the government has "courageously broken the deadlock which had already in fact made constitutional government impossibl , and an interval of crown colony rule should insure the best conditions for removing some of the causes of the present tension between the Church and State."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MALTA, June 25.—The Court of Appeals today ruled that the Governor, Sir John du Cane had acted ultra vires in declaring the present crisis to be a "reserved matter" under the letters patent setting up the Constitution of Malta. The Court consequently ignored the recently enacted ordinance giving validity to the acts passed by the Maltese Legislature and declared Act 1 of 1929, which amended the Constitution by limiting the power of the Senate, to be null and void.

This ruling is considered to amount to a denial that any emergency exists to justify the Crown in having recourse to the letters patent establishing the Constitution or to that section constituting the office of Governor.

REICH WILL STUDY PROSPERITY PLAN

Federal Economic Council Is to Take Up Move to Lower Prices and Wages.

SHIFT FROM NEGOTIATIONS

Labor Heads Charge Industrialists Want to Force Pay Cuts Before Reduced Prices Are Available.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 25.—The negotiations which have been going on for several weeks between representatives of industrial organizations and officials of the trade unions on the question of price ranges and wage scales will now be transferred to the Federal Economic Council, where the subject will be discussed before an official forum comprising practically every department of production and consumption in the nation's economic organization.

While the conversations between the representatives of the employers and employes were the result of private initiative and were conducted informally across the conference table by a restricted number of participants, they have now reached a stage which demands a broader basis, and the movement, which purposes to achieve a national economic revival through lowering production costs and price levels generally, will shortly engage the attention of the Reich's economic parliament.

The decision to refer the issue to an authoritative body was largely influenced by the attitude of the labor union officials, who are charging the industrialists with a determination to force lower wages before the benefits of the general price leveling movement have been made available to the workers.

Announcement by Krupp's and other leading plants that their shop forces would be reduced and the recommendation of a wage cut by the directorate of the Federal Railways for more than 500,000 employes prompted officials of the labor federations to announce that "the psychological prerequisites for common action for the relief of German economy are at present lacking." It was thereupon mutually resolved that the issue should be discussed before the Reich's economic parliament, where the government will also will have an opportunity to participate in the deliberations.

The Federal Economic Council consists of representatives of all the economic, agricultural, commercial, industrial and banking interests, the municipalities and consumers' associations, women's organizations, the civil service and the professions. It is planned to begin the discussions in this setting at an early date.

SEVILLE SITUATION EASED.

More Than Half of Strikers Return to Work—Some Shops Reopen.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, June 25.—More than half the strikers returned to work in Seville this morning. While the police forced crowds in two parts of the city, using flat swords, no injuries were recorded.

Shops were reopened and some degree of normalcy was achieved, although large police detachments patroled the city. Arrests of ringleaders in the strike continue.

The primary consideration of the municipal government today was to keep the city supplied with milk and bread. Long bread lines formed in front of those bakeries which were open, and the police guarded the docks as four ships were unloaded. Many strikers are pawning their best clothes in order to buy necessities.

KING AND QUEEN SEE ST. PAUL'S RESTORED

Ride in State, Accompanied by Family, to Historic Cathedral for Thanksgiving Service.

ANCIENT RITUAL RE-ENACTED

Lord Mayor Meets Their Majesties at Temple Bar and Hands to His Sovereign the City's Sword.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—Glories of Sir Christopher Wren's St. Paul's Cathedral, hidden five years, were revealed in new splendor today when the King and Queen knelt amid a mighty gathering of their people attending a service of thanksgiving for the complete restoration of the edifice.

The King's visit was his first within the actual precincts of the city of London since his recent illness. Cheering throngs filled the flag-bedecked streets as his Majesty drove by in an open carriage with Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, Prince George and Princess Mary.

Beside the bronze griffin marking the city boundary at the Temple Bar, following an ancient custom, the King received from the Lord Mayor of London the pearl sword of the city in token of the loyalty of London's citizens.

Every rank of the nation's life was represented in the vast assembly within the great cathedral. The Bishop of London led the procession, with the King and Queen, beneath the dome of the golden cross. The congregation was extraordinarily representative, including 100 workmen who had participated in the work of restoration, some of them ever since the first repairs commenced seventeen years ago.

The small galleries over the west, south and north doors were filled with the mothers of present and former choristers and relatives of the cathedral officials. The seats in the nave were reserved for the subscribers to the restoration fund, but only a small proportion of the thousands who contributed were able to attend.

Dean Inge, magnificently robed, welcomed the distinguished congregation to the solemn service.

"I bid you welcome to our cathedral church of St. Paul on this day of its completed restoration," he said, "asking you to join me in earnest thanksgiving to Almighty God, Who has inspired and guided this work through the long years and now has brought it to an end."

Then came the blessing and an address by the Bishop of London, striking a note of thanksgiving in keeping with the occasion. The service concluded with a Te Deum, sung to a musical setting especially composed by Dr. Marchant, the cathedral organist.

The restoration, repairs and structural strengthening were skillfully carried out, simply emphasizing the original beauty of the edifice. The wall columns had an appearance of freshness. The sun, shining through the high windows, picked out the brightness of the Corinthian capitals and lighted upon the marble figures of the transept. Despite the vastness of the cathedral, it carried an impression of formidable restraint. St. Paul's has not been rebuilt or altered, but new youth and strength have been given to its old beauty.

LOSES SUIT IN PANAMA.

Ex-Medical Officer Fails to Get Damages From Newspaper.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA CITY, June 25.—The damage suit for $40,000 brought by Dr. Henry Goldthwaite, former American health officer of this city, against Nelson Rounsevell, publisher, and the Panama American Publishing Company for alleged libel and slander, was decided by Mayor Abel de la Lastra yesterday; Mr. Rounsevelt and the company being exonerated, but Pete Brennan, former editor of the Panama American, being fined $62.50 for alleged calumny and slander.

After a campaign by the Panama American against the administration of the health office under Dr. Goldthwaite, an investigation was made by Patrick J. Hurley, then Secretary of War, and Dr. Goldthwaite was transferred.

Mr. Brennan has appealed his fine. Several months ago he was jailed by Mayor de la Lastra without trial on a charge of having made a "laughing stock" of the Mayor. After spending a night in jail he was released upon representations made by the American Legation.

The defendants in the damage suit made no defense, contending the Mayor's Court had no jurisdiction.

REFORMED CHURCHES MARK BIRTH OF CREED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AUGSBURG, Germany, June 25.—The 400th anniversary of the first official recognition of Protestantism was celebrated today in the historic Church of the Bare Feet in an impressive service, the central feature of which was the reading, paragraph by paragraph, of the Augsburg Confession, the embodiment of Martin Luther's views, as presented to the Diet June 25, 1530, by the scholar Melanchthon.

German Evangelical churchmen from all parts of the country and a number of clergymen from twenty-four other nations, including the United States, Great Britain, France, Sweden and the Danube States, participated in a ceremony conducted by Dr. Kapler, president of the German Evangelical Churches' committee.

Dr. Kapler, in an address, dwelt especially on the debt of gratitude which he declared Protestantism in Germany and abroad owes to Luther's act in securing recognition of the Reformed faith. He said the event marked the conversion of a protesting group into the first Protestant communion.

The service closed with the singing by a choir of Luther's famous hymn, "Ein Feste Burg ist Unser Got" ["A Mighty Fortress Is Our God."]

PREDICTS AIRCRAFT WILL REPLACE CANAL

Panama Newspaper, Citing Aviation's Rise, Contrasts New York Times' Views in 1871 and Today.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALBOA, June 25.—In an editorial commenting on the progress and future of aviation The Star and Herald tomorrow will quote an editorial entitled "The New Flying Machines," published in THE NEW YORK TIMES fifty-nine years ago, and advances the opinion that, due to the progress of aviation, before the Panama Canal's present capacity is reached, methods of transportation will have changed almost completely.

THE TIMES editorial of June 25, 1871, said: "It is safe to disbelieve that any man will ever fly in the air until we see him do it." Then, after reciting failures, the editorial stated that new flying machines were "cast into the limbo of things despised and forgotten."

"THE TIMES was more conservative then than now. Not even Jules Verne, had he been on the staff of THE TIMES, could have conceived that that staid newspaper would within a few years be sponsoring trips in the despised flying machine across the Atlantic and over two poles. The world does seem to move."

CITY PLAN BILL WINS IN ESTIMATE BOARD

But Four Borough Presidents Vote Against It in First Break of Walker Regime.

SEE AUTONOMY CURTAILED

Fear Agency Proposed to Pass On and Unify Projects Will Stifle Initiative.

MAYOR CITES CIVIC CENTRE

Declares City Now Has No Body to Deal With It—Split Among Aldermen on Plan Held Possible.

Holding that Mayor Walker's city planning bill invades borough autonomy, four Borough Presidents caused the first open break in the Board of Estimate since the beginning of the Walker Administration yesterday by voting against the bill, which was passed by 10 votes to 6.

Borough President John A. Lynch of Richmond was the only one of the "five little Mayors," as Mayor Walker once called them, to cast his vote for the bill. The Mayor was supported by Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee and Controller Charles W. Berry with three votes each.

Borough President Henry Hesterberg of Brooklyn cast two votes against it, and two other votes in opposition were cast by Acting Borough President H. Warren Hubbard of Manhattan. Acting Borough President John J. Halleran of Queens and Acting Borough President William J. Flynn of the Bronx contributed one vote each to the opposition.

Following its passage in the Board of Estimate branch of the Municipal Assembly the bill goes to the Board of Aldermen branch on Tuesday for ratification.

Provides for New Department.

The city planning bill provides for the creation of a municipal department of city planning headed by a single commissioner. His duties include the preparation of a comprehensive master plan of the city, and his opinion on all matters of city planning is required before the Board of Estimate can act. Under the present system many public improvements are initiated by the five Borough Presidents and are brought into the Board of Estimate directly. The board refers them to its committee of the whole and its chief engineer for reports before taking final action.

Mr. Flynn made the only gesture toward a compromise between the two factions when he suggested two amendments to the bill designed to protect the present powers of the Borough Presidents.

"I would approve this bill if we could have just two amendments," Mr. Flynn said. "The first provides that 100 per cent local assessment matters should not be referred to the City Planning Department.

"We can't afford to stifle the initiative behind local improvements in a jungle of red tape. We don't propose to turn over the entire structure of the city government to a special commission. The people would defeat such a plan in referendum because they insist on the retention of local autonomy.

"My second amendment is that the Board of Estimate refer to the city planning body such matters as it now refers to its chief engineer after they are introduced by Borough Presidents."

Mayor Walker answered Mr. Flynn by pointing out the necessity for the new commission, saying that the present procedure of the Board made no one responsible for public improvements.

Mayor Sees Agency Needed.

"There is a big need for this agency," the Mayor said. "We have a suggestion for a new Municipal Building with no one ready to take it up. There is no city agency to treat with the Federal Government over the removal of its postoffice building from City Hall Park. When Mr. Rockefeller offered us a large park, there was no branch of the city government empowered to discuss the matter with him. Because we lacked a city planning commission, we were forced to employ Day & Zimmerman to make an exhaustive survey of the city and its prospective need of expansion."

While most of the speakers at the public hearing approved the bill in principle, several suggested modifications. Leonard Wallstein, counsel for the Citizens Union, said his organization would support the bill if it believed that it would accomplish a single improvement, adding that the bill accomplished nothing that was not already done by the board's chief engineer.

"This bill will not serve its intended purposes," Mr. Wallstein said. "It is a gesture of inadequacy and futility and will prove an obstacle to future progress. It gives no power to any one to do anything. There appears to be no authority given to the city planning commissioner that is not already exercised by the board's chief engineer. Why not enlarge his staff instead of creating an entirely new department? The Borough Presidents oppose it because they think their power will be usurped, but they are wrong in that belief. This bill will add to their prestige."

Jabez Dunningham, Queens civic worker, suggested that each Borough President be represented on the commission. Mayor Walker said that would put the commission into politics, a thing that he was trying to avoid.

Morgan J. O'Brien, chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Plan and Survey, expressed his approval of the bill, saying that more than 300 cities already had such agencies, while New York was standing still. George McAneny, president of the Regional Plan Association, denied that the bill was a futility, declaring that it would set up the necessary machinery for the eventual development of a comprehensive master plan. Rather than usurping any powers of the Borough Presidents, Mr. McAneny said, the new department would create new avenues for the use of existing authority.

Joseph M. Price of the City Club favored the measure, saying that it would equalize the present inequality of public improvements among the five boroughs. He suggested that three members serve on the commission instead of one, to permit broader points of view on city planning. Norman Thomas, former Socialist candidate for Mayor, appeared at the meeting with a statement recommending a five-man commission, three to be recommended from professional engineering and architectural societies. He also urged that the State Legislature be asked to give the commission more power after it had been organized.

Three-Man Board Proposed.

Miss Harriet Townsend of the Women's City Club said her organization approved the bill in principle, but believed the commission should contain three members, one the city's chief engineer. She pointed out that the bill called for three professional functions—that of architect, engineer and city planner. She also said the commission should be empowered to initiate new projects because of the expert character of its personnel, and that the bill should make specific provision for that function.

The three-man commission was favored by George D. Ford, general director of the regional plan, and the New York League of Women Voters. The East Side Chamber of Commerce approved the bill in its present form, and the Greater New York Taxpayers' Association took the same view. The Community Councils urged a five-man commission, with one representative from each borough.

After the hearing the board passed the bill by the narrow margin of one vote, since nine of the sixteen votes are required. Mayor Walker expressed his confidence that the Board of Aldermen branch of the Municipal Assembly would pass it on Tuesday, although there was some speculation at City Hall over the possibility of a split in the Democratic Aldermen. Theoretically, if the Aldermen from the various boroughs followed the action of their borough heads the board would split about even, leaving the decision in the hands of the four Republican Aldermen. The possibility that this will happen was considered very remote.

The Mayor said that no compromise plan that would meet the approval of the dissenting Borough Presidents had been suggested, except Mr. Flynn's. He declared he was committed to the one-man commission at present, because only one head was required to get the department under way. He said he hoped it would expand and made clear that other members would be added to the commission as the need for them became apparent.

Births Top Deaths in France For First 3 Months of 1930

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 25.—For the first time births in France have exceeded deaths, according to statistics for the first three months of 1930, issued today. The figures show more births and fewer deaths than for the same period in 1929.

For the first three months of this year the figures were: births, 188,756; deaths, 177,959. The 1929 figures for the same period were: births, 188,467; deaths, 258,672.

WHITE STAR EARNINGS DROP

Guarantor Is Forced to Advance Funds to Meet July 1 Dividend.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—Another shock to the shareholders of the Royal Mail shipping group, headed by Lord Kylsant, was the announcement today by the directors of the White Star Line that the half-year's profits are insufficient to pay the semi-annual dividend due July 1 on the preferred shares. It was stated the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, controlling the White Star Line, would provide under its guarantee the necessary funds to enable the dividend to be paid on its due rate.

This announcement came as a considerable surprise to financial circles, as it was not suspected the White Star earnings had fallen off so badly.

P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine Company at 1 Broadway, said yesterday that the failure to earn the dividend on the preferred shares of the White Star Line, Inc., would have no effect upon his company. He explained that the White Star Line, Inc., was a holding corporation and that all the shares in the oceanic Steam Navigation Company, operators of the White Star fleet which had been sold by the International Mercantile Marine Company to the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company for £7,000,000 sterling, had been placed in the hands of trustees as collateral for the payment of the remainder of the purchase money, £23,500,000 sterling, to his company for the White Star fleet.

IRISH RABBI HERE ON VISIT.

Says Dublin's Jewish People Are Active in City's Affairs.

Friendship between the Jewish people and the Irish is as common in Ireland as it is in New York, according to Rabbi Abraham Gudansky, senior rabbi of the Dublin Hebrew Congregation, who arrived from the Free State yesterday morning on the Leviathan for a six weeks' sojourn in this country.

This is the first visit to America in twenty-five years of the Irish rabbi, who is also dean of the Jewish residents of the National University in Dublin and whose congregation includes the major portion of Dublin's 4,000 Jewish inhabitants.

"The Jewish population of Dublin," he said, "enjoy the full rights and privileges of citizens of the city. They identify themselves with all the general needs of the community, their representatives are invited to attend the various State functions and they form an integral part of the State."

Rabbi Gudansky, who generally represents Dublin's five Hebrew congregations at the various city ceremonies, has been minister of the Dublin Hebrew Congregation for the past twenty-nine years. He was born in Vilna, Lithuania, fifty-five years ago.

URUGUAYAN BANK WINS LOAN

$4,000,000 Public Works Funds to Be Used to Balance Exchange.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MONTEVIDEO, June 25.—Four million dollars of the loan recently raised in New York for Uruguayan public works probably will be used temporarily in an effort to balance exchange. The govenment, after long consideration of the plea from the Bank of the Republic that the $4,000,000 be turned over to it for exchange operations, notified the bank this would upset the public works program but that the government was willing to lend this amount to the bank if it agreed to meet the New York interest payments and return the amount to the government upon demand.

The low exchange quotations of the Uruguayan peso are causing grave concern, and restriction of exchange operations has forced many Uruguayan buyers of exchange to purchase their drafts in Buenos Aires.

NEW CLUES FOUND TO QUEENS SLAYER

Police Hunt Man Who Tried to Send Three Threatening Telegrams Signed '3-X.'

PARK VAGRANT CLEARED

Woman Whose Clothing Was Set Afire Gets Menacing Note—Says It Was Thrown From Taxi.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney declared yesterday that detectives who have been hunting for the man who shot and killed two men in Queens have three good leads on which they are working, but declined to reveal the nature of the clues.

The commissioner said that the detectives have what now appears the most promising of all clues since they began the investigation of the shooting of Joseph Moyzynsky, College Point delicatessen dealer, and Noel Sowley, Brooklyn radio salesman.

Detectives, as well as postal inspectors, were at work yesterday and last night trying to locate an unidentified man who tried to send three threatening telegrams through the Jamaica office of the Western Union Telegraph Company. An employe of the company told the detectives that a man dictated over the telephone a telegram reading "You are next" and asked that it be signed with the cabalistic signature 3-X, which appears on the letters boasting of the killings now in the possession of the police. The detectives would not disclose the names and addresses to which the telegrams were addressed.

During the afternoon Mrs. Rebecca Hirsch, 35 years old, of 315 New York Avenue, Brooklyn, who on Monday night was tied to a post in her bedroom and her clothing set afire by a man who escaped, reported she received a letter threatening her with death. The letter was signed "Maniac" and had a drawing of a moon. Alongside were two X's.

Mrs. Hirsch reported that the note was thrown at her from a taxicab as she was walking on Nostrand Avenue, between President and Union Streets, Brooklyn.

Earlier in the day detectives from the West Sixty-eighth Street station in Manhattan seized in Riverside Park near Seventy-seventh Street a youth who described himself as Clarence James Pratt, 21 years old, of Chicago. He gave his address here as 847 Monroe Street, Brooklyn. The police found in his possession a notebook with several code words. On one line appeared the notation "3-X."

At the office of District Attorney Hallihan in Long Island City it was said Pratt did not answer the description of the killer of Moyzynsky. Pratt was brought to the Jamaica police station, where he was questioned at length by detectives.

Pratt told the detectives the code in the book was one he had used since childhood and was known only to one other person, Harry Johnson of 2,310 Farragut Avenue, Chicago, a boyhood chum. He was arraigned before Magistrate Rosenbluth in the west side court on a charge of vagrancy and held in $2,500 bail for a hearing tomorrow.

The arrest of Karl Weiss, 19, of Overton Avenue, Sayville, L. I., early yesterday morning in Patchogue, as he picked up an envelope supposed to contain $5,000 after a death threat had been received by Edward Jost, proprietor of the Sayville Laundry, was believed for a time to have been a promising lead in the investigation of the Queens murders. District Attorney Alexander G. Blue, after questioning Weiss, declared the latter was in no way connected with the two murders in Queens.

Weiss was held without bail for the action of the grand jury on a charge of blackmail.

WALKER LEADS AT MARBLES

Decatur (Ill.) Boy Scores 800 in Ocean City Eliminations.

Special to The New York Times.

OCEAN CITY, N. J., June 25.—Relieved by a partly cloudy sky and cooler weather, the pick of the nation's marble players again "knuckled" down to the ten-foot circles here today in the preliminary contests for entry into the finals. So close has been the scoring that Ralph Shuftleff, director of the tournament, said yesterday that it would be impossible to decide the winner until the very last minute of the three-day eliminations. This view was strengthened by the upsets of players today.

F. A. Walker Jr., 12 years old, of Decatur, Ill., led today with a score of 800. Last year's national champion was "Sonny" Albany of Philadelphia and it looked until today as if Philadelphia would not have a chance this year, but Winfield Hofmeister of the Quaker City, running up a score of 700, became a strong contender for first place.

Rural Society Asks Its Members to Refuse to Buy American Products.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, June 25.—The Argentine Rural Society, which for three years has been conducting an anti-American campaign under the slogan "Buy from those who buy from us," has addressed a circular to all its members throughout Argentina outlining the damage to Argentine interests which the society says will result from the new American tariff and urging its members individually and collectively to refrain from purchasing American products of any description.

The circular calls upon them to buy only Argentine products, and, in those cases where the desired product is not produced locally, to purchase from some country which does not "prohibit the entrance of Argentine products, as does the United States."

BRIAND SAYS ACCORD WITH ITALY IS NEAR

Foreign Minister Informs French Senate Group—Il Duce's Brother Hits at France.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 25.—Foreign Minister Aristide Briand today informed the French Senate Committee for Foreign Affairs that recent diplomatic conversations between France and Italy had undoubtedly brought the two countries nearer to a cordial understanding.

France's earnest desire, he said, for a lasting and complete accord with Italy should be realized in the very near future. As a result of the Quai D'Orsay's persistent exchanges of opinions with Premier Mussolini's Government, M. Briand intimated the way was now open for negotiations for a sound pact of amity.

France has repeatedly shown a conciliatory spirit toward her neighbor, he said.

MILAN, June 25 (AP).—Arnaldo Mussolini, brother of Il Duce, today in Popolo d'Italia, his newspaper, declares that Premier Mussolini had knowledge of France's military preparations when he made his speeches in May to the Fascist forces in Tuscany and Lombardy.

The speeches, therefore, were justified and "opportune," the article says.

"We can now understand why, although the Duce never talked of foreign peoples and governments, but alluded solely to men, parties and sects, the speeches created such a great impression in France."

"It was because in France alone live, prosper and organize the men, parties, groups and sects which regard sympathetically the eventuality of war against Fascist Italy," the article asserts.

"Now nobody in the world can have the colossal impudence," the article continues, "of believing that the gigantic programs of French armaments were in consequence of Mussolini's speeches in Leghorn, Florence and Milan.

"Today we know that those armaments already had been predisposed and financed early in 1929."

BRIDGE CEREMONY AUG. 26.

Col. Greene Sets Date for Opening New Poughkeepsie Structure.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 25 (AP).—Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, State Superintendent of Public Works, today inspected the mid-Hudson Vehicle Bridge under construction here, and set Aug. 26 as the date for the formal opening.

Tentative plans include addresses by Governor Roosevelt and former Governor Smith, and the cutting of the ribbons on either end of the bridge by Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Smith. The flooring of the bridge was being laid today, and indications were that it would be ready for traffic before the day of the formal opening.

fountains OF refreshment
ARE JUST AROUND THE CORNER

You get energy in a most refreshing form at your soda fountain

OF ALL American institutions, none is more popular than the soda fountain. The sprightly cold drinks, the stimulating hot beverages, the ices, parfaits, sundaes and candies served there, not only bring refreshment, but their sugar content supplies the system with quick energy and nourishment without taxing the digestive system.

A famous athletic trainer always permits his men to eat all the ice cream they want. A well-known physician in Philadelphia often advises business men who are his patients to drop in at a soda fountain in the late afternoon and drink a flavored milk shake. Fatigue and nervousness are overcome and dinner is eaten later with calm enjoyment.

Such indorsement of sugar should not be overlooked. Too often home diets are lacking in this important food. The use of sugar may help in overcoming loss of appetite and in promoting indirectly a more balanced and varied diet.

For example, try a dash of sugar in cooking vegetables. It will heighten their flavor and cause them to be eaten with more relish. A dash of sugar also improves the taste of meats. The sugar blending with the salt and meat juices creates a flavor that can't be described. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

SAYS EMOTION CURB STRAINS THE HEART

Dr. Mayo Before Doctors at Detroit Holds Suppression Brings Deterioration.

GAIN IN CANCER WAR TOLD

Dr. Soiland Says Only Surgery and Radiation Have Proved Effective as Treatments.

'SHOCK AFFECTS DIGESTION'

Dr. Moleen Declares Recognition of Mental Factor Would Obviate Many Operations.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

DETROIT, June 25.—The effect of the emotions and disturbances of the nervous system upon organic disease, notably diseases of the heart and the digestive tract, as well as upon the eyes, was emphasized at today's session of the convention of the American Medical Association.

One theory advanced by Dr. W. J. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., was that the immemorial belief in a relationship between the emotions and the heart has a basis in fact. Dr. Mayo declared there was ground for the assertion that stern control of the emotions, developed through educaiton, throws an extra strain on the heart and thus accounts for the deterioration of civilized man.

Calling attention to the fact that many surgeons die of heart disease, Dr. Mayo offered the explanation that surgeons practice a profession in which stern control of the emotions is constantly necessary, thus subjecting the heart to unusual strain. He raised the hope that surgery may some day evolve operative methods to check the tendency.

Emotions Called Hereditary

Dr. Mayo's support of the belief that education and the consequent strengthening of the reasoning functions over the emotions has a deletrious effect upon the heart came in the course of his discussion of the greater knowledge, achieved in the last fifteen years, of the character and functions of the suprarenal glands and the relation of these important glands to the parasympathetic nervous system.

"In the unconscious control of the autonomic functions through the sympathetic and the parasympathetic nerves and the related organs of interatcion one might imagine that the heart is still showing the effect of an early form of control by primitive emotional centres which existed long before the intellectual organs developed," Dr. Mayo said.

"Our emotions and capacity for acquiring knowledge are hereditary. Emotions may be said to be the outgrowth of those experiences which we call instincts in lower animals, reactions which existed before the development of true intellectual centres.

"Education adds to the store of knowledge as far as capacity exists and helps to control the emotions, but in this very control of emotions may lie danger to the heart.

"Plain muscle is unconscious and self-controlled; striaited muscle is under conscious control.

Relationship Began in Early Days.

"But the heart is composed of a primitive type of striaited muscle. Does this indicate an ancient form of control by unidentified emotional centres? Does the anatomically low origin of the vagus nerve indicate such a primitive cardiac function? Note the direct connection of the suprarenal glands with the sympathetic ganglions.

"In other words, does stern control of the emotions throw stress on the musculature of the heart and lead to degeneration of the muscle of the heart and to coronary disease?

"From the dawn of history to the present day," Dr. Mayo continued, "the heart as the seat of the emotions has been pictured in prose and poetry in every language, by the orator and by the layman, and has lost none of its appeal to the present day.

"Let us not be too scornful of an immemorial recognition of the emotion-heart phenomena, which may have a physical basis. A supreme relationship originated in the shadowy day when hunger, fear, love and hate ruled the early ancestral state, and the psychic influences of this relationship have lost none of their magic.

Cases of Surgeons Cited.

"Does this lead us to believe that, by further refinements of diagnosis in the hands of physicians familiar with the electro-cardiograph and other methods of precision, the surgeon will be enabled, in early cases of impending disease of the heart, to relieve the strain on the heart by division of nerve fibers or extirpation of sympathetic ganglions?"

Dr. Mayo found hope that this may be possible in the fact that in spasmodic constriction of the arteries, in Raynaud's disease, in Buerger's disease and other diseases, encouraging result shave been obtained by sympathetic ganglionectomy and trunk resection.

"It is noticeable," he declared, "that a common cause of death among surgeons is distress of the heart, especially coronary stenosis, coming on in the latter part of the sixth and the early part of the seventh decade.

"In all other respects the surgeon maintains his general health equal to others, and often post-mortem examination does not show evidence of other serious disease.

Clinical Observation Urged.

"The tendency to death from heart disease is not confined to surgeons, but is common among all men who live lives of stress, in which control of emotions is necessary."

Appealing for closer contact and cooperation between surgery and medicine, Dr. Mayo declared that the great advances in modern surgery have not only split the surgical profession into specialists in small fields, but they have caused surgeons to lose touch with general medicine.

Citing his discussion of heart disease as a consequence of man's progressive intellectualization, he declared that this problem, like others, should occupy the attention of clinical investigators, of experimentation and laboratory studies in which the surgeons may possibly aid in affecting their own salvation.

That mental or emotional shock is sometimes so severe as to provoke disturbances in the gastro-intestinal tract comparable to that of shock from other causes is a condition which deserves more study than it has received, Dr. George A. Moleen of Denver declared, while Dr. Cornelius C. Wholey of Pittsburgh said that mental factors play such an important part in physical disease as to be a menace to diagnosis and treatment.

Dr. Wholey supported his statement by describing cases showing how actual disease may arise from a background of hysteria, fabricated through hereditary and environmental influences.

In such cases, he said, the mental and emotional disturbances upset the normal functions of the sympathetic nervous system, which regulates secretion, circulation, digestion and respiration. If the upset persists too long, it is likely to become organic, Dr. Wholey declared.

In his discussion Dr. Moleen declared that in susceptible psychoneurotic persons, the secretions of the stomach, the liver and the pancreas are distinctly influenced and motor disturbances are frequent as well.

Pleading for adequate recognition of this psychoneurotic factor, Dr. Moleen declared that many operations could be avoided by careful study from this point of view. He cited cases in which persons suffering from what appeared to be surgical conditions had been relieved of their physical symptoms through relief of the mental distress.

Heart Disease Causes Listed.

Discussing the various causes of heart disease, Dr. James B. Herrick, heart specialist, of Chicago, declared that heart disease may be caused by infections such as rheumatic fever and syphilis; that it may result from derangement of the thyroid gland, from gastro-intestinal upsets, from drugs, tea, coffee and tobacco.

There is a group of heart diseases, he pointed out, associated with general systematic diseases such as arteriosclerosis, diabetes, nephritis and diseases of the respiratory tract.

Another group, Dr. Herrick said, develops from nervous disorders; others are congenital, in many cases more than one cause cannot be found, he declared.

It is important to determine the exact cause, he emphasized, for the outlook for the future and the subsequent treatment of such a case often depends on a knowledge of the multiplicity of causes with due emphasis on and an appreciation of the relative importance of each.

Cancer Treatments Limited.

Surgery, plus radiation from X-rays or radium, is the only means of treating cancer that has stood the test of time, Dr. Albert Soiland declared in a survey of cancer treatment.

Metals, serums and a host of other agents have clamored for recognition and have been found wanting. Through gradual improvement of the technic of surgery and radiation, the percentage of cancer cases that have remained cured for as long as five years without a recurrence has been raised from 10 to 40 per cent in the past forty years, Dr. Soiland asserted.

One of the worst abuses is the use of heat lamps, friction and other forms of heat on cancer patients by irregular practitioners, Dr. Soiland declared. He warned that heat or massage directed to a slowly growing cancer on the surface, where all the patient's protective mechanism is working to destroy the invading cancer cells, promotes local circulation, thus stimulating the abnormal cells and scattering them into the recesses of the body to form extensions of the original cancer.

Dr. Soiland concluded by urging a persistent educational campaign to inform the public at large how to prevent some forms of cancer and how to obtain treatment for it in its early stages.

Radio Therapy Is Praised.

Fully half the cases of cancer of the mouth can be cured by the proper use of what is known as the pure gamma radiation treatment, and as many as three-fourths of such cases will recover, if persons so afflicted can be taught to apply for treatment earlier, was the reassuring statement made by Dr. George E. Pfahlez of Philadelphia.

He reported on the results of 110 cases of mouth cancer treated by Dr. J. H. Vastine and himself within the last six years.

Radiotherapy or the use of X-rays in the treatment of disease has been found beneficial in many conditions in which it is not generally used, Dr. Arthur U. Desjardins of Rochester, Minn., reported. The value of the method has been amply proved by experiment and deserves to be better known, he said.

Boils, carbuncles and similar infections respond favorably to a light dose of X-rays if they are applied in the early stages.

Dr. Desjardins cited the reports of many physicians that the treatment may be invaluable in certain cases of pneumonia, in trachoma, in erysipelas, in inflammation of the partoid gland, in inflammation of the kidneys and in many other inflammatory conditions.

Diet as Epilepsy Treatment.

Eight years' experience with a special diet in the treatment of epilepsy in children was reported by Dr. Henry F. Helmholz and Dr. Haddow M. Keith of Rochester, Minn.

This diet, known as the detogenic diet, is especially high in fat and produces in the blood excessive amounts of a substance called ketone. It was first worked out by Dr. Russell M. Wilder, then of the Mayo Clinic, now of the University of Chicago.

Of 141 patients who kept faithfully to the diet, forty-three are cured, Dr. Helmholz stated; that is, they have not suffered epileptic attacks for periods varying from one to seven years. Thirty-two were definitely improved, sixty improved and sixty-six definitely did not improve.

Seventy-two other patients did not follow the diet consistently.

Some of those who were improved were able to return to a normal diet, though others suffered recurrences when they abandoned the ketogenic diet.

These results were obtained in cases of idiopathic epilepsy, that is, epilepsy not arising from another disease, Dr. Helmholz pointed out.

Eyestrain Laid to Neurosis.

Dr. George S. Derby of Boston declared that much so-called eyestrain is the result of a neurosis and not of any disease of the eye. This, he said, is particularly true in sensitive, highly organized persons.

The fact is, he said, the eye has a large margin of safety and that healthy eyes do not become diseased, even by excessive use.

"The world would be a much happier place if the general public could learn that healthy eyes are seldom strained," Dr. Derby declared.

He asked that ophthalmologists consider the psychologic factor in cases of eyestrain, asserting that too many glasses are changed, while the mental condition is ignored or even encouraged.

Gold Medal Given to R. R. Spencer.

The association today awarded its gold medal to R. R. Spencer of the United States Public Health Service for his work in the development of a vaccine against Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Dr. William Duane and Dr. Rubin M. Lewis of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School received the association silver medal for their discovery of a closed method for estimating physiological pressures.

The silver medal was awarded also to Dr. Cyprus Sturgess and Dr. Raphael Isaacs of the University of Michigan for their development of a powder from hog stomack considered superior to liver in the treatment of pernicious anemia. A paper on this discovery is to be presented to the convention.

Miner's Home Is Dynamited.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 25 (AP)—The home of Charles Girratane at Pittston was dynamited early today, presumably as a result of the refusal of Girratano and his son, Charles Jr., to adhere to strike orders issued by the general grievance committee of the Pittston company last Friday. Girratano's wife suffered from shock. None of the others was hurt.

Friedman Says He Was Aiding Insurance Investigator When Seized in $250,000 Raid.

GIVES ALIBI IN ROBBERY

Had Not Been in Florida for Two Years, He Replies to Indictment in Herman Case.

In demanding an inspection of the minutes of the grand jury which indicted him in the recent seizure of more than $250,000 in alleged stolen jewelry in a room in the Hotel Commodore, Alexander Friedman, 38 years old, of 218 West Eighteenth Street, declared in an affidavit to Judge Donnellan in General Sessions yesterday that he had been taken to the room by an investigator for an insurance company.

Friedman was arrested in the room with William O'Connor, George Cole, James W. Watson and Mrs. Hilda Carter. All were indicted for bringing stolen jewelry into this State. The jewelry included, it was charged, some stolen from Mrs. Hortense Herman of 470 West End Avenue several months before in a hotel in Palm Beach.

Friedman's affidavit said he had not been in Florida for two years prior to his arrest. He said that on the day of his arrest he met the insurance detective and agreed to go to the room to purchase jewelry with the insurance company's money.

This money, he declared, had been given to him by the detective ten minutes before the police raid on the room, but it was stipulated he was not to purchase any of the jewelry for his own use. Friedman added that he was only aiding the investigator in the matter.

Judge Donnellan announced he would take the motion for the inspection of the minutes under advisement and would give a decision later.

Robert C. Nelson of 2,123 Voorhees Avenue, Brooklyn, who was arrested the day following the raid on the hotel room on a similar charge, was held for the grand jury yesterday by Magistrate Simpson in the Tombs Court, following a hearing which lasted two weeks. Nelson was released in $10,000 bail, after his lawyer announced no defence evidence would be submitted before the magistrate.

Detectives reported at the time of Nelson's arrest that they had found about $500,000 in jewelry in Nelson's safe deposit boxes in banks in Manhattan and Brooklyn. They added that this jewelry was suspected of being the proceeds of several out-of-town hotel robberies. Nelson has denied that he knew the jewelry was stolen when he bought it.

The magistrate held Nelson on the specific charge of grand larceny in connection with the theft of a trunk containing 1,887 pieces of inexpensive jewelry from a railroad station at Columbus, Ohio, last Jan. 31. The jewelry was the property of Kohn & Co., jewelry manufacturers, of Newark, N. J., and had been left at the station by a salesman for the firm.

Felicitate France-American Society.

William D. Guthrie, president of the France-America Society, announced yesterday that its directors had adopted a resolution congratulating the Comité France Amerique of Paris on the celebration on June 30 of the twentieth anniversary of its foundation and expressing its appreciation of the service rendered by the Paris group to the cause of Franco-American friendship. The resolution also appointed a committee comprising James W. Gerard, chairman; Charles E. Sherrill, vice chairman; Perry Belmont, Albert Blum, John Flanagan, Harry Harkness Flagler and Adolph S. Ochs to attend the celebration in Paris.

SUES HUSBAND FOR PAY.

Queens Nurse Demands Salary for Work in Doctor's Office.

The question of whether a married woman who performs services for her husband other than housework is entitled to collect pay in cash for this extra work, or whether such service is to be considered as a part of the widespread duties of a wife, is the basis of a legal action in Queens City Court.

Mrs. Virginia Paine of Whitestone, a registered nurse, received several months ago a legal separation from her husband, Dr. Liston Paine of Flushing. Now she is suing her husband for $3,000 for "specific performance."

Mrs. Paine alleged that for three years she assisted her husband in his office in addition to her regular duties as a wife and home-maker, and that her husband promised her $25 a week, which he never paid her.

MELLON CHAMPIONS GERMAN BOND ISSUE

Secretary Assails McFadden Move to Bar Purchase of Securities by Banks.

THREAT TO FOREIGN TRADE

He Tells House Committee Plan Is Unsound as Interference With Private Capital.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Secretary Mellon, appearing before the House Banking and Currency Committee today, vigorously condemned the McFadden proposal to prohibit Federal Reserve national and State banks from buying German reparation bonds issued under the Young plan.

In the Senate today Senator Glass of Virginia offered a resolution to declare it to be the "sense of the Senate" that the State Department should "desist from the dangerous practice" of approving or disapproving foreign loans floated in this country.

Mr. Mellon told the House committee that the McFadden resolution was "meaningless" because Federal Reserve banks have no authority to buy such bonds as the German reparations issue, while national banks are limited to the purchase of "marketable" securities and State banks are governed by State law.

Government interference with private capital would not be "sound policy," Mr. Mellon declared, adding that "good, sound foreign bonds are beneficial to the country" because "the world is getting closer every day and international loans are essential to international trade."

Calls Resolution "Meaningless."

Mr. Mellon's statement was as follows:

"This resolution is designed to prohibit Federal Reserve Banks, national banks and State member banks of the Federal system from purchasing German reparation bonds or other certificates of indebtedness issued pursuant to the new plan for the settlement of the financial questions resulting from the World War as outlined in the agreement reached between certain signatory nations at The Hague on Jan. 20, 1930.

"Under present law Federal Reserve Banks have no authority to purchase bonds of this character. Consequently, the resolution is meaningless in so far as they are concerned.

"National banks, under the provisions of Section 5136 of the revised statutes as amended by the McFadden act of Feb. 25, 1927, are limited to buying marketable obligations in the form of bonds, notes or debentures commonly known as investment securities, under such further definition of that term as may, by regulation, be prescribed by the Controller of the Currency.

"The regulations issued by the Controller define the term 'marketable' as meaning that the security has such a market as to render sales at intrinsic values readily possible, the principal provisions of the regulations being:

"1. That the issue be of a sufficiently large total to make marketability possible; and

"2. Such a public distribution of the security must have been provided for or made in a manner to protect or insure the marketability of the issue.

An "Unsound" Restraint.

"The securities which may be purchased by State member banks are, of course, governed by State law.

"I believe both Congress and the Controller of the Currency showed sound judgment and wisdom in dealing with such legislation. They recognize that, while national banks are instrumentalities of the Federal Government, they are operated by private capital and by their officers and directors elected by their stockholders.

"The government does not undertake to manage the banks, and the wisdom of placing upon them the responsibility for their investments, with proper safeguards, cannot be questioned. There is, in my opinion, no more reason for Congress to say that a national bank should not purchase a reparation bond than to say that it should not purchase a specific railroad or industrial bond. To do so would place our government directly in the banks' management. It is unsound and unnecessary.

"To go further and tell a State member bank that, regardless of State law, it may not purchase a particular security is not consistent with my conception of our principles of government as established by the Constitution.

"It is not apparent to me that any good purpose would be served by the adoption of this resolution. In fact, I see no justification for it whatsoever.

"Against Public Policy."

"The statement in the preamble that purchases of these bonds by investors who are citizens of the United States, or by banks of the United States, would result in the intermingling of reparation payments with war debts is based evidently on a complete misconception of the situation. The settlements effected by the United States Government with its debtors are entirely independent of the settlement effected by Germany with its debtors.

"The United States Government is not a party to the Young plan. Neither in the past has it been, nor will it in the future be, responsible for the collection or distribution of reparation payments. The purchase by an American citizen or an American bank of a reparation bond cannot alter in any way our situation or policy in this respect. It is not apparent to me how the sale of a portion of this particular bond issue in the American market can affect our debt settlement policy any more than when a portion of the German external loan of 1924 was floated in this market.

"I am very definitely of the opinion that for the reasons above stated there is no occasion for the adoption of this resolution and that it would be against public policy to do so.

"I may add for the sake of accuracy that I know of no provision providing for the annual sale of German reparation bonds in the United States."

Mills Interposes Objections.

Ogden L. Mills, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, who accompanied Mr. Mellon to the Capitol, objected several times to the line of questioning pursued by some members, but Mr. Mellon made no objections, answering what he willed, in his own way, and quietly passing by the other questions.

Mr. Mills objected especially to the questions of Mr. McFadden relative to the relationship between the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the Bank for International Settlements, an institution to which the chairman is opposed. Mr. Mellon insisted that the fact that the New York bank acted as correspondent of the International Bank in no way implied a close relationship between the two.

"The Bank for International Settlements couldn't do business here without the New York bank's cooperation, could it?" asked Mr. McFadden.

"Perhaps not," said Mr. Mellon, 'but that does not involve the New York bank. It is simply a correspondent, and nothing more."

Glass Scores Stimson.

The Glass resolution followed a report to the Senate last week by Secretary Stimson. This was in reply to a previous resolution by Senator Glass, adopted by the Senate, calling on him to state his "lawful" authority for assuming the right to pass on foreign securities offered in the money markets of this country.

The resolution offered today would also put the Senate on record as of the opinion that the State Department should "refrain from assuming authority over the Federal Reserve Board and banks."

In his previous resolution Mr. Glass called on Mr. Stimson to state on what lawful authority the State Department attempted to control the policy of the Federal Reserve Board and Federal Reserve banks with respect to foreign banking business and foreign securities. Mr. Stimson replied that there was no foundation for assuming that the State Department had attempted to exercise such authority.

Mr. Glass contended today, however, that the State Department did attempt to exercise such authority, and declared that the explanation offered by Mr. Stimson for the Department's practice of passing on foreign securities was "an affront to the intelligence" of the Senate.

Mr. Stimson declared that authority for the practice was contained in the Constitution . Mr. Glass ridiculed this contention, and declared that unless the Department refrained from the practice he would offer a bill to make the practice a "penal offense."

Although in the first resolution Mr. Glass referred to statements that the Department had approved the flotation in this country of $100,000,000 German Reparations bonds, he declared today that his efforts were not directed particularly to the German bonds but to practice.

Mr. Glass will call up his resolution tomorrow.

Holds Ball Batted Into Stand Belongs to Boy Who Grabs It

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 25.—When Cub sluggers hit fouls into the bleachers or the grand stand the ball belongs to the boy who grabs it, Judge Allegretti held today when four boys were brought before him who had "snitched" a foul ball that Hack Wilson batted into the grand stand yesterday.

The judge listened gravely as Arthur Porto, 17, told how he had captured the ball and refused to turn it over to an usher when the ball park employe insisted that the Cubs could not afford to let the customers walk off with their baseballs.

He and three other youths had a fight with an usher. All were arrested for disorderly conduct, but the judge discharged them.

CAPITAL GAINS 4,500 IN CENSUS FIGURES

Total Population Approaches 490,000 Mark as Official Tabulation Proceeds.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Tabulation of returns in the 1930 census indicates that the population of Washington will be established near the 490,000 mark, or 4,500 in excess of the preliminary figure announced by J. Sterling Moran, census supervisor for the district.

The revised figure will have no effect on the rating of the national capital as the fourteenth city, a position it held in the last census.

The population as announced by Mr. Moran, after a preliminary check, was 485,716, an increase of 11 per cent in the last decade.

Announcement of the number of absentee voters residing in Washington, and their legal residences by States, awaits completion of the tabulation and is not expected to be made for several weeks.

NURSE, JOBLESS, ENDS LIFE.

Sister of Galena-Signal Oil Official Takes Poison in Hotel.

Rather than call upon relatives for assistance, Margery Craig Newell, 45 years old, a nurse out of employment, committed suicide by taking poison yesterday in her room on the fourth floor of the Hotel Albert, University Place and Eleventh Street.

She was found on the bed, dressed in slippers and lounging robe. Pillows were beneath her head and feet. On a table was a bottle containing the poison.

In the morning mail Mrs. Elizabeth Gardiner of 72 University Place, a friend of the nurse, had received a letter explaining the suicide. She notified the hotel immediately, but the woman was already dead.

In the hotel room was a note offering an apology to the hotel management and another note to Roy Craig, a brother of the dead woman. He is vice president of the Galena-Signal Oil Company, 41 East Forty-second Street, but is stationed in Chicago.

The body was removed to the Bellevue Morgue.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Col., June 25.—Dr. Arthur J. Kelly, former husband of Margaret Craig Newell, refused to comment today on her death. They were divorced ten years ago and she left Denver at that time. Both were prominent socially here.

Charles Presbrey Heads Ad Agency.

At the quarterly meeting of the directors of the Frank Presbrey Company, advertising agency of 247 Park Avenue, Frank Presbrey was elected chairman and Charles Presbrey, president. The latter, who has been with the company for twenty-four years, succeeds his father as active director of the agency's business. Truman DeWeese was elected a director to succeed the late Charles D. Spaulding.

DAWES AND MORROW TALK WITH HOOVER

Ambassadors Hold Conferences Preparatory to Returning to Their Posts This Week.

HOOVER ASKED TO MEXICO

Visit Would Be Made by October—Dawes Will Leave Friday, Morrow Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Charles G. Dawes and Dwight W. Morrow conferred here today with President Hoover and Secretary Stimson, preparatory to returning to their Ambassadorial posts. Among other matters, they discussed the London naval treaty.

Ambassador Morrow announced that he had invited the President to visit Mexico before he resigns as Ambassador, probably about Oct. 1. The Ambassador said he had strongly urged the advisability of the visit and that the President had taken it under consideration.

He spent some time with Secretary of State Stimson in a discussion of Mexican affairs. He lunched with Joseph P. Cotton, Under-Secretary of State, who has special supervision of Mexican affairs for the State Department, and in the afternoon conferred with Mr. Cotton and with other department officials.

Will Resign by October.

Mr. Morrow will return to Englewood, N. J., tomorrow and leave for Mexico on Saturday. Diplomatic matters requiring his attention in Mexico City probably will keep him in that capital until late in September, he said, but he expects to resign before Oct. 1.

He conferred with General Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador to Great Britain, who is also here preparatory to returning to his post. He declined to discuss a name for his grandson.

Both Mr. Morrow and the State Department declined to go into the details of the questions that will occupy him in Mexico. It is understood, however, that he is particularly interested in the working out of an arrangement with the International Bankers' Committee for resumption of payments on the Mexican foreign debt and in agrarian expropriations, particularly as they affect American landholders.

Mexican officials are now in New York conferring with the bankers' committee in an effort to bring about a new settlement of the Mexican foreign debt. Mr. Morrow has been especially interested in seeing that any arrangement for resumption of payments on the debt should take into consideration the need for payment of awards from Mexico to Americans by the Mixed and Special Claims Commissions.

There is in addition the question of proposed quota restrictions by the United States on Mexican immigration. A bill to place Mexico on a quota of 1,900 immigrants a year has passed the Senate and is now before the House Rules Committee. It is opposed by the State Department as needless and as a measure that would cause bad feeling in Mexico.

Dawes to Come Here Today.

Ambassador Dawes will spend tomorrow and Friday with Major Gen. James G. Harbord in New York. He will sail for England on the steamer Majestic Friday night.

Ambassador Dawes said he would have preferred to sail on an American ship, but the sailing time of the Leviathan would not permit his arriving in London for July 4.

He again denied that he had any intention of resigning as Ambassador, and indicated that he greatly enjoyed his work in London.

The General said his visit to Chicago on business connected with the forthcoming World's Fair was satisfactory. The fair committee, he said, has $10,000,000 in the bank, and as chairman of the finance committee, he had obtained assurances of all the funds that are necessary.

DANISH RULERS IN ICELAND.

Premier Greets Them on Visit for 1,000th Anniversary of Parliament.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 25.—King Christian and Queen Alexandrine of Iceland and Denmark landed here today amid salutes from warships for the 1,000th anniversary of Iceland's Parliament. A depressing drizzle was falling as the royal couple were met by the Premier and a deputation of prominent women in picturesque Icelandic dress. The persistent rain marred the coloring of a scene including many brilliant uniforms and flags flown from ships of all nations in the harbor.

The King and Queen walked along the jetty shaking hands with the local celebrities. They were greeted with cheers from the normally undemonstrative Icelandic crowd as they passed under an arch decorated with the national colors—blue, red and white.

Shortly afterward the Crown Prince of Sweden landed from the liner Oscar II.

The royal party will travel to Thingvellier after dinner tonight and will stay in a wooden house among the 27,000 visitors in the vast tent city built for the occasion.

FILMS PARLEY MAKES HALT.

Talks Between Americans and Germans at Paris Continue Monday.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 25.—The conference between German and American electrical and film interests, presided over by Will Hays, will suspend its sessions temporarily after tomorrow's meeting, it was announced here tonight.

In making the announcement, it was emphasized that the interruption of the conference was not due to any breakdown of the negotiations but was necessary to permit certain German delegates to return to attend to business matters which they had been forced to neglect while attending the Paris meeting.

The discussions, which will require a considerable length of time before they can be completed, will be resumed next Monday afternoon, it was stated.

The delegates held two sessions today and will also meet twice tomorrow.

Ford Offers Town Hall Site.

SUDBURY, Mass., June 25.—The selectmen have received an offer from Henry Ford of a plot of land in Sudbury Centre as a site for the Town Hall to be erected in place of the building destroyed by fire.

Smoot Going Away for Rest; Absent 9 Days in 28 Years

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP).—Saying he had been absent only nine days in twenty-eight years of service, Senator Smoot, veteran chairman of the Finance Committee, rose in the Senate today and told his colleagues that he was going away for a rest. He left his vote with Senator Watson, the Republican leader, and said he hoped Senators would not charge him with neglect of duty.

The 68-year-old legislator, who is a great grandfather, said he felt he ought to have a change.

Senator Harrison, bitter opponent of Senator Smoot in the tariff contest, but a warm personal friend, assured him that he was entitled to a rest.

"I know that no Senator is entitled to it more than he," he said. "The Senator can have my pair any time I am on the other side of a question."

Senator Smoot will leave for Salt Lake City tonight. He is considering a trip to Honolulu next month.

SEEKS TO JUSTIFY FIGHT ON GAS RATES

Hyatt Attacks Legality of $1 Initial Charge by Brooklyn Borough as Illegal.

CLASHES MARK TESTIMONY

Company Attorney Is Rebuked for Interrupting Direct Examination of City's Engineer.

Judson Hyatt, Assistant Corporation Counsel, fought yesterday to prove the city justified in demanding a rehearing on the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company's initial monthly charge of $1 for the first 200 cubic feet of gas supplied.

The hearing before the Public Service Commission was marked by frequent clashes between counsel during the direct examination by Mr. Hyatt of A. S. B. Little, consulting engineer to the city, which was repeatedly interrupted by William M. Ransom, the company's attorney.

Mr. Little reiterated the contention brought forward on Tuesday by attorneys fighting the petition of the Brooklyn Union Gas Company for a similar charge of 95 cents that such initial charges are actually a service charge, which is prohibited by law.

Mr. Hyatt addressed questions to Mr. Little from the petition which had reopened the case. He contended that experience had shown that under the present rates which went into effect Oct. 1, last, the company was making much larger profits and that the burden of the initial charge in the present rates had fallen on the small consumer.

Maurice Hotchner, counsel for the Utility Consumers' League, objected to Mr. Ransom's "interfering with the direct examination of the witness and introducing material to obscure the witness's testimony." He pointed out that the direct examination was not the proper time for cross examination and accused Mr. Ransom of attempting to give testimony himself. The commission upheld Mr. Hotchner.

Mr. Ransom asked Mr. Little if he had not at one time favored a service charge. The witness said "any statement that he had was untrue."

Mr. Little explained that he had approved a "block or graduated form of rates" by which a charge is established for an initial quantity of gas and further rates are made to produce a total revenue sufficient to pay a return on the company's investment. The block rate recommended by Mr. Little would include a charge of $1 for 500 cubic feet of gas or less and 10½ cents per 100 cubic feet over 500.

Mr. Ransom brought out in his cross-examination of the witness that there had been a decline in the value of the company's cast iron gas mains since 1925 of 10 per cent, amounting to $200,000.

Mr. Ransom, in cross-examination, got Mr. Little to agree that the customer should pay for "availability of service," or, as Mr. Little chose to call it, "readiness to serve." Mr. Little also agreed that the availability of service costs should be distributed on a per customer basis and Mr. Ransom added that operating expenses and return on investment would go into the charge on a per customer basis.

Mr. Ransom asserted that corrections should be made in charts of Mr. Little's relating to operating revenues, expenses, average rates and unit costs for the years 1927, 1928 and 1929. The hearing was adjourned to July 16..

MRS. M. C. BRIGGS WINS SUIT

Surrogate Rules She Was Common-Law Wife of Cartoonist.

The claim of Marie C. Briggs of 1 West Sixty-seventh Street that she is the widow of Clare A. Briggs, cartoonist, who died Jan. 3, was sustained yesterday by Surrogate John P. O'Brien. The Surrogate decided that "clear, uncontradicted evidence" established that she was the common-law wife of the artist. Her petition for the appointment of a temporary administrator will be heard this afternoon. The will, which she is contesting, left most of the estate to Ruth Owen Briggs, divorced wife of the decedent.

The decision permits Marie C. Briggs to contest the will, which was executed on Nov. 18, 1920. Ruth Owen Briggs divorced Mr. Briggs at White Plains, the decree becoming final June 4, 1929.

Surrogate O'Brien's decision said: "The burden rests upon respondents to prove that a valid common-law marriage could not have been entered into in that State by decedent and contestant. They have failed completely to sustain that burden."

The estate is valued at more than $40,000.

Colonel Thompson Has Restful Night

Physicians attending Colonel William Boyce Thompson, wealthy copper man, philanthropist and one-time Republican National Treasurer, at his home at 1,061 North Broadway, Yonkers, reported yesterday that he passed a restful night and was in better condition than at any time since he suffered a critical attack last Saturday night, according to Dr. William J. Vogeler. The patient has successfully warded off a threatened siege of pneumonia.

$5,500,000 SCHOOL HELD UP BY WALKER

Estimate Board Defers Action on Appropriation for New Brooklyn Technical.

McKEE JOINS IN ATTACK

Mayor Sees Greater Need to Take Care of Part-Time Pupils Throughout City—Bids Due July 8.

The Board of Education yesterday failed again in its attempt to persuade the members of the Board of Estimate that the proposed new Brooklyn Technical High School was worth an appropriation running into the millions, in spite of the fact that John E. Ruston, president of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, assured the board that "the days of the pick and shovel are gone; our boys now need specialized training in the industrial arts." The matter was laid over until the first special meeting after July 8.

The Board of Education, having called for opening of the bids for the proposed school on July 8, before definite action was taken by the Board of Estimate, is in the position of having to receive the bids, with no assurance that the money will be forthcoming to enable it to accept any of them. Those favoring the proposed $5,500,000 project were aided in their efforts to win approval yesterday by a number of civic associations and leaders, mostly of Brooklyn, for whom Mr. Ruston was the spokesman.

The attack on the proposal for this school was made principally by Mayor Walker and Aldermanic President McKee. The President of the Board of Aldermen, who at the last meeting of the board on Friday, June 13, characterized this venture as "the last word in extravagance," said frankly yesterday that in his opinion "some one was riding a hobby."

Both the Mayor and Mr. McKee insisted, over the vigorous and emphatic chorus of "noes" from the proponents before the bar, that this expensive high school would in reality be a "college" of a specialized nature.

In many parts of the city elementary schools were so crowded that hundreds of pupils had to be taken on part time, Mayor Walker said, and until that condition was rectified by the construction of new school buildings and the provision for new equipment, all of which would run into the millions, he thought that the board would be doing an injustice to the part-time pupils of the crowded schools by setting aside several million dollars for something which he considered "of questionable worth."

"As long as the Board of Education has gone ahead and advertised for the bids, we'll wait and find out what the lowest bid is before we give you any money," the Mayor told Mr. Ruston and Albert L. Colston, principal of Brooklyn Technical, after they had tried to prevail upon him to appropriate $3,500,000 and let the education board "see what it could do with it."

The Board of Education received another setback yesterday when the Board of Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, meeting just prior to the convening of the Board of Estimate, denied its application to lease as an annex to Bay Ridge High School, Fourth Avenue and Sixty-seventh Street, Brooklyn, a building now under construction at Fourth Avenue and Sixty-third Street.

MASTICK LAW ASSAILED BY WOMEN'S PARTY

Curb on Overtime Will Keep Women From Promotion, Party Leaders Assert.

The New York State Branch of the National Women's party, which is opposed to the Mastick law applying to the employment of women in factories and mercantile establishments, declared yesterday that by abolishing overtime for women working eight hours a day for six days a week the new statute would prevent them from being hired as executives in mercantile establishments and from winning promotion. The law denies to women equal opportunity with men in earning a livelihood, the statement charged.

Miss Frances Perkins, State Industrial Commissioner, pointed out that permission to work employes overtime was essentially a bonus to those employers who gave workers a half holiday. The new law was framed to correct the decision in the Elite Laundry case in which the highest State court held that employers could work employes overtime on the half holiday, said Miss Perkins, thus nullifying the effect of the shorter workday.

CROTON VOTES ANNEXATION.

Will Absorb Villages of Harmon and Mt. Airy—Values Up $7,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 25.—The voters of Croton-on-Hudson in a special election today annexed the villages of Harmon and Mount Airy by a vote of 252 to 46.

The decision increases Croton's population from 2,600 to 5,120 and gives the village an area of approximately five square miles. The assessed valuation is increased $7,000,000, which includes a $2,500,000 assessment of the New York Central Lines terminal and workshops at Harmon. It was originally planned to include the Croton Dam owned by New York City in the village territory. But New York protested so strongly that the consolidationists decided to omit that territory rather than face a lawsuit.

WET TO OPPOSE MILLARD.

Westchester Group to Fight Dry Candidate for Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 25.—A wet candidate will be entered in the primaries to oppose Charles D. Millard, regular Republican designee for Representative from the Twenty-fifth Congressional District, according to a statement issued today by Henry T. Price of Ossining, former vice chairman of the Home Rule Association of Westchester County. Mr. Price said that a group of Republicans were organizing to oppose Mr. Millard and that they had two possible candidates already in mind.

COLOGNE MADONNA FOUND.

Painting Stolen in Hamburg Is Recovered in Toronto Bank Vault.

TORONTO, June 25 (AP).—An international search of more than a year for a reproduction of the famous painting Madonna de Cologne, stolen from an art gallery at Hamburg, was ended today with its discovery in a Toronto bank vault.

Discovery of the painting resulted from the arrest of Will Brunk, 31 years old, a German, on a charge of vagrancy. In his possession police found keys to the safety vault. Obtaining a search warrant, they opened the vault and discovered the painting.

Police said Brunk admitted bringing the picture here from Germany, but he declined to say how it came into his possession. He had insured it for several hundred dollars and police said had borrowed $400 on it. He was ordered held without bail pending word from the German authorities.

Detectives expressed the belief that the arrest of Brunk might be the key to the solution of widespread thefts from European art galleries at about the same time as the Hamburg robbery.

Named to Niagara Bridge Board.

ALBANY, June 25 (AP).—Thomas H. Hanrahan of Buffalo was appointed a member of the Niagara Frontier Bridge Commission by Governor Roosevelt today. He succeeds Emanuel Boasberg, resigned.

3 NAMED JUSTICES IN SPECIAL SESSIONS

Walker Selects Magistrates Gesser and Rayfield and J. J. Freschi to Fill New Posts.

THE LAST AN EX-JUSTICE

Rayfield Appointment Is Seen as Another Move to Conciliate Queens Factions—Nolan Renamed.

Magistrate Lawrence T. Gresser of Queens, Magistrate Hyman Rayfiel of Brooklyn and former Justice John J. Freschi were appointed yesterday by Mayor Walker at City Hall to fill the three ports recently created in the Court of Special Sessions by the Board of Estimate.

Justice Freschi was appointed to Special Sessions by Mayor John Purroy Mitchel and served through part of the Hylan administration. When his term expired he was not reappointed. He headed the Italian-American committee for the re-election of Mayor Walker last Fall. He is a member of the law firm of Harden, Hess, Eder & Freschi of 74 Trinity Place. He was born here in 1876 and was educated at New York University and New York Law School. He holds an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from the University of Palermo, Italy. Beginning law practice in 1898, he was appointed a city magistrate twelve years later. From 1915 to 1925 he was a Special Sessions Justice, and for the last three years of that period he served in the appellate term of that court.

He is a member of the American Bar Association, the State and city bar associations, the New York County Lawyers' Association, the Royal Arcanum, Loyal Association, Foresters, the Sons of Italy, the Italian Historical Society and the Italian War Veterans' Foundation. He is a director of the Bank of Sicily Trust Company.

Magistrate Gresser's appointment was seen as a further move to conciliate the Democratic factions in Queens recently brought together under the leadership of John Theofel. He was born in Brooklyn in 1878 and was educated at St. John's College and Niagara University. He has been practicing law for twenty years and was appointed a city magistrate in 1924. He is a member of the National Democratic Club, the Steuben Society, the Knights of Columbus, the Red Men and the Loyal Order of Moose. He is married and has five sons and three daughters.

Justice Rayfiel was born in Riga, Russia, in 1872. He came to this country in 1888 and made his home in Brooklyn. He studied languages in the public night schools and became a court interpreter in 1899. In the same year he was graduated from New York Law School and became a member of the bar a year later. In 1907 he was appointed chief clerk of the Tenth District magistrates' court and in 1923 became a city magistrate.

Mayor Walker also reappointed Justice Thomas J. Nolan of Special Sessions for another full term of ten years. He was sworn in immediately at City Hall. He is a former magistrate, a member of the Downtown Tammany Club and lives at 9 Madison Street. Justice Freschi will sit in Manhattan, Justice Gresser in Queens and Justice Rayfiel in Brooklyn.

JERSEY FLIER ARRESTED.

Charged With Manslaughter After Fall Kills His Passenger.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 25.—State police announced today the arrest on a technical charge of manslaughter of Walter Reidner, 21 years old, of Kingston, pilot of the airplane which crashed to the ground last night near Kingston, about five miles from here, killing William Corless, 22, of Princeton, a passenger.

Reidner was arrested in Princeton Hospital. He will be questioned later and arraigned when released from the hospital. He is suffering from lacerations.

PROPOSE GERM TEST ON CONDEMNED MAN

Scientists Would Offer New Mexico Chinese Choice of Trachoma Inoculation Instead of Death.

SANTA FE, N. M., June 25 (AP).—Woo Dak San, a Chinese sentenced to be electrocuted for murder, may be given the alternative of offering himself as a subject for experiment in science's efforts to combat trachoma.

Dr. Polk Richards of the United States Indian Health Service at Albuquerque and Dr. S. I. Proctor, noted oculist of Boston, have discussed with Attorney General M. A. Otero the possibility of obtaining the man's consent for such an experiment in return for commutation of the death sentence.

The physicians were referred to Governor R. C. Dillon.

Dr. Richards said today that if the Chinese consented to inoculation with a germ, which has been isolated and is believed to cause trachoma, an eye disease, he probably would suffer no permanent ill effects.

While experiments have been made on monkeys with the isolated germ, Dr. Richards said, science needs a human specimen to obtain proof that inoculation will produce trachoma.

The disease is prevalent among some Indian tribes of the Southwest.

SUES BROKERS FOR LIBEL.

Former Cashier Seeks $500,000 Because of Throckmorton & Co. Letter

A libel suit for $500,000 damages and costs was filed in Bronx Supreme Court yesterday against the firm of Throckmorton & Co., investment brokers, 165 Broadway, by Frank J. Brins, a former cashier for the firm, who charged that he had been maliciously accused of stealing a list of customers' names when he terminated his employment by the firm early this year.

Mr. Brins lives at 1,838 Hone Avenue, the Bronx. Through Jacob S. Wiener, his attorney, he alleged the libel was contained in a letter on March 28, 1930, which was addressed to a person whose name was withheld. Because of the letter, Mr. Brins charges, he failed a number of times to obtain employment. The seven partners of the firm were named co-defendants.

STEEL MERGER PLOT IS ALLEGED IN SUIT

"Intentional Fraud" Laid to Youngstown Directors by Opponents in Ohio Court.

BAKER DENIES CHARGES

Ex-Secretary Praises Terms Finally Proposed as Fairer Than Original Arrangements.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, June 25 (AP).—Charges of intentional fraud and dereliction of duty were made today as attorneys fired the opening guns for and against the $1,000,000,000 merger of Bethlehem Steel Corporation with the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company.

The battleground is common pleas court of Mahoning County. The objective of the plaintiffs is a permanent injunction to prevent the merger.

Principals on the battle lines are Myron C. Wick and the Continental Shares Corporation, as stockholders of the Youngstown Company, opposed to merging, and the Youngstown Company, its directors and the Bethlehem Corporation as defendants. The reputed chief figure against the merger, Cyrus S. Eaton of Cleveland, does not appear on record in the case.

Luther P. Day of Cleveland began the attack with a barrage of accusations and challenges that lasted for more than two hours.

Newton D. Baker of Cleveland, former Secretary of War, replied for the forces defending the merger and took his opponent to task for alleging fraud against "a genius of steel," namely, James A. Campbell, head of the Youngstown Company.

Among the witnesses who may be called when the defense starts its case is Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board for Bethlehem.

Says Grace Got $1,000,000 Bonus.

Mr. Day alleged a plot upon the part of the Bethlehem Corporation and what he termed "the management of the Youngstown company, whereby the former would consume the latter on 'unfair terms.'"

He charged that "the management" of the Youngstown company was guilty of "fraud, intentional fraud, dereliction of duty and intentional dereliction of duty." This he based on the alleged failure of certain officers of the Youngstown company to furnish stockholders with pertinent information before their meeting of April 8, last.

Included in the information which he charged was withheld was his allegation that Bethlehem Steel Corporation has been paying "unheard of" sums as bonuses of certain officers which, in the case of President Eugene Grace of Bethlehem, reached $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 annually.

Preliminary negotiations for the merger, Mr. Day said, were carried forward in conferences between Mr. Grace of Bethlehem and Mr. Campbell and H. G. Dalton of Cleveland.

Inland Steel Link Brought In.

"Neither Campbell nor Dalton were qualified to act for Youngstown and we contend Youngstown was practically unrepresented," he charged. "Campbell was unqualified because he was promised a position of dignity with the Bethlehem Corporation in the event of the merger. Dalton was unqualified because he was also a director of Bethlehem and connected with Pickands, Mather & Co. and the Guaranty National Bank, both of whom were in a position to benefit by a merger."

Mr. Baker entered a general denial of today's charges and charged that Mr. Eaton is the real opposition to the merger.

"Eaton is everything in this suit," he said. "All the opposition committees, attorneys, publicity, etc., in this case is Mr. Eaton. He is a very large stockholder in Inland Steel and at two different times attempts to merge the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company with Inland almost succeeded.

"Eaton at the time he received information of this merger was actively engaged in building a huge rival company to Sheet and Tube."

SIX BRONX DISTRICTS SHOW 942,389 COUNT

Two Sections Missing in Census Figures—Staten Island's Total Is 157,253.

The Third Assembly District of the Bronx has gained 14,010 residents during the last decade, according to figures announced yesterday by Ernest W. Bradbury, supervisor of the Twenty-fifth Census District. The present population totals 97,052, as against 83,042 in 1920.

The population of the Bronx now totals 942,389 for six out of eight completed Assembly districts. The First and Second are still to be made public. Adding to the total 22,792, which was the 1920 figure for the two missing districts, and adding another 10 per cent for their estimated minimum increase in the last ten years, a possible total for the Bronx is in the neighborhood of about a million and a quarter.

The Third Assembly District runs from the East River and 140th Street to Jackson Avenue and 145th Street, to Trinity Avenue and 149th Street, to St. Ann's Avenue and 156th Street, to Cauldwell Avenue and 163d Street, to Union Avenue and 160th Street, to Westchester Avenue and 163d Street, east to Garrison Avenue to the East River, taking in Rikers, North Brothers and South Brothers Islands.

Final figures for Staten Island, announced yesterday by Mrs. Emma Sharrett, supervisor of the Twenty-seventh Census District, Richmond, show a total of 157,253, as against 116,531 in 1920. Previous tentative figures already announced on June 3 were 156,630. There are 75,619 persons in the First Assembly District and 81,634 in the Second Assembly District which make up the total. Records show 5,074 unemployed, 118 deaf, dumb and blind, sixty-six farms and thirteen poultry and bee properties.

Board to Buy 25 Voting Machines.

A decision to purchase twenty-five additional voting machines for the Gubernatorial election in November was announced yesterday by the Board of Elections through its president, John R. Voorhis. The machines are to cost $848.65 each. The new machines are to provide for any possible new districts. The members of the board explained that the purchase at this time was chiefly to anticipate a rise in price expected to take place in the Autumn.

DR. AND MRS. LLOYD IN GOLDEN JUBILEE

Double Celebration Held as Bishop Completes 50 Years in Ministry.

BISHOP MANNING SPEAKS

80 Clergymen Among Luncheon Guests Honoring Couple Wed Half-Century Next Monday.

The Rt. Rev. Arthur S. Lloyd, suffragan bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York, completed fifty years in the ministry yesterday. With Mrs. Lloyd he will have completed fifty years of married life next Monday.

In celebration of the two events, Bishop and Mrs. Lloyd were guests yesterday at a luncheon in the undercroft of the Synod House, Amsterdam Avenue and 110th Street. Three hundred persons, including two other bishops and eighty clergymen, attended. The celebration was arranged by a group of the friends of Dr. Lloyd headed by the Rev. Dr. H. Percy Silver, rector of the Church of the Incarnation, who was the toastmaster.

The luncheon followed a special service, including the holy communion in the cathedral. Bishop Lloyd himself was the celebrant. Assisting him were the Right Rev. James Wise, bishop of Kansas, and the Rev. Dr. Charles K. Gilbert, who will be consecrated this Fall as another suffragan bishop.

Bishop William T. Manning was the first speaker. He lauded Dr. Lloyd and told of his faithful services as suffragan. Dr. Manning also paid a tribute to Mrs. Lloyd. In the course of Dr. Silver's speech he presented a number of gifts to the couple.

An immense wedding cake upon which were perched two turtle doves, was one of the striking features of the celebration.

Dr. John W. Wood, secretary of the department of missions of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church, of which Bishop Lloyd was formerly the head, and Bishop Wise also spoke.

Others who took part were Lewis P. Franklin, vice president of the National Council; Mrs. Henry H. Pierce, president of the women's missionary auxiliary of the diocese; Canon George F. Nelson of the cathedral, who read a tribute for the trustees of the cathedral; Samuel Thorne, who brought congratulations from the standing committee of the diocese, and George E. Fahy, president of the Episcopal Church Club.

Among those present were the four daughters of Bishop and Mrs. Lloyd: Mrs. Edmund P. Dandridge of Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. Churchell J. Gibson of Richmond, Va.; Mrs. Charles J. Symington and Mrs. Gavin Hadden, both of this city.

Merchants Re-elect Booth.

Willis H. Booth, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company, was elected president of the Merchants Association of New York for the third successive term by the association's directors yesterday. Lincoln Cromwell of William Iselin & Co. was re-elected first vice president, John H. Love was re-elected treasurer, and S. C. Mead, secretary. Louis K. Comstock, chairman of the board of L. K. Comstock & Co., who has previously been the association's third vice president, was elected second vice president. Thomas J. Watson, president of the International Business Machines Corporation, was elected third vice president.

Firestone Family Celebrates.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey S. Firestone gave a dinner last night in the roof garden of the Ritz-Carlton to celebrate the ninth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey S. Firestone Jr. and also the birthday of Roger S. Firestone. Others in the party were Mrs. Guy Parke, Miss Betty Russell, Miss Polly Curtis, William Parke, Byrnes MacDonald and Leonard and Raymond Firestone.

AMERICAN RABBIS CONFER ON PROBLEMS

Report on Prejudicial Sectarian Activities Is Made at Convention at Providence, R. I.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, June 25.—Attempts to introduce in public schools compulsory Bible reading, religious education programs and other sectarian activities prejudicial to Jews were alleged today by Rabbi Edward N. Calisch of Richmond, Va., in a report on Church and State delivered at the convention of the Central Conference of American Rabbis.

At the suggestion of Rabbi Jonah Wise a resolution of condolence to Mrs. Maurice H. Harris and to the congregation of Temple Israel of New York was passed. At the hour Dr. Harris's funeral was being held in New York the conference rose.

The convention was authorized to reprint the old union prayer book.

In his keynote address tonight Dr. Lefkowitz referred to the death of Louis Marshall, and the riots in Palestine, and said that "all through Central Europe and Russia conditions are of the unhappiest kind for our people."

"The synagogue is feeling the tremors that are shaking the very foundations of the churches," he added.

TO AID DOMESTIC STYLES.

Organization Started to Promote American Fashions.

To counteract the alleged prevailing tendency to accept foreign fashion designs regardless of merit, an association to protect and popularize American designs in the apparel and allied industries was started last night at a meeting of about forty manufacturers and designers, at 15 Gramercy Park South.

The organization being formed will devote its immediate attention to seeking the enactment by Congress of the Vestal bill, which proposes greater copyright protection of textile and apparel designs. The passage of this legislation will be followed by a renaissance of native design, it was prophesied.

Representatives of the following groups attended: Associated Dress Industries of America, Industrial Council of Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Cloak and Suit Designers of America, Silk Association, Société des Modes de Paris, Knitted Outerwear Association, Society for Suppression of Style Piracy, Art Center and American Union of Decorative Artists and Craftsmen.

THE HABIT THAT STEALS BEAUTY

THOUSANDS of women are taking laxatives regularly, without second thought. If they only knew it, the laxative habit is one of the greatest enemies of beauty. It is all the more dangerous because it is so easy to drift into. For laxatives often seem harmless at first, some are as easy to take as candy. But they make you an intestinal cripple.

Use laxatives only on exceptional occasions. It is best to take them only when your physician directs. If you are inclined to be sluggish, how much better to take Squibb's Liquid Petrolatum. It is safe and effective. Doctors approve it for general use to combat poor elimination. It can be taken by any one at any time without the slightest risk.

Squibb's Liquid Petrolatum is not a laxative but a harmless lubricant. It doesn't cause habits or build fat. Safe for children. Safe for expectant mothers.

Get Squibb's Liquid "Pet" at any drug store. Remember the name Squibb. It is important. Squibb's Liquid "Pet" is pure, odorless and tasteless.

Tilden and Mrs. Moody Gain at Wimbledon—Yacht Enterprise Scores Sweep

FIVE U. S. STARS GAIN IN WIMBLEDON PLAY

Tilden, Doeg, Lott, Allison and Mangin Among Victors in Tennis Tournament.

MRS. MOODY ALSO SCORES

Van Ryn Puts Up Hard Battle, but Bows to Tilden in Three Sets, 7-5, 6-4, 6-1.

BELL LOSES TO COCHET

But He Carries Match With Great Frenchman to Five Sets Before Yielding.

By FERDINAND KUHN JR.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WIMBLEDON, June 25.—There were battles of giants on the Wimbledon courts today, and when the last match was finished five Americans—Bill Tilden and four younger teammates—were left to fight their way into the last eight.

Berkeley Bell came close to toppling the foremost star of all when he took Henri Cochet to five sets but failed, 6—2, 6—2, 5—7, 4—6, 6—1. John Van Ryn put up a plucky fight against Tilden, but the odds were too great and he lost in straight sets, 7—5, 6—4, 6—1. The left-handed Johnny Doeg won a prodigious struggle against the left-handed Christian Boussus of France, 5—7, 6—1, 12—14, 6—0, 6—2.

George Lott made it a sad day for Australia, turning back H. O. Hopman, that country's sole surviving hope, 7—5, 6—3, 6—3. Wilmer Allison defeated the tall Irishman, G. L. Rogers, 6—3, 6—3, 6—2, while Gregory Mangin overpowered the little Japanese, R. Miki, 6—4, 6—3, 6—2.

In the meantime Mrs. Helen Wills Moody swept coolly through to the fourth round, winning from Miss Elsie Goodsworth of England, 6—1, 6—2. It would have been a happy day all around for the American women as well as the men except that Miss Sarah Palfrey lost a hard-hitting match to Miss Joan Ridley of England, 3—6, 6—4, 6—1, and thus was put out of her first Wimbledon tournament.

The Doeg-Boussus battle provided a clash between two future hopes of the United States and France, respectively. It was tense throughout. At first the pace seemed slow after the terrific speed of the Tilden-Van Ryn combat, but it quickly developed into a grueling struggle.

At times Doeg outshone even Tilden with a dazzling service. The first set, fiercely contested, went to Boussus by 7—5 and the second to Doeg with the loss of only one game.

Long Match Wearies Boussus.

Then Boussus won a wearisome 26-game set which looked like it would continue till dawn, but which took every ounce of energy out of him. He crumpled and made only a feeble resistance after that.

The French youth could make only a mere flash during the fourth set, winning two games when he was four down. In the end Doeg's superb physique swung the scales and the Californian marched on to the next round with a 6 love.

Mrs. Moody, wearing a tan sweater with stockings to match, had little difficulty against Miss Goldsworth. She took the first two games, but lost the third with double faults in her service.

Miss Goldsworth, who is a widely known hockey player, had to run in all directions to meet the champion's powerful drives. The second set produced one terrific rally when Mrs. Moody left the court open and Miss Goldsworth sent over short smashes.

Miss Sarah Palfrey and Miss Joan Ridley, one wearing a blue bandeau and the other a red one, treated the crowd to the sight of two of Wimbledon's prettiest entries in action and, incidentally, to a good see-saw match. Miss Ridley at first seemed to have lost her hard drive of former years, but later recovered it. Whenever Miss Palfrey went to the net she drew ahead, but lost to Miss Ridley's greater power. Miss M. Palfrey bowed gamely to Miss M. E. Dix of England. The score was 3—6, 6—4, 6—2.

F. J. Perry, 21-year-old English player, provided the only real upset of the day by defeating Baron H. L. de Morpurgo of Italy—the second of the seeded eight to fall from competition. As a sensation, however, this was nothing compared to Bell's struggle against Cochet, even though the American surrendered in the end.

This was the second time Cochet has been taken to five sets in the tournament, and if he continues to tease fate as he did today, he may get a real shock before the finals.

Bell Puts Up Grim Fight.

Bell, with his shoulders stooped and with a grim expression on his face, attacked fiercely with his service in the first game, but could make no impression on the calm Cochet. He put a heavy cut on his strokes, but his aim was bad, and Cochet made him run about the court so much that he couldn't settle down.

Bell flung himself after the ball in a crouching attitude and in the second game fell to the ground twice in a single rally, recovering each time before it was too late.

Under these conditions it was not difficult for Cochet to sweep through two sets, losing only four games altogether. The third set, however, told a different story. Bell seemed to get more confidence and lost that grim look.

The result was that Cochet lost by 5—7 in the third set and soon the crowd was flocking to the centre court when the scoreboard showed Bell was leading in the fourth. The American won by 6—4, but by then his onslaught had spent itself. The greatest fifth-set player in the world justified his reputation and, playing his usual cool, crafty game from the baseline, took the last set without trouble.

All the same there was a roar of cheers for Bell at the end and he had every reason to be pleased with himself.

Van Ryn Fights Steadily.

Van Ryn gave Tilden just as much trouble, although the match didn't go to five sets. For a time in the first set Tilden seemed to be fighting for his life against van Ryn's rushing attack. He lost the second game on van Ryn's service, but Tilden evened matters with great passing shots.

In the fifth game van Ryn took a lead of 3—2, but Tilden again evened the score after repeated deuces with a series of grim rallies.

Van Ryn was hitting hard and serving well and was getting up for net smashes at times, but Tilden always had just that little bit more of experience and cunning which meant everything.

After a colossal rally in the twelfth game Tilden took the set at 7—5 and the menace of Van Ryn's challenge had passed. Tilden rushed through the first three games in the second set but had a hard fight for the set. Not wanting to risk an endurance test against the younger man he unleashed all his battery of drives, lobs and chops attempting to wear Van Ryn down.

With the score of 5—3 in his favor Tilden tried to clinch matters by his terrific cannonball service but Van Ryn never flinched under the attack and returned most of them. Time after time the set point was reached before Tilden could win.

By this time Tilden was determined to end it quickly. Playing at the peak of his form, he was driving powerfully with a deceptive cut on the ball. So Van Ryn went down with his colors flying before an onslaught that would have annihilated almost any other player.

Michel V, owned by John Kirsten of Hamburg, again finished first after an exciting brush with two American boats, Oriole and Seawing, which finished second and third.

Seawing for a time was in the lead. The third American contender, Yankee, finished fifth among the six competing yachts, three from each nation.

Germany's margin on points, with two races completed, was 24 to 15.

PALMER ADVANCES IN JUNIOR TENNIS

Upsets First Seeded Player, Hebard, in Tournament at Forest Hills.

Ray Palmer, hitherto in the background in tournament play, furnished another surprise yesterday in the Eastern junior tennis tourney by eliminating in straight sets the first-seeded player, Richard Hebard, 1928 national boys' champion, at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills. SEEDED STARS BOW IN COLLEGE TENNIS

Jones of Columbia, Strachan and Ryan Eliminated in 4th Round at Haverford.

SELIGSON FORGES AHEAD

Lewis, Jacobs, Muehleisen, Cram, Robbins, Lockwood, Sutter Also Advance.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 25.—Four players from the Pacific Coast and two each from the East and South were quartered in the round before the semi-finals of the national intercollegiate tennis championship at the Merion Cricket Club tonight after a day of competition that saw David Jones of Columbia and two members of the seeded array pass from the scene.

Tomorrow, starting at 2:30, Julius Seligson of Lehigh will play Elbert Lewis of California, Los Angeles, and Eddie Jacobs of Pittsburgh will meet Dolf Muehleisen of California in the upper half. In the lower section Donald Crain of Vanderbilt is bracketed with Clifford Robbins of California, Southern Branch, and Sherman Lockwood of Oregon will face Clifford Sutter of Tulane.

The elimination of Jones was the handiwork of Cram, a youth whose gleaming ground strokes and knowledge of tactics have been responsible for the downfall of more than one favored player in these tournaments during the past three years.

Cram played superbly and deserved to win, as he might have done even had Jones put his best foot forward, but, despite the rapacity of his forehand and the excellence of his generalship, he hardly would have gained the verdict at 6—1, 7—5 had the Columbian not frittered away many points.

Donald Strachan of Princeton and Robert W. Ryan of Yale were the two members of the seeded group to follow Jones out of the play. The former fell before Robbins at 3-6, 6—0, 7—5, while Lockwood accounted for Ryan at 7—5, 6—8, 6—3.

One of the prettiest matches of the day saw Jacobs defeat Ted Burwell of Sewanee at 6—2, 6—4.

Muehleisen likewise had his hands full to dispose of Bertram Hammell of Swarthmore at 6—3, 6—2. The Californian's drop shots were not working successfully in the first set and it was largely by defensive tactics that he curbed the fiery strokes of Hammell. Lewis was too effective off the ground for Dennis Mitchell of Georgetown, who yielded at 6—3, 6—4.

THE SUMMARIES.

Swedish Yacht Defeats American Entry In First Official Race for Gold Cup

By The Associated Press.

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, June 25.—Sweden defeated the United States today in the first official race for the international gold cup, emblematic of six-meter yacht supremacy.

The American boat, after finishing first yesterday in a race which was ruled off for exceeding the maximum time limit of four hours, today trailed the Swedish entry by three minutes, ten seconds.

Only three seconds separated the American boat and the Dutch contender, which finished fourth. Eight nations are competing for the trophy.

The order of finish, with the times for the first round today, were: Sweden, 2:16:26; United States, 2:19:35; Finland, 2:19:37; Holland, 2:19:38; Norway, 2:19:55; France, 2:20:24, and Denmark, 2:22:29.

MARTIN TOPS LEWIS AT BAY RIDGE NET

Defeats First Seeded Player, 0-6, 7-5, 6-1, in Upset in Quarter-Final Round.

Relying on a well-developed overhead attack, E. Ralph Martin of the Ridge Club created a major upset in the Kings County men's singles tennis tournament when he defeated Richard Lewis, first seeded player of the competition and ranking twenty-third in the Eastern Association, in three sets, 0—6, 7—5, 6—1, yesterday.

The play at the Ridge Club of Bay Ridge brought the tournament up to its last four survivors with the completion of the last three of the quarter-final round matches.

Martin got under way poorly and appeared an easy stepping-stone for Lewis as he dropped the first set at love. Lewis maintained his usual heady game, showing finely developed stroking and court strategy. In the next chapter Martin got into his proper stride and flashed a brilliant driving game. He hammered out a triumph at 7—5 only by keeping play at a gruelling pace.

In the final set Martin displayed startling stamina to wrest victory from Lewis.

Reginald Talmadge, Crescent A. C. youngster and recent winner of the Long Island public courts tournament, became the semi-final round opponent of Martin by turning back the veteran A. S. Cawse, 6—4, 6—0, in their quarter-final match. After forcing Talmadge to a close first set, Cawse weakened under the sweeping drives his opponent unloosed.

In the lower half of the competition William Einsman, former national boys' titleholder and second seeded player in the tournament, gained the right to meet Russell Phillips of Staten Island in the finals by turning back Stanley Povey, 6—4, 6—3. Einsman was forced to undergo terrific driving opposition, but by steadiness he slowly forged his way to victory.

The final is scheduled for Saturday.

SCHMELING TO SAIL FOR HOME TOMORROW

Champion Books Passage on the Bremen for Business Trip—Will Return Soon.

Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion of the world, booked passage yesterday for a voyage to his native Germany. The boxer will sail on the North German Lloyd liner Bremen tomorrow and will be accompanied by his trainer, Max Machon. Urgent business calls Schmeling away, but he will return shortly.

A large crowd gathered outside the office of the Hamburg-American Line when word went around that the heavyweight titleholder was arranging for the trip, and Schmeling had to leave by a rear exit after police failed to force a way through the throng.

The boxer's departure will not interfere with the Madison Square Garden Corporation's plans to promote a return bout between Schmeling and Jack Sharkey. Schmeling's manager, Joe Jacobs, will remain in New York to arrange matters for a second contest, and it is likely that the rematch will be settled before the end of the week.

Fordham Beats Newark in Cricket.

A closely fought contest in the annual series of the New York and New Jersey Cricket Association between the Fordham and Newark elevens on the Fordham grounds resulted in a victory for Fordham by a margin of two runs yesterday.

MRS. LAMME GAINS IN RYE NET PLAY

Upsets Miss Page, 7-5, 6-1, to Reach Semi-Final of Apawamis Tournament.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., June 25.—Miss Anne Page of Philadelphia, No. 4 seeded star, was upset by Mrs. Agnes Lamme of the home club today as the semi-final brackets in the singles play of the Apawamis Club's invitation tennis tournament were filled.

Miss Page, favored to reach the penultimate round, fell a victim to the steady base-line game of Mrs. Lamme, who won the tournament last year and who was seeded No. 5, by a 7—5, 6—1 score. After putting up a game battle against the Apawamis star in the first set, Miss Page slumped in the second chapter and her own errors contributed to her defeat.

In the other quarter-final singles matches, the three top-seeded favorites came through. Miss Marjorie Morrill of Boston, No. 1 on the list, conquered Miss Rosamund Newton, also of Boston and eighth seeded star, 6—0, 6—2; Mrs. Carolyn Swartz Hirsch, metropolitan champion and No. 2 seeded player, defeated Mrs. Mary Keller of New York, the only unseeded player to reach the fourth round, at 6—0, 6—4, and Miss Norma Taubele, Eastern and Jersey State titleholder and seeded No. 3, beat Miss Alice Francis of Orange, N. J., fifth seeded player, 7—5, 8—6.

An upset was scored when the No. 3 seeded team of Miss Taubele and Miss Carolyn Roberts, Eastern doubles titleholders, were vanquished by Mrs. Gouverneur Morris and Miss Francis at 6—3, 8—6. Mrs. Morris played splendidly at the net and accounted for many placement points for her team with accurately angled volleys.

ROSENBLOOM WINS; DEFEATS SLATTERY

Gains Light-Heavyweight Title by Decisive Victory in 15 Rounds at Buffalo.

15,000 VIEW THE COMBAT

Gate Receipts Approximately $60,000—Eight Rounds Clearly Won by the New Yorker.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 25.—Maxie Rosenbloom tonight won undisputed possession of the world's light-heavyweight championship which Tommy Loughran discarded when he entered the heavyweight ranks. The eccentric ringman from New York overcame the only obstacle to the 175-pound throne tonight when he battered his way to the decision over Jimmy Slattry of Buffalo in fifteen rounds.

The decision which made Rosenbloom champion was a divided one and it was altogether unpopular, as could be expected, since the New Yorker figuratively came into Slattery's own backyard to battle the home-town pride. But no other decision was possible.

Haley Votes for Slattery.

Referee Patsy Haley constituted the minority in the vote. He gave his decision to Slattery. Judges George Partrick and George Kelly cast their ballots for Rosenbloom.

The decision was greeted with a round of hisses and jeers by an excited crowd of close to 15,000 which paid about $60,000 to view the spectacle, but there was no justification for the outburst, beyond local sentiment. Rosenbloom won eight of the fifteen rounds after a valiant effort.

Rosenbloom had to fight one of the best battles of his career to win the crown. The Slattery of tonight was not the Slattery of old, it is true, but he had trained steadily and conscientiously for this battle and entered the ring as near physical perfection as it is possible for him to be now, and prepared to make a gallant stand. He did and went down with colors flying, simply because Rosenbloom was not to be denied in the realization of his life's ambition.

Rosenbloom, getting off to a poor start in the sixth battle against a lad who had conquered him four times previously, started to make his efforts effective with the fourth session. He won this round and the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth.

He annexed the eleventh, and then in a determined offensive to overcome the desperate, last-minute rally of Slattery to stave off defeat, overcame the local lad in the fourteenth and fifteenth rounds.

Slattery won the second and third rounds, and rallied to win the ninth, tenth and thirteenth. In the first and the twelfth sessions the action, always bitter with neither asking or giving quarter, found honors about even. Rosenbloom entered the ring the recognized champion of the National Boxing Association. Slattery was the recognized champion in this State, having won the title here last February in a battle with Lou Scozza.

When they weighed in in the afternoon Rosenbloom tipped the scales at 170½ pounds and Slattery at 166½.

J. Spagnola Scores Knockout.

Johnny Spagnola knocked out Eddie Moore in a scheduled six-round battle of local welterweights, crushing Moore under a solid right to the jaw after 24 seconds of the fifth session. Spagnola floored his rival three times.

In a scheduled six-round battle, Gene McCue, New York City light-heavyweight, was knocked out in the third round by George Nichols, a local southpaw. The bout served as the semi-final.

Charley Spagnola, local lad, and Eddie Sears of Lackawanna opened the card in a four-round bout which ended with Spagnola getting the decision of referee Jack Michaels of Syracuse and Judges George Kelly, Yonkers, and Billy Gray, Syracuse. The boxers are welterweights.

Ray Keller and Nelson Decharles, rival Buffalo heavyweights, were next in the ring, scheduled for a four-round encounter. This ended abruptly in the second round, however, when Decharles sank under a powerful left and right to the jaw, to be counted out.

FLOWERS DEFEATS HERMAN PERLICK

Gains Decision Over Fighting Twin of Kalamazoo in Ten Rounds at Ebbets Field.

Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle Negro lightweight contender, battered out a decision over Herman Perlick, one of the Kalamazoo twins, in the feature bout of ten rounds at Ebbets Field last night.

Displaying a flashy left-hand attack that often found its mark on his rugged opponent, the New Rochelle boxer demonstrated to a crowd of 6,000 persons that he was Perlick's master. The latter proved willing and aggressive, but could not penetrate Flowers's defense to any great degree.

The winner weighed 137 and his rival scaled 138½.

Lew Feldman, Brownsville featherweight, turned back Arthur De Champlain of the West Side in the ten-round semi-final. Feldman traded with his opponent all through the battle and weakened De Champlain with hard rights to the body. Feldman weighed 126½ and De Champlain 126¼.

Ralph Lenny of Union City outpointed Henry Perlick, Herman's twin brother, in the first ten-rounder. The bout was closely contested, with Lenny showing to better advantage as a result of hard lefts to the head and a good right cross. Each boxer weighed 137½.

José Diaz of Cuba scored two knockdowns over Pasquale Bonfiglio, Argentina, to win the decision in a six-round battle. The winner scaled 133½ against his rival's 138.

In the four-round opener, Vic Morosco, 131, of the Bronx, outpointed Teddy Seidman, 126½, of Rockaway Beach.

By JAMES ROBBINS.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 25.—On a beat of the sea that was just a pulse, Harold S. Vanderbilt sailed the America's Cup yacht Enterprise to another victory off here today, thus making a clean sweep of the three-race series arranged by the Eastern Yacht Club of Marblehead, Mass.

The bronze sloop designed by W. Starling Burgess covered the thirty-mile windward and leeward course 1 minute and 34 seconds faster than Weetamoe. On a saw against the wind over to the sun-parched cliffs of Block Island, Enterprise beat Weetamoe by 1 minute and 39 seconds. The air was so light that much of the time they just breathed along and the sea was another smooth one, with only a slight ground swell.

Running back here Enterprise was outfooted by all the other cup boats, but an increasing breeze chased them and the stern ones carried its growing strength along. The most the wind gave was a strength of seventeen miles an hour at the very finish, so the craft from which a defender will be selected to meet Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth Shamrock have yet to be tested in a real breeze and sea.

It was a sort of a last-shall-be-first move on the part of the wind in the second phase of the contest. Whirlwind, beaten off by all the others going to windward and trailing the way home, caught the benefit of the livelier air first, and her time back was 2 minutes and 15 seconds better than that of Enterprise.

Trails When Close Hauled.

Whirlwind beat Yankee, second fastest off the wind, by 1 minute and 47 seconds. Close hauled against the breeze, however, Whirlwind had been so hopelessly beaten her gain availed her naught but a defeat of Resolute, the old defender, which she caught just before the finish.

By winning today Enterprise took all three preliminary races off here, just inside where the actual defender trials and the international contests will be held.

Enterprise received credit for winning the first race through the withdrawal of Weetamoe, which finished first, after a protest by Enterprise of interference at the start, and outsailed all the other boats in the last two brushes.

On the point score, by which a boat gets one point for starting a race and another point for each boat she beats, which was the way the prizes were competed for here, Enterprise scored 16 points, Yankee 12, Weetamoe 9, Whirlwind 7, Vanitie 5 and Resolute 3. The old cup boats thus were decisively beaten off by the new.

Enterprise won the $1,000 cup offered by Commodore Charles P. Curtis of the Eastern Yacht Club, and Yankee, Boston's entry for the cup defense, the $500 one put up by Dr. Seth M. Milliken, vice commodore.

Five-Mile Zephyr at Start.

When a windward and leeward stretch from Brenton Reef over to the whistling buoy under Clay Head, Block Island, was decided upon at 11 A. M., there was only a five-mile-an-hour zephyr stirring, with an easy light roll of the sea. The top of the rolls hardly rippled.

With little more than headway the sextet made for the starting line. Yankee had the best of the start in the centre of the line. Her nose was out in front, and under her lee were Whirlwind and Weetamoe. Astern of her was Enterprise, with Resolute and Vanitie on the windward side, across from the committee boat and toward Beaver Tail. None were close up to that point.

Yankee, instead of immediately tacking with her lead in toward the Narragansett shore, chose to keep Whirlwind and Weetamoe off. While she was doing that, Skipper Vanderbilt saw an opening, went about, and Enterprise slipped away.

As they approached the sand dunes of Clay Head the breeze came a little more westerly around the end of them. Enterprise bore down on the buoy and rounded it at 12:58:37. She lost a little distance by having to bear away. Apparently she had a two-minute lead over Weetamoe at one time. This was cut to 1 minute and 39 seconds at the mark. More than two minutes separated the other boats. When Whirlwind came up in last place she had to make a tack to round the buoy.

Spinnakers Set for Run.

With the westerly wind haul the yachts were not able to set spinnakers for the run home until after they cleared from under Clay Head. They went under ballooners alone for a way, and the found the breeze aft. Spinnakers were set hurriedly. They came along steadily under them, lifting over a slight ground swell under their quarters.

As they neared the finish the breeze wafted up to seventeen miles. The water shone under the freshening air, and scattered whitecaps appeared, but they were infant ones. It was just too late to give the boats a test. They were sweeping across the finish line one after another, and on into the harbor close by.

After the race the yachts prepared to go their separate ways and make ready for the official observation races that will start on July 7, and which will be sailed out over the cup courses off here.

Whirlwind will go to City Island. Weetamoe went up Narragansett Bay to the Herreshoff yard in Bristol, where her other mast will be stepped.

WERBER EXCELS AT SHORT

Duke University Star Also Makes Two Hits—Ruffing Coasts to Easy Victory in Final.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

By way of demonstrating that the thing can be done if approached and executed in the proper manner, the Yankees contrived to win both games of a double-header at the Stadium yesterday.

Without unduly exerting themselves, they captured the first game, 5 to 4, and then, giving full vent to their feelings for being thwarted in their efforts in the two previous twin bills of the series, fairly annihilated the St. Louisans in the second encounter, 16 to 4.

As a result of these two triumphs, the Yanks lopped half a game off the Athletics' lead in the pennant race and gained major honors in the series with the Browns by a margin of four games to two.

The nightcap was a gorgeous display. Babe Ruth crashed two homers into the right-field bleachers to bring his seasonal total to twenty-six. Lou Gehrig touched off his twentieth. Bill Dickey also dropped a circuit blow into the sacred precincts of Ruthville, and Dusty Cooke ran out one of the longest home runs ever hit inside the Ruppert arena, the ball clearing the running track in dead centre and bouncing up against the green screening.

Ruffing Excels at Bat.

In addition to all this there were other prodigious feats. Gehrig and Chapman each contributed triples. Charlie Ruffing, though merely asked to do the pitching, hit a double and two singles, and Willie Werber, making his début for the Yanks, chimed in with a pair of ringing hits along with performing in stellar fashion at short.

Werber is the young man from Duke University whom the Yankees had planned to leave in Albany a few days ago, only to recall him when Lyn Lary injured his thumb.

George Blaeholder, who had beaten the Yanks in one game of the series, was the first victim of this swatting orgy. Among other things he helped the Babe blast his No. 25 into the stands.

Two innings later the great man gave Holshauser the same treatment. By a curious combination of events the Yanks scored three runs in each of the third, fourth, fifth and sixth rounds, then relaxed and closed out the day with a pair of deuces.

Opener Is Pitching Duel.

The opener was a left-handed pitching duel between Eddie Wells and Walter Stewart, in which Wells managed to out-manipulate his rival and come down to the wire a scant length in front.

A homer by Lazzeri after Byrd had doubled gave the Yanks a two-run margin in the first inning and to this they added another tally in the second on Rice's single and a triple by Chapman.

The Browns, however, decided to offer some stout resistance, and in the fourth scored twice on a trio of singles by Kress, Hale and Melillo.

The Yanks opened another attack on Stewart in the fifth that yielded another pair of runs. The manoeuvre proved exceedingly wise, for in the sixth the Browns counted twice on singles by Kress and Hale, a double by Melillo and a sacrifice fly. This outburst left the Browns one behind and Wells clung tenaciously to this slim margin to the end.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25 (AP).—The White Sox held the world's champion Athletics to an even break in a double-header today, taking the second game 7 to 2 after the Athletics had an 8-to-1 romp in the opening contest.

Ted Lyons was walloped hard in the first affair while George Earnshaw was limiting the Sox to seven hits. The Mackmen solved Lyons for twelve hits, Haas, Foxx and Dykes starring in an attack that netted six runs in the second and third innings.

Chicago finished Rube Walberg in four innings of the second game. Hunnefield hit the left-hander's first pitch of the game for a home run. In the fourth inning Chicago clinched the decision with four more runs, three being scored on Moe Berg's double with the bases filled.

Al Simmons hit his fifteenth homer of the year off Caraway in the sixth. Garland Braxton relieved Caraway with none out in this inning and pitched no-hit ball the rest of the way.

REDS' HARD HITTING TROUNCES GIANTS

McGrawmen Baffled by Lucas, While Cincinnati Routs Donohue to Win, 11 to 3.

GIANTS OBTAIN ROSENBERG

Make Initial Payment of $25,000 for Missions Outfielder—Also Sign Elfer, Semi-Pro.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.
Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 25.—The Reds jumped on their former pal, Pete Donohue, for five hits and four runs in the fifth inning today, and after that there was not much to be said for the game.

The Giants, unable to do business with their bats at home plate against Red Lucas, lost their getaway game here, 11 to 3, and left for St. Louis with nothing better than an even break in their four-day sojourn here.

In the early innings Donohue's pitching was a good match for Lucas's. All the breaks favored the home club, however, and even before their fifth-inning outbreak, the Reds held the upper hand. The Giants never reached first base in the first three innings and their one promising rally was nipped in its bud by a double play.

Giants Get Bad Break.

The first unlucky break came in the home half of the second, after two were out. Durocher and Gooch bounced singles just outside the reach of Giant infielders. Lucas slapped a low fly to centre. Allen tried to catch it, then stopped, the ball bouncing over his head and rolling away for a double, two runs scoring.

In the fourth Critz bunted safely and Leach singled to right. Lindstrom's single to centre scored Critz and put Leach on third. Terry walked, filling the bases with none out.

Mel Ott, the Giants' dealiest long-range swinger, might have made the day a signal success for the McGraw men by clouting a long one at this point. Instead, however, he bounced into a double play. Leach scored the tying run on the double play, but Hogan's grounder made three out.

Doubles by Heilmann and Gooch, followed by Lucas' single, scored two for the Reds in the fourth. Four singles and Stripp's triple added four more runs in the fifth. Pruett pitched the sixth for the Giants, allowing five singles and three runs.

Joe Heving, who figured in the Sunday and Tuesday games here, made it three out of four by pitching the seventh and eighth innings, keeping the Reds entirely off the bases.

Giants Buy Rosenberg.

The Giants have purchased Harry Rosenberg, 20-year-old slugging outfielder of the Missions, of the Pacific Coast League, Manager McGraw announced today. The Giants paid $25,000 and agreed to deliver two players to the Missions next Spring, with the alternative of substituting $15,000 instead of the players.

Rosenberg will join the Giants July 10. He has been batting close to the .400 mark. This is his first year of professional baseball.

Another young outfielder, Luther Elfer of Gretna, La., the home of Melvin Ott, will join the Giants in St. Louis. Elfer has been playing semi-pro ball in New Orleans and was recommended by Harry Williams, the discoverer of Ott.

11 RUNS IN THE 7TH WIN FOR SENATORS

Stage Batting Spree to Beat Indians, 13 to 5, in the Final of Series.

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP).—Going on a batting spree, the Washington Senators today scored eleven runs in the seventh inning against Cleveland and won the final game of the series, 13 to 5. Nine errors were made during the game, seven of them by the Indians.

Four pitchers were used in a vain effort to check the Washington bats. Rice, with a double and triple in three times at bat, and Ossie Bluege, with four hits out of five, led the onslaught for Washington.

NEWARK-MONTREAL DIVIDE TWO GAMES

Bears Capture Opener by 5-3 Count, but Are Beaten in Second Contest by 7 to 5.

Montreal and the Bears broke even in a double-header at Newark yesterday. The Bears took the first, 5 to 3, but lost the nightcap in the eighth inning, when the Royals staged a rally to win, 7 to 5.

In the nightcap, with two down, the Royals tied the score in the final frame of the seven-inning game and in the next round again tallied twice to win.

In the first game Al Mamaux pitched effective ball and Newark did some timely battling to win back of him.

KREMER, PIRATES, SETS BACK ROBINS

Pitches Skillfully to Give Pittsburgh First Victory of Series by 5 to 1.

DUDLEY ROUTED IN SECOND

Gilbert's Single After Frederick's Triple Averts Shut-Out Defeat for Brooklyn.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.
Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, June 25.—Remy Kremer, ace of the Pirate pitching staff, served up an assortment of skillful deliveries today that completely baffled the Robins and gave the Pirates their first victory in the final game of the series.

The score was 5 to 1, a timely single by Wally Gilbert which followed Johnny Frederick's triple in the third inning saving Brooklyn from a shut-out. At all other times the Pittsburgh right-hander was complete master of the situation.

Clise Dudley, starting Robin pitcher, was removed from the game in the second inning with the bases filled and nobody out, Watson Clark replacing him.

Hits Ball Over the Fence.

The big scoring blow registered off Clark was made by Adam Comorosky. In the eighth the Pirate outfielder caught one of Clark's fast ones on the end of his bat and drove the ball on a line to the top of the left field wall, whence it bounced another fifty feet in the general direction of Carnegie Museum, perhaps an appropriate resting place for such a homer.

Dudley gave two runs in the first inning on a pair of doubles by Paul Waner and George Grantham and a single by Comorosky.

Dudley's misfortunes were piled up in the next inning when a clean single by Bartell to start the frame was followed by Hemsley's scratchy infield hit and Kremer's sacrifice, on which all three men were safe when Dudley tried for the play at third base and missed. It was at this point that Uncle Wilbert removed Dudley and sent Clark to the rescue.

Clark Pitches Steadily.

The Brooklyn southpaw, after one man had scored on a sacrifice fly to Bressler, hit by Paul Waner, fanned Pie Traynor to end the inning. Singles by Suhr, Bartell and Hemsley scored another run in the third, but thereafter Clark pitched steadily.

The Robins caught a 10:30 train for Chicago tonight, where they open the important four-game series with the second-place Cubs. Dazzy Vance is scheduled to pitch the opener tomorrow with Luque, Phelps and Ray Moss lined up for the three succeeding contests.

HARTNETT LEADS ATTACK ON PHILS

Gets Two Homers and Accounts for Six Runs as Chicago Triumphs, 13-12.

NINE HURLERS SEE SERVICE

Davis and Cuyler Also Contribute Circuit Drives—Losers Collect 17 Hits Off 4 Pitchers.

CHICAGO, June 25 (AP).—Gabby Hartnett swung the biggest club of all today as the Cubs won a free-hitting game, 13 to 12, from Philadelphia and advanced to within one game of the league-leading Robins.

Hartnett hit his fifteenth and sixteenth home runs of the season in succession to bring the Cubs into the lead and then capped his attack with a single in the ninth that brought home the winning run. With his other single, he accounted for a total of six runs.

Nine pitchers were used, five by the Cubs and four by the Phils. Guy Bush was credited with the victory, although he pitched only one-third of an inning. The Phils hammered Osborn, Nelson, Shealy and Blake for seventeen hits, one a homer by Davis with two on. Cuyler also hit for the circuit in Chicago's sixth, which netted seven runs.

AN ADDED OUNCE OF ENERGY TO KEEP YOU ON YOUR TOES

The amazing thing about a Palm Beach Suit is the way it quickens bodily energy. Yet there's reason aplenty:

Its weave invites the sunlight—those energizing ultra violet rays.

The yarns are unusual, for just as wool and worsteds generate heat—Palm Beach yarns generate coolness.

And finally, there's its feathery lightness, which gives the body and spirits that feeling of weightless freedom.

No wonder the man who steps into a Palm Beach Suit feels a new vitality—a new energy—a new zest. No wonder the Modernist and the Scientist (to say nothing of the Economist) are making Palm Beach Suits the fashion of the day.

And speaking of fashion . . . See the marvelous new weaves, and light and dark shade harmonies — At your clothier's.

Remember that the tailoring determines the price you pay; and always be sure to look for this label in the garment before you buy!

Navy and Washington Crews Rule Favorites in the Poughkeepsie Regatta Today

23 CREWS ROW TODAY IN HUDSON REGATTA

Record Fleet From 9 Colleges in Championship Races on River at Poughkeepsie.

100,000 TO SEE CLASSIC

Navy and Washington Rule Favorites in Varsity With Columbia and California Next.

MIDDIE SUBSTITUTES WIN

Score Over California Four-Oared Shell—Washington Eight Spurts to Beat Syracuse.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 25.—Under a sun that blazed down with pitiless heat from a clear blue sky, the crews of nine colleges today concluded the work which they have been doing since last September, work that had always pointed to the miles of greenish, deep looking river water of the Hudson—the Poughkeepsie regatta.

Tomorrow, soon after luncheon, a crowd of nearly 100,000 will start down the precipitous hillside that leads to the water here and at 3:30 o'clock, if the wind and water permit, the freshmen will start the regatta and will be followed at hourly intervals by the junior varsities and the varsities.

When the crews of nine universities have finished that last race, a fleet of twenty-three shells in the three events will have decided for the year the championships of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association in each class.

The modern years of rowing have never had a flotilla of this size racing in a single regatta. Only the days of Saratoga Lake events, when Yale and Harvard, and a half dozen others that have since abandoned rowing, all belonged to one association, saw bigger fleets than the one which rested on its oars, waiting for tomorrow.

Preliminary Races Held.

Preliminaries started this afternoon with two races among the substitutes, one for four oars and the other for eights, with the river cleared and with Julian W. Curtiss, the referee of the main event, in charge.

In the race for fours, only the crews of California and Navy competed. The Navy jumped the Westerners at the start to lead all the way down the course, winning by a margin of two lengths.

The race for eights had quite a field and, at a mile and a half, was a half mile further than the other. Washington won in the fine time of 6:55 for the distance.

Syracuse was second, having led for most of the way, only to have the Far Westerners come with a surging rush in the last quarter mile that carried them to the front for a half-length victory.

Penn Finishes Third.

Behind Syracuse was Penn and a combined Cornell-Wisconsin boat, then Columbia. The races were well rowed under fine conditions and provided a good curtain raiser for the more serious business of tomorrow.

The immense fleet tomorrow has been divided into nine varsity boats, six junior boatloads and eight freshman crews. In the varsity event, every college of the country that rows, with the exception of Yale and Harvard, already finished, and Princeton, which does not go in for long distance events, will send an eight pounding over the famous four miles.

Penn, Cornell, California, Wisconsin, Syracuse, Navy, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Washington and Columbia are to row in the main event. In the junior race, Washington, Syracuse, Cornell, Navy, Columbia and Penn will compete. The opening race for freshmen will see Columbia, Navy, Penn, Cornell, California, Syracuse, Washington and M. I. T. entered.

The regatta graduates to its peak, for the first race, for freshmen, is at two miles, the second at three and the climax comes with the four miles of the varsity.

Varsity An Open Race.

Never before has the issue been so confused on the eve of the regatta. There were just as many varsity crews entered last year, but then the great eight of Columbia stood out boldly and there was a fairly accurate idea of what crews might be following most closely.

For the past four days, the leading rowing men of the country, coaches and officials, have been on the river, and the result of their efforts has been a cautious installation of Washington and Navy as the favorites for the biggest race of all, with California as a very dangerous threat.

Washington, in its training period, has been most impressive. The boat does not carry so much poundage as some of the others, averaging 179 pounds. But it is a very rangy eight. Not one of the eight oarsmen stands under six feet in height. In their practice paddles and time rows, they have picked up their shell with a whipping, driving power and sent it along with real force and punch.

Washington has raced only twice this year, stopping California by a few feet away back in April and winning the informal meeting with Wisconsin on the way East. So there cannot be much drawn from past performances. It is pretty generally agreed that Washington has a good crew.

Navy Also Outstanding.

When Navy turned in a brilliant victory at Princeton over California, it became certain that this was another fine Navy boatload. The veteran old man, Glendon, who has handled Navy boats almost without a break, since the early years of this century, has put together a strong boat.

After Columbia had nipped the Navy at the Henley distance in the first race of the season, Shelton was placed at stroke and the Navy boat has been undefeated since. Shelton looks and acts like an old-fashioned Navy stroke. He reaches for a tremendous amount of water and apparently is able to keep his boat long at the terrific rates of stroke Navy crews use when the going becomes hard.

Navy shares with Wisconsin the distinction of being the heaviest crew on the river, rowing at 183 pounds, and it averages a bit more than six feet in height.

Either Columbia or California is expected to provide the main challenges for the two favorites. California, another tremendously rangy crew, has lost to Washington and Navy by close margins and heads into this race highly regarded.

Washington, with a junior varsity not much slower than its varsity, is the strongest sort of a favorite in this race. The freshmen race is expected to be very close and hard fought between Columbia, Navy and Washington, with the possibility of a surprise from some of the others. The turning tide is a bit faster in shore for the early races.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, June 25 (AP).—Princeton University's 150-pound crew, here for the British Henley regatta, lost little time today getting familiar with the course. Soon after the arrival of the American oarsmen, around noon, they had their boat brought out and took a short pull to limber up muscles.

TEAM FROM MEXICO IS HERE.

Soccer Players Arrive to Open Their Tour on Sunday.

The Mexican City soccer team arrived in New York yesterday and will play the first game of its American and Canadian tour at Hawthorne Field in Brooklyn on Sunday. The kick-off has been set for 3 o'clock and the opposition will be furnished by the Brooklyn Wanderers of the Atlantic Coast League. This promises to be an interesting game and is expected to attract a large crowd. Because of its international angle, the game is more interesting than the usual exhibition match.

Statements by Rival College Coaches On Prospects at Poughkeepsie Today

By The Associated Press.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 25. Quiet optimism was expressed tonight by the youthful coach of the University of Washington, a favorite in tomorrow's four-mile race for intercollegiate rowing honors.

In the other camps the attitude ranged all the way from subdued confidence to the steadfast determination not to be last, at any rate.

Here is what the coaches had to say on the eve of battle:

ULBRICKSON, Washington—We have a good crew, quite a bit faster than last year's eight, which finished second, and we hope it will be strong enough to win.

R. A. GLENDON, Navy—My varsity men have been rowing together without changes since the middle of May, and it would be a strange crew if it had not improved. But competition this year is keener than ever before, and there are at least seven crews that have a chance to win.

EBRIGHT, California—Four of our men are sophomores, and the crew as a whole is younger than the others, but I think we are stronger than our record shows, and we hope to be up there battling for the lead.

WRAY, Cornell—The loss of Commodore Showaker from the stroke position has injured our chances, but I think we will be able to push some of them along, or pull them along, as the case may be.

TEN EYCK, Syracuse—There are the oarsmen. Six of them and the coxswain were in the freshman crew that won here a year ago and two of them were on the junior varsity last year and the varsity the year before. Judge for yourself.

CALLOW, Penn—I would not be surprised if the three crews have not been accorded a high place in the advance speculation—Penn, M. I. T. and Wisconsin—came through with unexpected results.

MURPHY, Wisconsin—Our crew is potentially one of the strongest on the river. The boat contains plenty of weight and strength, but only the race itself will tell whether we have put in enough mileage to acquire a racing edge.

R. J. GLENDON, Columbia—Our crew this year may not contain as much brawn as the one that finished first last June, but the men are in good condition as a result of three weeks of steady training here and will be out to give a good account of themselves.

HAINES, M. I. T.—At least we hope to get further than in our first start on the Hudson last year, when we sank along with three other crews. Seriously, the varsity, though light, is rowing well and getting a nice run to the boat.

After trailing for eight innings Rochester rallied to tie the count with six runs in the ninth and Brown's single scored Williamson with the deciding run in the tenth to defeat Jersey City, 9 to 8, at West Side Park, Jersey City, yesterday in the third game of the series.

Tex Carleton, the fifth Rochester hurler, pitched the final session and received credit for the victory. Glenn Liebhardt Jr., 19-year-old recruit, weakened in the ninth and Austin Moore, who succeeded him, was the losing hurler. The visitors outhit Jersey City fifteen to eleven. Gillis hit a home run in the sixth.

CHANGES NOW LOOM IN ENGLISH CRICKET

Sandham, White and Allen Invited for Test Match Against Australia Tomorrow.

REDRAFTING IS CONSIDERED

Selection Committee Guards Against Shortage as Sutcliffe and Geary Are Incapacitated.

LONDON, June 25 (Canadian Press).—The committee which selects the English teams for the cricket test matches is taking no chances on being short of good players when the time comes finally to pick the eleven which will oppose Australia in the second international match, which begins at Lord's on Friday.

On account of the injury to Herbert Sutcliffe, noted partner of Jack Hobbs, in England's opening pair and the incapacity through rheumatism of George Geary, the bowler, it has been found necessary to consider a redrafting of the English team.

Andrew Sandham, noted Surrey opening batsman, yesterday was invited to be at Lord's on Friday. Today J. C. White and G. O. B. Allen received similar invitations. White is a tried test match bowler. He did wonders in Australia in the test matches in 1928-29. He has been bowling well this season and also has a number of fine batting feats to his credit in county cricket. He was satisfied to drop out of test games and was made a member of the selection committee. England's need, however, has caused his recall.

Allen is a fast bowler and punishing hitter. He was born in Australia and an uncle played for the Cornstalks in the latter part of the last century. Allen's cricket career has taken him through Eton and Cambridge matches. Last year his best bowling feat was the capturing of all ten of Lancashire's wickets for 40 runs for Middlesex at Lord's. This performance was doubtless in the minds of the selection committee when material was being considered.

Players available for England now are: A. P. F. Chapman, Hobbs, Sandham, Walley Hammond, Frank Woolley, Pat Hendren, Prince Duleepsinhji, Harold Larwood, Maurice Tate, R. W. V. Robbins, Allen, White, G. Duckworth and Dick Tyldesley.

If you can bend iron pipes . . .

Then you may be able to cut a KRO-FLITE!

The Kro-Flite is the toughest golf ball in the world. Not even the vicious Guillotine has ever been able to cut it.

And that Guillotine gives a golf ball rougher treatment than it would ever meet in actual play. The heavily weighted steel knife hits the ball exactly as a viciously-topped iron shot hits it.

Again and again, every well-known make of golf ball has been put to the Guillotine. And every single time, the Kro-Flite alone has carried off first honors.

All the others have been rendered unplayable. But the worst damage the Kro-Flite has ever shown is a barely visible dent. Always this amazing ball has come through in a playable condition—good for more holes than any ball ever made. And that goes for Kro-Flite in the new 1931 size or the present size.

The Kro-Flite has Distance, too.

The Kro-Flite is also one of the longest golf balls made.

In recent Driving Machine tests at Chicopee, Mass; Putney, England; and Pinehurst, N. C.—with present size balls and balls in the new 1931 size—the Kro-Flite fell but a trifling distance behind its famous brother, the Spalding Ball. And this Spalding Ball is recognized by golf's finest players as the longest ball the game has ever known.

Try Kro-Flite! If you play it without topping it—and we hope you will—you will get distance to cheer about. If you do top it—and we hope you won't—the Kro-Flite will come through undamaged, unhurt.

Shawnee Open Golf Tourney Won by Dudley With 282; Farrell Next With 288

DUDLEY WITH 282 WINS SHAWNEE OPEN

Wilmington Golf Pro Scores 73 and 69 to Lead Field by Six Strokes.

FARRELL FINISHES SECOND

Cox Takes Third Prize With 72-Hole Total of 290—Victor in Sensational Form.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Special to The New York Times.

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa., June 25.—Georgia's prestige as a breeder of golf champions was enhanced here today when Ed Dudley, a native of that State, won the Shawnee open with 282, a score that has been bettered only once in the history of the eighteen-year-old event.

In 1927 Johnny Farrell won the title for the third time with a score of 279, but since that mark was created nearly 400 yards have been added to the course.

Playing his last two rounds in 73 and 69, Dudley, now professional at the Concord Country Club, Wilmington, Del., won in a gallop, six strokes separating him from Farrell, who finished second with a score of 288. A 71 on the final round enabled Johnny to take second place from W. H. Cox of Marine and Field, who took third money with a score of 290. Felix Serafin of Scranton was fourth, one stroke away, while Craig Wood and Jack Forrester split fifth and sixth purses.

Dudley Retains Lead.

Following his 66 of yesterday, which enabled him to lead the field by four strokes, Dudley was never headed. Despite his 73 in the third round he still enjoyed a four-stroke margin over Farrell and Cooper, and when he played the first nine holes this afternoon in 35 his victory was virtually assured.

It was a certainty that no one would overtake him after that and from then on interest centred in the fight between Farrell and Cox for second honors, the former getting the place by virtue of his 72 in the third round, while the Marine and Field professional was taking a 75 to slip back from a tie for second to a tie for third.

Except for a mediocre start this morning, Dudley played gorgeous golf. He was 39 for the first nine holes as a result of slips on the third, sixth and ninth holes, but at that none of his dangerous rivals was able to gain more than a stroke or so on him.

Cox, out in 37, which might have been a great deal better had his putting been up to the standard of the rest of his game, picked up two strokes to be only two in arrears. Wood, who went out in 38, gained a stroke to be only three behind instead of four, and Farrell, who was five strokes back when the round started, recaptured two of them by going out in 37.

Comes Home in 34.

But from then on Dudley set a pace that was too blistering for any of them to follow. With long putts to save par figures on the thirteenth and fourteenth, Ed romped home in 34.

Dudley, therefore, started the final round with a four stroke lead. He knocked a ten-foot putt into the cup on the first hole of the last round for a birdie 3. Another birdie went down on the third and he had birdie 3's on the eighth and ninth to put him out in 35.

Any doubts as to his victory disappeared right there, especially when Farrell, now regarded as the only contestant having a chance against him, needed 37 over the same distance. Nothing but a complete collapse could prevent Dudley from winning now and he is of the non-collapsible type, as he demonstrated by scoring five 3s, three of them birdies, to finish his final round in 69.

Dudley's victory today netted him the Buckwood purse of $600 and $50 extra for his low score of 66.

JUNIOR GOLF TITLE IS WON BY MOFFETT

Maidstone Player Victor Over Tailer, 2 Up, in Met. Tourney at Ardsley.

Special to The New York Times.

ARDSLEY-ON-HUDSON, June 25.—Bob Moffett, tall youngster from the Maidstone Country Club, captured the metropolitan junior golf championship by defeating Tommy Tailer of Cherry Valley, 2 up, in an exciting match at the Ardsley Club this afternoon. Moffett scored a 74 for the eighteen holes against Tailer's 77.

To gain the final, Moffett defeated A. F. Kammer Jr. of Baltusrol, in the morning, by 2 and 1. Tailer, in his semi-final match, conquered D. R. Topping of Greenwich by 7 and 5.

On the sixteenth hole of the final Moffett took the lead that brought him to victory when his tee shot reached the green, while Tailer drove into a bunker. Moffett took the hole in par 3, Tailer requiring a 4. The seventeenth was halved in 4, and on the long eighteenth both reached the green in 3. Then Tailer missed a ten-foot putt, while Moffett sank his for a birdie 4 to win the title.

Tailer's morning play, when he eliminated Topping, was a brilliant exhibition of fine putting. His card showed a 35, one under par, for the first nine, and he made the first four holes on the return in 15 strokes. Moffett had a harder time in the semi-final against Kammer, who put up stiff opposition.

FINLAY AND DUNLAP GAIN IN TITLE GOLF

7 Colleges Still Represented as Oakmont Play Reaches Quarter-Finals.

FORREST, MOLLER ADVANCE

Perry, Eaton, Fuller and Parks Also Triumph—Two Harvard Men Among Survivors.

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

Special to The New York Times.

OAKMONT, Pa., June 25.—Seven colleges were still represented tonight when eight of the best golfers in student ranks successfully vaulted the first and second eighteen-hole rounds of the intercollegiate championship at the Oakmont Country Club.

With a new procedure in vogue in the event this year for the first time, the remaining survivors, including two from Harvard and one each from Yale, Princeton, Southern California, Pitt, Notre Dame and Alabama, now face the thirty-six-hole ordeals, beginning tomorrow with the quarter-final round.

Over the testing Oakmont course today both of the co-medalists, George T. Dunlap Jr. of Princeton and Lawrence Moller of Notre Dame, triumphed twice, but not without strong opposition.

Finlay Beats Team-mate.

Of the four Princeton players who qualified the Tigers are left only with Dunlap, while Harvard fared better, as both Phillips Finlay and Charles Eaton advanced through the two opening rounds. Finlay took his first match from his team-mate, J. B. Baldwin, after being out in 35, by 6 and 4, and continued with more fine golf this afternoon against Robert Enck of Ashland, Ohio, whom he eliminated by the same margin.

Although the "Big Three" are all represented with the two Harvard players, the Princeton star, Dunlap, and Marshall Forrest, the Yale captain, the South still has its hat in the ring and so has the West.

Sam Perry, the Southern intercollegiate titleholder, who somewhat resembles another Southerner who won this championship a few years ago, Watts Gunn, had a wonderful outgoing nine this afternoon, when he was three under par with a 34, including a 5 at the par 3 eighth.

By virtue of this, Perry won from a team-mate, J. B. Barfield of Alabama, 6 and 5, and is still a threat in the tournament. Earlier in the day Perry disposed of one of the best players from the Middle West, Richard B. Martin of Illinois, the Big Ten champion, in a match that went to the home green.

Moller in Fine Form.

The hard-hitting Moller broke through in splendid fashion, for not only did he defeat George McWilliams of Princeton, by 3 and 2, after the latter staged a series of remarkable recoveries, including one shot which he holed from a bunker to save a half, but he also eliminated a local favorite, Fred Brand Jr. of Penn State, who recently tied for the lead in this district's qualifying test for the national open.

Besides Sam M. Parks Jr. of the University of Pittsburgh, who rallied in the closing part of his match with Reuben Albaugh of Rice Institute to win by 2 and 1, taking the last three after being one down, Winston Fuller of the University of Southern California is the other remaining player.

Forrest meets Moller tomorrow, while Perry opposes Finlay. In the lower half Eaton, who won from Knox Young Jr. of Geneva, conqueror of Vincent Dolp this morning, faces Fuller, while Dunlap's match is with Parks.

Special Ship Will Carry 250 Atlantans To Quarantine to Welcome Bobby Jones

A delicate situation which might have proved highly embarrassing to the committee in charge of the welcome being arranged for Bobby Jones on his arrival from England next Wednesday was solved satisfactorily yesterday.

The dilemma which faced the committee was simply this: What was to be done with the 250 or more enthusiastic Atlantans who are coming here on a special train to greet their hero, all of whom would probably insist on going down the bay to catch a glimpse of the home-town boy who this year won the British amateur and open golf championships?

The Macom, of course, will be placed at the service of the committee by the city, but its capacity is limited and only members of the committee, official representatives of this city and Atlanta and newspaper men are expected to be on board the official reception boat when it steams to Quarantine to meet the Europa, which carries Bobby and his party.

Therefore, when the committee at its meeting yesterday at the Links Club, 36 West Sixty-second Street, received an offer from the Mandalay Line for the use of the excursion steamer Mandalay in carrying the visiting Atlanta delegation down the bay, an audible sigh of relief arose from the conferees.

Questionnaire Beats Starpatic by Three Lengths in Aqueduct Feature

AQUEDUCT FEATURE TO QUESTIONNAIRE

Beats Starpatic by 3 Lengths in Broadway Handicap, With Breezing Thru Third.

SPINACH LEADS CAPSTONE

Third in Alauda Handicap Goes to Bannerette—Workman Scores Consecutive Double.

By BRYAN FIELD.

James Butler's Questionnaire, which chased Gallant Fox and Whichone to the wire in the Belmont Stakes, captured the Broadway Handicap at Aqueduct yesterday in handy fashion and won new friends to the host who already have labeled him one of the gamest horses in training.

With apparently little effort Questionnaire went to the front of his field with a fine show of early speed and stayed there despite strong challenges in the stretch, winning by three lengths.

Frank E. Brown's well-trained racer Starpatic made the most formidable bid and caused Sonny Workman, rider of Questionnaire, to hit the Butler color-bearer a crack or two with the whip. After that the result was not in doubt, for the son of Sting drew away and permitted Workman to look back at his competition.

Aside from Starpatic, the others were out of things in the early stages of the mile and a sixteenth test, which is exclusively for 3-year-olds that have not won a race worth $10,000. Eight in all ran and E. R. Bradley's Breezing Thru was a distant third, six lengths back of Starpatic.

Questionnaire 4-5 Favorite.

Questionnaire, the 4-to-5 favorite, won $4,050 by his fine performance. He finished in 1:44 2-5, and it is rather too bad that he is ineligible for the Dwyer, as there are not many racers which are considered fast enough to stack up against Gallant Fox and Whichone. He probably will not be seen under colors again until the Empire City meeting.

The start, one of the best made by George Cassidy, saw Buckeye Poet run to the front, while Questionnaire was allowed a moment or two to settle into his stride.

Within a quarter Questionnaire, which carried top weight of 118 pounds, was on top, and when the field hit the far turn he drew off with a burst of speed that brought an involuntary gasp from the spectators.

Starpatic Makes Bid.

Starpatic moved up strongly on the bend and it was in the stretch that he made his bid. It was a threatening move until Questionnaire settled down to his best. For a single furlong he ran and that stopped Starpatic. In the last quarter Workman let his horse coast, and it was easy. Workman scored a consecutive double with B. G. Lewis's John Cavanagh in the next race, the fifth.

There was another fine race on the card, the Alauda Handicap, and William Ziegler Jr.'s Spinach came home a winner just as easily as did Questionnaire.

Spinach was made the 13-to-10 favorite and led from start to finish. Four lengths back of him at the wire was Capstone, with Bannerette half a length back to be third.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

OFF to the races! Once a year the sedate city of Poughkeepsie, the quiet county seat of Dutchess, gets into a turmoil. Flags hang from all buildings and college pennants flutter in the highways and byways. Strangers and pilgrims gather on the court house corner and spread out into the street. The Nelson House is filled until it almost seems that the walls will burst outward. Traffic is jammed. Trolley cars creep along with passengers clinging like freshmen at a flag-rush. Probably many of the clinging passengers are freshmen.

Through the morning and early afternoon, with the city already packed, more tourists pour in. Just how many thousands turn out to watch the boat races each year at Poughkeepsie is a matter of debate. Estimates vary widely. There are no clicking turnstiles to register the spectators, since the seats on the banks of the Hudson and the heights overlooking the river are free, war tax included. The only spectators who pay for tickets are the few thousand lucky enough to find themselves on the observation train.

Sometimes it is frightfully hot in Poughkeepsie. Sometimes it rains. Occasionally the varsity race was held practically under cover of darkness. Four crews swamped in the murky dusk last year. The great stretch battle between Columbia and California a few seasons back, with Eric Lambart stroking Columbia and Dynamite Donlon setting the beat for the Golden Bears, was staged in a drenching downpour.

Engineers Afloat.

The Engineers from M. I. T. came to Poughkeepsie last year with makeshift equipment and little experience in big-time rowing competition. They pitched a marquee well up on the east bank of the river. They patched their boat and tightened the rigging. They lay under canvas the night of the big wind and felt that any moment the stakes might give way and the marquee come tumbling down about their ears.

They stood good-natured gibes about their form and their second-hand shell. They practiced hard and faithfully. They halted the race by breaking down at the first start and groans went up from the observation cars in the semi-darkness under the cliff that guards the west bank of the river. They dashed off through the choppy water, in the outside lane. They had the roughest going and they were the least experienced watermen.

It hardly seemed that they were under way before the stern began to settle. The coxswain and the stroke were sitting in the Hudson. The bow man was up in the air. But not for long. All hands and the whole shell went under. That was just the beginning of the sinking spells. After that it was like the battle of Manila. But the Engineers, true to Army tradition, prepared the trail and showed the way. First down for the Engineers.

Yet here they are back again. Nothing discourages an Engineer. Nobody can keep an ambitious oarsman off the water. More power to M. I. T.!

A Family Quarrel.

There are the Glendons, who may make the Poughkeepsie regatta a sea-going imitation of a father-and-son tournament. Glendon the elder, the Navy coach, is Dick Glendon. Glendon the younger, the Columbia rowing tutor, is Rich Glendon. Hubert Glendon, another of the younger generation, handles the Columbia lightweights. In France they say "Bon chien chasse de race." Hubert of the Glendons inherits his father's Cape Cod accent and his intimate knowledge of boats and boatmen.

When a Glendon invites a visitor to clamber into a coaching launch he doesn't say "Hop in" or "Step this way." No, indeed. It's "Come aboard, sir!" in a brisk nautical tone. The tendency on the part of timid visitors is to snap into a salute and respond quickly, "Aye, aye, sir!"

The Columbia crew took the measure of the Navy shell on the Severn early in the year. One up for Rich over Glendon Père. But the Navy crew is big and strong and has been coming along of late. Navy will be dangerous today.

The Ancient Mariner.

They say that Old Jim Ten Eyck has a good Syracuse crew this year. All the better if he has. There's another great rowing family, the Ten Eycks. Old Jim, at four score years, is still in the game. One of his sons, Edward Hanlan Ten Eyck, won the Diamond Sculls. Another, Young Jim, was an oarsman himself and coach of the Duluth Boat Club when that organization, backed by Julius Barnes, dollar-a-year man and wheat dictator during the war, swept the rivers in amateur regattas.

There are readers who say: "Why harp on the coaches? Tell about the oarsmen. They are the ones who pull the boat."

They do. But they change from year to year. They come up and fade out. Who remembers the No. 5 of last year's crew? But when a man sticks to a sport for nearly threescore years and ten, he is an institution, a tradition, a big part of the game. Even if the spectators don't feel that, the oarsmen do. Ask them.

It would please no end of people, from coast to coast, to hear that Old Jim Ten Eyck's boys turned in a great race at Poughkeepsie.

Young Lochinvars.

There remain the Young Lochinvars who have come out of the West, the lads from Wisconsin, Washington and California. Wisconsin is returning to the rowing wars after a lapse of some seasons. They may not be the first crew to the finish line or even the first crew under the old bridge, but they are back at Poughkeepsie, and that's a good start at building up rowing again at old Wisconsin.

California always has a good crew. The same might be said about Washington, with the extra emphasis that this crew of huskies nosed out the Golden Bears in their Spring regatta on the Coast, much to the surprise of many spectators and the deep chagrin of the California oarsmen. If they do nothing else at Poughkeepsie, they would like to reverse that verdict.

But they plan to do more than that if their shell keeps afloat. They plan to win the race. That complicates matters, because Columbia, Navy, Washington and possibly Syracuse also plan to win the race.

After all, the lads from California can afford to be a little generous on the water. Their playmates of the Pacific Slope have won practically everything on dry land. They have great sprinters, hurdlers, weight-throwers, shot-putters and discus men out there. They swept the intercollegiates. Army and Pittsburgh will vouch for the fact that they have great football teams on the Coast. It hardly seems fair for that district to attempt to grab off supremacy on the water too.

But if they will try it, the only thing to do is to rush to Poughkeepsie, take a firm stand on a jutting rock on the west side of the river and shout with furious enthusiasm: "Come on, Columbia!"

STAR ETAWAH WINS IN STRAIGHT HEATS

Captures Feature Pace on Grand Circuit Card at Toledo—Steps Mile in 2:02¾.

GENERAL WALKER IS VICTOR

Favorite Driven Home First in 16 Class Trot—Phil Volo and Braden Heir Triumph.

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 25 (AP).—Star Etawah, brown pacer by Day Star, was driven to victory in the feature event on the third night's Grand Circuit racing at the Fort Miami track by Sep Palin in straight heats.

Palin drove Star Etawah around the mile track in 2:02¾ in the second heat to reel off one of the fastest miles of the year for either pacers or trotters. Patchen Boy, the favorite, came in second, with Cartnal at the reins.

Favorites won the second and fourth events, General Walker taking the former, a 16 class trot, in straight heats, while Phil Volo won two out of the three heats handily in the fourth event, a claiming trot.

The opening event on the program went to Braden Heir in easy fashion. Widow Brooke, Doc Parshall's entry, was installed the favorite, but had to be content with second place.

Spinach was in good form. He broke fast, handled his weight well, set all the pace, and won galloping. Capstone was kept well up and stood a long drive gamely to outlast Bannerette. The latter suffered slight interference at the far turn, but ran a good race. Chief Executive ran an improved race and is worth remembering. Partisan saved ground all the way. Strongheart ran well for six furlongs.

Questionnaire was much the best. He was rated off the pace for the first six furlongs, went to the front in the stretch and, drawing away, won nicely in hand. Starpatic, well up, made a game effort and was next best. Buckeye Poet displayed excellent early speed, but weakened in the last furlong. Breezing Thru closed with a rush. Full Dress had speed for half a mile.

THE PRESIDENT'S CHALLENGE.

From the immediate response which the country has given him, President HOOVER must see how eager and even impatient people have become in their desire that he assert his leadership. For a long time his friends have apologetically explained his seeming inaction, despite repeated affronts from Congress. They have said that Mr. HOOVER naturally hoped to avoid anything like an open breach with the Senate. So long as it was possible, his aim was to conciliate and cooperate. But when the time came, so his intimates have asserted, for his forbearance to have reached the breaking-point, he would take his courage in both hands and, in effect, appeal to the country as against those enemies of his in Congress—even in his own party—who were trying to humiliate and hamstring his Administration.

Through his plain-spoken and determined language about the pension bill passed so light-heartedly by the Senate, Mr. HOOVER has, by so much, redeemed the pledges of his friends. He is risking much for the sake of maintaining the prestige of his office. It is possible that his expected veto of the bill will not be sustained in Congress. But he has gone about the business in the right way. He has used great plainness of speech in describing the vicious nature of the legislation, which all but six Senators voted for. Then he has turned to the only apparent source of his political strength in Congress, the Republicans in the House. Most of them seem to have been rallied to the support of the President as a matter of party discipline. They must realize that if he goes down in repeated defeats, they and their party will fall with him. If they uphold his veto, there may be no pension legislation at all at this session of Congress, but that would not be an insupportable calamity.

The course which Mr. HOOVER has taken is full of hazards, but also of honors. A bold and unflinching President, resolute in upholding the reputation of his position and in standing for the welfare of the whole country as against any mere group or clique, is never hurt by the antagonism of the Senate. That fact has been demonstrated again and again in our political annals. More than once the Senate in its endeavors to belittle a President has made him seem all the greater in the public eye. Mr. HOOVER is not a man to balance such considerations nicely. He is thinking mainly of the job in his hands. But he will find, if he persists in the direct and aggressive manner which he has adopted in this instance, that the American people still believe that "power clings to him who power exerts."

KINGSFORD-SMITH'S GREAT FLIGHT.

One of the greatest living air pilots, KINGSFORD-SMITH, completed the second westward flight over the Atlantic by landing at Harbor Grace yesterday morning. He used a well-tested plane that had been flown over the Pacific and most of the way round the world. Hope was warranted that a successful Great Circle flight would be made from Dublin to Long Island, but persistent headwinds and Newfoundland fogs partially defeated the best-laid plans. Atmospheric conditions in the Cape Race area do not seem favorable to satisfactory radio exchanges. KINGSFORD-SMITH could not get Cape Race when the shore station was doing its utmost to talk with him. Nevertheless, he owed his safe landing to direction signaling from two stations.

"But for the wonderful wireless," said the Australian when his feet were on firm ground again, "we should never have got out of the fog." In the message he sent THE TIMES after midnight he said: "Will have to try for more bearings now." Not until 6:57 in the morning was the Southern Cross brought down. There comes to mind DIEUDONNE COSTE'S declaration after his failure in July of last year to fly beyond the Azores: "I would rather fly ten "times from west to east than once "from this direction." KINGSFORD-SMITH and his companions scored a notable triumph over the elements off Cape Race. They realized what it was to fly blindly and to match their wits against conditions that were sinister. In the end radio saved them.

ANTHONY FOKKER, who built the Southern Cross, believes that with fair weather off Newfoundland KINGSFORD-SMITH would have come through to New York on the fuel he started with. Unfortunately, fog is not the exception in a large area around Cape Race, and the condition calls for further improvement in radio signaling between plane and shore. New York will be ready to give the men of the Southern Cross a royal welcome when they arrive.

WHAT IS $519,000 AMONG FRIENDS?

If Mayor WALKER had not favored higher salaries for city commissioners, the proposal would never have reached the Board of Estimate. So it is not news that he will approve the increases sent him by the Board of Aldermen. With his cynical disinclination to have a public hearing there need be no quarrel. No matter what arguments were offered, no matter what inequalities were exposed, no matter how much the bad taste and stealth of the whole proceeding were attacked, he would sign just the same. As soon as the Budget Director had gone through his ornamental motions, the Board of Estimate and the Aldermen were given their orders. The sum of $519,000 was "muscled" into the payroll.

As increases in the salaries of the Mayor, the Controller and the Borough Presidents were promptly followed by those of judges and commissioners, new increases will be ordered in the 1931 budget for lesser employes. Everybody is to get his. At least, everybody who is anybody politically is to get his. That business is slack; that nearly everybody feels poorer than for years; that able-bodied and willing men walk the streets unemployed—all this is nothing to the rulers of our city. They were given a blank check in 1929 by a majority of over 500,000 and are proceeding to fill it in. The public will forget by next election day. Meanwhile, there are plenty of favors to be distributed in private places. Such is the political philosophy of a Tammany Administration. The people can stamp upon it election day if the opposition gives them a good opportunity.

Will that opportunity be provided? The minority leader in the Board of Aldermen, Mr. BALDWIN, did what he could to prevent or defer the increases. He could not even vote all his own party members with him. Some of their friends and masters were being looked after also. Mr. BALDWIN has an internal task of disciplining before he can attack the arrogant enemy with anything like the force he will require.

MR. BALDWIN AND PRESS LORDS

STANLEY BALDWIN has turned effectively on the two Lord Crusaders. A distinction should be made between the two. Lord BEAVERBROOK believes in his policy. Lord ROTHERMERE is in the "show business." The trade he is most eager to promote is that of his newspapers. It is his high mission to control the policy of Governments and dictate their memberships. The letter which Mr. BALDWIN read at a meeting of Conservative delegates is surprising even to the closest students of Rothermerian modesty. His newspapers will not support Mr. BALDWIN unless the proposed policies are fully revealed to the great man, and the names of at least eight or ten principal Ministers, should a Tory Government be formed, submitted to the same august authority.

In short, the Tory party is to be personally controlled by a newspaper publisher. Lord BEAVERBROOK is his nominee for Prime Minister. The nominee is not quite so severe as his patron, but both cooperate in their various ways and organs to force Mr. BALDWIN from the leadership if he will not be their puppet. In the hope of promoting party unity, he consented to a referendum on food taxes, but not at the next general election. Appeased for a time, Lord BEAVERBROOK grew impatient. The referendum should be a "spear and not a shield." The little job of "building a tariff wall around the Empire" must be begun as soon as possible. If Mr. BALDWIN wouldn't obey orders, he must be speared.

Mr. BALDWIN will not yield. He knows that defeat would be certain if his party should favor food taxes in the next election. An employer of labor, he understands that the working classes will not stand for food taxes. The countries outside the Empire furnish Great Britain with twice the amount of food supplies and raw materials sent by the countries within the Empire; and if "Empire trade" is a filling phrase, the fact remains that the intra-imperial trade, enormous as it is, is not more than a third of the trade of the Dominions with the extra-imperial regions.

Presumably Mr. BALDWIN, in consenting to a referendum on food taxes at some indefinite time, was making a concession to political prudence. He will make no further concession. The two newspaper magnificoes are free to do their worst and loudest. Mr. BALDWIN'S declaration of independence seems likely to revive the Conservative sense of discipline and loyalty. Adversity has caused much miscellaneous growling among the Conservatives. That is natural to the beaten anywhere and to the English all the time. But there is no evidence that he has not maintained the public confidence which he has deserved in seven years of faithful and substantial if not brilliant service. The solidity of his qualities is more valuable than showiness would be.

A NEIGHBOR'S NEED.

Porto Rico needed emergency relief because of the hurricane last year. But there is a deeper devastation. It is that of disease. The proposal of the Child Health Association to raise a fund of $3,000,000 to fight tuberculosis in the island suggests a condition that the people of the United States cannot with good conscience ignore. Governor THEODORE ROOSEVELT, who has in the short period of his office acquainted himself with every corner of Porto Rico, has framed a program looking to economic and educational and health improvement and set vigorously to work to get things done. He has asked for increased funds from our Government in order to provide rural schools in which agricultural teaching will be an essential feature, to establish farm bureaus and to build roads. Prompt appropriations would no doubt give Porto Rico a surer footing.

Private funds are sought with Mr. ROOSEVELT'S emphatic approval for an extensive health campaign, attacking not only tuberculosis (from which 60 per cent of the children are suffering and a large percentage of the whole population), but hookworm and malaria and especially malnutrition. A number of leading health and relief organizations have joined under the sponsorship of a general board especially created for this cause and chiefly interested in the health and general welfare of the children of Porto Rico. President HOOVER, for many years head of the Child Health Association, has given cordial support to the undertaking as one demanding "systematic service."

The preliminary report, made by Dr. S. J. CRUMBINE of the American Child Health Association, shows that the crude death-rate per thousand of the Porto Rican population was in 1929 more than twice our own, and that the tuberculosis mortality rate in the two larger cities is five times that in New York City. Living conditions are such that infection is inevitable. The "frontal attack" contemplates creating regional hospitals in which open infectious cases may be treated. Special provision is also to be made for the care of sick and undernourished children and the construction and enlargement of milk stations.

Governor ROOSEVELT has large hopes for Porto Rico as an interpreter of our ideals to the Latin countries to the south of us as well as their interpreter to us. But that service must wait upon the economic conditioning of the people and their educational and health development. He has made an excellent start and deserves both public and private support for his program. It is not a mere palliative but one of permanent values.

CENSUS DRIFTS.

Since the 1930 census is certain to bring renewed discussion of the old subject of urban and rural population, it is well to keep in mind the meaning of the terms employed. In the 1920 census the urban population of the United States for the first time passed the rural population, though by a narrow margin; 51.4 per cent of the American people were classified as urban. That this does not mean city population has often been noted. By Census Bureau usage any place with a population of 2,500 or over is urban, and the people of a village of 5,000 or even of a town of 10,000 are not quite in the category of city folks. Still, the drift to the cities and towns from the farms has no doubt continued and, under the special meaning of the terms, the gap between urban and rural population will be found to have widened notably in the last ten years. Illinois, with complete figures, finds that Cook County ten years ago had 47 per cent of the population of the State and this year has 53 per cent. This, of course, does not fully measure the urbanization of Illinois, since the smaller cities and towns have also drawn population from the farm.

Urban and rural population in 1930 cannot properly be discussed without taking account of a certain measure of change which has come about in the meaning of these terms even since so recent a date as 1920. Particularly to the student of social problems and politics who sees that change from rural to urban means changes in outlook, temper, mores, civilization almost, the shifting significance of "rural" and "urban" is of importance. Briefly, it may be said that rural in 1930 is by no means so rural as in 1920, and urban in 1930 is a bit less urban than in 1920. When we speak of the drift from farm to city we think of people wrenched from primitive conditions and thrown into Babylon. But the farm of 1930 is not so far removed from the city of 1930 as the two were in the past. Successively, rural free delivery, popularization of the telephone, the movie theatre, the automobile and radio have broken into the isolation of the farm. The farmer has won mobility and contacts. He obviously shares many of the interests and recreations of the city folk. In the '90s of the last century young Si with his carpetbag gaped at the bright lights of his first city "theayter." In 1930 he may have seen his favorite movie queen in her latest release on Main Street several weeks before Broadway is accorded the privilege. The shift from a rural to an urban mentality is less abrupt than it used to be because the "sticks" from which population is drifting to the sidewalks is not the untouched Arcadia it used to be.

On the other hand, the huge metropolis is not quite so urban as it was a quarter of a century ago. The population of the "incorporated limits" grows, but the growth is really in the residential outlying parts of the city. In all conscience there is enough altitude and clamor and rush and grime in 1930 Manhattan to give the country lad a headache; but he need not live in Manhattan in order to be of New York. He can live in parts of Brooklyn, Queens or the Bronx, where one still sees trees, bits of garden, individual dwellings. For such a newcomer the change from the farm at home with automobile and radio to his boarding place in the New York outskirts is obviously not what it was for the boy of half a century ago who landed from an Illinois prairie farm in a shabby boarding house on the lower west side.

A FOOLISH RESOLUTION.

Under its present chairmanship, the Banking and Currency Committee of the House of Representatives seems capable of almost any folly. An extreme instance is the resolution which would prohibit Federal Reserve Banks, national banks, and even State banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System, from buying German reparation bonds. This appears to be a reflection of the state of mind, approaching mania, on that subject which has been afflicting Chairman MCFADDEN. For the Treasury, Secretary MELLON appeared yesterday before the committee to demonstrate the absurdity and futility of the resolution. He showed that under the existing law Federal Reserve Banks are without authority to purchase bonds of the kind objected to. So far as such banks are concerned, therefore, the resolution is both superfluous and silly.

The next question is what power the Federal Government has to direct or limit investments of national and State banks. The latter are creatures of State law. Their regulation and inspection are in the hands of State authorities. The Government at Washington has neither right nor reason to interfere with them. As for national banks, they are, to be sure, agents of the Federal Government, but they are owned by private citizens, and their officers are responsible primarily only to their stockholders. Congress may enact certain general regulations for national banks, and has, in fact, defined the kind of securities, under regulation by the Controller, in which they may invest. It is specified that such securities shall be of a total large enough to make sale of them readily marketable, while their public distribution must have been made in such a way as to render them assets easily made liquid. Obviously, the German reparation bonds meet both of these requirements. The statement made to the committee by the Secretary of the Treasury was so effective, partly because it was so quiet, that we shall probably hear no more of this piece of financial prejudice.

THE OLD POSTOFFICE TO GO.

Final agreement between the Federal Government and the city for the disposal of the old postoffice in City Hall Park requires only the necessary Congressional and municipal legislation in order to end the controversy which in one or another form has been in progress for many years. The old building is to be torn down, thus enabling the city to restore City Hall Park to its original dimensions. In exchange for this property the Federal Government is to receive two sites—one for the new Federal courts and the other for the new postoffice and other Federal offices. The transaction involves payment to the Federal Government by the city of about $1,500,000, which represents the difference between the appraised valuation of the old postoffice site and the new one.

The new postoffice building is to be a skyscraper which will house various Federal offices. Its site is bounded by Barclay, Vesey and Church Streets and West Broadway. The new court house is to be in the so-called "civic centre" north of the present City Hall. There it is proposed to erect buildings for various branches of the City Government. A detailed scheme has been drawn up by the Regional Plan and submitted to the city.

From the public point of view, elimination of the old postoffice building in City Hall Park is the most important element in this transaction. For years people have hoped that it might be removed so as to open the vista of the City Hall and give a larger breathing space in that district. At the same time, a new postoffice building, modernized so as to provide facilities for the expediting of mail, will be a benefit to many by improving the quality of service. The need of other suitable buildings for the Federal offices is apparent to any one who has had occasion to visit the dilapidated and often filthy old offices in which Uncle Sam has been carrying on his business downtown.

The financial basis of the transaction is somewhat complicated, but appears to be satisfactory to Mayor WALKER and to Secretary MELLON. Each pledges his efforts to obtain the funds to consummate the bargain. The present session of Congress may not have time to act. But there is no reason to suppose that the proposal will be rejected. The city authorities doubtless will authorize the payments specified. It is a relief all round that this long-standing controversy has at last been settled.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Kansas Definition. Not every one in the Sunflower State is singing "The Happy Farmer." In The Emporia Gazette the failure of the Farm Board to keep up the price of wheat is sardonically noted, along with the statement that the Emporia price is now only about 74 cents a bushel, with the prospect that the new crop will cause even that figure to be cut within the next few weeks.

Who is to blame for this sad state of affairs? "Largely, my children, it is the high American protective tariff." Out of "the tariff mess" the American farmer gets nothing. The editor goes on: "For these and divers other reasons the writer of these lines is a low-tariff Republican." Then he drops into a figure of speech that is expressive of something, though untutored Easterners would hardly know what: "So low that you can't shove a safety-razor blade between his vest buttons and the bottom of an oil well."

Anyhow, we draw the inference that "BILL" WHITE is disgusted with the tariff, even though personally it has not, we are glad to think, made his vest buttons less prominent.

An Expert to Haiti. In naming Mr. DANA G. MUNRO to be the first new American Minister to Haiti, the President has selected a man especially well fitted by training and disposition for the delicate task of supervising American interests in that country.

A son of Professor MUNRO of Princeton, the new Minister has for the last ten years specialized in Central American and Caribbean affairs, having risen from the post of clerk in the Foreign Trade Adviser's Office to that of chief of the Division of Latin-American Affairs in the State Department. In addition, he has done duty in Chile, Panama and Nicaragua and is the author of a book on the Central American republics which is regarded as authoritative.

As the successor to General RUSSELL of the Marine Corps, Mr. MUNRO will have charge of our supervision of the still turbulent black republic. The work requires patience and tact, as well as a thorough knowledge of its technical aspects. The appointment of a civilian to perform it was one of the principal recommendations of the Forbes mission, which recently reported on Haitian conditions. It is doubly fortunate that the Minister chosen is a man of experience in this line of work.

A Paper Suspends. Many will regret that the "four-page journal of ideas for the general reader," edited by HAROLD DE WOLF FULLER, bearing the title "New York" and published under the sponsorship of New York University, is to be discontinued. Its decease is definitely announced to take place on the 28th of June.

Mr. FULLER'S decalogue of aims would seem to be doomed to the destruction that befell the first tables of stone which MOSES brake when he came down from the mountain and saw the people dancing and worshiping the golden calf. They deserve, however, to be remembered, even if the paper that bore them as its unfulfilled ideal perishes:

"To be independent and nonpartisan.

"To stress the importance of background and perspective in the discussion of public problems.

"To help cultivate habits of thought and action which will make well-earned leisure enjoyable and not a burden.

"To illustrate the evils that arise through reliance upon the theory of 'manifest destiny.'

"To resist the belief that machinery, whether physical machinery or the machinery of organization, is our salvation.

"To point out the limitations of the scientific method in the regulation of society.

"To insist that good taste is of the essence of good judgment.

"To contend that economic world leadership is a means, not an end.

"To suggest standards to which aspiring youth can rally.

"To be at once critical and constructive."

As for Mr. FULLER himself, his office has been that suggested by the figure in the prophecy of MALACHI, not as a "refining fire" but as "fuller's earth," a hydrous silicate which the fuller took out of the earth to cleanse thoroughly and make honestly white what for the moment seemed to defile but in the end purified. It is a pity that this civic fuller could not have continued to apply the verbal silicates that bite and purify.

Motion Pictures and Racial Susceptibility. Up in Harlem, where a very large Spanish-American colony has grown up since the war, there was a hostile demonstration the other day against the motion picture dealing with cattle-rustling and love along the Rio Grande. The film was alleged to reflect injuriously "on the women of Latin America." There were a number of arrests, but the longer consequences of such an incident deserve note.

There is no doubt that when Latin-American protests become sufficiently numerous the box-office instinct at Hollywood will respond. The traditional "greaser" villain and his female counterpart will follow into limbo the Irish, Jewish and German comic characters whom the universality of the movie has doomed.

To the credit of the theatre screen should be remembered this contribution to human brotherhood. Creating for an audience of countless millions may not be conducive to high art, but it enforces respect for racial and national feelings, even if the motive be materialistic. The esthete may deplore the movie's world of sugar and sentiment, but for the promotion of peace among the nations it may be desirable that there shall be no wicked or absurdly comic human beings anywhere. All the world's male population is handsome and valiant, and all the women are beautiful and pure.

Advocating the Hare System.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with much interest in THE TIMES the letter of John W. Hutchinson on the direct primary in which he suggests a return to the convention system. The convention system would seem to me to have just as many evils as the direct primary. It might not even save money.

It seems to me that the remedy for the situation is the Hare system, which can be used either for the election of single officials or as a proportional system for the election of representative bodies—as is now done in Cincinnati, Cleveland and some other American cities. The Hare system accomplishes satisfactorily in one election what a primary and final election under the ordinary plurality methods accomplish unsatisfactorily in two. Under it a voter has but one vote, but he is able to express alternative choices. If his first choice has no chance of election his vote is passed on to his next choice. This method insures election by an absolute majority, or, when used as a proportional system, the true representative of all important elements among the voters. I recommend it to your readers for investigation.

Our Lack of Reference Works.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with great interest a letter in THE TIMES from Oscar Altman concerning the lack of reference facilities in the branches of the public library which are located in the Bronx.

For the past few months I have been on leave of absence from my regular work, and during this time, which I have passed in New York, I have had constant need of consulting ordinary works of reference. While I am deeply indebted to the librarians and their assistants, particularly at the Kingsbridge branch, for their courtesy, efficiency and helpfulness in making their meager store available, I have found the reference facilities very unsatisfactory. In fact, in my opinion they are totally inadequate for the needs of the high school and college students of the neighborhood.

ANOTHER CLASS GOES.

(The Graduating Class Teacher Soliloquizes.)

Ships palpitant with fires of youth
Salute and then depart,
But I, alone upon the shore,
Must guard a too fond heart.

I must repeat old formulas
And peddle grave advice,
While time conceals with roses his Rapacious hands of ice.

While time, the traitor, lavishes
His love on buds of June,
I must not see in memory
A barren Winter moon.

I must not think of storm-lashed ships,
The prey of winds and waves;
Of derelicts that, rudderless,
Go down to deep-sea graves.

Let laughter cover up my fears;
Let wisdom's feast be spread;
The valedictories are done,
The last good-byes are said.

Again they leave me lingering
Alone upon the shore;
Their ships with freight of hopes and dreams
Turn specks—then are no more.

DR. CURTIUS'S APPEAL.

We Should Cooperate in German Foreign Minister's Peace Plans.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The appeal made to the people of the United States by Dr. Curtius, the broad-minded and progressive statesman who has succeeded Dr. Stresemann as German Foreign Minister, which was reported in THE TIMES of June 22, is the most important happening in the field of international relations since M. Briand made to us his now famous appeal of April 6, 1927, which resulted in the Pact of Paris to renounce war as an instrument of national policy.

Dr. Curtius speaks for the New Germany, which is committed to peace, to economic development, to scientific and intellectual progress and to increasingly close international relations not only with her neighbors in Europe but with the world. Germany may be counted on with perfect confidence to be one of the strongest and most eager supporters of M. Briand's plan for a closer union of the peoples and governments of Europe.

In his address to the people of the United States, Dr. Curtius committed Germany to "a peace secured not by military armaments but by justice, good-will and reciprocal, sincere understanding. We desire such a peace," he said, "not as a nation unfit or loath to bear arms. We desire it as men who know how to fight—I myself served at the front for more than four years—but who have come to understand that there are other ways for settling international controversies than by letting an inferno loose over humanity."

These are splendid and epoch-marking words. Dr. Curtius gives them new strength and new application by adding: "We stand unreservedly for the peaceful settlement of every kind of conflict between States. And having ourselves, in spite of all rumors to the contrary, completely disarmed, following the Treaty of Versailles, we strongly insist upon an all-around reduction to the minimum of all military establishments and preparations for war, which are always a potential danger to the peace of the world."

Not only so, but Dr. Curtius proposes to prepare for a peaceful world by studying the bases of peace, the methods of peace, the institutions of peace. To this end there will be founded in Berlin as a memorial to the late Dr. Stresemann an Academy of Peace, the like of which has not heretofore been seen in this world. This academy will have the threefold task of publishing international research work in various languages, of making scientific investigation into the ways and means of organizing a just and peaceful order of international politics, and of the education of public opinion through the press, the universities and other institutions of learning.

In this great enterprise Dr. Curtius invites the cooperation of the American people, and that he should have it quickly and generously goes without saying. It is understood that M. Briand in France and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in Great Britain have given their cordial approval to this new undertaking in Berlin, which will start under the best possible auspices and at a most fortunate moment in the history of the modern world. It is no small pleasure and satisfaction to commend this undertaking most earnestly to the American people and to ask for it their cordial sympathy and support.

France spoke her intention to walk the path of peace by the voice of M. Briand on April 6, 1927, and now Germany adds her potent and significant voice to the same end and for the same high purpose on June 21, 1930. Surely the world is rapidly moving on toward a new and higher plane of international morals and international cooperation.

PUBLIC UTILITY REGULATION

Mr. Bauer Can See Nothing Socialistic in His System.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

This is a brief and final reply to "Bona Fides" on public utility regulation. Under a comprehensive cost system of rate-making—as sketched in my letter in THE TIMES of June 15, and as elaborated in my book on "Effective Regulation of Public Utilities" (Macmillan, 1925), also as presented in my report to the New York Revision Commission last year—the total cost of service would include the cost of capital devoted to the public service, the cost of materials used in operation, the cost of labor, including management, supervision and technical staff, as well as all ordinary labor, also taxes and depreciation to provide systematically for the renewals of all outworn and obsolete facilities.

The cost in each instance would be based, for all elements, upon the established market price as determined by agreement and as paid by the utility. There would be the single exception that, for present existing properties, there would be substituted a valuation made under present-day conditions, upon which would be allowed a fair return as fixed under present standards of law. After such initial valuation, all the costs would be shown definitely by the accounts. Rate-making would be systematically administered, and the rights of both investors and consumers would be exactly safeguarded. Whatever capital returns might be required to obtain needed capital, also whatever compensation would be necessary to obtain efficient management and technical skill, would be included in the cost of service, to be borne by the public through systematic rate-making standards and machinery.

If this is socialism, then I am in the best of company. It includes Senator John Knight, chairman of the New York Revision Commission; all the members of the Revision Commission, Colonel William J. Donovan, counsel of the Revision Commission, and Governor Roosevelt—all agreed upon the economic desirability of my plan, but divided upon certain constitutional questions that might be involved. It includes, also, practically all economists who have devoted special attention to public utility regulation.

If the fixing of definite returns upon capital is socialism, then the issuing and taking of bonds or preferred stock, or common stock with limited dividends, or the establishment of fixed rentals, are socialistic tokens. Such limitations, however, are characteristic of our industrial system, and they merely serve for the precise measurement of reciprocal rights and obligations—and this is the objective of the cost system of public utility regulation.

SEES PEACE MENACE IN TRADE RIVALRY

Sir Henry W. Thornton Warns Rotarians of Effects of Tariff Barriers.

WELFARE WORK DISCUSSED

Delegates at Chicago Convention Describe Methods of Aiding Community Service—Election Today.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Sir Henry W. Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, talked of wars and their causes and the place of modern industry in improving international relations at the second plenary session of the Rotary International convention at the Chicago Stadium today.

The day was devoted chiefly to community service, and discussions in dozens of sectional assemblies dealt with juvenile welfare, health service and civic welfare.

Finance, commerce and trade have taken the place of religion and the ambitions and prejudices of monarchs as the causes of international conflicts, declared Sir Henry. Captains of industry had taken the place of Marshals of armies.

"As the armies of trade march across nations, they immediately come into conflict with the barriers of tariff and national pride," he continued.

Although he did not mention the new United States tariff bill, he said that "even today signs are not wanting of the effect upon international relations of tariff barriers and commercial invasions. In the struggle for markets, which is both offensive and defensive, lies unquestionably the real menace to world peace."

"The fundamental obstacle to peace is our hereditary contentious psychology, perhaps dormant but always explosive," Sir Henry went on. "No theory can become the policy of any nation until the great majority of the electorate is sufficiently impressed with its necessity to demand its adoption. Peace among nations will appear only when a majority in each nation and sufficient nations themselves are inspired to strive for such an objective."

At the main convention Will H. Lovesey of Salt Lake City told of surveys there of boy and girl life. Lewis Fox of Fort Worth related experiences with student loan funds. Herbert Schofield of Loughborough, England, told of the good accomplished by community service surveys, and Luis Monterey Tirado of Lima, Peru, described control of the beggar problem. Work for crippled children was described by Chester J. Decker of Toronto, Ont.

Harry H. Rogers of Tulsa, Okla., past president, talked on the achievements of the first quarter of a century of Rotary.

New officers will be elected tomorrow and Almon E. Roth of Palo Alto, Cal., and Raymond E. Knoeppel of New York have been nominated for president.

Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, president of the Japanese House of Peers, arrived tonight and will address the convention at noon tomorrow on "National Aspirations."

SUMMER SESSION ON TODAY.

City College to Open 14th Annual Term With 6,000 Enrolment.

The fourteenth annual Summer session of the City College will commence today and continue until Aug. 20. More than 6,000 students have registered for the 248 courses, making a record enrolment, but the final figures have not yet been compiled.

The courses will be given at the college buildings on Washington Heights, at the new Commerce Centre at Lexington Avenue and Twenty-fourth Street and at the centre at Willoughby Avenue and Pearl Street, Brooklyn. There will be day and evening courses, seventy-seven of which are new. Professor G. Payn Quackenbos will direct the session. The faculty numbers 165.

Many of the college students will take courses at the Linguistic Institute, which will be held at the college on Washington Heights from July 7 to Aug. 15. The institute, which was held at Yale the past two Summers, will offer thirty-four courses in post-graduate language work. Dr. Edgar Howard Sturtevant, Professor of Linguistics at Yale, will be its director and the faculty will consist of twenty-three professors from the leading American and European universities. Registration is now in progress for the institute.

KELLOGG GETS POST.

He Is Named Head of Christopher Columbus Beacon Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Former Secretary of State Kellogg has been designated by Secretary of State Stimson as chairman of the national committee which is cooperating with the Pan American Union in plans for the construction of a monumental lighthouse at Santo Domingo in memory of Christopher Columbus.

Mr. Kellogg is to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Charles Evans Hughes when he became Chief Justice of the United States. A bill to appropriate $871,655 as the contribution of the United States to the lighthouse is pending in Congress.

J. K. VARDAMAN, EX-SENATOR, DIES

Mississippian Succumbs to Long Illness in a Birmingham Hospital.

WAS A FORMER GOVERNOR

One of Six Senators Who Voted Against War With Germany—Former Lawyer and Editor.

Special to The New York Times.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 25.—James Kimball Vardaman, former Governor of Mississippi and former United States Senator from that State, familiarly known to thousands as "the White Chief," died at a hospital here today after a lengthy illness. His age was 68.

Mr. Vardaman's administration as Governor was marked by many reforms, particularly in institutions. It was during his administration that the State Insane Asylum at Jackson and the Deaf and Dumb Institute were built.

For the last five years Mr. Vardaman had made his home here with his daughters, Mrs. A. L. Fairley and Mrs. W. T. Ratliff.

He suffered a nervous breakdown shortly after his arrival here, and had been in ill health ever since.

Besides his daughters he is survived by his widow and a son, J. K. Vardaman Jr. of St. Louis; two sisters and two brothers.

Mr. Vardaman was elected Senator for the term of 1913-19 on a promise that he would obtain the repeal of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments. When he discovered that these articles of the Constitution could not be dislodged, he relapsed into comparative obscurity until the World War gave him an opportunity to express views violently antagonistic to those of the majority of his fellow Americans.

Senator Vardaman became one of the twelve "wilful men" who, by filibustering, defeated the armed-ship resolution, and he was one of the six men who voted against the declaration of war against Germany.

Senator Vardaman was born in Jackson County, Texas. When he was 5 years old his family moved to Mississippi, where they had previously lived. His father had been wounded with the Confederates, and was unable to do much work. His three boys—John, Jim and Will—had to run the farm, and they did it willingly and well. The neighbors said the Vardaman boys could pick more cotton than any other three boys in the State. When they had gathered their own small crop, they picked cotton for other owners at 75 cents a hundred.

An old lawyer loaned James K. Vardaman a copy of Blackstone, which the boy read when he had a free moment at home and while he sat on a load of cross-ties as the oxen hauled them to the railroad. He studied law in an office in Carrollton, Miss., was admitted to the bar in 1882 and began practice at Winona, Miss. For a few months in 1883 also edited The Winona Advance, and for six years, 1890-96, The Enterprise of Greenwood, Miss. In 1896 he established The Commonwealth at Greenwood, and in 1908 he became editor of The Issue at Jackson, Miss.

During this period he had entered politics, and from 1890 to 1896 he sat in the lower house of his State Legislature, serving as Speaker in 1894. In the war with Spain he was a captain, later a major, in the Fifth United States Volunteer Infantry. He ran unsuccessfully for Governor in 1895 and 1899, but was elected afterward, serving from 1904 to 1908. He failed of election to the United States Senate in 1907. He entered the primary Senatorial campaign in 1922, and some observers said he would have won had he possessed his former health. His illness and the inability to deliver his customary fiery orations, due to the loss of his teeth, handicapped him fatally.

His views on the race question have not always been accurately stated. There were fewer lynchings while he was Governor than in any other four years of the State's history. He went with the troops whenever he could to protect a Negro prisoner. He meant what he said when he ordered: "Shoot only if it is necessary, but don't let the mob get that man."

But the Governor believed that the Negro was not qualified to be a voter in the United States, that his political and social equality with the whites was not to be thought of. Yet it was said that all Negroes who knew him admired him.

HARDEN L. CRAWFORD DIES IN SAN FRANCISCO

Retired New York City Banker Succumbs as Wife, Daughter Go to Join Him.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—Harden Lake Crawford, retired New York banker, died suddenly of apoplexy at a local sanitarium today while his wife and daughter were speeding westward by airplane to join him here.

Mr. Crawford came to San Francisco last Thursday by airplane on a business trip. Seemingly in good health, he was stricken while lunching with friends last night.

Mr. Crawford was born in New York City on Sept. 26, 1872, the son of Robert L. and Julia Gaines (Lake) Crawford. He was graduated at Lawrenceville School and Princeton University, from which he was graduated in 1895.

He entered the bond business, becoming associated with N. W. Harris & Co., and later with Thompson, Tenney & Crawford. Since 1904 he had been senior partner of H. L. Crawford & Co. From 1907 to 1914 he was president of the Century Bank of New York. Other business affiliations were: director of the Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust Company, president and director of the Maumee Valley Electric Company, vice president and director of the Rochester Gas Light Company.

Mr. Crawford also had served as an official of the Rumson (N. J.) Board of Health, the St. John's Guild of New York City, the Monmouth County (N. J.) Organization for Social Service, the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., the Central Presbyterian Church of New York City and the Bowery Branch Y. M. C. A.

WILLIAM BARNES,
Who Died Yesterday at Armonk, N. Y.

tion that the majority, although a slim one, obtained by Elihu Root in the vote for temporary chairman was due to the resourcefulness and daring of Mr. Barnes, and it was the presence of Root in this post that gave the Taft forces control.

In the campaign that followed this convention former President Roosevelt, then the nominee of the Progressive party for President, called Mr. Barnes a "corrupt leader" in a statement issued from William Hamlin Child's yacht while cruising off Long Island. Most politicians were surprised at Mr. Barnes paying any particular attention to the attack, for similar things had been said of him often. But he chose to sue for libel. The case was tried at Syracuse. Colonel Roosevelt added this battle to his list of victories, and had the satisfaction of seeing his opponent gradually fade from the political scene thereafter.

The end of the Barnes reign in Albany may be said to have come with the Democratic triumph in that city in 1921. When the Democrats captured the county election a year later it was clear that the old leader had lost his grip. For some years previously he had lived in New York, while retaining a voting residence in Albany. During the last eight years he had been seen but rarely in his old stronghold.

Sells His Newspaper.

In February, 1925, Mr. Barnes sold The Albany Evening Journal to The Evening News, which had been started in 1922 and was controlled by Stephen Clark of Cooperstown, a son of the Corning Clark who made a fortune in the manufacture of the Singer sewing machine. With the sale of The Journal, which had been in the control of his family for nearly a century, Mr. Barnes severed his last tie with Albany County politics.

Mr. Barnes was United States Surveyor of Customs at Albany from 1899 to 1911, a member of the Republican State Committee from 1892 to 1914 and its chairman for the last three of those years. From 1912 to 1916 he was a member of the Republican National Committee.

A Feat That Delighted Leaders.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 25.—The Republican party in Albany County was badly disorganized when Mr. Barnes gained control of it in 1891. Under the guidance of the "boy leader," the party began a long tenure of power in the county in 1899. The young man's feat of overthrowing the long-entrenched Democratic organization, headed by the late D'Cady Herrick, captured the imagination of Republican leaders and set Mr. Barnes on his path to Republican State leadership.

At the time of his death, Mr. Barnes held the controlling stock in the Cohoes American and in a smaller newspaper at Mechanicville.

Mr. Barnes was credited with many philanthropies of which few ever heard. He was said to have given away or spent several fortunes during his career.

Funeral services will be held at 3 P. M. tomorrow in the Albany Rural Cemetery.

Angered Hughes at a Dinner.

ALBANY, June 25 (AP).—The organization Mr. Barnes controlled never questioned his authority. What he said was law to its workers. An illustration of his absolute control was an incident he himself related of the election of Charles Evans Hughes to the Governorship. The organization workers most emphatically were not for Hughes. But the word went out to support him. On election day a ward leader was asked by a friend whom he was going to vote for. "Hughes," was the reply, followed by remarks showing what the ward leader thought of "his" man.

Mr. Barnes told the story at a legislative correspondents' dinner in Albany while Mr. Hughes was Governor. The Governor always attended these dinners, which are never reported. The Governor was thoroughly angered at the evident pride with which the Albany leader told the tale illustrating his absolute power. When his turn came to speak, Mr. Hughes strode in front of Mr. Barnes, shook his finger under his nose, and began, "You are the representative of an effete oligarchy." Then he roundly denounced him.

The legislative correspondents could not write the story, but somebody at the New York City Hall heard a whisper of what occurred and the reporters there made the most of it.

Mr. Barnes never had a high opinion of the average citizen so far as governing ability went. At the State constitutional convention in 1915 he frankly told reporters he believed a few who know how to govern would have to keep control of public affairs.

Mrs. C. C. McCulloch Jr.

Special to The New York Times.

CUMBERLAND, Md., June 25.—Mrs. Mary Azalete McCulloch, widow of Colonel Champe Carter McCulloch Jr., U. S. Medical Corps, retired, died today of heart disease at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. Weiss, where she was a luncheon guest. She had been living at Waco, Texas, until recently.

William Barnard Dressler.

William Barnard Dressler, real estate broker, died yesterday at his home, 506 River Avenue, Pelham, after a long illness resulting from a throat infection. Mr. Dressler was born in 1880 and was graduated from Manhattan College in 1900 and Columbia Law School in 1901. He was a member of the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity. He is survived by his widow, the former Asenath Nichols.

He then entered the first class at Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken and was graduated in 1874 after specializing in chemistry. LAST TRIBUTES PAID TO DR. M. H. HARRIS

Dr. Wise Eulogizes Late Rabbi of Temple Israel as Man Who "Was Sincerity Itself."

SERVICES AT EMANU-EL

More Than 1,000 Attend, Including Leaders of New York Jewry—His Congregation Mourns.

More than a thousand persons, including many leaders of New York Jewry, attended the funeral services yesterday morning for the Rev. Dr. Maurice N. Harris, rabbi of Temple Israel and dean of the New York rabbinate, who died on Monday at the age of 70. The hospitality of Congregation Emanu-El was accepted for the service, as Temple Israel is being redecorated.

The Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the Free Synagogue and president of the Jewish Institute of Religion, delivered the eulogy. Dr. Harris had been his friend and associate for many years. After reviewing Dr. Harris's achievements in social service, education and preaching, he said:

Tells of His Great Humility.

"But his chief distinction lay, not in sound learning or brilliant preaching, nor in any manner of achievement, but in the inmost quality of his life, which was finer than any word he preached and greater than any work he wrought. Harris was sincerity itself. He walked with God and his humility was not a pose, but of the very essence of his being. The quiet dignity of his life was an outward token of that inner sincerity which derives from undivided dedication to the cause one serves.

"With utter faithfulness and integrity of heart he ministered at the altar of his people's faith. His was the courage of the liberal, balanced by the wise gentleness of the conservative. He could take sides with vigor, but never with bitterness, for he was a man of peace. So reverent was this liberal that, paraphrasing another, he put aside false idols with a gentleness which made iconoclasm seem an act of worship."

Among those at the service were Judge Irving Lehman of the Court of Appeals, president of Congregation Emanu-El; Felix Warburg, Federal Judge Julian W. Mack, the Rev. Dr. Nathan Krass, rabbi of Congregation Emanu-El, and Justice Joseph M. Proskauer. Ben Altheimer and Ludwig Vogelstein led a delegation representing the Union of American Hebrew Congregations. Other groups that sent representatives included the Federation of Jewish Settlements and the Sisterhood, Ladies' Auxiliary, Men's Club and Parents' Association of Temple Israel.

The Honorary Pallbearers.

The honorary pallbearers were trustees of Temple Israel, headed by Samuel H. Sternberg, president of the congregation, and representatives of the Board of Jewish Ministers and the Association of Reform Rabbis, of which Dr. Harris was president at the time of his death.

The trustees included Samuel Kramer, Harold Korn, Moses Ananthan, Simon Strauss, August Goldsmith, Morris Friedman, Alvin S. Harte, Irving H. Isaacs, Max Weil, Mrs. B. Whitlock, Mrs. M. Hein and David Livingston, secretary of the board.

Those representing the Board of Jewish Ministers were President Elias L. Solomon, Vice President Rabbi Harry Wise, Secretary Rabbi Samuel J. Levison, Rabbi C. H. Levy, Rabbi Israel Goldstein, Rabbi Nathan Stern, Rabbi Benjamin Gentner and Rabbi G. Schulman.

The Association of Reform Rabbis was represented by Rabbi Isaac Landman, Rabbi Clifton H. Levy, Dr. Nathan Stern, Rabbi Aaron Eiseman and Rabbi Gabriel Schulman.

Dr. Wise officiated at the burial which was in Temple Israel's Mount Hope Cemetery in Westchester.

The executives of all the groups connected with Temple Israel held a special meeting Tuesday night and adopted the following resolution, made public yesterday:

"The death of our beloved rabbi, the Rev. Dr. Maurice H. Harris, has brought sorrow to Temple Israel, the congregation with which he had been identified for almost fifty years. As superintendent of the religious schools he was faithful and devoted, watchful and zealous in the performance of his sacred duties. Loved and dearly beloved by children, parents and teachers, whose characters he helped to ennoble, he was the embodiment of kindness and gentleness in manner, just and charitable in judgment, modest, possessed of a rare sense of humor, an indefatigable worker, a rabbi who shaped his life according to the holy precepts and traditions of Israel, which were ever dear to his heart.

LINGLE AND RUSSELL HELD $100,000 POOL

Slain Reporter and Ex-Police Head Lost Profits in Wall Street Slump.

OTHER DEALINGS DENIED

Slain Reporter Said to Have Deposited Large Sums in Connection With Betting Operations.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Official investigation into the private affairs of Alfred J. P. Lingle, crime reporter for The Chicago Tribune, who was murdered June 9 by gangland enemies, disclosed today that a joint stock market account at one time amounting to $100,000 was operated by Lingle and former Police Commissioner William F. Russell.

Information concerning the market pool that was begun on $10,000 pooled by the police chief, whose yearly salary was $10,000, and the reporter, whose pay was $65 a week, was given yesterday by Russell, now a police captain, when he was examined by Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the State's Attorney's office, but was not revealed until today.

Captain Russell told his inquisitors that neither he nor Lingle had withdrawn any money from the account. He insisted, according to reports, that he and Lingle had merely "played the market" together as would any friends. The account was wiped out in the slump of last October and it has been rumored frequently that much of the wealth of the two men disappeared at that time. Russell denied any other dealings with Lingle.

Swanson Issues Statement.

State's Attorney Swanson issued the following statement tonight concerning this phase of the investigation of the Lingle murder:

"We have been investigating the transactions of Lingle on the stock market and are satisfied from information furnished us by former Commissioner of Police Russell and other sources that Lingle ran an account of a few thousand dollars into paper profits amounting to well over $100,000 at the time when the peak was reached.

"It is possible on further analysis that they may even amount to more than this. So far as moneys drawn out of this account or put into it are concerned, these matters are now being investigated in an attempt to ascertain whether or not they shed any light upon the motive for the killing of Lingle. It appears from our investigation that Lingle traded rather extensively in stocks and was able to do this because of the large paper profits which accumulated to his credit during the time when the market was rising.

"The investigation of Lingle's stock transactions and bank accounts will be completed within a few days."

A number of police captains known to have been on friendly terms with Lingle were called for examination, as also were two men connected with a racing paper in which Lingle is reported to have owned a half interest.

Deposited Large Sums.

It was learned that a complete check of all Lingle's banking transactions shows that he frequently deposited large sums related to his betting operations.

Lingle's intimate friendship with Scarface Al Capone was also reported under scrutiny by the State's Attorney's office.

Lingle's friendships and financial operations, the authorities believe, hold the answer to his slaying, and the inquiry into his past activities is said to be centred on these two phases.

Colonel Robert I. Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and head of its crime investigation; Gordon L. Hostetter and Walter G. Walker of the employers' association conferred today with State's Attorney Swanson and Chief Justice Normoyle of the Criminal Court.

Mr. Swanson was the only one who would discuss the conference, and he said:

"I can't at this time go into the purpose of the visit. I can say it is not the Lingle matter. It is an important matter that came to my attention through Colonel Randolph that needs more investigation. I am going to look into the matter they want investigated."

Mr. Swanson added that no evidence relating to the Lingle murder would be presented to the June grand jury and that the inquiry would be held over for the July grand jury.

Jack (Machine Gun) McGurn, one of the chief Capone lieutenants, was convicted by a jury today of a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He faces a term of one year in the county jail or a fine of $300 or both.

SWINDLE VICTIMS OF BANKRUPT CONCERN

Bogus Operators in New Branch Get Shares by Promises to Recover Lost Money.

A new stock branch in which swindlers prey on victims who have already lost by the insolvency of a corporation in which they held shares was revealed yesterday in a letter made public by Deputy Assistant Attorney General Jacob H. Denenholz of the State Bureau of Securities.

The letter was addressed to former Supreme Court Justice Stephen J. Callaghan, attorney for the receiver of the Guardian Financial Plan, Inc., of 205-217 East Forty-second Street. The Guardian Financial Plan with individual defendants was enjoined on May 2 from further dealings in securities and Harold Turk of 26 Court Street, Brooklyn, was appointed receiver under a $50,000 bond.

Mr. Denenholz learned that while the receiver was busy untangling the company's affairs two swindlers also were busy taking from stockholders their certificates of stock and subscription warrants under representations that their original investments would be restored to them within a few days. After taking the victim's securities they gave receipts bearing forged names and were not heard from again.

One of the persons so victimized is Mrs. Rosalia Engel of 209 West Sixty-seventh Street, the deputy reported. She is 59 years old and had no relatives and few friends. Her savings of $550 were invested in the Guardian Plan and after the injunction and the appointment of a receiver she was told that she would undoubtedly get part of her money back. Mr. Denenholz warned her against any further dealings with strangers and against further investments without investigation. Despite the warning, when Mrs. Engel received a visit a few weeks later from two individuals she remembers only as "Mr. Kelch" and "Mr. Gallagher," she was induced by the strangers to part with her stock certificates when they promised to get back her money in full in a few days. She has seen neither men, money nor certificates since.

FILM BURNS IN SCHOOL.

600 Newark Pupils March Out as Smoke Fills Auditorium.

Several hundred children marched in an orderly manner out of the smoke-filled auditorium at the Miller Street Public School in Newark yesterday after a film had ignited in the fireproof motion picture booth as the film showing ended for the noon recess. The fire was restricted to the booth, causing slight damage.

Most of the 1,800 pupils at the school had already started for the street. Part of the 600 who had attended the film showing and the members of two part-time classes in other rooms in the building were lined up and marched out. Classes were resumed after the noon recess.

BAILEY REPUDIATES RYDER STOCK DEALS

Denies He Had Joint Account With Woody Partner or That He Agreed to Share Losses.

GOT ORDERS FILLED FREE

Says He Made Good Accused Broker's Default on Union College Stock.

RYDER ON THE STAND TODAY

Examination of Customer Put Over Until Monday to Permit Him to Assemble All Records.

Frank Bailey, 65-year-old banker and director in twenty-one corporations, testified for two hours yesterday that he believed Harold Russell Ryder, 35-year-old trader with a reputation as a money-maker as well as a Broadway spender, had handled about $10,000,000 in stock transactions for him since July, 1928, simply "as a favor."

During the second day of the inquiry now proceeding before Frank K. Davis, sitting at 140 Nassau Street by special court order as a Federal bankruptcy commissioner with powers of subpoena, Mr. Bailey contradicted the declarations made in an affidavit by Mr. Ryder, which said: "Bailey and I had a joint trading account in which I lost his money honestly in the market last Fall, as I lost about $2,000,000 of my own."

Mr. Bailey then explained that the "restitution" agreement which he got Mr. Ryder to sign represented $1,205,330 to Mr. Bailey, $518,859 to Mrs. Bailey and a balance of $300,957 due to Union College for stocks which Ryder had been commissioned to sell outright in a non-speculative transaction and which Mr. Bailey covered for him with his own money when Mr. Ryder declared he was unable to do so. The total which Mr. Ryder undertook to liquidate by this agreement was $2,025,146.

Denies Having Joint Account.

Mr. Bailey explained that his understanding was that he and Mr. Ryder made joint purchases of stocks but that these transactions did not constitute a joint trading account in which he was backing Mr. Ryder's market judgment and would bear losses as well as share profits jointly.

He said he did not remember but would find out how much profits were delivered to him by Mr. Ryder during 1928, but he was sure it was not as much as $1,500,000, as Ryder has already declared. When he was shown letters written to him by Ryder, in which the wording seemed to imply the existence of the usual joint trading account, he said, "that is just language."

After the market crash last Fall, Mr. Bailey held Mr. Ryder responsible for the disappearance of about $2,000,000 and that was why, he explained yesterday, he pressed for a "restitution" after Mr. Ryder put his remaining $125,000 into the formation of the brokerage firm of Woody & Co., and why Mr. Bailey accepted the money which Mr. Ryder secured by selling out the stock purchased by the new firm's customers, and by stripping his two young partners of assets until he was compelled to tell them last Thursday that there was nothing left.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock Mr. Ryder is to take the witness stand for the first time. He will be questioned by counsel for the Irving Trust Company, which was appointed Federal receiver for Woody & Co., after it was suspended from the Stock Exchange last Friday. Ryder is already under indictment in the State courts on a charge of grand larceny brought by one of the customers of the suspended concern, who accuses him of misappropriating $95,000. Three other customers, who asserted $88,000 in all was due them, precipitated the bankruptcy.

Questioning of Bailey Put Over.

To permit Mr. Ryder to testify, the examination of Mr. Bailey was continued until Monday at 1 P. M. The postponement was also designed to enable him to collect his books, checks, orders, correspondence and all documents concerning his transactions with or through Mr. Ryder or with Woody & Co., which was wrecked almost as soon as it was formed, by the "restitution" which Mr. Ryder has already explained he undertook so that Mr. Bailey would not have him arrested.

During Mr. Bailey's testimony yesterday, the only interruption was the request of Charles L. Woody Sr., father of the senior partner, that he be allowed to take the witness stand to propose a way out of the difficulties. His son, Charles L. Woody Jr., was holder of the firm's $450,000 seat on the Exchange, where he executed Mr. Ryder's orders until even the seat was pledged by Mr. Ryder to Mr. Bailey. Mr. Woody has denounced the sale of the seat as a forgery.

The father, who had been stripped of $1,000,000 in stocks representing the earnings of a lifetime as a lawyer, said he understood Mr. Bailey had published the statement that he would not accept repayment by Ryder of "stolen money or tainted securities." Mr. Woody said, "Therefore, let us suspend this inquiry and let the attorneys for the receiver and for the customers get together with Mr. Bailey's attorney around a table and determine how much of the $2,000,000 he is to return to the firm."

Mr. Bailey said nothing, but his attorney, A. H. Davison, said his client would be willing and no doubt such a conference might expedite the matter. Samuel Kaufman, examining counsel for the receivers, and the group of counsel representing various customers instantly rejected the suggestion, and the examination proceeded.

Says Ryder Took No Pay.

Mr. Bailey said he first met Ryder in July, 1928, when Ryder was an independent trader with desk room in the offices of the brokerage firm of Gilchrist, Bliss & Co., through which he operated.

"What did he get for buying stocks for you?" asked Mr. Kaufman, for the receivers.

"Nothing," said Mr. Bailey.

"He bought stocks for your wife and daughter also as a favor?"

"Yes."

"Did he get any commissions from Gilchrist, Bliss & Co. on these transactions?"

"No."

"Then why did he do it?"

"I don't know why," said Mr. Bailey.

Mr. Kaufman pressed this inquiry until Mr. Bailey said, "Maybe he intended to keep the stocks." He laughed tentatively, but the lawyers did not unbend.

"What do you mean?" Mr. Kaufman demanded.

"Well, he did keep them, didn't he?" Mr. Bailey replied.

"Do you mean to say," Mr. Kaufman continued, "until you demanded stock which he was unable to deliver that you believed he placed these orders and played the market a year or more for you without getting anything out of it?"

"For all I know," said Mr. Bailey, "he might never have delivered anything on the very first order I paid him."

Mr. Bailey admitted, however, that Mr. Ryder did deliver until the market crash last Fall.

Testifies He Rebuked Ryder.

Mr. Bailey testified that he took Mr. Ryder to task last Fall but admitted that he continued to place orders with him. "Not many," he said; but discovered on reference to a memorandum that he had placed orders for $479,000 in September, $246,000 in October and $84,000 in November.

When the questioning turned to the $200,000 gift which Mr. Ryder made to Union College, Mr. Bailey said this amount really came from American Can, Anaconda Copper and Sinclair Oil stocks which Mr. Ryder held for him and on which he ordered the profits sent to the college. He was reminded that the gift was credited to Mr. Ryder, who journeyed to Schenectady to lay the cornerstone of the new Ryder Electrical Engineering Laboratory the week before Woody & Co. suspended.

"Why did you want the donation in Ryder's name?" Mr. Kaufman asked.

"I thought he'd try harder to make profits," Mr. Bailey said.

Mr. Kaufman then produced a letter in Mr. Bailey's handwriting, thanking Mr. Ryder as "My dear Russell" for his contribution "to the little fresh-water college that I love."

"Why did you thank him for contributing the profits on your stock?" Mr. Kaufman demanded.

"I didn't think it was all profits," Mr. Bailey replied. "I thought he had given some out of his own pocket."

Runaway Horses Scatter Crowds on Lower East Side

"Runaway horse!" the cry of a generation ago, went up in East Houston Street yesterday.

Louis Bloomberg, the driver, stood in his lurching delivery wagon, yanking frantically at the reins. For eight blocks he pulled and strained, but he could not control his frightened team. Men, women and children scurried out of the way, bumping into each other and dropping parcels and the old-fashioned cry of "runaway" proceeded from lip to lip along the street.

It was a steam shovel in the Houston Street subway cut that frightened the horses and they did not stop until they had run into the plate glass front of a tailor shop at 467 East Houston Street. Bloomberg reported to his employers, Rothman & Fuchs, grocers at 219 Second Street, that the horses, rented from stables at 93 Mangin Street, were badly cut by glass. He was slightly hurt in jumping from the wagon.

EX-SENATOR REED HERE ON WAY TO EUROPE

Says Wall Street Should Not Be Tolerated—Silent on Reports He May Seek Presidency.

Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri arrived in New York yesterday with Mrs. Reed to sail for Europe tomorrow on the Bremen. Representative and Mrs. William A. Rodenberg of East St. Louis, Ill., are accompanying them.

Mr. Reed declined to discuss reports that he might again seek the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1932. "There was no particular significance to my recent speech in Missouri," he declared. "I was just talking to Democrats. I've been doing that for forty years." He smiled as he recalled how part of his audience was cut off when a New York station went off the air because of an S O S call of doubtful origin, and said he had declined an opportunity to repeat his speech here.

Questioned on reports that he might run again for the Senate, Mr. Reed said: "I would hardly have retired voluntarily had I wanted to remain in Washington." He said rumors that he might run for Governor of Missouri were "ridiculous."

He said a friend asked him recently if he had seen the Hoover flag. "When I said I hadn't," the Senator explained, "he turned an empty pocket inside out and announced 'that's it.' And that is just about it.

"Seriously, I have never known of so much suffering as now among a certain class of people. Thousands of men who a short time ago were comfortably fixed are now dead broke. Wall Street is the reason. Strange that the lawmakers should outlaw the lotteries and tolerate Wall Street."

GIVES MESSENGERS ADVICE.

Western Union Head Tells Boys Not to Heed Elders Too Seriously.

The graduating class of the Western Union messenger school was warned not to take too much advice from their elders, by Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union Telegraph, who spoke at the commencement exercises held last night in the new building of the company at 60 Hudson Street. Certificates were presented to 300 boys by Dr. Franklin J. Keller, principal of the East Side Continuation School.

"I want to warn you not to pay too much attention to what we old folks say," Mr. Carlton said. "I am not suggesting that you be discourteous, but we elders have wrought a world handed on to us to its present state of—shall I say—dissatisfaction, and we eternally want the young to be just like ourselves. But you boys must be different from us if the world is to be a happier place to live in."

KILLS WIFE AND GIRL, THEN ENDS OWN LIFE

Man Who Lost His Means of Support in Wall St. Shoots Family in Lynbrook Home.

BROKER'S WIFE A SUICIDE

Mrs. James B. Lindsey Dies by Gas and Husband Attributes Act to Losses in Stocks.

Special to The New York Times.

LYNBROOK, L. I., June 25.—Faced with the realization that the little competence which he had expected would support his family and himself for the rest of his life had been wiped out in Wall Street, Charles H. Waters, a retired tea-taster, shot his wife and daughter and then ended his own life. Their bodies were found in their home here at 44 Union Place today after repeated telephone calls from a friend failed to elicit a response and he had notified the police of his suspicion that something was amiss.

Clifford Fay, assistant treasurer of the Central Hanover National Bank branch at 40 East Forty-second Street, New York City, was the friend who notified Chief of Police Joseph Lockwood. When the latter went to the home he found the bodies of Waters and his wife Minnie near a bedroom door on the second floor and that of their daughter Helen in bed. The daughter apparently had been shot in her sleep, and the wife, still in night clothing, had been shot when she was aroused. Waters was fully clothed and had reloaded the pistol after shooting his wife and daughter and then shot himself.

He left a note lying on a pair of trousers which, written in lead pencil on the back of a letterhead, said:

"I have gone suddenly mad, STOCKS Clifford Fay is the finest fellow that ever lived.

"HARRY WATERS.

"Goodbye to all, love to all.

"P. S.—Damn the dirty gambling."

The note was signed with Waters's middle name.

Waters, who was 64 years old, had been retired for the past two years. He had suffered a nervous breakdown and had just recently returned home. His daughter was a school teacher, 25 years old, and had just completed her work for the term and was at home for the Summer vacation. His wife was 60.

The shooting probably occurred Saturday night. Mr. Waters came from England and had no relatives in this country so far as the police could learn.

Broker's Wife a Suicide Over Loss.

Mrs. Cecil Betty Lindsey, 35 years old, wife of James B. Lindsey, a stock broker, was found dead of gas poisoning at noon yesterday in her apartment at 39 East Thirty-eighth Street. Police investigators asserted she had committed suicide.

The windows of the apartment were tightly closed and gas was flowing from a log in the ornamental fireplace. Two Boston bull terriers were alive and barking in an adjoining room. The police said the door of the room had been shut and packed with blankets by Mrs. Lindsey to protect the dogs.

Mr. Lindsey admitted having had a slight disagreement with his wife a few days ago and having taken temporary quarters at the Hotel Shelton. He denied, however, that this disagreement was responsible for his wife's suicide, asserting she had been despondent over personal financial losses in Wall Street.

Mrs. Lindsey, before her mariage less than a year ago, was Cecil Betty Morris of Kansas City, Mo.

NAVY BUYS AIR RACER WILLIAMS USED FOR $1

$170,000 Plane Built for the Schneider Cup Contest Refused to Fly.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The Navy Department today purchased for $1 from the Mercury Flying Corporation of 63 Wall Street, New York City, the Mercury racing plane which had been groomed for the use of Lieutenant Alford Williams in last year's Schneider Cup races. The plane received preliminary tests, but never was used in the races.

The sale is the result of an offer by the Mercury Flying Corporation to surrender its rights in the airplane to the navy, in accordance with an agreement made preceding the development of the racer.

The racer is equipped with a 1,200-horsepower, water-cooled Packard engine. Two engines were used in its development. These were and are still the property of the navy and were developed at a cost of $104,000. The floats, radiators, tanks, cowling and other parts of the plane's structure were paid for by the navy at a cost of $66,000.

The Mercury Corporation was created in 1926 by a group of patriotic citizens to carry on racing plane development when the navy withdrew officially from the Schneider competitions.

Lieutenant Williams was assigned by the navy to cooperate with the corporation in developing the plane, the navy agreeing to provide the motor through an arrangement with the Packard Company. The first Mercury racer was brought out too late for the Schneider races of 1927, but was flown by Lieutenant Williams both as a land plane and a seaplane, setting unofficial new American speed records.

The plane then was rebuilt for last year's races, but proved to be overweight when turned out by the Naval Aircraft factory and could not be flown, despite weeks of effort by Lieutenant Williams last Summer at Annapolis, Md.

The navy ordered Lieutenant Williams to sea duty over his request for more time to work on the plane and his resignation followed. Williams told the Senate committee he is confident the plane can be made to fly.

Philadelphia Bestows Medal Upon Edison; Justice Roberts Makes Presentation for City

Thomas A. Edison Receiving the John Scott Medal From Justice Owen J. Roberts.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., June 25.—In the presence of a distinguished group of Philadelphians, Associate Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts bestowed today the John Scott Medal and an accompanying award of $1,000 upon Thomas A. Edison at the inventor's laboratory here, in recognition of Mr. Edison's "outstanding contributions to science."

Justice Roberts recounted the history of the award, which was created when John Scott bequeathed to the city of Philadelphia a fund of $4,000 in 1816. Praising Mr. Edison's life and achievements Justice Roberts said that there could be no more worthy recipient of the honor.

Visibly moved, Mr. Edison said that "this notable event" was "most gratifying" to him and in a short address expressed his gratitude to the committee of award for "the distinguished honor they have bestowed upon me."

Among those present at the ceremony were William L. Nevin, Dr. Hobart A. Hare, Joseph Gilfillan, attorney; Sydney E. Hutchinson and Dr. Louis Heiland, secretary of the board of directors of the City Trust of Philadelphia, custodian of the fund.

BIRTH PAPERS FILED FOR LINDBERGH BABY

No Given Name on Certificate—Mother's Occupation Is Recorded as 'Flying.'

Special to The New York Times.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 25.—No given name was recorded on the birth certificate of the son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, filed today at the Englewood Department of Health.

There were several interesting entries on the certificate. It showed, for instance, that the child had been born at exactly 1:10 P. M. Eastern Standard Time or 2:10 Daylight Saving Time last Sunday, whereas it had generally been reported as 3:15 P. M. Daylight Saving Time.

Mrs. Lindbergh's occupation was listed as "Flying." Beside the line asking "Profession or business?" was placed the word "aeronautical," and beside the question, "Time spent working?" was the answer, "One year." Whether this might be indication that Mrs. Lindbergh has decided on a career in aviation was the subject for further speculation. Her husband's occupation was given as "technical aviator," his industry as "aeronautical."

Colonel Lindbergh's age was given as 28 years, Mrs. Lindbergh's as 24. Both gave St. Louis as their home address, whereas it had been believed that this entry would be Englewood where the Lindberghs have spent a good deal of their time at the home of Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow.

Telegrams and gifts for the Lindbergh baby continued to arrive today, but not in the same volume as yesterday and Monday. Johnny Sullivan, the Western Union messenger boy who has carried most of the messages to the Morrow estate, admitted today that he was tired and would welcome a little relief. His trips from the house to the office and back have amounted to a total of many miles.

Currier & Ives Print Brings $100.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., June 25.—A Currier & Ives print entitled "Keep Your Distance" was sold at auction for $100 yesterday at Berlin, Conn., by John M. Mitchell of Greenwich, auctioneer. The print was one of many gathered by the late Edyy N. Smith of Berlin, art collector. A marine print from the Currier & Ives group sold for $75. Mr. Mitchell can remember when he sold the print "Keep Your Distance" eleven years ago for $190. There were many Kellogg prints and none sold for less than $5.

KEARNY OIL BLAZE CAUSES $75,000 LOSS

Destroys Pennsylvania Railroad Storehouse and Slows Up Holland Tunnel Traffic.

Special to The New York Times.

KEARNY, N. J., June 25.—Holland Tunnel traffic between New York and New Jersey was slowed down for three hours late yesterday afternoon and last night by a fire which destroyed the Pennsylvania Railroad oil storehouse on the Kearny Meadows near Newark Turnpike. Thirty thousand gallons of fuel oil, lubricating oil and kerosene in drums were burned. The damage was placed at approximately $75,000.

The fire started on the oil-soaked loading platform of the storehouse at 4:15 P. M. just after a crew had emptied several freight cars of their drums. The flames raced swiftly along the greasy planking and before the arrival of fire apparatus from Kearny and Jersey City had attacked the interior of the building. Soon afterward the ground was shaken by a series of dull concussions caused by the exploding drums.

Alongside the platform stood three freight cars filled with inflammable oils. A locomotive engineer risked his life to couple his engine to them. He drew them to a safe distance through dense smoke and flames, but was uninjured. On the opposite side of the storehouse was a huge tank car with 15,000 gallons of oil. A motor truck pulled it away.

There was little the firemen could do. The water supply was found inadequate and the flames had gained great headway. The huge drums continued to pop and shake the ground, and some were blown twenty and thirty feet into the air, through the roof of the storehouse. A half hour after the fire started, the whole roof, 150 feet long and 30 feet wide, fell in with a crash.

Motorists traveling along the busy Newark Turnpike halted to view the spectacle. Great clouds of black smoke rolled across the meadows and the explosion of the drums provided fireworks. The curiosity of the drivers resulted, however, in congestion of the turnpike, which carries most of the traffic to and from the Holland Tube, and the Hudson County police were called out to keep traffic moving.

To make matters worse, the fire could be seen for many miles across the flat stretch of meadows, and drew motorists from other traffic lanes. Thousands drove over from Belleville Turnpike to look at it.

Rush hour pace could not be attained. Up to 8 o'clock the movement of cars was still sluggish and the policemen were struggling to keep the motorists from idling along the way to watch the fire. Officials said the fire probably would burn all night.

$273,695,000 VALUE IS SET BY THE B. M. T.

FIGURES SENT TO WALKER

$56,921,000 Difference on Worth of Elevated Lines an Obstacle to Negotiations for Purchase.

Estimates prepared by B. M. T. engineers place a valuation of $273,695,000 upon the company's rapid transit properties, as compared with a Transit Commission estimate of $202,077,000, according to a summary prepared yesterday for the use of Mayor Walker and his transit advisers in determining the future course of negotiations for unification of B. M. T. lines with the city's independent rapid transit system.

The valuation schedules, although representing in a general way the price which the company may be expected to ask and that which the city may be willing to pay, are not binding upon either, but were submitted with the understanding that the company may ask more and the city offer less.

The figures provide, however, a starting point from which Mayor Walker, the Transit Commission and the Board of Transportation may proceed in an effort to narrow the $71,618,000 gap should formal negotiations with the company be resumed. They do not take into account a claim of about $14,000,000 made by the company on account of accrued preferential payments which it alleges to be due under Contract 4 with the city. Addition of this figure would bring the company valuation total up to $287,695,000 and widen the gap to $85,618,000.

The valuation figures are computed as of June 30, 1929. As to the company's subway lines, they rest upon the theory of the city's contract right to recapture by paying the company's original investment plus 115 per cent. As to the elevated lines and the Williamsburg power plant, reproduction cost at 1929 prices is the basis. The company's engineers differ radically with those of the Transit Commission, however, on the exact theory of recapture and reproduction cost to be applied.

The controversy over the exact nature and date of accrual of the recapture right results in a difference of $9,802,000 on the subway valuations, the company's experts fixing a value of $90,391,000 and those of the Transit Commission fixing the figure at $80,589,000. The valuation in each case includes the additional track certificates and elevated extension certificates which were made recapturable under Contract 4 in 1913, but which are of no practical use to the city unless it takes over the elevated lines.

The widest "spread" in valuations comes in the case of the elevated lines, which are non-recapturable, and the negotiations with the company, if resumed, will be hard fought on this point. The company engineers reached a valuation total of $147,784,000, including $2,275,000 for materials and supplies. The Transit Commission's figures total $90,863,000, including the same item for materials and supplies. The difference is $56,921,000.

For the combined subway and elevated lines the company's estimate of value is $240,450,000, or $66,723,000 more than the Transit Commission's estimate of $173,727,000.

Company engineers place the value of the Williamsburg power plant, also non-recapturable, at $33,244,000, including materials and supplies. The Transit Commission total is $28,349,000, leaving a margin of $4,895,000.

Expressed in tabular form, the company and Transit Commission valuations are as follows:

	Company.	Transit. Commission.
B. M. T. subways at recapture prices...	$90,391,000	$80,589,000
B. M. T. non-recapturable property..	147,784,000	90,863,000
Materials and supplies	2,275,000	2,275,000
Williamsburg Power Corp.	33,244,000	28,349,000
Totals	$273,694,000	$202,076,000
Claimed accrued preferential	14,000,000
	$287,694,000

Mayor Walker and his advisers are also attacking the problem of the price to be paid to the B. M. T. from the standpoint of the capitalized value of the earning power of the lines and properties to be acquired.

MILITARY DRILL HELD OPTIONAL BY MITCHELL

Land Grant Colleges Need Not Make Training Compulsory, Says Attorney General.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Military science and tactics is an optional and not a prescribed course of study, as supposed by many land-grant colleges, Attorney General Mitchell ruled in an opinion given to Secretary Wilbur today. Such colleges, in the opinion of Mr. Mitchell, comply with the Morrill act of 1862, which created them, when they make the course available, and the student need not take military training unless he desires.

The act provides for one land-grant college in each State, where the leading object shall be, without excluding other scientific and classical studies and including military tactics, to teach such branches of learning as are related to agriculture and the mechanical arts.

Because of the inclusion of the provision for military tactics, it has been held for sixty-eight years by most of the land-grant colleges that the course was prescribed. In 1923 the University of Wisconsin, acting on authority of the State Legislature, made military science optional. The Department of the Interior, which administers the Federal fund for these schools, decided that the university had the right to take the action it did. The Attorney General now sustains the decision.

In his ruling, Mr. Mitchell said:

"I am of the opinion that the construction of the statute by our Department is a reasonable one and that it was in effect approved by Congress by the re-enactment of the language in question after the adoption and publication of this construction by your department. Added force is given to the re-enactment of that language by the fact that it occurred after the legislation in Wisconsin."

Smith's Flight Reminds Rogers We're Pretty Windy Over Here

To the Editor of The New York Times:

CHICAGO, Ill., June 25.—That fellow Smith must be a real flier, and he prepares his flight right. He paid a fine tribute to radio, and that gives a pretty good idea of what happened to some of those other poor fellows. You just can't get over here without bucking terrible winds.

We hate to admit it, but I guess we are pretty windy over here. Old Doc Eckener with his aluminum hot dog is, I reckon, about the only sure-fire way to cross that ocean, either way, any time.

Twenty thousand Rotarians walking the streets of Chicago here, and not a one has been shot, or robbed. It looks like negligence.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

WALKER'S BROTHER WINS JOB DECISION

Physician as Expert for Board of Education Is Out of the Civil Service List.

EXEMPT IN EXAMINATIONS

Supreme Court Rules Against Reform Association on Position With $6,500 Salary Limit.

The validity of the agreement between Dr. William H. Walker, brother of Mayor Walker, with the Board of Education whereby Dr. Walker is to be engaged as expert as occasion may demand, provided his fees do not exceed $6,500 annually, was upheld yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Mullan. He denied an injunction that would restrain the Controller from paying Dr. Walker. The injunction was asked by Nelson S. Spencer, chairman of the Civil Service Reform Association.

A similar agreement with Dr. Robert E. Walsh, brother of William E. Walsh, chairman of the Board of Standards and Appeals, was likewise upheld. Several municipal court clerks in Brooklyn are also affected by the decision.

Mr. Spencer charged that when Dr. Walker was first appointed medical examiner to the Board of Education, he was not selected from the Civil Service list. The Civil Service Commission refused to certify his name on the payroll until this year, when the position of medical examiner to the board was dropped and the present agreement was reached.

The Board of Education defended the agreement on the ground that Dr. Walker was named as a medical expert, which position is not bound by civil service regulations. The same contention was made with regard to Dr. Walsh.

"I should have believed it was quite possible to keep the place within the competitive classification," said Justice Mullan. "But, obviously, the employes in question do work of a 'professional, technical, scientific, expert nature,' and I do not think it lies within the power of the court to substitute its view for that of the constituted authorities having jurisdiction of the subject."

The application for the injunction followed the report of the executive committee of the Civil Service Reform Association, which was made public May 14. The report characterized the Board of Education's approval of the appointment as "a flagrant abuse of discretion."

The appointment has been the subject of much controversy for many years. Following the exemption of the position of medical examiner from the Civil Service Commission, the Civil Service Reform Association appealed in 1925 to the State commission, which ruled that an examination was necessary. Written tests were held the following year, but Dr. Walker did not take the examination. In July, 1927, an attempt was made to oust Dr. Walker because of his failure to apply for the test, but he continued in office, serving without pay.

In October of last year, H. E. Kaplan, secretary of the Reform Association, applied to have an appointment made from the Civil Service list and have Dr. Walker removed. This move was made despite the statement of Abraham Kaplan, president of the Municipal Service Commission, that Dr. Walker was no longer medical examiner to the Board of Education, as that title had been abandoned, and that Dr. Walker was hired on certain occasions, just as medical examiners were employed by the Corporation Counsel's office from time to time.

In April of this year this arrangement was approved by the Board of Education, with the proviso that Dr. Walker's fees must not exceed $6,500 per annum. This approval led to the present suit.

TOWNLEY RUNS THIRD IN NORTH DAKOTA VOTE

Representative Sinclair Leading in Race for Nomination—Gov. Shafer Ahead.

FARGO, N. D., June 25 (AP).—A. C. Townley, founder of the Non-Partisan League, who is attempting a "comeback" in State politics, tonight was running third in the race for the Republican nomination for Congress from the Third District in today's primary. Early returns gave Governor George F. Shafer, seeking renomination on the Republican ticket, a three-to-one lead.

Thirteen precincts out of 860 in the Third District gave Representative James H. Sinclair, the incumbent, 955 votes. Staale Hendrickson had 589 and Townley 269.

Sinclair was endorsed by the Non-Partisan League and Hendrickson by the Independent Voters' Association. Townley ran without endorsement of the league he founded.

Returns from twenty-six out of the State's 2,228 precincts gave Governor George F. Shafer 2,932, supported by the Independents, and E. H. Brant, league candidate, 986 in the race for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination.

With virtually all Democratic candidates without opposition, interest centred on the perennial fight between the Non-Partisan League and the Independent Voters' Association for their candidates on the Republican ballot.

CASINO AND THE RITZ FACE PADLOCK SUITS

Action Is Possible Despite Court's Refusal to Shut Rooms in the Manger.

RAID PRISONERS APPEAR

Guests Held in $500 Bail and Employes in $1,000—Will Get Hearings July 9.

HERRICK WARNED SOLOMON

But Says He Has No Evidence of Any Culpability in Park Resort—Hotel Disclaims Blame.

The United States Government which lost its second padlock suit within two days yesterday when Federal Judge John C. Knox refused to sign an order closing sixteen rooms and the grill of the Hotel Manger, will receive a report tomorrow or Friday from Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator, which may be used as a basis for bringing similar action against the Central Park Casino—city-owned property—and the Ritz Carlton Hotel which were raided Tuesday night.

Although United States Attorney Tuttle and Earle N. Bishop, his assistant in charge of the padlock division, declined to reveal, pending the arrival of Major Campbell's report, what action they would take, it is understood that if evidence of sales or "set-ups" are presented, the Government will proceed as it did against the Manger.

Judge Knox in dismissing the application for a padlock against the Manger yesterday and the Cornish Arms on Tuesday enjoined the management in each case from further violation of the prohibition law. If similar suits are filed against the Casino and Ritz-Carlton, it was said, the least the government expects is a similar disposition.

Casino Defendants Appear.

Meanwhile, seven of the nine guests of the Casino, a sixty-year-old establishment rebuilt a year ago into a $500,000 restaurant, Sidney Solomon, manager, who holds a lease from the city, and nine employes, appeared before Garrett W. Cotter, United States Commissioner.

Arrested Tuesday night and freed in bail of $500 each then, they appeared yesterday morning with counsel in the Federal Building. New bail was imposed, and a hearing was set for July 9. Ten employes of the Ritz-Carlton went through the same procedure.

The guests were freed in bail of $500 each on charges of possessing liquor, and Mr. Solomon and the waiters of the two managements, accused of maintaining nuisances in that they provided "set-ups" for liquor in the form of cracked ice and ginger ale, were freed in bail of $1,000 each.

In line with the raid and government action against the Casino, Walter R. Herrick, Park Commissioner, revealed that he had warned Mr. Solomon to exercise great care to see that "set-ups" were not intentionally provided to patrons in violation of the law.

The lease, the commissioner explained, has a clause requiring the management to observe Federal and State laws. He said that he had not received evidence to show that the management had been culpable in permitting drinking in the restaurant.

M. Michael Edelstein, attorney, appearing with Marton M. Mandell and Henry A. Friedman, as attorneys for the defendants, described the raid on the Casino as "outrageous."

"The Central Park Casino," he said, "is one of the most peaceful, orderly, law-abiding restaurants in New York. The government has no case against the management."

Guests' Views Differ.

Several of the arrested guests spoke freely of what they thought of the raid on the Casino staged by agents in dinner clothes in the presence of 500 patrons, among whom were said to have been several city officials.

Paul Reis, retired business man, of 111 East Fifty-sixth Street said that the agents behaved in an unmannerly way. "The raid," he said, "was perfectly rotten and vulgar. The agents shoved us around as if we were beasts. It was an outrage."

Henry Balfe, young banker, of 47 East Sixty-first Street, said on the other hand that the agents were "very decent" and "gentlemanly."

In addition to these men, Irving Schweringer, dentist, of 150 West Seventy-second Street; Joseph Penizzi of 5 West 110th Street and Raphael Ellender, artist, of 313 West Seventy-fourth Street, all guests, were freed in bail of $500 each.

Amos Johnson, engineer, of 466 Lexington Avenue and William Bonner, broker, of the Hotel Ambassador, both guests of the Casino, did not appear, but sent word that they would be at the Federal Building today to plead not guilty as the others did.

The following officials and employes of the Casino, owned by the Dieppe Corporation, appeared: Sidney Solomon, manager, and friend of Mayor Walker; Rene Black, maître d'hôtel, and Gene Gaillard, George Scalabrino, Carabbini Bernardi, Alex Pappita, William Buser, Lucien Hubert, Joseph Bordoni and Quinie Pellini, all waiters.

The following employes of the Ritz-Carlton were held: Jimmie Peterson, Albert Doe, Theodore Sarbaz, Ercole Conti, Joseph Compotti, William Steiner, Eugene Gamba and Charles Williams.

Later in the day after reports had circulated that the government was about to bring a padlock suit against the Ritz-Carlton, Albert Keller, president of that hotel, issued the following statement:

"Referring to reports in the papers regarding the padlocking of the Ritz, no charge has been made against the hotel for selling liquor so far as the management knows. The waiters who were arrested were charged with aiding guests of the hotel in serving their own liquor, which, of course, has always been forbidden and as far as lay in the power of the management has been prevented."

Augusto Merchan, Consul General of Cuba, said last night that a Mr. Cordova, described in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday as a representative of the Cuban Government, who was among the guests at the Casino during the raid, "is not a Cuban or a representative in any way of my government." The management of the Casino also explained that Marton M. Mandell, and not Bernard Sandler, as reported in the same account of the raid, is attorney for the Casino.

TEACHERS OF MUSIC PLAN TO FIGHT RADIO

Respond to Letter of Damrosch Saying That Broadcasts Curb Musical Expression.

SEES YOUNG ENDANGERED

Harold Bauer Urges Education of Parents to the Importance of Teaching Children the Art.

Responding to a letter from Walter Damrosch, speakers at the mass meeting of the Associated Music Teachers League, held in the Wanamaker Auditorium yesterday morning, discussed ways and means of combating the radio and the other phenomena of our "restless and speedened age."

Mr. Damrosch said that not only had the work of the music teacher become somewhat restricted today, but to a certain extent even the musical self-expression of young people has become endangered.

"All cultured people should know how to sing and to play one instrument," he asserted, and declared that "the radio and the phonograph cannot replace the piano in the home."

Gustave J. Becker, president emeritus of the league, read the letter and said that in this city, "when we become easily bored with the routine of life," music teachers are complaining that many of their pupils who begin to take lessons get discouraged and stop.

"This age is rampant with the spirit of wild abandon," he said, "a spirit expressed in music both in the jazz pieces, which are usually poorly composed, and harmonically in the works of Stravinsky and other modern composers."

He suggested that to cope with this spirit teachers may need to change their methods and, instead of starting the student for a high goal of perfection, lead him step by step from one near goal, such as the learning of a favorite piece, to another. He also urged the advantages of class teaching, which, he said, will soon have come to stay, at least for the earlier grades. He predicted that the future would see more and more alternation between class lessons and one private lesson a week for each pupil, at which attention is paid to his or her individual needs.

Harold Bauer, pianst, urged that the essential thing in making the world realize the importance of music as an educationad subject is to teach parents to appreciate its importance.

Dr. James F. Cooke of Philadelphia, editor of The Etude, predicted a brighter future for the profession of music teaching than the present "depression" into which he said it is sunk with the rest of the country. He said the teachers must show the father that the musical education of his children is an investment in their life and character.

Those at the meeting deplored the alleged lack of interest in their needs shown by music teachers. There are 2[illegible],000 music teachers in New York, they said, and only 300 members in the league.

Ernest A. Ash, president of the league, presided and the other speakers included Franklin Dunham, Charles Tremaine and Herman Liebman. About 250 people attended.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Congress of Actors Reminds Critical Russians They Live in Nation Which Silences Opposition

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, June 25.—The concluding meeting of the International Actors' Congress here today provided an international political episode of some piquancy. The congress had invited Russian actors as well as those of other countries to participate, but received a brusque refusal joined with the reproach that the congress was not interested in actors but in their employers. To this an equally sharp answer was turned today.

"That you call us traitors because we don't mechanically subscribe to all your political dogmas is arrogant but understandable," the congress replied. "Dogma always narrows vision. That we answer your reproaches at all is due only to the fact of our understanding of your position in a country where every utterance that deviates from the official standpoints invites the sharpest persecution."

Attached to the invitation of the congress had been a request that political debates be avoided by the delegates, a hint which had excited the resentment of the Russians. On this point the reply observed:

"The only condition we made to our invitation was that which is inherent in the policy approved by a majority of our members. We found it necessary to make this specially plain to you, however, because it was to be inferred you would refuse to abide by our desire to busy ourselves with economics and not politics. We believe we can promote the interests of our colleagues better by working for practical reforms than by engaging in nebular and for the moment impractical debates."

Freeman and the late Mr. Freeman, have completed plans for their marriage, which will take place on the afternoon of July 12 in St. Andrew's Dune Church, Southampton, L. I. The Rev. Dr. William G. Thayer, headmaster of St. Mark's School, will perform the ceremony and a reception will follow at the Summer home of George L. Wrenn, uncle of the prospective bride, with whom she has lived since the death of her father.

Miss Wrenn has chosen her cousin, Miss Margaret Banes of Philadelphia, for maid of honor. Her other attendants will be Mrs. Alexander M. White Jr., Mrs. Arthur N. McGoech and the Misses Alixe Walker, Phyllis Thompson and Louise Iselin of New York and Rosamond Blanchard of Boston.

Humphrey, Winslow B. Felton and Edward S. Brewer of Boston and Amory S. Carhart, Bulkeley L. Wells, Robert G. Payne, Robert W. Emmons, Everett W. Fabyan, Robert A. Scott, Chandler P. Anderson Jr. and Henry C. Flower Jr. of New York.

Miss Phyllis Thompson will give a dinner for the bridal party the night before the wedding at Red Top Farm, the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips B. Thompson, in Southampton.

The bride is a sculptress. Dr. Sinberg is an X-ray specialist.

SAYS HOSPITALS LOSE.

Cullman Takes Up Workmen's Compensation With City Club.

Most of New York City's hospitals receive from insurance companies only about 60 per cent of the cost of workmen's compensation cases referred to them for bed care, Howard S. Cullman, president of Beekman Street Hospital, wrote to the City Club of New York in a letter made public by the club yesterday. The club is endeavoring to secure uniform methods of handling workmen's compensation cases in the city's private hospitals and to that end has called a conference of sixty local hospital representatives to be held at the clubhouse, 55 West Forty-fourth Street, on July 8.

"These institutions [the hospitals] act as bankers for the insurance companies," Mr. Cullman's letter points out, "their bills not being liquidated in an average of ninety days, irrespective of the fact that the hospitals' disbursements are mainly for food, nursing service and similar cash expenditures."

The many drives and appeals to the public which are constantly undertaken are made necessary, he continued, by the deficits incurred through workmen's compensation cases.

The insurance companies themselves admit the discrepancy, he declared, but insist that under the present premiums they cannot afford to pay more.

FREE THINKERS LOSE SUIT.

Court Refuses to Ban Bible Lessons in Public Schools.

Supreme Court Justice Ford dismissed yesterday without an opinion the suit of Joseph Lewis, president of the Free Thinkers Society to restrain the Board of Education from permitting the reading of the Bible and hymn singing in the public schools, on the ground that they are prohibited by State and Federal constitutional provisions as interference with religious freedom.

Counsel for the Board of Education argued that, under a provision of the City Charter in existence for seventy-nine years, the reading of the Bible is authorized and that the school principals have discretion in choosing the readings, while any pupil objecting to the reading may be excused. For this reason it was urged there was no interference with religious liberty. The plaintiff contended that many of the selections read in the schools are meaningless without an explanation and that Bible reading is a form of worship.

Gardner Hale, Painter, Sued.

Gardner Hale, mural painter, was sued in the Supreme Court yesterday by Ferargil, Inc., conducting an art gallery at 63 West Fifty-seventh Street, for $10,000. The complaint, filed by Peaslee & Brigham as attorneys, alleges that Mr. Hale exhibited at the galleries in May, 1929, under an agreement that the plaintiff would get a third of what the artist made through the exhibition. It is averred that Mrs. Christian R. Holmes of Sands Point, L. I., saw his work there and contracted with him to execute murals for a swimming pool and bar in her home for $30,000.

GARDEN PARTY TO AID YOUNG CRIPPLES' HOME

Fete Will Be Held Tomorrow and Saturday at the Auchincloss Estate in Darien.

A garden fête will be held tomorrow and Saturday at Keewaydin, the Summer home of Mrs. Edgar S. Auchincloss in Darièn, Conn., for the benefit of Highfields, the convalescent home maintained by the Association for the Aid of Crippled Children at Long Ridge, Conn. In the absence of Mrs. Auchincloss, who is in China, Mrs. James S. Ames will act as chairman of the event.

The entertainment will begin tomorrow noon and continue through the afternoon. A committee headed by Mrs. Frederick Fairchild of Noroton will serve luncheon and tea in the gardens and on the lawn. On Saturday the festivities will begin at 3 o'clock and conclude with supper. A platform will be erected on the lawn for dancing and the music will be by the Wesleyan Cardinals. Midway features, marionettes, fortune telling booths and tables for bridge will be among the divertissements.

For the sale of candy, flowers, books, cigarettes and refreshments, the committees are headed by Mrs. Burton Taylor, Mrs. A. Victor Barnes, Mrs. William Barnes, Mrs. George F. French, Mrs. Junius Brown and Mrs. C. Alfred Foster. Mrs. Donald Frothingham will supervise the dancing and Mrs. Frank H. Simmons will direct the midway attractions.

ABORN TO STAGE REVIVALS.

Plans Season of Operettas at the Westchester Community Centre.

A season of operettas and musical comedies is being planned for the new Westchester Community Centre, under the direction of Milton Aborn, who staged the operetta revivals last Winter at Jolson's theatre, and Arthur L. Lawrason. The initial four weeks of the season, which will begin on July 19 or 22, will be devoted to Gilbert and Sullivan. "The Mikado" is at present scheduled to be the first of the bills which will be changed weekly.

The profits from the undertaking will, according to Mr. Lawrason, be distributed among charities designated by a committee of Westchester residents. Although the various productions will be given indoors, the idea of the project will be modeled after the St. Louis Municipal Opera season at Forest Park, which opened recently with "Nina Rosa."

Mr. Lawrason will be the business manager, while Mr. Aborn will stage the productions. The former said yesterday that he had interviewed various prominent citizens of Westchester County about the light opera season and that they had expressed their approval of the project.

The shows at present scheduled by the company, in addition to "The Mikado," are Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pinafore" and "The Pirates of Penzance," and De Koven's "Robin Hood." The cast is now in process of organization and it is possible, if Westchester citizens approve of the idea, that guest stars will appear at intervals throughout the Summer. Among those named by Mr. Lawrason yesterday were Donald Brian for "The Merry Widow," Fritzi Scheff for "Mlle. Modiste" and Charles Purcell for "The Chocolate Soldier."

GET SAFETY POSTER PRIZES.

151 Receive Awards From McKee on City Hall Steps.

Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee gave 151 prizes, including a $50 cash prize and five gold medals, at City Hall yesterday to the winners of the safety poster contest held by the Alletta Lawrence Clarke Memorial and the National Safety Council.

Rose Finkel, a teacher in Public School 25, Brooklyn, won the $50 prize for her program of safety lessons designed to lessen the accident mortality among children and to promote child safety. Gold medals were given to William Mayorga of P. S. 165, Manhattan; Jack Rosen, Murray Hill School, Manhattan; Rosella Feldman, P. S. 180, Brooklyn; Eric Green, P. S. 33, Queens, and Pierre Luline of P. S. 45, the Bronx. Forty-five bronze medals were distributed to other winners and 100 pins also were distributed. The presentations were made on the steps of City Hall in the stand built for the city's reception to Rear Admiral Byrd.

Shuberts Rehearse "Three Graces."

Walter Woolf's supporting cast in the comedy tentatively called "Three Graces," which was placed in rehearsal yesterday by the Shuberts, will include Violet Heming, Vivienne Osborne and Germaine Giroux. It is scheduled to open at the Castle Theatre in Long Beach on July 11 and the next night in Great Neck before playing engagements in Atlantic City and at the Brighton Theatre, Brighton Beach.

Managers Re-elect Officers.

The Managers' Protective Association, an organization of theatrical producers, held its annual meeting yesterday in the Longacre Theatre Building. All the officers were reelected. They were Arthur Hammerstein, President; Crosby Gaige, Vice President, and L. Lawrence Weber, Secretary and Treasurer. It was decided to request the withdrawal of those members who are inactive in the theatre.

MOLLY PICON'S PLANS.

Will Appear in the Yiddish Folks Theatre Next Season.

Molly Picon will appear at a new theatre on the east side next season. Her managers, Sager, Pasternak and Parnes, have leased the Yiddish Folks Theatre, Second Avenue and Twelfth Street, for a term of years, and Miss Picon will open her engagements there late in September in a musical show by Joseph Rumshinsky and Jacob Kalich.

The Yiddish Folks Theatre, which has a seating capacity of 1,300, was built three years ago for Maurice Schwartz, who appeared as star. He was followed by Ludwig Satz, who presented a season of musical plays.

Miss Picon has heretofore played at the Second Avenue Theatre, and the same type of entertainment which was presented there will be produced at the new house. Miss Picon is now making a Summer vaudeville tour.

Sophie Tucker Sails for London.

Miss Sophie Tucker, stage and screen star, sailed for London yesterday on the French liner Ile de France. She is to be featured there in a new production called "Follow a Star."

LOUVRE RECOGNIZES MUSIC.

Lecture-Recital to Be Given There for First Time.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 25.—Conciliation and mergers are the order of the day, even among the arts, so the Louvre on July 1 will admit music for the first time since it became a world centre of painting and sculpture.

The occasion will be a lecture delivered by Jean Louis Vaudoyer at the retrospective exposition of the works of Eugene Delacroix in which the lecturer will compare the artist's compositions to works of music. His remarks will be illustrated by Mme. Conchita Supervisa, who will sing compositions by Cimarosa, Mozart and Rossini.

Damrosch Sails for France.

Walter Damrosch, former conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra, sailed yesterday on the Ile de France to attend the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Fontainebleau School of Music, which he helped to organize after the war. The school is now under the direction of the French Government, but approximately 150 Americans attend there annually, Mr. Damrosch said.

WINIFRED LOEW WED TO RICHARD TRIMBLE

Several Hundred at Wedding of G. F. Baker's Granddaughter in Old Westbury.

RECEPTION HELD OUTDOORS

Bride's Sister Her Only Attendant —Henry Parish 2d Is Best Man —Ushers Number Twelve.

Miss Winifred Loew, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Goadby Loew of this city and Old Westbury, L. I., was married to Richard Trimble, only son of Mrs. Richard Trimble, also of this city and Long Island, and the late Mr. Trimble, yesterday afternoon at Loewmoor, the Summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Loew. The marriage links families that for many years have been identified with social and financial affairs of New York. The bride is a granddaughter of George F. Baker, financier and philanthropist, and the late Mrs. Baker, also of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Loew.

Mr. Trimble's father, who died several years ago, was associated with the late J. Pierpont Morgan in the formation of the United States Steel Corporation. Mr. Trimble is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Trimble and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edmund D. Randolph of Mount St. Vincent-on-Hudson.

The ceremony took place in the large drawing room, which had been decorated with lofty cybotium ferns and lilies of the valley. It was performed by the Rev. Dr. Roelif H. Brooks, rector of St. Thomas's Church, New York, before an altar at one end of the room which had a background of ferns and lilies of the valley. COURT HANGERS-ON BARRED BY CORRIGAN

Chief Magistrate, Starting Six-Month Clean-Up, Puts All Corridors Under Police Guard.

WARNS AGAINST TARDINESS

Orders All Court Business to Be Conducted Openly—Favors Reforms Urged by Grand Jury.

Joseph E. Corrigan, the new Chief Magistrate, made his first major move yesterday in what he termed his "program to clean up the magistrates' courts." A policeman was stationed in the corridors of each of the various magistrates' courts and permitted no one to loiter there. The Chief Magistrate said the innovation was to keep the corridors clear of bondsmen, runners, police court lawyers and other hangers-on. The move he asserted was decided upon at a conference with Police Commissioner Mulrooney.

Mr. Corrigan recently visited the Manhattan and Brooklyn magistrates' courts and it was believed that his action bears testimony to his disapproval of the conditions he found in the corridors of the various courts.

The Chief Magistrate admitted yesterday that the action was the first in a six-months' program to improve conditions in the magistrates' courts. "I do not desire publicity about what I plan to do," he asserted, "but if, six months from now, I have accomplished something in cleaning up the magistrates' courts, I should not then be averse to receiving some mention."

He said that he planned to follow the suggestions of the special grand jury in its presentment on conditions in the magistrates' courts handed up to General Sessions Judge Morris Koenig on March 14.

That magistrates arrive on time in the morning is one plank in his improvement platform, he said. "There is no excuse for unpunctuality on the part of the magistrates," he declared. "This needlessly delays the work of the court.

"Perjury in the magistrates' courts is perhaps the most important cause of the miscarriage of justice," he said. He added, however, that he is no legislator, and that this abuse can be remedied only by the adoption of legislation which insures adequate punishment of perjurers.

He remarked that the magistrates' courts were well abreast of their work and that rarely was delay in the trial of cases occasioned by the courts being behind their calendars.

Among the recommendations of the grand jury, which the Chief Magistrate said he would try to realize, was the endorsement of his own proposal for a central magistrates' court, supervision of court attachés and the refusal of repeated adjournments. He also held that all business be held in open court, that stricter supervision be exercised over the issuance of bail bonds, that bonds be issued only in open court and that all complaints be drawn up in one office under the supervision of an Assistant District Attorney.

PRAISE CITY'S PLAN TO TEACH HEBREW

Jewish Educators End Their Conference by Tendering Thanks to School Board.

The fifth annual conference of the National Council for Jewish Education ended yesterday with speeches at the Jewish Club, 25 West Seventy-third Street, by Dr. Mordecai M. Kaplan, president of the Society for the Advancement of Judaism, and Ludwig Vogelstein of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

Last night the Jewish educators met at dinner at the Commodore Hotel and entertained Dr. Harold G. Campbell, associate superintendent of schools, tendering to him as representative of the Board of Education their thanks for the inclusion this coming Fall of the Hebrew language in the curricula of two Brooklyn high schools, the Thomas Jefferson High School and the Abraham Lincoln High School. Textbooks are being selected and the curricula prepared, it was announced.

Jonah J. Goldstein, president of the Jewish Culb, was host at the morning session and Dr. Leo L. Honor presided. The new president of the national council, Dr. Alexander M. Dushkin of Chicago, pointed out that although police "shake-ups" were going on in Chicago, Jewish education was not neglected.

Dr. Kaplan pleaded for emancipation in religion and a higher standard among teachers. "If we mean to remove from Jewish education the sore spot of evasion and insincerity," he said, "the Jewish teacher will have to achieve an affirmative orientation in religion in general and in the Jewish religion in particular."

Mr. Volegstein said that "there is no doubt the generation which has now reached manhood is largely estranged from our religion. But judging from my experience I do not believe these men and women are entirely lost to Judaism."

The following officers were elected to the National Council for Jewish Education for a one year term:

PRESIDENT—Dr. Alexander M. Dushkin.
TREASURER—B. Isaacs.
SECRETARY—Dr. Mordecai Soltes.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—I. Abrams, S. Benderly, I. S. Chipkin, Dr. E. Gamoron, B. Edidin, J. S. Golub, L. L. Honor, Louis Hurwich, M. M. Kaplan, J. B. Pollak, Ben Rosen, Z. H. Scharfstein, A. H. Friedland, A. P. Schoolman.

CITY BREVITIES.

The Central Park Zoo will lose some of its inmates next Monday when Henry Brady, auctioneer, will offer seven surplus animals for sale at public auction by order of the Park Department. The sale will be held at the menagerie, Sixty-fourth Street and Fifth Avenue. The beasts to be sold are a lioness, two lion cubs, a female camel, two female goats and one male elk.

Dean E. Raymond Bossange announced yesterday that the department of architecture of the New York University College of Fine Arts has been admitted to the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture.

Spencer D. Bettelheim, assistant treasurer of the Music Box Theatre, was appointed yesterday a deputy sheriff of New York County for a term of four years.

An exhibition of the works of Pierre Nuyttens, consisting of oil paintings and etchings of famous persons, including Presidents Hoover, Harding and Roosevelt, opened yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel, Sixty-first Street and Central Park West.

The Board of Education approved yesterday the appointment of Miss Katherine Bauer, principal of Junior High School 60, as district superintendent of schools by the Board of Superintendents. Miss Bauer succeeds Thomas O. Baker, retired.

WOR SEEKS A PERMIT TO INCREASE ITS POWER

Application Is Seen as First Move to Establish a New Nation-Wide Network.

A third national radio network with WOR of Newark, N. J., as the key station was forecast yesterday when Alfred J. McCosker, the station's director, disclosed that WOR has applied to the Federal Radio Commission for an increase in power from 5,000 to 50,000 watts. This higher power, if granted by the Commission, would better enable WOR to serve as a potential key station of another nation-wide network.

WOR's present transmitter, located at Kearney, N. J., has a maximum output of approximately 6,500 watts but is held to 5,000 in accordance with the specifications of its license. The station, which has been on the air eight years, is owned and operated by L. Bomberger and Co.

WOR is now the key station of an eastern broadcasting chain, serving a large portion of the eastern section of the country. Other stations in this group include WLW, Cincinnati; WMAQ, Chicago, and WMBF, Binghamton, N. Y.

ASSAILS ROOSEVELT ON REPRESENTATION

Ward in Hollis Speech Calls Reapportionment Bill Veto a Political Outrage.

SEES TAMMANY PROTECTED

Governor Refuses to Cut Power of Organization by Reducing Manhattan Legislators, He Says.

Speaking before the Hollis Republican Club in Hollis, Queens, last night, Attorney General Hamilton Ward assailed Governor Roosevelt for vetoing a reapportionment bill at the last legislative session. Mr. Ward declared the veto was dictated by Tammany, which feared the loss of Senate and Assembly seats in Manhattan.

Mr. Ward reviewed the history of previous efforts to obtain reapportionment and, attacking former Governor Smith for his veto of a similar bill in 1926, asserted that the failure of both men to recognize growth in boroughs other than Manhattan was an outrage on popular government.

Cites Growth of Queens.

"I know of no place in the State of New York," he said, "where the grossness of the outrage of these vetoes is more obvious than in the Fourth District of Queens, in which I am now speaking. Your population under the present census is 298,375. The average of an Assembly district in the State of New York under the population of 1925 was 74,414. The average of the city Assembly districts is 94,700. Thus you have over four times the population of the average State district and over three times the population of the average city district, so that because of the Governor's vetoes the voters of this district have in the Legislature less than one-third of their true representation.

"Under the Constitution no apportionment can be based upon the Federal census. The returns show, however, that what had already become in 1926 a crying injustice in the apportionment of legislative representation in New York City has since then developed into an outrage upon popular government."

Mr. Ward went on to criticize Governor Roosevelt's memorandum disapproving the latest reapportionment bill, in which the Executive pointed to the many jagged edges in the map of proposed new districts and said that a number of these "jags" were due to the desire of Tammany leaders to include their clubhouses in certain new districts.

Asserts Tammany Is Favored.

"Notwithstanding one major scandal after another, involving Tammany men of every stripe in suicide, embezzlement and shame, dragging the courts themselves into disgrace, robbing the public right and left of millions upon millions," he said, "the Governor calmly, sweetly and tenderly refuses to take any notice, and for the same reason for which he refuses to allow the legislative districts in New York City to be reapportioned, namely, that Tammany might be hurt.

"The clean-cut Republican apportionment, as proposed four years ago, choked to death and thrown out on the dump at Tammany's demand, is no gerrymander. They know in their hearts—no one with an ounce of sense can help knowing it—that with the figures of Manhattan's population losses what they are, and with Kings, Queens and the Bronx growing as they do, no apportionment can possibly be framed on the 1925 census by which Manhattan will not lose representation. And that they are determined shall never come to pass. And, mark my words, it never will come to pass as long as Tammany controls the Governor."

Trends

It is manifestly impossible to predict with certainty the future course of security prices. But trends in finance and industry are often perceptible in advance to those whose knowledge and experience are brought to bear on a scientific study of business conditions.

For 57 years we have been cooperating with investors in careful analyses of conditions as affecting securities.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Rally After Making New Lows—Commodities Also Recover.

The stock market yesterday met the severest test which has been put to it in any of the recent trying days. It came through in a fashion to cause no little perturbation in the ranks of professional traders for the decline. Psychologically the latter had everything on their side. The fact that the railroad issues had crashed through their November lows on the previous day together with renewed weakness during the early trading in cotton and wheat appeared to have laid the ground for an assault upon the industrial and utility issues.

When the first two hours of trading revealed no decided trend, the bears launched their attack. Trading, which had been lack-lustre in the extreme, became faster as large blocks of stock were forced on the market. Quotations for 204 issues, including United States Steel, American Can and other leading stocks, were hammered down below their previous minimum quotations for the year.

In the last hour there was an abrupt turn. Buying became as aggressive as the selling had previously been. News of a recovery in commodity prices bolstered sentiment in the stock market and, in the case of numerous shares, prices were run up to a point where previous losses had been wiped out, with two or three points to spare. Closing quotations in the more prominent issues were at or close to the highs for the day.

Professional Wall Street was inclined to credit the rally to the appearance of buying on behalf of strong financial interests. A number of the major industrials had approached, at the worst prices of the day, to within a few points of the levels which last Fall attracted substantial bids from bankers both in and out of the consortium. They had dipped below the prices at which prominent financiers and industrialists had publicly pronounced them bargains only seven months ago.

Whether or not this belief had any secure foundation, it was evident that the operators on the short side no longer felt perfect assurance in their position. Among responsible financiers the psychological relationship between business and the stock market is frankly conceded. Further drastic declines in security prices cannot fail to retard the recovery of business, thereby working damage to the pockets of persons not in any way concerned with the stock market.

The course of commodity prices closely paralleled that of the security exchanges. In both wheat and cotton new lows were reached in the early trading, but subsequent rallies lifted quotations above the previous closings.

In the Chicago wheat market July contracts dropped at one time to 87¾ cents, another new low since 1914. The last price of the day was 88⅝ cents, a gain of one-quarter cent. Corn was slightly lower at the closing, having shown less recuperative powers than wheat, but oats gained moderately.

Cotton sagged a quarter of a cent in the early trading, spot cotton selling at 13 cents. At this figure trade buying appeared and, aided by some short covering, lifted the price to 13.45 cents at the close. While conditions are still none too favorable in the cotton market, the technical position has been materially improved by recent reactions.

The weekly reviews of the steel industry report a somewhat better showing for the week than had been looked for. Prospects for the next few months are conceded, however, to be obscure. Demand for pipe line and structural steel continues the mainstay of the industry, with the latter outlet holding the greatest promise of improvement. The requirements of the automobile industry continue to decline and are expected to drop still more during the next month or so.

Operations of the industry as a whole are calculated at 64 per cent of capacity by The Iron Age, compared with 65 per cent last week. The Steel Corporation is operating, according to the same authority, at 72 per cent of capacity.

Further price reductions in pig iron during the week have been made in recognition of existing concessions. Principally as a result of these cuts the composite price of The Iron Trade Review is down 8 cents to $33.44, giving an average of $33.53 for June.

The money market developed increasing ease with a drop in the renewal rate for standing loans to 2 per cent. The figure has been equaled once before this year, on March 20, but had not previously been posted since 1924.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

The familiar process of pushing prices down and then restoring them to a higher level was repeated on the Stock Exchange yesterday. This has happened so frequently of late that Wall Street watched the proceedings with only a casual interest. The fact that more than 200 stocks went into new low ground for the year only served to emphasize a trend which has been clearly defined for some time. The weakness in the first four hours of trading yesterday reflected further activity by bearish professionals as well as additional liquidation by discouraged holders of stocks, while the late rally resulted mainly from a covering movement. Prices were highly irregular at the close, but most of the market leaders which sold off earlier in the day showed moderate gains when trading ended. United States Steel, which touched a new low for the year of 151⅝, closed with a net advance of 2¾ points. Other stocks which recovered all of their earlier losses, with a margin to spare, included Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, Johns-Manville, American Can, New York Central, New Haven and Standard Oil of New Jersey. An impressive list of stocks, however, closed with sizable losses on the day.

Short Selling by Amateurs.

A favorite taunt which speculators for the advance are hurling at the short interest these days is "amateurs." Even brokerage houses have fallen into the habit of describing the aggressive bearish faction in this manner. The latter apparently feels no resentment, but continues to hammer away, satisfied to dislodge stocks here and there. As a matter of fact, an astute observer remarked yesterday, there are as many amateurs on one side of the fence as the other, but it was his guess that, as usually happens, the amateurs will be found in the greatest number on the losing side eventually, whichever that may be.

A Professional Market.

An indication of the professional character of trading in the stock market, according to bankers, is supplied by a comparison of the volume of trading on the Stock Exchange during the second quarter of this year with that in the corresponding period of last year. Although the volume of trading in the first quarter fell 71,000,000 shares behind the similar period of 1929, the volume in the current quarter has been more than 25,000,000 shares ahead of the corresponding three months of last year. During the first three months of this year stock prices rose sharply; during the current quarter prices have fallen. Since it is axiomatic in Wall Street that the public does not sell stocks short, and generally retires from a declining market, bankers say the increased volume of trading in the current quarter may be ascribed largely to professional traders operating for a decline.

Harmony in the Bill Market.

Dissenting bill dealers who had refused to follow the majority in cutting rates on Tuesday fell into line yesterday, following the renewal of call money at 2 per cent. So low a rate had been posted only once before since the latter part of 1924. The other time was last March 20, when the money market was under the temporary influence of a large Treasury overdraft, contracted in connection with the March financing. On that day the rate failed to hold at 2 per cent and finished at 2½ per cent. Yesterday, however, the official rate was 2 per cent all day, and in the outside market call money went for as low as 1½ per cent. The slackness of the demand for credit was emphasized further by the rate on Federal funds, which was quoted at 1¾ per cent.

⁂

Boots and Saddles.

In the middle of one of yesterday's sinking spells on the stock market the remark was heard that "constructive forces are in the saddle but the saddle is not on the horse."

Dispute Trust Selling.

Rumors in Wall Street that some investment trusts have been contributing their support to the short side of the market, either by selling from their portfolios or actually taking short positions in the last week were questioned seriously by investment trust bankers yesterday. It was argued that most trusts would prefer not to risk the loss of popularity which might result from a disclosure of short selling activities, while at the same time few would care to take the losses which selling from portfolio probably would cause at present prices.

Mr. Woodin Reports.

The report of W. H. Woodin, president of the American Car and Foundry Company, on the operations of the concern during the fiscal year ended on April 30, is illuminating in more than one respect. In the first place it reveals that, despite the fact that eight out of the twelve months covered in the report fell in the period of depression, earnings were at the rate of $5.40 a common share. In the second place it contains the observations on present business conditions of a man who is both an industrial leader and a director of the Federal Reserve Bank. Mr. Woodin finds conditions by no means as blue as they have been painted. "The country and its industries," he says, "have lived through periods of depression much more severe than that of the present, and there is no reason to believe that we shall not again, and within a reasonably short time, get our soundings and attain a condition of stable equilibrium."

Limiting the Commission.

The session of Congress has shown a disposition to trim the scope of the Interstate Commerce Commission, it was remarked in railroad circles yesterday. The first instance was the Couzens resolution to restrict the power of the Commission to approve mergers. Another is the Couzens resolution which would give to shippers the same right of appeal to the courts from rate decisions of the commission that the carriers have. However, in its decision on the Hoch-Smith resolution, the Supreme Court upheld the power of the regulatory body instead of sustaining the applicability of the resolution.

MONEY.

Wednesday, June 25, 1930.

Market was quiet and steady all day at the levels established on Tuesday which for comparison are the lowest in years for several classes of accomodation. The one feature of the day's trading which stood out as significant was the lending of street money in round size amounts at 1½ per cent. However, on the Stock Exchange, 2 per cent was the prevailing charge. Term money, acceptances and commercial paper were only lightly traded.

Legal investment, in the opinion of counsel, for Savings Banks in the State of New York

Frederick E. Williamson, Esq., President of The Colorado and Southern Railway Company, has summarized as follows his letter to us regarding the Company and this issue of Bonds:

PROPERTY The Colorado and Southern Railway Company (which is controlled through ownership of 68%, in the aggregate, of its capital stock, both preferred and common, by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company) and its subsidiaries which are controlled through ownership of more than 99% of their capital stocks, constitute the Colorado and Southern Lines. These lines, including those operated under trackage rights between Denver and Pueblo, Colorado, comprise the southern stem of the greater Burlington System, connecting the Burlington proper with the Texas Panhandle and Fort Worth, Texas and, through The Colorado and Southern Railway Company's half interest in The Trinity and Brazos Valley Railway Company, having access to the Gulf of Mexico. The Colorado and Southern Lines own 1,619 miles of standard gauge line and have trackage rights over 169 miles of other railroads.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE These Bonds are being issued to reimburse the Company in part for the retirement of $19,402,000 of its First Mortgage Bonds which matured February 1, 1929 and for expenditures in excess of $7,500,000 made prior to May 1, 1930 in construction of the 205-mile line of its wholly owned subsidiary, Fort Worth and Denver South Plains Railway Company.

EARNINGS The consolidated gross operating revenues, income available for fixed charges, total fixed charges and net income of the Colorado and Southern Lines have been as follows for the five years ended December 31, 1929:

Years Ended December 31	Gross Operating Revenues	Income Available for Fixed Charges	Total Fixed Charges	Net Income
1925	$25,654,154	$6,355,702	$2,689,763	$3,665,939
1926	28,172,806	7,442,398	2,594,361	4,848,037
1927	27,240,652	5,731,058	2,452,453	3,278,605
1929	26,116,202	5,955,535	2,410,466	3,545,069

In the period covered by the above table income available for fixed charges averaged more than 2½ times the amount required. Consolidated gross operating revenues and net railway operating income for the four months ended April 30, 1930, amounted to $8,956,809 and $933,505, respectively, as compared with $7,953,539 and $1,594,879 for the same period in 1929.

SECURITY The General Mortgage is to be secured by a direct second lien (subject only to the prior lien of the Refunding and Extension Mortgage securing $28,978,900 bonds outstanding in the hands of the public and $4,190,000 bonds now pledged, all maturing May 1, 1935) on the following property of the Company: the entire 691 miles of standard gauge railroad owned in fee; the Company's interest in 126 miles operated by the Company under lease, contract or trackage rights; over 99% of the outstanding stock of the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway Company, owning and operating 454 miles of railroad in the State of Texas; all of the outstanding bonds and stock (other than Directors' shares) of six other subsidiary railroad companies, owning 269 miles of railroad (operated by The Wichita Valley Railway Company, one of such subsidiaries) in the States of Texas and Oklahoma; and 50% of the outstanding bonds and stock of The Trinity and Brazos Valley Railway Company. The Mortgage is to be secured also by direct first lien on the entire capital stock (except Directors' shares) of the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains Railway Company, owning 205 miles of newly constructed, unmortgaged railroad.

EQUITY The Company has outstanding $17,000,000 par value Preferred Stock and $31,000,000 par value Common Stock, of which $7,208,700 par value Preferred Stock and $25,497,500 par value Common Stock are owned by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company.

The foregoing is subject to the more complete statements contained in the circular, a copy of which may be obtained upon application.

THE ABOVE BONDS ARE OFFERED, SUBJECT TO PRIOR SALE AND TO THE CONDITIONS STATED BELOW, AT 95¼% AND ACCRUED INTEREST, TO YIELD APPROXIMATELY 4.75% TO MATURITY.

BANK GROUP CONFERS ON MEXICAN DEBT

International Committee Opens Parley Here With Montes, Finance Minister.

DEFINITE PROGRAM WAITS

Discussions Will Be Continued Today—Lamont Gives Luncheon for Visitors.

Luis Montes de Oca, Mexican Finance Minister, stated the case of the Mexican Government on its debt situation at the first plenary session of his conference with the International Committee of Bankers on Mexico, held yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York. The conference was attended only by the Mexican Finance Minister and his aides and members of the committee, of which Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co. is chairman.

It is understood that in the discussions there was no suggestion of a new loan to Mexico, and that no cut-and-dried plans were presented by either side looking toward a resumption of Mexican payments on its government and railway debt which has been in default since early in 1928. The International Committee is said to represent approximately 98 per cent of the holders of Mexican bonds, but it was explained that no new agreement could be definitely decided upon without a referendum of the bondholders. The committee, however, is in a position to make suggestions and to draw a course of action which could be submitted to the bondholders later.

Text of Official Statement.

Following the meeting yesterday Señor Montes and Mr. Lamont issued the following joint statement:

"At a plenary session held this afternoon, the Minister of Finance presented certain suggestions, directed toward the handling of the debt situation. Brief discussion was had on these suggestions. There was also certain discussion as to the railway debt situation. At the close of the session the members of the International Committee met for a brief conference. The next session between the Minister and the committee will be held Thursday afternoon."

In addition to J. P. Morgan & Co., the American banks and banking houses represented on the committee include the National City Bank, the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company, Hallgarten & Co., the Guaranty Trust Company, the Chase Securities Corporation, Kidder, Peabody & Co., Speyer & Co., Ladenburg, Thalman & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

Mr. Lamont gave an informal luncheon yesterday for Señor Montes at the Down Town Association. On behalf of the International Committee he welcomed the Minister and his associates. The Minister and the Mexican Ambassador, Manuel C. Tellez, responded.

List of Luncheon Guests.

Among those present were members of the Finance Minister's staff, including Javier Sanchez Mejorda, executive president of the National Railways of Mexico; Luciano Wiechers, vice president of the Bank of Mexico; Fernando Gonzales Roa, counsel to the National Railways of Mexico; Fernando Diez Barroso, adviser on the national debt; Roberto Lopez, head of the Credit Bureau of the Department of Finance; Ricardo Carrion, secretary of the National Railways of Mexico; Captain Blas Tijerina and Gustavo Velasco, secretary of the delegation.

Other guests were Señor Tellez, Consul General Enrique D. Ruiz, William Egerton Mortimer of the British section of the International Committee of Bankers on Mexico; E. de la Longuiniere, Pierre Vinson and Henry R. Sabbag of the French section; Dr. Paul von Schwabach, the German representative; Gustave Dunant and Robert Dunant, Swiss representatives; Marcel Baelde, Belgian representative; George W. MEXICANS LOOK TO NEW ERA.

Expect Bankers' Conference Here Will Aid Country's Development.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, June 25.—Mexico's eyes are turned to New York for the conference between Luis Montes de Oca, Minister of Finance, and other financial and railway experts with the International Committee of Bankers on Mexico, seeking a new international debt agreement which, it is expected, will be reached on a basis that will prevent failures on Mexico's part such as occurred in the de la Huerta and Alberto Pani agreements.

The press insists conditions in Mexico today are vastly different to those which prevailed when de la Huerta went North, not only to seek some pact with the bankers, but also to persuade the Harding Administration that Mexico was worthy of recognition.

Later came Ambassador Morrow and since then the relations between the two republics have assumed another aspect. He and General Calles laid the basis for the present conference.

Mexico, commercially, economically and industrially speaking, feels Señor Montes de Oca's visit will result in a rehabilitation of a permanent nature which will mean, as General Calles has said, that every Mexican workman will be doing an honest day's work for both national and international benefit.

It is expected here the bankers will take into consideration the enormous undeveloped resources of this republic and that they will weigh the question of national pride in regard to Mexican development and foreign capital. That Mexico, under prevailing conditions, cannot live without foreign capital is regarded as certain.

The Mexican horizon is now entirely peaceful and revolutionary movements would seem to have disappeared. It is held the time has come for a definite recovery and that the outlines of such development might come from Señor Monte de Oca's parleys with the bankers.

AMERICAN TOBACCO WOULD SPLIT STOCK

Directors Plan to Raise Dividend When Stockholders Vote Changes in Shares.

EARNINGS ARE DOUBLED

President of Company Gives Credit to Newspaper Advertising for Large Part of Gain.

Directors of the American Tobacco Company voted yesterday to submit to stockholders a plan to split the common stock and Class B common stock on a two-for-one basis. If the plan is approved, the directors announced, an extra dividend of $4 a share will be paid on the old common stock, while the new common will be placed on a $5 annual dividend basis. This is equivalent to $10 a share on the old stock, which is now on an $8 annual basis.

In announcing the action, George W. Hill, president, said the company's business in the first five months of 1930 had surpassed all records for corresponding periods and that the net profit, after allowing for bond interest and preferred dividends, increased more than 100 per cent, compared with the corresponding period of last year.

Mr. Hill announced also a plan for the issuance and sale of Class B common stock to employes and persons actively engaged in conducting the company's business.

Effect of Advertising.

"I am certain," Mr. Hill said, "that modern business practice, conforming with the policies of many large business enterprises, approves the wisdom of offering inducements by way of stock ownership in the company to the men who make the success of that company possible." He continued:

"We sincerely attribute a large measure of the prosperity of our company to the assistance that newspaper advertising has given to us. Second only in importance to the quality of the product, in our opinion, is the question of its exploitation by advertising. Our policy of advertising, editorial in nature, as crammed full as we can make it of timely and appealing human interest, approximates the policies laid down by successful editors. We firmly believe that our copy not only competes for public attention with other advertisements, but with the news articles of the day, and we attribute in no small measure the prosperity of our company in recent years to the proper use of newspaper publicity.

"As an illustration of our definite belief in this medium, whereas we are told by our advertising agents that some other firms are reducing their appropriations in newspaper advertising for the year 1930, our own appropriation for the year 1930 has been increased by more than $2,300,000 in excess of the year 1929."

Par Value of Shares to be Halved.

In a letter sent last night to stockholders of the company, Mr. Hill forwarded a copy of the resolution adopted by the directors urging the stock split-up. The directors recommended that the par value of the new shares be half the par value of the old and that each new share be entitled to one vote. To preserve the relative voting power of the preferred and common issues, the resolution urges that the voting power of each share of preferred be increased from two votes a share to four votes a share. This change will require an amendment to the charter.

A special stockholders' meeting has been called for July 28, at which time action will be taken on the recommended split-up, the change in dividend rates and the altered voting power of the shares. With the approval of the plan, dividends paid on the shares will mark the 100th consecutive quarterly distribution by the company. The stockholders will vote on a proposal to increase the common and Class B common shares from 3,000,000 to 6,000,000.

At present there are 2,343,508 shares of combined common and Class B common stock outstanding. After the split-up is approved there will be 4,687,017 shares outstanding.

The company's total assets at the end of 1929 were $265,405,907, of which $146,766,871 were current assets. Net earnings in 1929 were $30,182,669. On this basis the net profit for the first five months of 1930 would be approximately $25,000,000, inview of the 100 per cent increase reported by Mr. Hill.

CALL MONEY HOLDS AT 2%.

Lowest Rate for Day Since 1924 Except on March 20.

Conditions in the call money market yesterday duplicated the ease of March 20 last, with the distinction that yesterday's ease was regarded as a development likely to last for some time, while the sudden collapse of rates in March was due to temporary factors.

Standing call loans renewed at 2 per cent for the first time, with the exception of the March episode, since 1924, and the rate held there all day at the money post of the Stock Exchange. In the outside market loans were made at 1½ per cent, a rate also equaled on March 20, but not previously for a number of years.

Coincident with the reduction in the call rate, all dealers fell in line with the reduced level of bankers' acceptance rates established by the majority on Tuesday. Federal funds were reported available at 1¾ per cent, three-quarters of 1 per cent below the rediscount rate, and were in light demand.

Freeport Leases Sulphur.

The Freeport Sulphur Company, a subsidiary of the Freeport Texas Company, has leased from the Shell Petroleum Corporation the sulphur rights on a salt dome cap-rock area of 700 acres at Black Bayou in Southwestern Indiana, it was announced yesterday.

This is the first step by the new management in the company's program of expansion and development of sulphur properties. According to the agreement, Freeport Sulphur will drill at least eight prospect wells.

To Leave the New Haven.

Augustus S. May, treasurer of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, will retire on July 1 after fifty-seven years' service, it was announced yesterday. T. F. Paradise, assistant treasurer for twenty-seven years and with a service record of forty-eight years, has been promoted to succeed Mr. May. Both men started as boys in the treasury department, Mr. May as a cash clerk in 1872 and Mr. Paradise as an office boy in 1881.

Quarterly Bond Review and List of Current Offerings

Vol. 1. No. 3 July 1930

Situation Continues to Favor Bonds

The most notable development of the past few months has been the continued strengthening of the factors favoring improvement in the bond market. The rate on call money has for some time been steady in the neighborhood of 3%.* Rates on time money have been correspondingly low, and the action of the New York Federal Reserve Bank in reducing its rate to 3% brings this rate to a lower level than at any time since 1924. The prevailing low money rates are by no means confined to this country; practically all of the important European nations report easy money conditions, and there is apparently little reason for believing that the factors which have brought this about will undergo an early change.

Commodity prices, meanwhile, have pursued a downward trend, and have now reached a level lower than any since 1916. This trend has a bearing upon the bond market from two directions. Declining commodity prices, in the first place, enhance the purchasing power of the dollar, and consequently add to the value and attractiveness of all securities which represent value in money rather than in physical property. A downward trend of this type, furthermore, invariably has the effect of constricting inventories and thus increasing the amount of money not immediately required in the conduct of general business.

In view of the powerful factors operating to bring about improvement in the bond market, it is only natural to inquire why price advances have not been registered more uniformly among all types and grades of bonds. There are various reasons. It should be remembered, first of all, that the market has been compelled to make headway against a very large volume of new bond flotations. (See chart at bottom of page.) The demand has managed to keep well ahead of the supply only in the case of extremely high grade issues whose merit is universally recognized. Less widely known issues, no matter how well secured they may be, are always slower to reflect the trend of the market than the bonds which everyone recognizes as premier investments. Considered as a whole the 1930 bond market has given an excellent account of itself. It has absorbed a heavy accumulation of new financing, including many issues held over from last year. Yet, the market is in a technically stronger position today than it has been at any time during the past two years. Although the banks of the country have not been conspicuously strong factors in the market to date, it is noteworthy that total security holdings of the weekly reporting member banks of the Federal Reserve System have been increased by more than $350,000,000 during the past three months of the current year and are greater than at any time since May, 1929.

The situation today is manifestly more favorable to the bond market than for some time past. Last year, for instance, enormous sums were being poured into the stock market. High call money rates attracted the surplus funds of banks and corporations, and, furthermore, building activity and the rapid pace of business required large additional amounts of money. Today this is all changed. The capital which was required for the purposes mentioned is accumulating in substantial amounts and is gradually passing into the channels of conservative investment—with bonds the favored medium.

GOVERNMENT BONDS RISE AS OTHERS SAG

Rails and Convertibles Suffer Most in Selling on the Stock Exchange.

MANY NEW LOWS ARE MADE

Mexican Securities Advance as Conference on Debts of Republic Starts Here.

Securities in the listed bond market were hard hit yesterday with the exception of United States Government bonds, which moved up 2-32 to 5-32 in quiet trading. The general list, however, was fairly active, with railroad bonds and convertible issues bearing the brunt of the selling. A long list of domestic railroad and corporation bonds touched new lows for the year, although in many instances closing prices were up slightly from the bottom of the day.

In the convertible list, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe 4½s dropped 2⅝ points to a new low at 120½, while the heavily traded Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1960 touched a new low at 98[illegible], closing at 99, off ¾ of a point. International Telephone and Telegraph 4½s of 1939 made a fresh bottom at 105, finishing ⅛ above this figure with a net loss of 1⅞ points. Warner Brothers Pictures convertible 6s dipped below par for the first time this year, but closed at par, off a half point.

Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific 4½s of 1960 descended to a new low for 1930 at 95¾, closing at 96½, off a point. Dodge Brothers convertible 6s were off fractionally to their bottom quotations. Belding Heminway convertible 6s ran counter to the general trend, moving up 2½ points to 78½.

In the railroad group, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific adjustment 5s were off a half point to a new low of 49½, and Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s of 1955 fell 2½ points to a bottom of 89½. International Great Northern adjustment 6s of 1952 toppled 6 points to 74, its lowest in 1930. Seaboard Air Line issues were again under pressure, with the 6s of 1945 establishing their low mark of 50.

Industrial bonds suffered in sporadic selling. Walworth Manufacturing 6½s, with warrants, dropped 4½ points to 95½, its smallest quotation. Vertientes Sugar 7s fell 2 points to a 1930 bottom of 42. Cuban Cane Products 6s were off fractionally to a new low of 16½. Manati Sugar 7½s recovered four of the previous day's loss of 10 points. White Sewing Machine 6s established a new low at [illegible]¾, off 4¾ points.

Mexican bonds closed ½ to 3 points higher with the start of the conference between the Mexican officials and the bankers' committee on Mexican debt. South American bonds were generally weaker, many issues recording new lows for the year. All transactions in German International 5½s were at 90, the issuing price.

BANKERS TO MARKET NEW RAILWAY BONDS

$20,000,000 Issue of the Colorado & Southern on the Market Today.

PRICED TO YIELD 4.75 P. C.

Part of Proceeds to Reimburse Company for Expense of Building Subsidiary Road.

An issue of $20,000,000 general mortgage 4½ per cent bonds, Series A, of the Colorado & Southern Railway Company will be placed on the market today by a syndicate composed of J. P. Morgan & Co., the First National Bank and the National City Company. The bonds, which are dated May 1, 1930, and will be due on May 1, 1980, are to be offered at 95¼ and accrued interest, to yield approximately 4.75 per cent to maturity.

The bonds are being issued to reimburse the company in part for the retirement of $19,402,000 of its first mortgage bonds which matured on Feb. 1 and for expenditures of more than $7,500,000 which were made prior to May 1 in the construction of a 205-mile line of its wholly owned subsidiary, the Fort Worth & Denver South Plains Railway Company. They are secured by a direct second lien on the principal properties of the company, subject to the prior lien of $28,978,900 refunding and extension mortgage bonds now in the hands of the public and $4,190,000 bonds now pledged, all of which will mature on May 1, 1935. They are secured also by a direct first lien on the entire capital stock, except directors' shares, of the Fort Worth & Denver South Plains.

The Colorado & Southern Railway Company and its subsidiaries constitute the Colorado and Southern lines and the southern stem of the Burlington system. The company is controlled through ownership of 68 per cent of its capital stock by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company. The Colorado & Southern lines own 1,619 miles of standard gauge line and have trackage rights over 169 miles of other railroads.

The new bonds are redeemable at the option of the company in whole or in part upon sixty days' notice on any interest date at the following prices and accrued interest: up to Nov. 1, 1949, at 110; thereafter until Nov. 1, 1964, at 107; thereafter until Nov. 1, 1974, at 105, and thereafter at par.

ASKS AUTHORITY FOR LOAN.

St. Louis Southwestern Wants to Pledge Mortgage Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Application for authority to pledge as collateral security for short-term indebtedness $10,108,000 par value of first terminal and unifying mortgage bonds was made to the Interstate Commerce Commission today by the St. Louis Southwestern Railway Company, the bonds now being held in the company treasury.

The reason for the application, according to the company, is its activity in the past twelve months in establishing an additional railroad between St. Louis and Memphis. This construction necessitated loans and expenditures in excess of $3,000,000 and more bank loans are contemplated. It is the opinion of the applicant that these loans may be paid and additional money acquired on more favorable terms if the company is permitted to pledge as collateral first terminal and unifying mortgage bonds.

Application also was made to the commission today by the Western New York & Pennsylvania Railway Company for authority to issue $7,009,868.93 of preferred stock and scrip and $23,846,951 of common stock and scrip so as to limit the amount of preferred stock and scrip to $5,951,031.81.

$20,000,000 Issue of Bonds To Be Put on Market Today

New securities totaling $20,000,000 will be placed on the market today by New York banking houses. The total consists of a single issue of bonds.

The issue is classified as follows:

Railroad, $20,000,000.

TO AMEND BOND-ISSUE LAW.

Jersey Legislature Called to Liberalize Limits on Municipals.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., June 25.—Gov. Larsan has called a special session of the Legislature, to convene next Tuesday at 8 o'clock to amend a defect in the law on the limitation of bond issues introduced by Senator S. Rusling Leap, of Salem County, and passed by the last Legislature.

The law was aimed to prevent padded valuations by the various cities of the property owned by them and to provide a reasonable limitation of bond issues to be carried by special assessment.

Since the bill was passed there were complaints to the Governor that the law caused embarrassment to cities that have a stringency provision. The Legislature will be asked to provide a more liberal limit.

Georgia-Alabama Power Bond Call.

The South Georgia Power Company, a member of the Commonwealth Southern Corporation group, has called for redemption on Aug. 1 at the offices of the Mercantile Trust Company of Baltimore all the Georgia-Alabama Power Company's first refunding mortgage gold bonds, series A, 6½ per cent, due on Feb. 1, 1957. South Georgia Power is the successor to Georgia-Alabama Power.

JULY 5 HOLIDAY SET BY ALL EXCHANGES

Three Days of Inactivity Are Assured for Markets, Including Cotton and Grain.

CURB FOLLOWS BIG BOARD

Banks Will Be Open, Though, on Day After the Fourth of July.

Business will be suspended on the securities and commodity exchanges for three days, beginning with Independence Day. The New York Stock Exchange, the New York Curb, the New York Cotton Exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade reached this decision yesterday, voting to close July 5 as well as on July 4. This means that, so far as these and other securities and commodity markets are concerned, the shut-down will extend from Thursday afternoon, July 3, until Monday morning, July 7.

The banks will be closed on July 4, but will be open as usual on July 5. Most of the commodity exchanges make a practice of closing on Saturdays in the Summer. The Cotton Exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade generally do not follow this plan, but decided yesterday to close because July 5 falls on the Saturday after Independence Day.

The decision to close the New York Stock Exchange on July 5 was reached in response to a petition signed by almost 800 members. A similar decision was reached by the Curb immediately after the Stock Exchange governors had acted.

CHICAGO, June 25 (AP).—The Chicago Board of Trade will be closed on Saturday, July 5, after the usual July 4 holiday, the directors announced today. This action differs from the usual course of the board whereby the grain, cotton and provision departments remained open on Saturdays following Friday holidays.

The Chicago Live Stock Exchange will be closed from Thursday, July 3, to Monday, July 7.

CHANGES IN CORPORATIONS.

Elisha Walker, chairman of the Transamerica Corporation; Robert Lehman of Lehman Brothers and Sidney J. Weinberg of Goldman, Sachs & Co. have been elected directors of the General Foods Corporation, and Waddill Catchings and Earle P. Charlton have resigned from the board.

H. H. Wittstein has been elected a director of the Globe Wernicke Company, succeeding T. M. Conroy.

Oscar I. Ives has been elected treasurer of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, succeeding John Balch, who will retire on June 30.

W. L. Garey, formerly president of the Royal Baking Powder Company, has joined Eastman, Dillon & Co.

Ruling on A. T. & T. Bond Deliveries

The committee on securities of the New York Stock Exchange ruled yesterday that transactions in American Telephone and Telegraph Company temporary thirty-five-year 5 per cent gold debentures, due in 1965, may be settled by delivery of either temporary or permanent bonds. The last day for dealing in the temporary bonds will be July 1.

Vote to End Sheffield Steel.

Stockholders of the Sheffield Steel Corporation approved yesterday the dissolution of the company in accordance with the plan for its consolidation with the American Rolling Mill Company. The stock of the company will be withdrawn from trading on the Chicago Stock Exchange on June 27.

It also means that the opportunity for work and the earning power of hundreds of thousands of men and women are enlarged because of this steady gain in power consumption.

Such is the social significance of these figures that they are of profound importance not only to the investor whose funds provide the service, but to the public which furnishes the ever increasing demand.

How Should a Woman Invest Her Money?

Here is an investment that brings the peace of mind that comes from certainty. No investment knowledge is required. Anyone can make it as easily and can get identically the same advantages, protection and maximum yield as the most skilled investment expert.

FOR a woman to invest her funds safely and well is no easy matter. Experience proves that most women soon lose the funds they have acquired.

There are women who possess financial skill of the highest order. But most women lack the necessary training and knowledge of how to select investments wisely, and then to watch them closely.

Safety and Certainty

An investment for a woman should, above all things, be SAFE. It should be non-fluctuating. It should require no watching. It should be easy to make. And interest payments should be made without bothersome details.

Such an investment is State Title and Mortgage Company's GUARANTEED FIRST MORTGAGE CERTIFICATES. They are as easy to buy as Liberty Bonds or Travelers' Checks. They are issued in any amounts, odd or even. No bothersome details to go through. Simply state the amount of the CERTIFICATE you want. It's yours promptly—without red-tape, delays or bothersome details.

These CERTIFICATES need no watching. You can put them away and forget them, knowing that they are safe, that they will not fluctuate, and that interest payments at the rate of 5½% per annum will be made to you automatically, the first of any months desired.

Ironclad Guarantee

The safety of these CERTIFICATES and the prompt payment of interest and principal are unequivocably and unconditionally GUARANTEED by a fund of $10,000,000 which is administered under the regulations and supervision of the Insurance Department of the State of New York.

Financial authorities are agreed that these CERTIFICATES are an ideal investment for women.

The whole story of this ideal investment is told in an unusually interesting booklet, "A SIMPLE INVESTMENT THAT IS SAFE." It tells all about the real estate first mortgage business. CAR AND FOUNDRY REPORTS FOR YEAR

Company Comments on Volume of Railway Orders on Books as New Period Starts.

EARNINGS NEARLY DOUBLED

Divisions of Motor Coaches and Yachts Expected to Become Increasingly Important.

Showing earnings nearly double those made in the previous year, the annual report of the American Car and Foundry Company for the year ended on April 30, issued yesterday, states that the company had on its books "a comfortable amount of orders in the railroad equipment field to start the year beginning on May 1 and that prospects were favorable for continued earnings from this source." This feature of the report was accepted as especially significant by the more optimistic element of Wall Street because of the weakness of rail shares and the continued persistency in reports from the steel industry of lack of buying by the railroads.

The company also reported its other lines of activities as increasing in earnings. These include manufacture of motor coaches and standardized motor yachts. The report adds that these two branches may be expected to become of increasing importance.

The company reports for the year consolidated net earnings, including those of wholly owned subsidiaries, of $5,3[illegible]3,765. These were equivalent, after preferred dividend requirements, to earnings of $5.40 a share on the outstanding common stock. The earnings were nearly double those reported for the previous fiscal year when they amounted to $2,715,174, equivalent to earnings of $1.03 a common share.

Commenting upon the business for the fiscal year, the report says:

"Not only are prospects favorable for continued earnings in the railroad equipment field, but the company reports increasing returns from its numerous other activities. Noteworthy among these are its important divisions devoted to the manufacture of motor coaches and standardized motor yachts. In each of these specialized fields of modern transportation the company has taken an outstanding position and they may be expected to become increasingly important."

CURB SEAT TRANSFERRED.

Two Associate Members Elected and Six Resignations Accepted.

At the meeting of the board of governors of the New York Curb Exchange yesterday, the regular membership of David Wood was transferred to George F. Brennan of Harriman & Co.

Corwin Wickham of Beach, Wickham & Co., of Chicago, and Ray W. Stephenson of Cassatt & Co., were elected to associate membership. The resignations of Frank L. Burnett, Louis B. Wade, Osborne Halsted, Roy E. Bard, Arthur N. Peck and W. Plunkett Stewart from associate memberships were accepted.

P.R.R. Workers Oversubscribe Stock

Employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad oversubscribed their allotment of 360,000 shares of stock under a recent offer, according to a report yesterday by A. J. County, vice president in charge of finance and corporate relations. He said 72,450 applications were received for 580,097 shares. A maximum of seven shares will be allotted to each subscriber, those who did not ask for more than this number receiving full allotments.

PRICES ON CURB RALLY AFTER HITTING BOTTOM

Utilities Are Strongest in Comeback—Glen Alden Coal Loses 18 Points.

Several new low marks were established on the New York Curb Exchange again yesterday, but a rally near the close carried some prices back and wiped out numerous losses. Trading was slightly more active than on Tuesday.

Utilities rebounded more rapidly than the general list, more of the leading issues in that group ending with gains than with losses. Electric Bond and Share, Middle West Utilities, United Gas, Brazilian Light and Traction and United Light and Power closed at advances. Associated Gas, after falling to a fresh bottom, closed with only a fractional loss, as did Niagara Hudson. American Superpower ended unchanged.

Cities Service declined, along with Gulf and Humble Oils. Standard of Indiana, after touching a new low, climbed back for a slight gain. Houston and Vacuum Oil were also higher at the close.

In the industrial list, Deere & Co. went two points through its previous low and then rebounded to make a gain of almost four points for the day. MAY CHECK PAYMENTS WERE BELOW 1929 MARK

Distribution of Products and Steel Mill Activity Also Showed Decline From Year Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Business activity in May as gauged by check payments for for the first four weeks, was lower than in the corresponding period of 1929, the Department of Commerce said today in its monthly survey. The distribution of commodities through primary channels as reflected by data on car loadings was also lower than in May a year ago.

Activity in steel plants, though showing slight change from April, was below the mark of May, 1929. The production of bituminous coal, while showing a slight gain over April, was lower than for the corresponding period last year.

Factory employment in Detroit, reflecting the automobile industry, showed an improvement over the previous month, but was substantially lower than a year ago.

The output of crude petroleum was slightly larger than during the preceding month, but lower than a year ago.

The value of new building contracts awarded during May was larger than in April, but was 6 per cent below May, 1929.

The general index of wholesale prices was lower than for either the previous month or for May, 1929. Prices for wheat declined continuously during the month, except for a slight recovery during the last week and were lower than during the corresponding month of last year. Cotton prices were slightly higher than the previous month, but materially below the same period a year ago. The prices for iron and steel showed declines for both comparative periods.

CASUALTY COMPANIES PLAN TRIPLE MERGER

A. T. Vanderbilt Announces Public, Hudson and Georgia Committees Vote for Deal.

Arthur T. Vanderbilt, chairman of the board of the Public Indemnity Company of Newark, announced yesterday that the executive committees of that company and of the Hudson Casualty Company of Jersey City and the Georgia Casualty Company of Macon, Ga., had recommended a merger of the three concerns under which the Public company would absorb the two others, retaining its head office in Newark.

The directors and stockholders of the companies and the Insurance Commissioners of New Jersey and Georgia will have to pass on the plan.

The Public operates chiefly in the Middle Atlantic, Middle Western and Far Western States, the Hudson in New England and the Georgia in the South. The new concern, operating in twenty-three States, would have combined assets of more than $8,000,000, capital of $1,000,000 and surplus over capital of about $3,000,000.

The combined premiums for the three companies for 1929 were reported as more than $4,500,000.

The authorized capital stock of the Public would be changed from 100,000 shares of $5 par stock to 400,000 of $2.50 par. One share of new stock would be given for each $12.50 net value in the old companies.

Electric Power Increases Shares.

Stockholders of the Electric Power and Light Corporation approved yesterday an increase from 4,020,000 to 7,020,000 shares, of which 4,000,000 will be common and the balance preferred shares.

PORTFOLIO IS ANNOUNCED

Trading Privileges on Stock Exchange Are Sought for 3,905,000 Additional Shares.

The application of the United Corporation to list 710,000 additional shares of its $3 cumulative preference stock and 3,195,000 additional shares of common stock on the New York Stock Exchange in connection with the acquisition of additional shares of the Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation reveals that the total cost of securities held by the corporation at the close of business on June 14 was $539,456,181, while the indicated market value at the closing prices of that date was $590,313,758.

The application also shows that gross profit from Jan. 1, to June 14 was $4,403,547, of which $1,038,380 was profit on securities sold and the remainder, interest and dividends on investments. The balance available to the common stock after deducting dividends on the preference stock and current expenses for this period was $2,913,927. On the basis of current dividends on stocks held on June 14, estimated annual dividends will amount to $18,368,260.

Cash on hand on June 14 was only $124,414. The smallness of this item was said to be due to recent purchases of additional securities, for miscellaneous investments increased from $5,101,156 on April 12 to $9,726,892 on June 14. On Dec. 31, 1929, cash on hand was $18,390,229.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

Trading Quiet on the English Exchange, but Prices Hold Generally Steady.

FRENCH STOCKS ADVANCE

Bank of France Dividend Increase Imparts Strengthened Tone—Decline in Germany.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—The over-night fall in Wall Street caused no pressure of selling on this side today. Business opened quietly and the Stock Exchange's tone in most departments was steady. Prices in some cases were marked down at first, but in the absence of sellers soon picked up again, even Anglo-Americans recovering a part of the early losses.

The investment demand for British funds continued and prices, helped by a better tendency in sterling exchange, showed further all-around improvement. The war loan rose further to £102 15-16 and the 3½% conversion loan of £77 9-16.

Industrials were generally quiet. The internationals responded to the lower American advices, but recovered partially later. International Nickel fell to $23¾, Brazilian Traction to $40⅝, Radio Corporation to $34¼, and Hydroelectric to $38. Columbia Graphophone at £3 11-16 and His Master's Voice Gramophone at £3 9-16 also were easier.

Textiles showed little change. Cables and wireless issues opened better, but subsequently reacted. Marconi Marine at £1¾ was easier. Rhodesian coppers weakened on New York advices with Congo Border down to £14½, Bwana M'Kubwa to 13s 3d, and N'Changa to £2¾. Tin rose further to £139 12s 6d a ton in anticipation of further developments regarding the restriction scheme. A large amount was borrowed from the Bank of England today in preparation for the end of the half year, but short credit remained in plentiful supply. Loans overnight were 1½ down to 1 per cent. In the absence of sellers bill rates further weakened. Sterling exchange on New York maintained yesterday's improvement at $4.85 31-32-$4.86 1-32.

Upswing Continues in Paris.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 25.—Despite unfavorable advices from the New York market, the Paris Bourse today continued the trend toward recovery begun yesterday. The Bank of France's announcement of a dividend 50 francs higher than the previous distribution was one factor in maintaining the strength of this market. Trading did not greatly increase, however, and the volume of transactions was still comparatively small.

Rentes remained steady, closing as follows: The 3 per cents, 87.25; 1918 4s, 101.60; 1920 amortizable 5s, 133.95; 1928 5s, 101.50; 1920 6s, 101.47; 1927 amortizable 6s, 105.05.

Trend Downward in Berlin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 25.—The Boerse continued in a state of depression today due to the absence of pronounced recovery on the New York Exchange, and uncertainty over the domestic political situation because of the Government's failure to enact financial reforms.

Among the favorites today the electricals, the potash group and I. G. Farben showed losses of 3 to 6 points, while stocks which were firm yesterday also sagged in the course of today's session. Month-end settlements further tended to affect trading adversely. There was a slight indication of recovery at the close. Money continued unchanged.

VOTE PLAN TO BUY SPANG-CHALFANT CO.

Directors of National Supply Approve Terms for Merger Involving $80,000,000.

SHARES TO BE EXCHANGED

National Supply's Stockholders Will Meet July 17 to Provide for Capital Increase.

Directors of the National Supply Company yesterday formally approved plans for the acquisition of Spang, Chalfant & Co., manufacturers of welded and seamless tubing, through an exchange of stock. National Supply manufactures and distributes equipment, machinery and supplies for all branches of the oil industry and is a large consumer of pipe. Spang, Chalfant & Co. have assets of more than $38,000,000, while National Supply's assets total more than $42,000,000.

The terms of the exchange call for the offering of one-half share of the common and one-half share of the preferred of National Supply for each 3¼ shares of Spang, Chalfant & Co. common. The bonds and preferred stock of Spang, Chalfant & Co. are not involved in the merger, it was announced.

A special meeting of stockholders of National Supply will be held on July 17 to increase its capital sufficiently so that the merger may be completed.

Spang, Chalfant & Co. hold a controlling interest in the Oil Well Supply Company, which operates in a field similar to that of National Supply. The parent company was incorporated in Pennsylvania in 1899. In 1928 it acquired the assets of the Standard Seamless Tube Company and 100,000 shares of Oil Well Supply Company.

National Supply is the successor of a company of the same name which was incorporated in West Virginia in 1894. In June, 1928, it acquired the entire capital stock of the Superior Engine Company.

IAEGER (W. VA.) BANK CLOSED

First National Directors State That Suspension Is Temporary.

WELCH, W. Va., June 25 (AP).—The First National Bank of Iaeger, the third bank in McDowell County closed within two weeks, failed to open today. A posted notice said the institution was "temporarily closed" by the board of directors.

In its last statement the bank reported resources of $373,585 and deposits of $314,110. It was capitalized at $25,000.

Canadian Silver Mines Hurt.

TORONTO, Ont., June 25.—J. P. Bickell, president of the Castle Tretheway Mines, told shareholders at their annual meeting today that he did not see how mines in Ontario producing only silver could "keep out of red ink figures," with the price of silver at its present level. He said the company's mines now were just breaking even and advised that they be shut down unless there was a substantial improvement in prices. The mine had showed an operating profit, he said, because of the work done at the beginning of the year before the drop in world silver prices. The directors were re-elected.

Canada's Pulp and Paper Exports.

MONTREAL, Que., June 25.—Exports of wood pulp and paper from Canada during May were valued at $16,725,081, an increase of $4,525,887 over the previous month and a slight decline from the figures for May, 1929, the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association reports. Wood pulp made up $3,288,475 of the total, and paper exports, $13,436,606. For the first five months of 1930 the value of wood pulp and paper exported was $76,644,844, compared with $479,911,124 for the same period in 1929.

Kemmerer Honored at Dinner.

Dr. Edwin W. Kemmerer, Research Professor of International Finance at Princeton University, who returned recently to this country after almost a year in China as president of the Commission of Financial Experts of the Chinese National Government, was guest of honor at a dinner in the University Club last night. The dinner was given by the directors of the International Securities Corporation of America and other companies affiliated with the United Founders Corporation.

LATE UPTURN HELPS OVER-COUNTER STOCKS

Majority of the List, However, Fails to Recover All the Earlier Losses.

A mild rally in the last hour helped some of the leading stocks to regain a part of their earlier losses on the over-the-counter market yesterday, but the majority of the list closed with losses for the day.

Some of the bank issues rallied and were higher at the close, including Guaranty, Manhattan, Public, Central Hanover, Bank of United States and Lefcourt. On the declining side were City, Title Guarantee, America, Corn Exchange and Irving.

The majority of the insurance list was lower at the close, but Providence Washington, Home Fire Securities and Aetna Casualty showed gains against the trend. Practically all the others were lower. Industrials also were down, with losses recorded in American Hardware, Petroleum Derivatives, American Meter and United States Finishing preferred.

Utility common stocks moved slightly lower, while the preferred issues held up well, with changes mostly fractional. Chain stores and other groups were quiet.

Foreign Press Men Arrive Today.

A party of twenty-six foreign newspaper men will arrive on the Lehigh Valley Railroad today from Niagara Falls. They are the first to go on tours arranged by the railroad and the International Mercantile Marine. The line's ships bring the tourists to Montreal, whence they travel over Canadian lines to Niagara Falls, coming here on special sleeping trains on the Lehigh Valley.

DEMAND FOR STEEL SHOWS SLIGHT GAIN

Week's Reviews Report Clash of Opinion on Whether Upturn Will Continue.

PIPE PRODUCTION INCREASES

Buying for Automobile Plants and Railroads, However, Is in Reduced Volume.

Conflicting views regarding the position of the steel industry are expressed in the weekly summaries of the trade magazines made public yesterday. Some hold that the customary mid-year suspensions for inventory and Summer shutdowns will cause a further reduction of output, but contracted with this are heavy pipe orders, increasing inquiries for structural shapes and a general feeling reported among steel executives who have been through many changes that curtailment of buying has been overdone and that an upturn is due.

The Iron Age market summary says in part:

"Plans of the United States Steel Corporation to bring as much ore down the Lakes as in 1929 are interpreted as indicating its faith in the business prospects for the last half of the year. The scheduled blowing in of two blast furnaces by a large Pittsburgh independent early next month may point to similar confidence, although probably more largely influenced by pressure for line pipe deliveries.

"The country's capacity in line pipe is fully committed for six months. The Republic Steel Corporation has booked an additional order for 10,000 tons from the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company. The Sun Oil Company is in the market for 200 miles of twenty-inch gas pipe, and the Ajax Pipe Line will soon buy against its inquiry for 300,000 tons. It is becoming difficult to find mills that can take orders for line pipe projects scheduled for completion this year."

Views Gain as Temporary.

The Iron Trade Review says in part:

"Steel makes a slightly greater showing in activity this week, due to a bulge in demand for structural material, an accumulation of orders in the Youngstown district, which is tempering receding operations there, and a foray into the market by consumers whose inventories have fallen dangerously low.

"This improvement, however, appears to be a temporary upswing, such as frequently occurs to check a declining market, and is not a trend. It generally is conceded steel approaches the close of the second quarter with the price situation well liquidated, but not the overproduction of 1929.

"Of the four major outlets for steel, pipe production is practically covered for the remainder of the year, and structural steel jogs along at about 80 per cent of last year's record gait. But requirements of the automotive industry and railroads are expected to go lower before higher, and they tip the scales downward.

Decline in Auto Production.

"Automotive production in July is expected to be the lowest since February, if not for the entire year, and at this distance August forecasts point to little betterment. With further postponement of awards of 2,800 freight cars for the Illinois Central, 1,500 for the Pacific Fruit Express and 500 for the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad, the railroads also appear barren of steel needs for at least sixty days.

"With deliveries prompt, no threat of higher prices and carry-over of second quarter contracts fairly heavy, steel users are oblivious to the approaching turn of the quarter. Considering the few days remaining, interest among pig iron consumers in third quarter requirements also is surprisingly mild. In several districts melters who had issued third quarter inquiries have placed only a part of the tonnage specified."

The Iron Age composite prices are lower. That for finished steel fell to 2.185 cents a pound from 2.214 cents a pound, at which it held for five weeks. The pig iron composite is now $17.42, against $17.50 for the last three weeks.

The Iron Trade Review composite price is down 8 cents to $33.44, giving an average of $33.53 for June.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The Pennsylvania Railroad reported with other roads yesterday declines in gross and net operating incomes for May and the first five months of the year. CUT EXPECTED SOON IN CRUDE OIL PRICES

Purchases Below Posted Rate in Mid-Continent and Texas Areas Reported.

GASOLINE STOCKS INCREASE

Reach Record Volume as Domestic Demand Fails to Increase at Normal Speed.

An early cut in the posted price of crude oil in Texas and the mid-continent areas is expected by some important executives of the oil industry. Officials of one or two of the leading crude oil purchasing companies are in New York, and it is understood that action relative to a cut is likely to be taken by one company within a fortnight.

In some fields in the mid-continent and Texas areas where the companies do not desire to take on additional connections, oil can be purchased below the posted price, according to officials. In West Texas the leading companies for some time have been taking only half of the amount of oil that they were buying two months ago. One reason given is that they do not desire to increase the quantity of oil in storage. Another reason, it is reported, is that they desire to aid producers in the new Hobbs field in New Mexico as much as possible by taking some of their output.

Despite the curtailment programs in effect in practically all the important fields, oil stocks have been increasing steadily since last Fall and are close to their record high levels. Although the export demand of gasoline has increased about as expected, the domestic demand for this product has not had a normal growth and gasoline stocks now are the greatest that they ever have been at this time of the year. Prices at refineries are low, averaging about 3 cents a gallon less than a year ago.

With the exception of a few cuts in prices of Pennsylvania crude oil and one made by the Standard Oil of California at Santa Fe Springs, Cal., when operators there refused to agree to curtailment, no important change in prices has been made since the general advance of about 10 cents a barrels at the beginning of April. At that time, gasoline prices were increased moderately, but during the last month they have declined and now are generally below those prevailing early in April. Since gasoline is the chief source of revenue from crude oil, the margin of refiners' profit has been reduced materially or wiped out.

Another important factor in the situation is the steadily increasing output of the Oklahoma City pool. This oil compares favorably in quality with the Pennsylvania grade oils, and many of the purchasing companies are desirous of increasing their stocks of Oklahoma City oil at the expense of lower grade oils. The Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company is building additional storage facilities for 1,000,000 barrels. Operators are regarded as adhering reasonably well to the curtailment program in the district, whose output is restricted to about one-sixth of its potential capacity. Conditions in the oil industry are said to compare with those prevailing in 1927, when the Seminole area was at its peak.

While commodity prices both here and abroad have been steadily declining for months, there has been no change in the posted price of crude oil in the important producing areas and oil executives hold that in view of the statistical position of the industry and the oil reserves the price has been maintained at a level out of line with other basic commodities.

WHEAT PRICES RISE FROM LOWS ON CROP

Covering by Shorts and Buying by Stock Traders in East Get Credit for Upturn.

CORN CLOSES AT DECLINES

Oats End With Gain Despite Selling Pressure— Rye Rallies From Bottom.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 25.—The wheat market fluctuated erratically today within a range of 1¾ to 2 cents, rallying sharply after an early break to new lows on the crop for all deliveries. Short covering and some buying attributed to eastern stock traders was a factor in making the upturn, and traders here were less disposed to press the bear side, although sharp price changes occurred, influenced by the action of stocks. Closing trades were at intermediate figures, with net gains of ½ to ⅝ cent.

Winnipeg showed independent strength and finished ⅞ to 1¼ cents higher. Liverpool failed to follow the bad break in North America yesterday but closed 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents lower.

A slight change in foreign news was in evidence, while that from the Southwest was distinctly bearish. Favorable weather prevails for harvesting and the movement is becoming heavier daily.

Many local traders and commission houses are trying to get bullish on the wheat market, and there is a general feeling that the urgent liquidation is over.

Foreign news was somewhat more favorable to higher prices, although Liverpool closed 1⅛ to 1⅝d lower, part of the decline being due to closing of spreads with Chicago. Export demand at the Seaboard was fair with business finally placed around 1,000,000 bushels, including Manitobas and new crop hard winters. Kansas City prices, however, are said to be relatively better than those at the Gulf.

Primary receipts were 763,000 bushels; a week ago 544,000 and a year ago 1,150,000. Shipments respectively were 1,440,000, 1,024,000 and 596,000 bushels.

Stop-loss orders were uncovered in corn. Selling by locals and commission houses sent old crop months to within a fraction of the season's low and December to a new low. Short covering caused a rally from the inside but final trades were at net losses of ⅜ to ⅞ cent.

Primary receipts of corn were 338,000 bushels; a week ago 642,000, and a year ago 1,000,000. Shipments respectively were 504,000, 613,000 and 610,000 bushels.

Oats showed stubborn resistance to pressure and closed ¼ to ⅜ cent higher, with cash interests buying. Harvesting is progressing in the Southwest.

All deliveries of rye sold early at new low marks on the crop, but rallied on spreading operations and local buying and closed ⅛ to ¼ cent higher. Russia was said to be offering rye c.i.f. Rotterdam below the Chicago July price.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

'Calendar' Buying of Wheat Done According to Custom

CHICAGO, June 25 (AP).—"Calendar purchasing of wheat future deliveries here today was in accord with a widespread belief that frequently influences many grain traders either to buy or to sell on June 25. The belief is based on long-time experience and on world-wide seasonable developments as to crops and shipping needs rather than on any arbitrary assumptions as to luck.

Nevertheless, scattered selling early sent prices below any made heretofore since 1914. Then the wheat market began an irregular upward course.

URGES FARM BOARD TO BUY MORE WHEAT

Kansas Governor Declares Disaster Faces Growers Because of Low Prices.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 25 (AP).—Asserting that Kansas, the country's largest wheat producing State, "is facing a catastrophe because of an unduly depressed wheat price," Governor Reed suggested today that the Federal Farm Board enter the market and purchase an additional 25,000,000 bushels or more at current prices.

In a telegram to Alexander Legge, chairman of the Farm Board, Governor Reed said thousands of wheat growers "are facing disaster because of the necessity to part with their crop now coming on the market at a price below the cost of production."

The Governor said he believed the Farm Board has "ample powers under the stabilization feature of the agriculture marketing act and ample capital to relieve this situation."

Big Cut in Canada's Visible Wheat.

MONTREAL, Que., June 25.—"During the five weeks ended on June 6 the Canadian visible supply of wheat decreased by more than 35,000,000 bushels," says the monthly business review of the Royal Bank of Canada. "If the movement continues at this rate until the end of July the carryover into the new crop year will be less than 100,000,000 bushels. In the face of foreign estimates that the carryover would exceed that figure by 50 per cent, the recent movements may be considered good news."

JULY COTTON FALLS TO NEW LOW OF 13C

Near-Month Contracts Then Lead Rally on Covering and List Closes at Gains.

FOREIGN MILLS ARE BUYERS

140,000 Bales Are Delivered to Cooperatives, Helping to Hold Down Prices.

Though the delivery of about 140,000 bales to cooperative associations on their holdings of July contracts ran the price of that delivery of cotton to 13c, a new low record, fluctuations on the Cotton Exchange yesterday were again irregular at the present price level. After new October had touched 12.55c, which was 4 points below the bottom made a week ago, a covering movement, led by July, rallied the list $1 a bale or more. The last-hour recovery wiped out the morning loss and gave the list a gain of 2 to 20 points on the day under active trading.

For several hours the market was depressed by weakness in stocks and grain, as well as by the most favorable weekly weather report received thus far this season. Not until July touched 13c and met trade support, did buying power create resistance. As in the decline last week to around similar levels for most new crop positions, scale buying orders for foreign mill interests offset selling pressure.

With about 100 stations reporting temperatures of 100 to 108 degrees, besides 106 degrees in parts of Georgia, professional covering helped steady the market. Weekly details from Mississippi and Louisiana showed moisture was needed and crop progress was affected by hot, dry weather.

A sharp break was reported in Bombay, due to the political situation, while advices from Japan indicated that the textile depression there has been increased by fears that the 1,000,000 bales held by the Federal Farm Board may affect raw material prices later.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS OF

The American Tobacco Company

INCORPORATED

No. 75 Montgomery Street,
Jersey City, N. J.
June 25th, 1930.

TO THE HOLDERS OF PREFERRED STOCK, COMMON STOCK AND COMMON STOCK B:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Special Meeting of the Stockholders of THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY will be held at the principal office of the Company, No. 75 Montgomery Street, on July 28th, 1930, at 11 o'clock A. M., for the following purposes:

1. To take action upon a resolution adopted by the Board of Directors at a special duly convened meeting thereof, held on June 25th, 1930, declaring the advisability of altering and changing the presently authorized capital stock of the Company, including those shares now issued and those not now issued, and directing the submission to the Stockholders of said resolution, and of an amendment to the Company's Certificate of Incorporation to effect such alterations and changes; a copy of which resolution and proposed amendment is enclosed herewith.

2. To take action upon resolutions adopted by the Board of Directors at such special duly convened meeting thereof held on June 25th, 1930, declaring the advisability, and directing the submission to the Stockholders of the Company, including the holders of shares of Common Stock B, of a plan for the issuance and sale of shares of its Common Stock B to employees and those actively engaged in the conduct of its business, by way of compensation for services to be rendered; a copy of which plan is enclosed herewith.

3. To transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

The stock transfer books will not close, but stockholders to be entitled to vote must be of record at the close of business on July 7th, 1930.

RICHARD J. BOYLAN
Secretary

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY
INCORPORATED
111 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

June 25, 1930.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS:

Your Board of Directors takes pleasure in reporting that, notwithstanding the high record of last year as reflected in the Treasurer's report submitted to you at the last Annual Meeting, your Company's business during the first five months of the current year has surpassed all previous records for corresponding periods. The net profits for the first five months of this year, as shown by the books of the Company, after allowing for bond interest and preferred dividends, show an increase of more than 100% over the figures for the corresponding period of last year, and the outlook for the remainder of the year 1930 is very encouraging. This situation enables us to take those steps in the interest of our Stockholders which we predicted in 1929.

There is enclosed herewith a copy of a resolution adopted by your Board of Directors declaring the advisability of a split-up of the shares of Common Stock and Common Stock B on the basis of two new shares for each present share, the new shares to be one-half the par value of the old, and each of the new shares of Common Stock to be entitled to one vote; in order to preserve the relative voting power of the Preferred Stock, the resolution provides for the increase of such voting power from two votes per share to four votes per share. These changes require an amendment of the Company's certificate of incorporation, and there is enclosed herewith a notice of a special meeting of Stockholders to be held on July 28th, 1930, for the purpose of taking action upon these resolutions and the proposed amendment.

There will also be submitted to the Stockholders at this special meeting a plan for the issuance and sale of shares of Common Stock B of the Company to employees and persons actively engaged in the conduct of the Company's business. A copy of the plan is enclosed. I am certain that every Stockholder will agree that it is to the Company's interest that the organization which has made possible the great success which the Company has enjoyed during the past few years should be given every encouragement to continue in the Company's employ. It is the purpose of this plan, conforming with the policies of many large business enterprises, to offer inducements by way of stock ownership in the Company to the men who have made that success possible, so that the Company and its Stockholders will have the assurance of their continued services in carrying the business forward with maximum enthusiasm and efficiency.

On September 1, 1930, there will be paid to the Stockholders of The American Tobacco Company the one hundredth consecutive quarterly dividend on its shares of Common Stock. It is the expectation of your Board of Directors, if the program set forth in the enclosed notice is approved by the Stockholders, to declare an extra dividend of $4. per share on the Common Stock and Common Stock B now outstanding (the old stock), payable simultaneously with such one hundredth consecutive quarterly dividend, and also, commencing with the one hundred first consecutive quarterly dividend, to initiate the regular quarterly dividends on the newly authorized shares of Common Stock and Common Stock B at the annual rate of $5. per share.

There is enclosed herewith a proxy for your signature and return in the event that you are unable to attend the meeting in person. If you are a holder of Common Stock B, which is ordinarily non-voting, please note particularly that your vote also is required at this meeting. Your Directors realize that it is impossible for many Stockholders personally to attend the Company's meetings, and that the pressure of personal affairs often causes them to overlook the importance of sending in their proxies promptly. As certain of the steps outlined above require a two-thirds vote, I urge upon you the importance, whether your holdings be large or small, of indicating your approval of the proposed steps and your support of your Company's management by sending in your proxy as promptly as possible in the stamped addressed envelope which is enclosed.

BY ORDER OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Delay Action on Mastick Plans.

Local stores will take no immediate action on the two alternative plans for carrying into effect the provisions of the Mastick bill as given yesterday by Miss Frances Perkins, State Industrial Commissioner. The stores here will operate on the five-day week of their Summer schedule during July and August, it was pointed out by H. Nelson Street, executive director of the Retail Dry Goods Association. This obviates the necessity for immediate action and in the meanwhile careful consideration will be given the plans and their operation in the local establishments, he indicated.

Buying Starts at Furniture Show.

After two days devoted to shopping the market, furniture buyers here for the Fall opening began placing orders yesterday. Although the volume of sales fell below the high point which some manufacturers expected, the average order was much larger than at the Spring market. Case goods received most attention yesterday. Orders for upholstered merchandise are expected to develop today and tomorrow. Retailers have shown a good deal of interest in special furniture available for August sales, but have not ordered in large quantities as yet.

Fashion Bureau for Garment Body.

Creation of a fashion department which will begin to function July 1 was announced yesterday by the Merchants' Ladies' Garment Association through Maxwell Copelof, executive director. The association, he said yesterday, will shortly send a representative abroad to establish contact with the Parisian style sources and pave the way for permanent representation abroad. Cable and mail advices on fashion, color and fabric trends will be received by the department here. The information will be assembled and passed on to the garment wholesalers in accordance with their types of merchandise and trade. The bureau will also interchange information with retail style authorities, with the aim of minimizing waste and style uncertainty.

To Curtail Rayon Output.

Because of reduced demand the Viscose Company will curtail its production during the Summer months to 5[illegible] per cent of capacity, it was stated yesterday by President S. A. Salvage. For several weeks the company has been operating at about 60 per cent, a figure representing gradual curtailment since the first of the year. While executives of other leading producers of rayon did not specify the rate of capacity they would adopt, they indicated that their policy would also be one of Summer curtailment. From 10 to 20 per cent below recent levels seemed to be about the range of decline, with small as well as larger producers participating.

⁂

Show Candelabra Lamps for Fall.

A continuation of the vogue for candelabra lamps next Fall is indicated by special displays of new lines arranged by a score of local selling agents this week. Although the complete Fall lines will not be shown until the trade opening in Chicago next month, sales agents claim they have succeeded in bringing in a number of early Fall orders through the early exhibits. Two and three candlesticks are most common in the numbers offered and appear to be favored in the orders placed. There is little activity in lamps for current sale this week.

To Form Unjust Returns Board.

Appointment of a joint committee of retailers and manufacturers to draw up rules governing all unjust returns was decided upon yesterday at a meeting of retailers and underwear manufacturers to discuss the return of worn and unwashed garments held at the offices of the United Women's Wear League. At the suggestion of John W. Hahn, executive director of the Garment Retailers of America, it was also decided to form a joint board which will meet periodically to decide specific cases involving returns. Appointment of the committee is expected shortly. The manufacturers will be named by M. Mosessohn, executive chairman, in collaboration with the chairmen of the league's divisions, while the appointment of the retailers will be handled by Mr. Hahn.

Price Cuts Aid Union Suits.

Sharp price reductions by several houses on men's standard union suits have brought forth a heavy response and stocks have been sharply depleted, it was reported yesterday. One firm inaugurated a price cut of 10 per cent on standard 72-80 union suits and sent announcements to 1,00[illegible] accounts. The reduction, although drastic for such a staple article, was made possible by the prevailing low price on cloth. The response from buyers was so strong that stocks were cleared up immediately. Another house, which lowered prices last week, is regretting the slash, as it is now unable to meet the demand.

⁂

Carpet Mills Seek Contract Work.

Completing a brisk season in the sale of carpeting to Summer hotels and shore cottages, floor covering manufacturers are now devoting their energies to booking replacement orders from year-round hostelries in cities throughout the country. A large number of hotels erected four and five years ago are due to place contracts this year and there is keen competition for the business. Bright colored merchandise which can be purchased around $2 per yard is wanted. A better grade of carpeting was purchased by the resort hotels but orders were small.

Burlap Declines in Weak Market.

Prices continued to decline in the burlap market during the past week, and a distinctly weak tone appeared, with very little business being transacted. Prices are 20 to 30 points lower than last week, though unchanged from Tuesday. Business in Calcutta is spotty, and prices have dropped 25 to 35 points. A report has been received by the burlap trade here that one of the Calcutta mills, controlling about 10 per cent of production, intends to shut down for a week in July, in addition to the week during which all the mills will close. These prices were quoted here yesterday on standard 40-inch burlaps by C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc.:

Spots	4.85	6.20
July shipments	4.70	6.10
August-September	4.75	6.15
October-December	4.80	6.20

Slight Activity in Gray Goods.

A fair volume of business was transacted in gray goods yesterday, but the market deviated very little from the quiet tone which has prevailed. Prices are uncertain and buyers are seeking lower levels every day. In standard printcloths, 38½-inch 60-48s were reported selling for 4¾ cents and 38½-inch 64-60s for 5¼ cents. A slight easing was noted in 39-inch 68-72s, which ranged between 6⅛ and 6¼ cents. Orders on 39-inch 80 squares were filled at prices varying between 8 and 8¼ cents. Sheetings appeared to be slightly more active.

Last week the rate of operations in the steel industry decreased, but by slightly less than the usual seasonal amount, with the result that the adjusted index for the week ended June 21 is slightly higher, at 90.2, than in the preceding week, when it fell to 89.3.

The smallness of the decrease in the actual rate of operations was evidently a surprise to many, since trade reports recently have indicated a renewed sliding off in the volume of incoming orders, except of course in a few branches of the industry which have been doing comparatively well in recent months.

The failure of steel mill operations to show a greater decrease last week is generally attributed to a sustained demand for prompt shipment of miscellaneous steel products rather than to any pronounced revival of activity in any of the major steel consuming industries. Last year at this time the Steel Corporation was operating at close to rated capacity, and the adjusted index was approaching its post-war record peak, being 129.9 for the week ended June 22, 1929.

Exporters Oppose Cuban Bill.

A proposed Cuban law which would compel sales agents for foreign manufacturers to hold membership in a selling agents' association in order to operate there is being vigorously opposed by the American Manufacturers' Export Association. Yesterday the local association received assurances from Cuba that the bill is regarded with disfavor by business men there and its passage is unlikely.

TRADING RULES REVISED FOR COFFEE AND SUGAR

Exchange Adopts Amendments Permitting Extension of Credit Limitation.

Members of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange yesterday adopted amendments to the trading rules embodying changes in the bylaws covering credit extensions recently approved by the board of managers. The amendments add to the trading rules a credit extension limitation of $250 for each contract on both coffee and sugar, or a maximum of $10,000, whichever amount is reached first. The changes become effective immediately.

Under the new rules market positions of coffee and sugar are to be figured independently, that is, purchases of coffee shall not be considered against sales of sugar as a straddle interest, or vice versa. When a payment in excess of the credit limit is due the entire amount must be demanded in full.

Any bona fide negotiable securities deposited in lieu of margin are acceptable, but any moneys due on margins must be charged to a loan account and such account must pay interest for the amount involved. Where a loan account is opened by the deposit of adequate securities 6 per cent interest must be charged against such loans. A New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange membership, a bank guarantee or a promissory note is not considered as negotiable security under the rule.

STARRETTS LEASE WEST SIDE BLOCK

Builders Get Eleventh Avenue Site for Ninety-nine Years From the Lehigh Valley.

PLAN BIG FREIGHT TERMINAL

Railroad Rents Ground Floor in Proposed Fifteen-Story Industrial Building.

A freight terminal and industrial building said to be the largest of its kind ever erected will rise on the extreme west side of Manhattan as the result of a deal yesterday, when the site for the proposed structure was leased by the Starrett Investing Corporation for ninety-nine years. The building will be fifteen stories high and will occupy the block bounded by Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh Streets and Eleventh and Thirteenth Avenues.

The site has been leased by the Starrett interests, acting with W. D. Luckett, from the Pioneer Real Estate Company, a subsidiary of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company. The lease was arranged through B. G. Felsberg, broker.

Construction work will be started at once by Starrett Brothers & Eken, and the Lehigh Valley Railroad, through its system, will serve the proposed structure.

The ground floor is to be a freight terminal for the Lehigh, and the other floors are to be used for industrial purposes. The structure will contain approximately 25,000,000 cubic feet and upward of 1,750,000 square feet of floor area. Several large elevators, 30 by 10 feet, will operate in the building and will carry trucks of the largest capacity and size directly to any floor in the building. Any occupant of the warehouse will be able to load and unload his commodities on his own floor. The building will have no exterior columns.

The lease commences May 1, 1931 and ends May 1, 2030, the rental to be $120,000 a year for the first twenty-one years. During each succeeding period of twenty-one years, and during the final period of fifteen years, the annual rental shall be 6% of the value of the plot considered as vacant and unencumbered by this lease as determined by appraisal, but under no condition less than $120,000. The lessee is to pay all taxes and assessments including taxes imposed upon the owner by the State of New York, and franchise, capital stock or similar taxes as may be based upon the ownership of the premises or building to be erected.

Under the terms of the lease the lessee shall complete within twelve months the erection of a new building containing not less than 24,000,000 cubic feet of space, the cost to be not less than $6,000,000 nor more than $9,000,000. This building is to be surrendered to the owner on the termination of this lease. The lessee may mortgage this lease for an amount that shall not exceed a sum equal to the difference between the cost of constructing the building and the sum of $2,000,000.

In the new building the Starrett Investing Corporation has leased to the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company the entire street floor, except those portions to be used as stairways, elevators, platforms, &c., for use as a general terminal station for the delivery and receipt of freight, for the ninety-nine-year term given in the major lease, the annual rental to be $50,000 for the first twenty-one years. For the remainder of the term the rent shall be in proportion to the rentals for the remaining periods paid under the major lease as the cubical content of the portion leased to the railroad company shall bear to the entire cubical content of the building, but under no condition less than $50,000 annually. Russell G. Cory is the architect for the building.

RENT INSURANCE RATE CUT.

Twenty Per Cent Reduction Made by New York Exchange.

The Building Managers and Owners Association of New York received word yesterday from the New York Fire Insurance Exchange of a reduction of 20 per cent in the rates on rent insurance. Skylights over shafts in fireproof buildings are no longer compulsory, under another ruling of the exchange announced at the same time.

Negotiations for a change in rates were carried on largely by Harry B. Kusch of the insurance committee of the association and Harold M. Hess, manager of the exchange, following a meeting of building managers at which it was voted that the rates for rent insurance were too high and that a reduction would bring a larger demand for such protection. Previously a 15 per cent reduction had been granted.

SALESMEN.
MEN OF EXPERIENCE—DECISION.

We wish to meet and talk with a number of men of good personality who know that they are salesmen or who feel that they possess a real aptitude for sales work. These men will base their self-confidence on their knowledge of what real selling is, and their experience need not necessarily be in our particular line of business; in other words, if you have a good selling background and know the meaning of the word "work," we have an opportunity for you in our business.

Perhaps you may have looked over openings in the financial field and may have arrived at the conclusion that sales success in this field depends upon capitalizing social standing or connections, or going through a long low-paid period of building clientele, or risking reputation on unsound undertakings.

It is the man who has arrived at this conservative questioning point of view that we are seeking—the man who is sure of himself and rates his ability very highly. He is keen and ambitious, and young enough, regardless of years, to be enthusiastic and energetic.

He will receive a good sales training and full cooperation from men of broad experience and unusual success in developing men into high wage earners, and who can help them earn substantial commissions from the very start.

Some calls will be made upon qualified leads. The offering is one of character, security of principal, ability to pay semi-annual dividends and, based upon past returns, should be most profitable to the investor.

If you feel that your experience justifies our considering you, telephone Ashland 5026, Extension 20, for an appointment, or, if you like, call in person, 29th floor, 10 East 40th St., and a courteous interview will be afforded you by our Sales Personnel Manager. All conferences and communications will be held in confidence.

BOTH SIDES READY IN LIGHTERAGE CASE

New Jersey-New York Contest Today Will Bring Out Big Array of Legal Talent.

TO TAKE PLACE IN NEWARK

Chairman McManamy of Interstate Commerce Commission Will Preside at Hearings.

More than a score of attorneys representing either the States of New York or New Jersey as well as cities, commercial organizations and railroads, will assemble today when New Jersey opens its fight for the abolition of the free lighterage of freight in New York Harbor.

The legal controversy will take place before Chairman Frank McManamy of the Interstate Commerce Commission at the Newark Chamber of Commerce, 20 Brantford Place. It will be opened with the presentation of the case for New Jersey, which contends that since the terminals of many railroads serving the metropolitan section are in that State it should enjoy lower freight charges than does New York City.

As a first step to combatting this argument, the success of which they believe would seriously hamper New York industry and commerce, officials and attorneys of this State organized yesterday, completing plans for the defense. Their main point, it was indicated, will be that New York City and Northern New Jersey are a social and economic unit and that they have been consistently so treated by the Interstate Commerce Commission for rate making purposes.

The New York attorneys met at the State Chamber of Commerce, which is taking an active part in the direction of the fight. On the roster of attorneys for the defense of New York, it was disclosed, will be Attorney General Hamilton Ward, Special Assistant Attorney General Hiram C. Todd and Deputy Assistant Attorney General C. B. Williams representing the State, Arthur J. W. Hilly, corporation counsel, and Vincent Victory, assistant corporation counsel, will represent New York City.

Parker McCollester will be chief of counsel for the State Chamber of Commerce and commercial associations in some twenty New York communities. Opposing New Jersey through him are also the New York Produce Exchange, the New York Towboat Exchange, the Fifth Avenue Association, Thirty-fourth Street Midtown Association, Bronx Board of Trade and the Publishers' Association of New York City.

The Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce will be represented by Colonel William N. Dyckman, Sigourney Olney and T. H. Burgess. William E. Chandler will be counsel for the Merchants' Association and Harry D. Chambers for the New York Board of Trade and Transportation. Ten other trade bodies in New York will also have attorneys in readiness.

In a statement yesterday heralding New Jersey's presentation of the case, Norman F. Titus, executive officer of the New York-New Jersey Business Associates, which has been active in the agitation against free lighterage, discounted the claims originating in New York that solely selfish desires were motivating New Jersey. He asserted that New Jersey was seeking only to protect its interests in the Port of New York against a decline in the port's business. New York, he said, was taking no steps to stop the business decline and New Jersey, in order to reduce port costs, was obliged to seek an end of free lighterage.

"It is a service given to New York to offset New Jersey's natural geographical advantages," he said, "but New Jersey has to help New York pay for it. In effect, New Jersey is suffering a double penalty. In its suit before the Interstate Commerce Commission, New Jersey does not ask for the abolition of lighterage. It asks that the cost of the lighterage service be taken out of the general freight rate and made a separate charge, so that those who use the service will pay for it and not everybody in the port whether he needs it or not."

With the elimination of free lighterage, he argued, the costs to railroads which furnish the free lighterage would be lowered and freight rates could be reduced, with a consequent increase in the port's business.

John J. Hicky of Washington and Deputy Attorney General Raymond Tiffany will head the New Jersey counsel today.

SHIP SAILS AFTER FIRE.

Freighter, Its Cargo Damaged, Goes to Philadelphia to Unload.

A fire which seriously damaged its cargo of jute and hemp late Tuesday night did not prevent the City of Mobile, a freighter owned by the Ellerman & Bucknall Steamship Company of London, from leaving Hoboken yesterday to complete its cargo unloading at Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The ship sailed under its own steam. The extent of the damage to the cargo in holds 2 and 3 could not be determined until the holds were emptied, it was said by officials of Norton & Lilly, New York agents of the owner.

TO USE COAL POWDER FUEL.

Two More Ships Will Be Equipped With New Burning System.

Two more ships will soon be converted to burners of pulverized coal, according to an announcement yesterday by the Todd Shipyards Corporation. Contracts have been signed for the installation of this burning system in the Bremerton, recently bought by the Bulk Transportation Company of New Orleans from the United States Shipping Board, and the Frank C. Ball, owned by the Construction Materials Corporation of Chicago. Both ships will use the Todd unit system, it was said.

The Bremerton will be converted to a self-unloading bulk cargo carrier by the Jahncke Dry Dock Company of New Orleans, after plans drawn by Edwin C. Bennett, naval architect, of New York. She will have three single-end Scotch boilers, each of which will have three furnaces, and will be fitted with three Todd triplex pulverizing mills, driven by turbine.

The steamship Frank C. Ball is being converted to a dredge by the American Shipbuilding Company of Cleveland with an equipment similar to that of the Bremerton. Each of her three pulverizers will be driven by an electric motor.

PLANS 2 SOUND STEAMERS.

Colonial Line Head Says New Haven Road Has Blocked Program.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 25 (AP).—The Colonial Line has completed plans for the building of the two largest steamers ever operated on Long Island Sound and would have put these vessels in commission long since had it not been for the "destructive policies of the New Haven Railroad during the past three years, with the studied purpose of destroying what little competition is left on the Sound," Frank M. Dunbaugh, president of the Colonial Navigation Company, declared today.

Mr. Dunbaugh testified at the hearing here before Interstate Commerce Commission Examiner John H. Howell on the complaint of the Colonial concern that the New Haven's steamship lines were being operated in unfair competition. Mr. Dunbaugh charged that since the Summer of 1927 the New Haven has cut freight rates and manipulated passenger rates of its subsidiaries, the Providence and Bay State Lines, for the purpose of putting the Colonial Line out of business.

Japanese Lines Cut Cargo Rates.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Rates on cargoes have been reduced by leading Japanese steamship lines, especially on freight to China. Government railways have announced a reduction of 20 per cent on a list of export goods, a report from Tokyo today said, and banks will extend more favorable discount rates on certain export bills. These methods of assistance to manufacturers and exporters have largely been the result of governmental requests.

BALTIC'S MEN TO GET RESCUE MEDALS TODAY

Purse Also Will Be Presented to Them for Saving Fishermen in Winter Gale.

Almost seven months after they had risked their lives in a Winter gale to save five fishermen, Captain Evan Davies, master of the White Star liner Baltic, Chief Officer J. H. Jones and ten members of the crew will receive medals and a money award from the Life Saving Benevolent Association of New York. The presentation will be made aboard the ship this afternoon at her Chelsea pier for rescuing the crew of the shipwrecked Northern Light in a severe storm off St. John's, N. F.

Herbert K. Satterlee, brother-in-law of J. P. Morgan and president of the association, will make the presentation at 1 P. M. after a luncheon on the ship. The crew of the lifeboat that on last Dec. 6 rescued all but one of the men of the Northern Light comprised J. H. Walker, third officer; John Fitzgerald, boatswain's mate; John Boylan, chief petty officer; John Whelan, storekeeper; Peter Codd and F. H. Williams, quartermasters; George A. Riley, John Roberts, George Delaney and Albert E. Cole, seamen.

The Northern Light was one of a group of fishing craft reported missing when a heavy storm swept the North Atlantic early in December. So severe was the weather at the time of the rescue that the Baltic abandoned the lifeboat when the men were hauled aboard.

TO REVIEW SHORE LAND TAX

Supreme Court Grants Pleas of Staten Island Concerns.

Supreme Court Justice John B. Johnson, sitting in the Richmond County Supreme Court in St. George, S. I., signed yesterday three writs of certiorari permitting a review of assessments on the property of the Pouch Terminal Company at Clifton and of the L. A. Dreyfus Company at Rosebank, S. I. The companies contend that the assessments were excessive and that other properties on Staten Island are assessed at only 60 to 70 per cent of actual value.

The Pouch Terminal Company asserts that its property has been marked on the tax sheet at a valuation of $2,086,000. The actual value, it is contended, is $1,200,000. The assessment, according to the petition, is 171 per cent of its actual market value, with the over-assessment $886,000.

The L. A. Dreyfus Company asserts that on one parcel of property the assessment was $635,800. A fair valuation, the petition says, is $500,000. On a smaller parcel assessed at $13,000 the Dreyfus Company contends the value is only $10,000. The petitioners say that the value of property along the waterfront has decreased in recent years because of the falling off of big activities and the competition of city piers.

SWOBODA ENJOINED IN OIL STOCK SALES

Physical Culturist Said to Have Obtained $70,000 to Work a 1,000-Acre Pool.

WELLS FOUND BY INTUITION

Letter Alleged to Have Been Mailed to 2,500 Tells of Miraculous Power of One "Dahlgran."

Alois P. Swoboda, founder of a physical culture and "culture rhythm" cult, consented to an injunction yesterday restraining him from selling stock in a proposed oil development. The injunction was signed by Supreme Court Justice Druhan in Brooklyn on the application of the Bureau of Securities of the State Attorney General's office, which charged that members of the Swobodian cult had complained that Swoboda solicited investments.

A letter is alleged to have been sent through the mails to about 2,500 members of the cult. It purported to describe the miraculous powers of one Dahlgran in locating potential oil wells by a mysterious kind of intuition. As a result of that letter, it was charged, Swoboda obtained about $70,000 from fellow-Swobodians to develop a 1,000-acre oil pool.

A copy of the letter, which was submitted to Justice Druhan, described in glowing phrases the unaccountable faculty and great success of the man Dahlgran, who was not otherwise identified. The letter declared:

"Enclosed find a clipping that tells a most amazing story. This man Dahlgran through his power is to serve Swoboda and Swobodians. Dahlgran has located for me what he considers a very extensive oil pool consisting of 1,000 acres and is positive that the first well will be an enormous gusher. * * * Dahlgran has never failed in a single instance and I have subjected him to several hundred tests. Moreover, every oil well he has read through his marvelous faculty has come out exactly as he predicted.

"I personally do not care for wealth for my own sake, but merely to aid Swobodians. I also predict the United States Government will use him to locate hidden resources and wealth of the earth."

The letter failed to explain the nature of Dahlgran's mysterious faculty, but it declared that one oil company had offered $2,000,000 for his services although he was easily worth $100,000,000 to Swobodians and to humanity.

The complaint charged that, although a year and a half had elapsed since Swoboda collected the $70,000, no oil well had yet produced. The action was brought under State law by Deputy Attorney General Marie T. Scalzo of the Bureau of Securities.

SIFTS SCHOOL COAL BIDS.

Board, Dissatisfied, Paves Way to Reject All Offers.

Because several bidders for the school coal contract for next year are considered to have given insufficient delivery guarantees and the higher bidders, Burns Brothers, are asking $218,215.80 more than the lowest bid, the Board of Education yesterday empowered two of its members, George J. Ryan, the president, and C. C. Mollenhauer, to reject all bids and readvertise for offers if that proves necessary after further study of the situation.

The bids were scheduled for rejection by the board at its regular semi-monthly meeting, but at the last moment it was decided to give Mr. Ryan and Mollenhauer further opportunity to study them.

The Jameson & Bond Company received a $21,000 contract for supplying coal to Far Rockaway schools.

Meet on Washington Medal.

The advisory committee appointed to select a design and an artist for the commemorative medal to be issued in 1932 in connection with the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington met yesterday afternoon in the office of Representative Sol Bloom, 1,451 Broadway. The committee was appointed by Mr. Bloom and Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, associate directors of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission.
